The London Free Press thinks it is not easy to conceive of anything "that would approach, in its effect upon the industrial life of this nation and the promotion of the happiness and the content of its people, the effective opration of the ideals at the back of the Minister's proposals—ideals that have not originated with him but that are finding acceptance in many quarters on this continent and in Great Britain."

WOMEN SHOW SKILL AT INDUSTRIES FAIR

Two Sisters Selling Best Dolls in England, Verdict

Two sisters trading under the name of Edwards & Tamphlett are admitted to be selling the best dolls in the country, and another woman, Miss banks, who has called her firm "Panurge," is showing the best soft toys.

The work of Miss Dora Lunn, who runs the Ravenscroft Pottery, is now sold in America, New Zealand, Australia, and is being shown at the British Industries Exhibition in Italy.

Another woman potter, Miss Farnell, has one of her "Cheyne figures" in the South Kensington Museum. She began the work when the Board of Trade appealed to English people to take up artistic enemy trades.

Her first equipment consisted of a hairpin and a paperknife. The Queen bought her first samples, and she now sells her work as it comes hot from the furnace.

A woman is said to be making the most artistic handbags in the trade.

Pimples Broke Out All Over Face, Arms and Neck

While the skin is the seat of the irritating, unsightly pimples, the real disease is in the blood.

Medicated lotions and powders may allay the itching and the irritation, but never cure, no matter how long and faithfully continued, and the condition is often aggravated, and the skin permanently injured by their use. The disease is more than skin deep; the entire circulation is poisoned.

Burdock Blood Bitters quickly and effectually cures blood and skin troubles because it goes direct to the root of the disease and stimulates and restores normal, healthy action to the different organs, cleanses and enriches the blood, and thus relieves the system of all poisonous secretions.

B. B. B. cures permanently because it leaves none of the original poison to ferment in the blood and cause a fresh attack.

Miss E. M. Davids n Daysland, Alta., writes: "Last summer I was greatly troubled with pimples breaking out all over my face, arms and neck. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters and after taking two bottles the pimples had almost all disappeared. I shall always recommend this remedy to anyone afflicted with skin troubles."

Channel Tunnel to Connect England With France Seems Assured in Near Future

LONDON, April 11. — Not even a whisper of opposition is to be heard against the construction of a Channel tunnel now. The collapse of the hostile critics is another war victory, and it is not due to a greater sense of security but quite the reverse. Submarines and Zeppelins have become allies of the authors of the scheme. Britain is no longer an island guarded by the seas.

A war was necessary to convince Great Britain that a Channel tunnel was a military and commercial asset. The House of Commons, therefore, received without the least sign of alarm the announcement of Mr. Bonar Law that negotiations were in progress with the French Government for a tunnel under the Straits of Dover. Here is the position as I have it from "one who knows":

"As regards the British Government, the Prime Minister had a conversation with Mr. Clemenceau on behalf of the French Government. There is no doubt at all that the French Government is in favour of proceeding with the work at the earliest possible date.

Work Likely by Private Companies.

"It is highly improbable, however, that the two governments will elect to carry out the work, for two reasons — one, financial and the enormous drains on the two exchequers made by the war; and, second, because of the pioneer work and plans of the two reputable and well-backed Channel tunnel companies already in existence. Already the British Government has called for the fullest information as regards both existing works and plans and these have been prepared under the direction of Mr. Tempest, chief engineer of the South-Eastern and Chatham Company, who has been associated with Sir Francis Fox in the initial enterprise.

"The French Channel Company has Mr. Sartiaux, general manager of the Northern Railway of France, as one of its leading motive forces.

"According to the plans put before the British and French Governments —and these plans have been kept well up to date—there are alternative sites on the British side for the entrance to the tunnel, the most favoured of these being, perhaps, between Folkestone and Dover."

London-Vladivostok Service.

It requires only this one hundred million dollar, twenty-mile, cross Channel tunnel between England and France to make railroad travel from England to Vladivostok possible. The idea sounds fantastic, and the route would surely be a rather roundabout one, something like sailing from Liverpool to New York by way of the Suez Canal and Cape Colony, but it could be done.

Suppose the Channel tunnel an accomplished fact, trains will be able to run direct from London through France, Belgium, Holland, Spain, Italy, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey without any difficulty even as regards gauges, though at the Russian frontier it will be necessary, if the trans-Siberian gauge remains as at present, to transfer passengers and goods to other trains.

It is proposed that the Orient Express should leave London, where the new, large station required will probably be built on the south bank of the Thames, at noon for Constantinople, via Paris, Germany and Austria-Hungary. A quarter of an hour later a train will leave Charing Cross for Brussels, Berlin and Petrograd, providing communication with the Crimea and Central Russia. At further short intervals expresses will leave for the Riviera, Rome, Bordeaux, Madrid, Algeria, Lisbon and in the east for Finland, Sweden and Norway. Communication with the Far East, including China and Vladivostok, would be possible.

The construction of a tunnel from the Asiatic side of the Bering Strait, where there is already a railway, to Cape Prince of Wales, near Dawson City, Alaska, would enable a passenger to make an all-land journey from London to Canada, the United States and South America.

French Are Ready.

There was much activity to-day at the offices of the French Channel Tunnel Company, in view of the early resumption of plans to construct an undersea tube to connect England and France. Albert Sartiaux, engineer of the Compagnie du Chemin de fer du Nord and of the French Channel Company, who has devoted years of study to working out the details of the project, has gone over the proposal again to adapt it to changed conditions. Gustave Bertin, secretary of the Channel Tunnel Company, likewise was busy with his numerous dossiers. The general feeling was that, as far as the French are concerned, all is ready.

Mr. Sartiaux said to a newspaper correspondent that in his judgment four tunnels would not be necessary. Two, he said, would suffice, and these should be built cylindrically on the model of the London Metropolitan railway tubes. His first estimate of the cost of the project, 400,000,000 f., he thought, would, in view of the tendency of wages to increase, have to be revised, and he gave as the more approximate figure 600,000,000 f. The time in which the tunnel could be completed was estimated at six or seven years, but modern methods of construction and up-to-date engineering enterprise would probably reduce this considerably.

Soil Conditions Favourable.

The piercing of the tunnel would be a very easy matter, as experiments have shown, but Mr. Sartiaux laid stress on the fact that the boring will have to be done through the soil of what is termed in French "craie grise." Lengthy scientific experiments and soundings have determined the exact location of this layer, and unless unexpected difficulties are encountered, the piercing could probably be carried out without difficulty. This layer has been found to be impervious.

Researches up to 1875 tended to the theory that there existed at the bottom of the Channel a layer of this earth, which is known geologically as "craie cenomanienne," or "craie grise de Rouen": that this layer ran from one coast to another, with complete imperviousness and sufficient depth, about sixty metres, without interruption, and that it would thus be suitable for a tunnel joining the two countries.

The French Channel Tunnel Company set out to verify this hypothesis and the result of its inquiry is the map of the bottom of the Channel, the work of the eminent French engineers, Potier and Lapparent. They succeeded in completing it after having effected 7,672 soundings with the aid of a small steel bell with a sharp edge. Of these soundings 3,000 furnished reliable geological data for the map, which is a masterpiece of combined hydrography and geology.

Trial Boring Successful.

After the preparation of this map the company, under the leadership of its late director, Mr. Ludovic Breton, made a direct submarine penetration into this impervious gray soil at Sangatte. A shaft was sunk fifty-seven metres below the level of the sea, and a gallery was advanced up to 1,840 metres under the Channel. This gallery was easily maintained, and was found in excellent condition when inspected some years ago by the directors of the Northern Railroad and members of the French Channel Tunnel Company.

Mr. Sartiaux declares that in many ways the tunnel will be easier to pierce than the Simplon, because the soil will be more readily perforated and at the same time will be sufficiently hard and impervious to prevent inrushes of water such as inundated the works in the Simplon. Nor are dangerous temperatures for workers to be feared. On the other hand, the delicate point will be, as has been said, not to advance except in the "cenomanienne" soil, to follow it in its various turnings, and to keep sufficiently far from the formations less impervious above and below.

MUSTERED OUT AT 80.

French Octogenarian, "Dean of Poilus," Served Through War.

PARIS.—After serving four years and a half in dugouts and billets as a sapper in an engineer regiment, Lieutenant Surugue, 80 years old, was mustered out of the service a few weeks ago. When the war broke out, in 1914, he volunteered for the duration of the struggle and during the conflict earned the sobriquet of "The Dean of the Poilus."

After being accepted in the army, Lieutenant Surugue served in a training camp, learning the manual of the rifle and bayonet. When he had sufficiently advanced he was immediately sent to the front and during the war passed most of the time near Souchez, where shells fell with constant regularity.

He is at present in fine health and tuned to continue the campaign should occassion demand it.

"Monsieur Clemenceau is not, as stated by Mr. Lloyd George, 'the grand young man of France,' says La Liberte. "This title belongs incontestably to Lieutenant Surugue. Our Premier can grant it to him; there is, indeed, enough of most glorious honor for him."

If a man is wise he will never start a fight unless he has enough friends present to interfere if he gets the worst of it.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

SUNKEN TREASURE SHIPS

One of the most interesting wrecks on record is that of the British frigate Lutine, which was sunk off the coast of Holland in 1799. It was customary in those day to carry much gold and silver on war vessels, and this particular ship was known to have 1,900 gold bars and 500 bars of silver, with a total value of over $6,000,000. It was driven aground in a storm and sank in comparatively shallow water. Great Britain at that time was at war with France, and Holland, an ally of France, claimed the frigate as a prize of war. The water was so shallow that at low tide it was possible for a fisherman to reach it with scoops and grapples and recover some of its treasures. A salvage company organized by the Dutch people to recover the wealth of the Lutine succeeded in getting not more than $500,000 worth of gold and silver. The position of the wreck, however, was decidedly unfavorable. It was in an exposed spot and the bottom was swept by strong tidal currents. Gradually it became buried in sand, and all salvage operations had to cease.

There are other rich treasures in the sea. In Cumana Bay, Venezuela, lies the wreck of the Spanish flagship San Pedro, with $2,000,000 worth of gold on board, which so far has defied all attempts to salvage. The richest treasure of all is probably a Spanish galleon, sunk off Lizard Point, on the Cornish coast, in 1784, which is believed to have aboard $35,000,000 worth of gold.

But we need not go so far afield for valuable wrecks. Our own lakes are filled with them. In fact, Lake Huron is known locally as the "Lake of Sunken Treasure." It is estimated that some $12,000,000 worth of gold and silver is buried in the deeps of the Great Lakes.—Everybody's Magazine.

TENDER GUMS —A WARNING

Beware of gum tenderness that warns of Pyorrhea. Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea—many under forty also. Loosening teeth indicate Pyorrhea. Bleeding gums, too. Remember—these inflamed, bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. As it hardens the gums the teeth become firmer.

Asphodel Woman Seeks Alimony; Abused For 28 Years, She Says

Mrs. Elizabeth Healey, of Asphodel, Alleges Such ill-treatment That She Was Compelled to Leave the Home She Helped to Establish—McDonnell Street Sewer Case Up for Trial.

LOCAL CONTRACTORS DISAGREE

Five cases comprise the docket of the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court, which opens this evening at the Court House with the Honorable Mr. Justice Lennox presiding.

Frederick D. Brown and John A. Aylmer are plaintiffs in a suit against William Dennon and Richard B. Rogers for the rental of a dredge for 313 days at $18 a day, less $4,421.79 paid by the defendants on account, leaving a balance of $1,212.21, together with damages at the rate of $18 a day for 147 days, $2,646, making a total of $3,858.21.

Both parties are contractors. The plaintiffs allege that the defendants rented their dredge on August 2nd 1916, for work on the Trent canal at Frankford. Operations were begun on September 22nd, 1916 and were completed on August 15th, 1918. The dredging plant, it is claimed, was rented for the specific purpose of dredging only on Secton No. 2 of the Trent canal, Frankford, but plaintiffs allege that it was used elsewhere. Defendants promised to complete the work by Sept. 1st, 1917, and in consequence of their default, the plaintiffs were forced to refuse the rental of the dredging plant to the Hydro Electric Power Commission at $18 per day continuously from September 7th, 1917, to the date of the issuance of the writ.

The defendants in their defence state that they rented the dredge on an agreement to pay only for the number of days it was actually in use; and as a fact they claim to have overpaid the plaintiffs for 48 days more than the outfit was used by them. One scow leaked and had to be recalked. Hence they present a counter claim as follows:

Loss of use of scow	390.00
Other equipment, etc.	764.00
	$1,918.37

Hatton Vs. Peterborough.

The issue in this action is whether the McDonnel street sewer by-law shall be quashed or not. Upon the plaintiff's application, Mr. Justice Logie ordered that the question be tried at the local sessions of the Supreme court. This sewer is intended principally as a service to Mount St. Joseph, the community of the Sisters of St. Joseph across the boundary road in North Monaghan. R. R. Hall for plaintiff, City Solicitor Widdifield for defendant.

Healey vs. Healey.

Elizabeth Healey asks for alimony and other relief from her husband, Mortimer J. Healey, a farmer in Asphodel township. They were married on Feb. 16th, 1891, and lived there until recently, when Mrs. Healey came into the city. Shortly after their marriage, she alleges, her spouse began to exhibit a very bad temper and disposition, and grew worse until she was compelled to leave him. He frequently struck her with his hand, straps or pieces of leather, and otherwise assaulted her so grossly that to escape from him she had to leave home on several occasions. This abuse occurred in the presence of their children, and by referring to the plaintiff as a domestic servant and by other means, the defendant alienated the affections of the children from the plaintiff.

The wife says she endured for twenty-eight years the abuse and violence, hoping that time would work a favourable change, but her forbearance was in vain.

Kicked Out of Her House.

Fifteen years ago, Mrs. Healey avers, her husband kicked her out of the house, and two years later again forced her to leave. On February 16th, 1919, he struck her on the head with a razor strap, chased her around the room and so abused her that she had to call in one of her sons for help for fear the defendant would take her life.

During all these years plaintiff discharged all the duties of a wife and contributed in a great degree to the accumualtion of the property her husband owns, consisting of 292 acres, worth about $12,000. She has no means of living except by her daily labour, and unless relief is afforded by the Court will be reduced to great distress.

The defendant denies the allegations of ill treatment, etc., and says his farm does not exceed in value $6,000.

J. Guise-Bagley for plaintiff; Peak, Kerr & McElderry for defendant.

Stuart Vs. Stuart.

In an action against Robert James Stuart and George Stanley Harding, executors of her husband's estate, Mrs. Grace Monsarrat Stuart, of Lakefield, asked for a declaration of her rights to the monies left her by the deceased and also for an accounting and the payment of monies alleged to be held by the defendants. The plaintiff is the widow of Herbert James Stuart, formerly of Toronto, who was killed in action on October 2nd, 1918. His will was probated on Sept. 16th, 1917. Previous to his enlistment Herbert J. Stuart entered into an agreement with the Sun Life Insurance Company, whereby his wife was to be paid $10,000 in twenty annual payments of $500. The plaintiff claims that two or more payments have been made to the executors but that they have refused to transfer them to her. She states that this money has been used by the defendants to pay debts alleged to have been owing by the deceased to various parties, including the defendant, Robert James Stuart. An insurance of $2,000 with the Metropolitan Insurance Company is also mentioned in the action. O. A. Langley is solicitor for the plaintiff and Armour and Mickle, of Toronto, are solicitors for the defendants.

Lenton Vs. Peterborough Lumber Co.

Mr. George Lenton asks for $5,173.20, representing the principal and interest on a promissory note for $5,000 made on July 2nd, 1912, payable in six months with interest by the Peterborough Lumber Company.

SEES LITTLE IMPROVEMENT

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, April 14.— Summary of the amended covenant of the League of Nations evokes no enthusiasm in the London morning papers, and it is declared by home commentors to be less satisfactory than the first draft.

The Chronicle fixed certain points which it thinks makes the new draft distinctly, and perhaps decisively, inferior to the old.

The Daily News, which is a warm champion of the principle of the League, sees danger in some of the provisions.

The Daily Herald says the summary does not indicate much improvement on the original draft. It declares that, from a democratic viewpoint, "the League is still an alliance of States and not a union of peoples."

Engineers' Club Elect Officers

Address Was Given by Mr. G. N. Gordon.

The annual election of officers of the Peterborough Engineers Club took place in the Empress Hotel on Saturday evening, and resulted as follows:—

Hon. Prsident—C. E. Canfield.
President—G. R. Munro.
Vice-President—R. H. Parsons.
Sec.-Treasurer—R. L. Dobbin.
Directors—Two years, R. B. Rogers, P. L. Allison, H. O. Fisk.
Ers, P. L. Allison, H. O. Fisk; One Year, E. R. Shirley, Jas. Mackintosh, G. R. Langley.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, was present and addressed the meeting on the aims of the new Board of Trade, and asked the Engineers to co-operate in the work of the Board. His remarks received a hearty response, and he was assured that the Club would do all it could to help along the Board of Trade.

The address of the evening was given by Mr. Fraser S. Keith Secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada, who explained the organization of that body, and what it was trying to accomplish.

A committee was appointed to consider the advisability of forming in Peterborough a Branch of the Engineering Institute and to report at the May meeting.

Performing Monkey

Internationally famous is "Murph" the Equestrian Monkey with Berzac's Circus. He was imported from Europe five years ago and has become acclimatized and is now able to stand the rigours of the cold northern climate, in fact last season while in the Northwest he had both ears severely frozen.—"Murph" is rated as "vicious" but is a born actor.—He is kept securely chained while away from the show, but when the music starts and his turn comes "Murph" is "on his toes" as the saying goes and is perfectly harmless.— After the performance has started "Murph" is released from his chain and has never been known to make an attack on anyone, and does his turn without bonds of any kind. This is unique as monkeys have always been worked on a leash.

Berzac's Circus comes to the Grand for 2 days, Friday and Saturday with a matinee both days. Seats on sale Wednesday.

Three Choirs Will Assist

The choirs of St. Paul's, St. Andrew's and Knox Presbyterian chruches are invited to attend a rehearsal at St. Paul's church on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock sharp, for the purpose of rehearsing the choral numbers for the concert to be held during the "Music Week."

INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

Newly Created Body Will Emerge From the Political Jungles of Ottawa in a Few Days.

THE WHITLEY PLAN

(Special to Examiner.)

OTTAWA, April 14. — When the conimission on industrial relations fares forth from Ottawa, in a few days on its continent wide journey of discovery, the industrial problems in Canada will begin to focus more clearly than before. The focus, however, promises to be that of a kaleidoscope, a search of ever changing colors and lights and arrangements, rather than a simple picture.

Some of the promulgations and combinations will be startling. If the commission, as planned, begins its work in British Columbia, it will at once begin in the area of disturbance, and even as it works its way east, it will also find conflicting views and clashing beliefs earnestly and tenaciously held.

There will be an element of iron in the commission's investigations. Although the committee itself is not committed to any one idea, the government through its Minister of Labor has expressed approval of the principles underlying the "Whitley plan" in Great Britain, and it has already been assisting and encouraging several trades, particularly in Toronto, to adopt this method, which means a fuller cooperation between capital and labor than before.

Too Partial.

Just at the moment when many employers, at first resenting even so much as the sharing of control or consultation, as the Whitley scheme provides, have foregone any antipathy they may have felt and agreed to set up councils on the Whitley method, there are labor voices strong and emphatic, thundering in various parts of the country, against the Whitley plan on the grounds that it is too partial and to conservative.

Thus what appeared to be a radical advance, even a few months ago, is combatted as not being advance enough.

It has been known for a long time that the Whitley plan did not appeal unanimously to the workers of Great Britain; even among the workers in those industries that have accepted the scheme, there has often eben a perfectly cool feeling that the Whitley emthod might serve as a means, but not as an end.

Similar opposition is appearing in Canada, particularly in the west, where it is doubtful whether anything based on the English model will prove acceptable even as an expedient.

Choir Preparing For Easter Week

St. John's Choristers held the last rehearsal but one of the solemn sacred work, "Olivet to Calvary," last night after Evensong, in the church. For many years Stainer's "Crucifixion" was regularly presented on Good Friday night, but last year "Olivet to Calvary" took the place of the former work and will be presented this year in St. John's church, next Friday at 8 p.m. At 7.45 lantern slides showing the Stations of the Cross will be shown. The work has been carefully prepared under the direction of Mr. R. J. Devey and all who wish to spend an hour on the Christian Great Day of Atonement in contemplation of the "Passion" of our Blessed Lord, are heartily invited to John's next Friday at 8 p.m.

The solo work will be sung by Mrs. Amys, Miss Rathbone, Mr. Lee and Mr. Ward. Final rehearsal next Thursday at 8 p.m.

FRANK JENNE Says:

"In future days the militia officers of Canada will never feel bound to go to exclusive military tailors for their uniforms. This war demonstrated that the wholesale tailor shop could turn out a more finished article. Thousands of uniforms for officers were made to measure in the Semi-ready shops in Montreal.

"In addition to the regular Semi-ready suit, finished to the try-on stage at our store, we have a custom-tailoring department, where we cut and make suits to special measure from any cloth and in any style selected—on a six-day delivery. There is the price-saving you look for from a wholesale tailoring system as compared with the retail."

The Situation in Munich is Still Confusing—Strikes Continue Throughout Germany—Grave Diggers Join the Movement.

(By Rudolph Kommer, United Press Staff.)

BERNE, April 14. — War Minister Noske has threatened to send a military expedition against Munich, accordin gto advices received here today.

The situation in Munich is still confusing. Reports of the over throw of the Soviet government have not been confirmed nor have later reports of a second coup restoring the Soviets to power.

A Soviet Republic is said to have been proclaimed in Brunswick.

The change in government was accomplished without bloodshed, it was announced.

Communist rule in the Ruhr district has been prevented only through overwhelming numbers of government troops occupying that region.

Strikes are continuing throughout Germany. Grave diggers have joined the movement and there have been no funerals in Stettin or Wied for two days. New Bolshevistic attempts have been made to obtain control of the Koyno-Konigsburg railway for strategic purposes.

Re-appearance of sailors in the cities of Northern Germany is regarded as an ominous sign. Spartacans are feverishly attempting to join hands with the Communists in Munich.

Rev. W. E. Wilson Addressed a Large Congregation in George Street Methodist Cnurch

Last night a capacity audience at George Street Methodist Church listened with intense interest to a very inspiring address, given by the Rev. W. E. Millson, of Toronto. Mr. Millson has been appointed by the Methodist Church to the evangelistic field. Seldom has a Peterborough congregation had the opportunity of listening to a more forceful speaker. Before his address Mr. Millson rendered a beautiful solo in a very acceptable manner.

The speaker first discussed "Race Track Gambling." He gave the audience a very vividdescription of the evils that result from carefully organized betting on horse racing. Many a family has been ruined, many a man has been sent to the penitentiary, and many young men have wasted all their money as a result of "Race Track Gambling." Near the beginning of the war, as a result of the urgings of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches, the organized gambling was stopped by Act of Parliament. In July, 1917, Mr. Millson stated that on one day, at the "Devonshire Track," in Essex County, $302,000 was turned over in betting, and in fourteen days $1,900,000 was turned over.

Want Law Rescinded.

Deputation after deputation of owners of "Race Tracks" and "Gambling Booths" are urging the Government to make betting on horse racing lawful, while the majority of the Christian people of Canada, even of Peterborough, are not making any objection. Mr. Millson wished that every voter in the home would write a letter to their local member of Parliament and tell him that they wanted all betting made illegal.

He then reviewed briefly a number of the most important questions that are before the people of Canada today. Some were: "Mothers' Pensions," "Housing Plans," "Readjustment of our Great Educational System" (remarking how all the children of Canada were put through the same groove in school whether God meant that each should take that groove or not).

Referring to moving pictures, the speaker said that the list of pictures now censored is enormous, and that he sympathizes with the censors, who sit in a little stuffy room each day watching moving pictures, and "Our Children," the subject upon which he mainly dwelt.

The Marriage Act.

Back of the children is the marriage altar. Mr. Millson stated that the marriage, when only a civil contract, degrades the home and lessens its prestige. According to the figures of Dr. Clark, eleven thousand children are now being cared for by the Government of Ontario, as a result of being children of those who should never have been married. Eighty-two per cent. of these are traceable to venereal diseases. The Methodist Church, the speaker stated, is striving to put a stop to the continuation of an increase of such cases. He gave a specific example of parents who had three sons, all of whom were mentally deficient. These all married, and today they are either the parents, grandparents or great-grandparents of eighty-four children, seventy-one of whom the Ontario Government is today keeping and caring for. At present the people owe much to the doctors of Canada for their assistance in helping the Churches to have a law passed that will stop all unrightful marriages.

Advanced Step.

In May, 1918, the Dominion Government put through a bill to make compulsory that all babies be registered well born or not; while bill is the most advanced step taken by any country in the world in this work. The civilized people to-day give greater care to the increase of their domestic animals than to the human race.

Then the speaker explained and showed how children have been kept down and branded, simply because of the name they bear. He gave an illustrative example of such, telling how a boy, at the age of fourteen, realizing the suffering his mother had to undergo by going out to work for her family. The boy was directed by the speaker to apply at a certain plant for work. On applying, he was approached by a solemn-faced man, who asked what he wanted and what was his name. The boy replied that he wanted work, and told him his name. The man was a little suspicious of the name and went back to his office. The next moment the boy noticed several clerks peering out of the window at him. He realized that they were identifying him. Shortly the man came back to the boy, his hands in his pockets, carrying somewhat of a more important appearance, and told the boy that they had no work for him. The clever young fellow understood that his name blocked him, and went back to his home broken-hearted. Simply because the boy's parents had

BOARD WILL BE ABOLISHED

Labour is Opposed to the Slow Methods of the Board.

ITS ORIGIN

Special to the Examiner

OTTAWA, April 14.—It is understood definitely that the Labour Appeal Board will not be continued after the conclusion of peace. It was established by Order-in-Council under the War Measures Act, expires automatically, and will not be renewed.

In reference to complaints by the striking expressmen and protests from other Labour sources, it is pointed out by officials of the Labour Department that in five out of seven cases referred to the Appeal Board, improvements have been made in Labour's position as compared with the award of the Primary Conciliation Board, the two cases in which Labour has lost advantages gained in the "lower" tribunal are the expressmen now and the patternmakers of Toronto a few months ago.

War Labour Policy.

The Labour Department says the Labour Appeal Board was established last summer as part of the Government's war labour policy. The intention was to provide still another piece of machinery which, during the war, would encourage conciliation and defer strife that would interfere with war production. The Government consulted a number of bodies, including the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Trades and Labour Congress. Both these organizations agreed to the establishment of the Labour Appeal Board. The Trades and Labour Congress nominated two members, Bruce and Francq.

It is now admitted, however, by the Labour Department that Labour is increasingly opposed to the Appeal Board. One of the objections raised is the delay in securing final decisions.

Will Continue Lux Demonstration

During the past week the keenest interest has been taken in the Lux demonstration which is being held in the main floor of Turnbulls and yielding to the insistent demands of the ladies who were through some difficulty to attend the demonstration last week, the management of the store has been fortunate in inducing the demonstrator to remain here until Thursday to continue to show the Peterboro ladies the proper way to wash their fine blouses etc. The demonstrator is pleased at all times to give practicall advice to any one who wishes to know how properly to handle washing mixture for any purpose.

MONAHGHAN COUNCIL FOR BETTER HIGHWAYS

A deputation of citizens waited on the North Monaghan Council at their meeting in the County Council Chamber on Saturday afternoon and urged their support in the movement for the taking over of the Peterborough-Port Hope road as a provincial highway. The question was freely discussed, and the Council afterwards passed a resolution petitioning the Ontario government to assume this road as a provincial highway. This is in line with the resolution passed a week ago at a conference of representatives of the County and City Council.

On page ten of this issue appears a half page advertisement of Doctor Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets. It is a question if there is another tablet on the market that could get a testimonial of this character from well known business men of this city, and there must be unmistakable value in a preparation that calls forth such commendation from men like our local druggists.

THE PEACE CONFERENCE

Germans Will Be Given Opportunity to Discuss the Peace Terms.

JAPANESE ISSUE

(Canadian Press.

WASHINGTON, April 14.— Continued progress at the Peace Conference was reported to-day in despatches to the White House from Paris. Intimation was conveyed that all important questions still at issue soon would be cleared up. White House advices had added nothing to the information received in press despatches regarding the adoption of the amended covenant of the League of Nations.

Rhine Frontier.

(Canadian Press.

PARIS, April 14.— Indications are that the Germans will be given the opportunity to discuss peace terms before the Conference, but that no extended discussions will be permitted, two weeks being suggested as the outside limited for sessions to be held at Versailles. Chief questions as regards peace terms remaining to be settled, now that the Saar Valley and reparations problem have been disposed of in virtually all of their details, is that of the Rhine frontier. The Council of Four is likely to occupy itself with this question during the present week.

Will Extend Order.

(Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, April 14.—In anticipation of the early signing of the peace treaty, the government is taking steps to continue in force as long as is considered necessary, certain orders-in-council passed under the War Measures Act. Hon. Arthur Meighen has given notice of an Act to extend the operation of such orders and regulations. Private members' day in the House to-day, with W. F. Nickles' resolution calling for abolition of titles, first on order paper. Owing to the absence of members, it is not likely that Mr. Nickles' motion will be pressed to a vote to-day.

Amendment Defeated.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, April 14.— Japanese peace delegates to-day were awaiting instructions from Tokio, for which they cabled Saturday, following the defeat of their amndment to the League of Nations covenant providing for racial equality.

The Japanese are known to be fearful of disturbances in Japan, where feeling was said to be high in support of the amendment. They would make no statement to-day, pending receipt of word from their government.

Full Steam Ahead.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, April 14.— Premier Lloyd George, leaving for England to-day, said that "everything is going ahead" and that he is "well pleased with what has been accomplished."

Clemenceau, asked regarding the suggested date of April 25 for calling in the Germans, said it had not yet been definitely decided, and that possibly it might be earlier.

Changed Spirit.

(Special to The Examiner.)

BASLE, April 14.—Count Von Reventlow, former military expert of the Berliner Tageblatt, in an interview telegraphed heer to-day, declared he favours restoration of a liberalised monarchy

"The militaristic spirit does not exist in Germany,' he was quoed as saying. "It is a spirit of defence, natural everywhere. If we had a national spirit as strong as the French we would have won the first battle of the Marne.

"I do not believe the present conference will make a general and lasting peace. Further war is inevitable. Peace cannot be just unless Germany is considered a belligerent and treated as such

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, APRIL 14TH, 1919.

A NOTABLE VISITOR.

The opportunity afforded by the visit of Councillor Peter Wright, chairman of the Seamen's and Firemen's Union of Great Britain, is one that the people of Peterborough cannot afford to ignore. Councillor Wright is to speak in the Collegiate Institute Assembly Hall on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Peterborough branch of the Navy League, and his message will be of vital and thrilling interest. He is a vivid, forcible speaker, whose addresses in other cities have aroused his audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Few visitors that Peterborough has entertained have been given such a unique opportunity to study world conditions as they exist to-day. as Councillor Wright, who was a special investigator for the British Government in France, who visited the neutral capitals of Europe and met the leaders of German labour, and who even went to Russia after the revolution, interviewed the Bolshevik leaders and saw for himself the chaotic condition of affairs in that stricken country. And, outside of all these things, he comes to Peterborough, representing the Mercantile Seamen of Great Britain, the men who, in the face of the direst peril from the German undersea pirates, kept the commerce of the Empire moving and maintained the precious supply of foodstuffs that were necessary for the very existence of the British people. "The head of the bravest union in the world," Councillor Wright is a visitor whom the people of Peterborough should delight to welcome. His address on the work of the British seamen, the German atrocities and Bolshevism, promises to be one of the most instructive speeches delivered in this city since the beginning of hostilities, and the local branch of the Navy League are to be congratulated upon arranging for the coming to Peterborough of such a notable visitor.

THE PRICE OF BUTTER.

The abnormal price at which butter is selling just now in Peterborough and elsewhere is the subject of much heated conversation whenever two or three of the class commonly referred to as consumers, get together. There are suggestions that the housewives of Peterborough should remain away from the market for a Saturday or two and frequent complaints that the farmares are responsible for the high prices. But are they?

The cry against the farmers is more or less of a guess rather than an accusation based upon facts. The farmer will say that the high price of butter is an inevitable result of the law of supply and demand. That may be correct, but the situation is such that the government should conduct a proper and thorough investigation so that the buying public can ascertain what are the real facts.

It is known that Canada produces much more butter than be used at home. Every province, except British Columbia, provides butter enough for the requirements of its own people, and with a surplus for export. The creameries of the Dominion have an annual output of 75,000,000 pounds, and this is considerably less than the total quantity of butter made on the farms of Canada. In spite of these facts New Zealand butter is being sold in Ontario by the thousands of pounds, brought eight thousand miles by water and land to sell at the same price as the butter made right here at home, in spite of the heavy freight charges and 4 duty of three cents a pound. In ten months the butter imported by Canada from New Zealand reached the total of 902,582 pounds, while 193,502 pounds were brought in from other countries.

During the same period Canada exported nearly twelve million pounds of butter.

The long suffering public looks to the government for an explanation of the mystery of why butter can be carried around the world and sold in Peterborough at the same figure as the butter made in this country.

FLIES FROM ERIN IN ATLANTIC RACE

A CALL THAT MUST BE HEARD.

The Veterans' Tag Day, which will be held on Saturday, is an insurance policy that will guarantee that during the ensuing year the men who fought for us overseas and their families shall be protected against hard times and distress as thoroughly as an available relief fund can protect them. The people of Peterborough are asked to pay the premium on this policy on Saturday by freely assisting in the success of the campaign. The money raised is devoted to the relief work of the Great War Veterans, placed in a separate fund that was established shortly after the organization of the Association, and towards which the citizens have subscribed generously on two other anniversaries of the second battle of Ypres. This relief fund has nothing to do with the general work of the Association, the cost of club rooms and other expenses of the Veterans being met by a working fund, made up of the initiation fees and monthly dues of the members. The money subscribed by the public on Tag Day is employed simply and solely for relieving cases of distress. The need this year is greater than ever in view of the unemployment crisis. There will, unfortunately, be many urgent calls upon the fund in the next few months if the industrial situation does not improve, and so it is necessary that the public should rally to the support of the Veterans on this occasion even more readily than in the past.

These men suffered overseas for us, their families suffered while they were away. It is the least that we can do to see now that they have been spared to come home from the terrible experiences across the Atlantic, that neither they or their families shall have to suffer here among the people for whose benefit they fought. We owe them more than we can ever repay, and the gratitude of the people should be demonstrated by a generous response in Saturady's campaign. To be without a tag on Saturday is to publicly acknowledge that you do not appreciate what the men of Canada's army have done for the country whose uniform they wore.

THE CITY'S HONOUR.

If it is expected, and rightly, too, of private firms and individual employers of labour, that the men who left their employ to go overseas and fight for Canada, should be given their old positions when they return, it is doubly necessary that such a course be followed by public bodies. The experience of a Peterborough soldier who wears the four blue chevrons that indicate that he has been overseas since 1915, and the gold casualty braid that shows that he has suffered for the cause of democracy, however, would seem to be evidence that there is, so far as this city is concerned, a danger that the principle enunciated at the beginning of this article, will be treated as the Germans regarded a certain "scrap of paper."

The soldier in question was, before joining the Canadian Expeditionary Force, a member of the Peterborough Fire Department. When he enlisted for overseas service early in 1915, with several other city firemen, a resolution was passed by the Fire, Water and Light committee, and subsequently adopted by the City Council, that they should be given leave of absence from their duties at the fire hall to enlist and that they should be reinstated in their positions on their return, "within a reasonable time," the resolution reads. The first of these men to return has been home five weeks, and when he reported for duty at the fire hall, was informed that the brigade was at full strength and that he would have to wait for a vacancy. It is presumed that a similar answer will be given to the other firemen who have yet to come back from overseas.

This is a condition of affairs that the people of Peterborough will not tolerate. These servants of the city were given a promise, formally expressed in a resolution of the Council, that their positions would be available to them when they returned. The city will have to make that promise good if the honour of Peterborough is to be regarded as of value. It is an injustice to ask these men to wait until there are openings for them. With the labour market in its present condition it may be imagined that their wait for vacancies in the Department would be long and tedious. A place should be made for the fireman who is already back, and provision made for others when they return. In fact, any appointments that have been made to the department during the past few months should have been made with a view to the fact that a number of members of the brigade who were with the fighting forces would shortly be home and that places for them would have to be found.

In any event, the city authorities should lose no time in discussing this matter. Justice demands that a promise made to the men who left their positions in the public service to risk their lives in France and Belgium shall be redeemed. There should be no quibbling over the phrase, "within a reasonable time," which appears in the resolution. That surely cannot be interpreted as meaning that the men who came back should have to wait for months until there are places for them in the department. That was not the intention of the Council in 1915. The Council of 1919 should realize that the city's honour is at stake in this matter, and that no matter how it may be done, the firemen who left Peterborough on the great adventure overseas, trusting in the promise of the city's rulers that their positions would be kept safely for them if they were lucky enough to come back, must be reinstated in their duties at the fire hall without unnecessary delay.

Presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Fitch

Otonabee Residents Will Reside in Peterboro.

A gathering of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fitch took place at their home in Otonabee, on Tuesday night last, when the following address was read and a presentation made of a handsome pair of chairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitch have resided on the farm they are leaving for the past 22 years, and will be greatly missed.

They will reside in East City, on returning from a visit with friends in Collingwood.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Fitch:

We, your friends and neighbors have gathered together on the eve of your departure from our community to wish you health, happiness and prosperity in your new home.

We feel that our relations with you, which have always been of the kindliest, have builded a friendship which will last through the coming years.

We ask you to accept these chairs as a slight token of our appreciation of your kindly disposition, and fondly hope that while using them in the future they may remind you of your former pleasant association with us.

The address was read by W. D. Johnston, and the gifts were presented by Thomas Chamberlain and Michael Ross, on behalf of the people of the neighborhood.

Mr. Fitch made a suitable reply, thanking the people of their neighborhood for their kind remembrances after which refreshments were served and a pleasant, social evening was spent.

Lloyd George Will Have to Explain

The Big Four Held a Session Last Evening.

(By Carl D. Groat.)

PARIS, April 14. — President Wilson was expected to make a statement to-ady outlining the progress of the peace conference and showing that the work is nearly completed.

The big four met unexpectedly from six to eight o'clock last night for the purpose of reaching an agreement in certain details that would permit Premier Lloyd George to leave for London to-day. The Premier requested information regarding a definite date for inviting the German delegates to Versailles that he might inform Parliament. It is understood that he was told, April 25th.

Lloyd George will be called upon to explain why the agreement regarding reparations does not include provisions for Germany to pay the entire cost of the war, when he faces Parliament to-morrow. Wilson's statement was expected to assist Lloyd George in showing the futility of trying to revoke the agreement on reparation.

At the C.P.R. office about thirty grown people have taken passage to sail during the St. Lawrence season and this represents about ten families. The balance are sailing by the G.T.R. service. From one house on Union street, the aged father, his two daughters, their husbands and children left recently.

PARIS, April 14. — As a result of the by-election at Hull, Premier Lloyd George, acording to the Echo de Paris, has persuaded the council of four to completely revamp the financial plan to be incorporated in the treaty of peace. Instead of payment of five billion dollars on account ,and annual payments to be fixed by commission, it has been decided to fix at once the amount which Germany will have to pay within fifty years.

It is indicated by the newspapers that the figure of fifty billion dollars has been agreed upon which includes all war damages as well as the cost of pensions.

The first instalment of five billion dollars, must be paid within eighteen months, the newspaper declares.

FRANCE WILL GET A LARGE SHARE

LONDON, April 14. — The Paris correspondent of the Mail reported to-day that France will get 55 per cent of the total reparations collected from Germany.

Our System of Testing Insures Uniformity and Dependability in Dominion Rubber System Belting

Probably the elements that create the most satisfaction in the use of any article are an accurate knowledge of what it will do before it is made and to prove that it will efficiently accomplish its purpose after it is made.

It is on this basis that we build our belting and the knowledge of what it will do is the result of over fifty years experience and research.

We prove by careful tests that every ounce of material is up to our high standard—each individual operation is checked as the belt proceeds from one machine to the next and a sample of the finished belt is tested, both chemically and physically, to prove that it will efficiently serve the purpose for which it was made and that it has a reserve of strength for emergencies.

We want you to test not only our claims of superiority for Dominion Rubber System belting, but our free belting service, in charge of belting experts, who can help to cut your manufacturing costs, by making your equipment more efficient.

A phone, wire or letter to our nearest service branch will enable you to test this service without obligation.

Boy Scout News

All Boy Scouts are to assemble at the Market Square on Tuesday night at 7.15 p.m., April 15th, and march under their respective Scout Masters to prepare for the physical display under Sergt. Jones.

An invitation has been received for the Peterboro Boy Scouts to be present at the great rally in Toronto to welcome the Chief Scout, Sir Robert Baden Powell. This will be a great chance to boost Peterboro, and we hope that the parents of the boys will help us.

The Scout Council will try and make arrangements for transportation and further notices will be sent out.

On Good Friday several Scouts are going to take a hike.

On Monday, April 7th, Gordon Thomas and J. Cooper passed their proficiency test for First Aid before Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, the judge, and the local council, with honours.

Six more boys are going through their Signallers' test for First Class Scouts, and will pass in the next two weeks, and four boys for Cyclist badges.

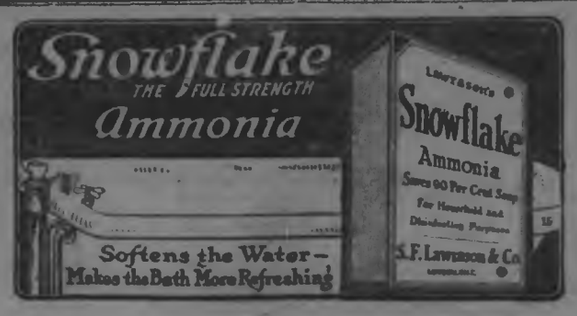
Floating Bridge Weathered the Annual Break-Up

Yesterday the ice in Chemong Lake started to move and for a time the floating bridge between Bridgenorth and Ennismore was subjected to a heavy strain. A portion of the railing was broken off by the ice which pushed its way on the structure and the approaches were damaged. The bridge was open for traffic at noon to-day having been closed since yesterday.



DROWNING ACCIDENT AT CAMPBELLFORD

Grandparents of Victim Reside in Peterborough.

Lisping a promise to "be back in a minute," Douglas Jarvis, the little 3-year old son of Driver R. J. Jarvis, who is at present in hospital in Namur, Belgium, recovering from an attack of double pneumonia, walked out into the back yards to recover a book he had thrown out of an upstairs window in his home in Campbellford on Saturday morning, and stepped into a cistern, the existence of which his mother had not known, as she had only moved into the house a few days previous. The mother followed her little boy to put on his coat a few minutes after he left the back door, and finding no trace of him, started to search the town. In about an hour and a half, when the search proved futile, the party which had joined Mrs. Jarvis returned to the home, and a neighbour suggested that the child might have gone through the tiny hole in the ground, and a hasty ripping up of the thin covering of the cistern revealed the fact that the little boy had drowned, and at the time his mother started her search was within reach of her hand, as the cistern had filled up within a foot of the ground. It is thought that the little lad's mouth had become choked with the filth in the cistern and he was thus unable to call for help.

The little boy is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jarvis, 253 Bethune street. The funeral will take place at Campbellford to-morrow.

DRESSES

For All

OCCASIONS

The material may be what you will—either shimmering satins, soft and flimsy georgettes, clinging tricolettes, jerseys or taffetas. They all breathe the spirit of the mode in every line, fold and frill, these frocks that are daily arriving so as to keep our assortments fresh and complete and new to a degree.

Inspired by the simplicity of the Mediæval, is a wondrous creation envolving charmeuse satin and georgette crepe in navy blue shade. The bodice is of georgtte, plainly draped, verging on the Russian tunic effect. The skirt is of charmeuse, made straight and narrow with an over-skirt of georgette braided with grey silk floss. Price $62.00

A charming example of what the handsome Astrican embroidery can do for a gown, is shown on a dress of Belge pussy willow (deep sand), where it is used on both back and front of bodice and sleeves. It has a wide girdle from which a one-sided and draped over-skirt falls in graceful folds. Priced at $59.50

Youthful lines are always enticing, and they are exceptionally so in a pretty little model dress of Poilus blue georgette. There are touches of pearl grey georgette in the collar and cuffs, and the bodice and the bottom of the over-skirt are embroidered with blue silk and grey braid. The price $47.50

"Later in the auditorium Mr. Allan gave a very much enjoyed organ rerital, giving evidence of his ability. The programme of the evening was given in the basement, where Mr. Joel Dawson presided. The pastors of the Baptist Churches gave short addresses in turn, Rev. Robert White of Park Baptist, Rev. Mr. Fromow of Calvaty, Rev. Andrew Smith of Immanuel, Rev. J. H. "Mr. Dawson introduced the pastor, Mr. Langton, and Mrs. Langton, and both made very gracious responses.

"Mr. and Mrs. Allan were presented by Mr. Arthur Chrysler, and both Mr. and Mrs. Allan made suitable replies.

"Mr. G. S. Matthews spoke on the excellent work of the choir in the past, and remarked on what an important part of any worship the music given was.

WHEN YOU SEE A TESTIMONIAL

From a Person you do not know, Pay No Attention To It. When you see a testimonial from people in your own locality and whom you do know, if you have any doubt, Go and Ask Them. This Should Convince You.

We cannot impress too strongly upon the people of Canada that there are no Stomach and Tonic Tablets ju st like Dr. Norvall's. There are no tablets just as good as Dr. Norvall's. Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets are in a class by themselves.

In order to convince you of this we have interview ed the druggists of the City of Peterborough, and as th ey are all selling patent medicines and preparations of known value, they are in a position to judge the merits of Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets.

Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets

READ WHAT THE DRUGGISTS OF PETERBOROUGH SAY ABOUT THEM:

The Nugent Drug Co. states: "We recommend Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets because we are firmly convinced they are the best on the Canadian market."

Mr. Wm. Madill, Druggist, says: "We have a steady and increasing sale for Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets, and we are pleased to state that our customers are satisfied with the results."

Mr. C. M. Moncur, Druggist, says: "For constipation, indigestion and sick headache, Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets have no equal."

The Warne Drug Co. says: "If you are suffering from constipation, biliousness or sick headache, we know of no better remedy than Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets. Try them and you will agree with what we say."

Mr. E. L. Payne, Druggist, says: "Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets are one of the best preparations we keep in stock and our customers speak highly of them."

Mr. Weber, Druggist, says: "That dull, dreary headache and tired feeling will disappear if you take one or two of Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets at bedtime. Try them and be convinced."

Mr. W. J. Kent, Druggist, says: "We recommend Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets because we consider it our duty to recommend what will give the best results."

James Lynch, Druggist, says: "We recommend Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets because we get better results from them than from any other similar preparation we keep in stock."

Mr. J. A. Burgess, Lakefield, states: "It is always a pleasure to recommend Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets, because my customers will be well pleased with the results."

The Tanner Drug Company, of Lakefield, say: "We have sold Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets for some time, and customers who have once used them will have none other in their place."

Mr. Vincent Sullivan, Druggist, says that he was surprised the number of people that insist upon having Dr. Norvall's Stomach and Tonic Tablets, and none other can take their place as a gentle laxative and building-up tonic.

We could fill a page with testimonials from individuals in this City, but we consider the druggists are in a position to advise the public.

OBITUARY

BRIDGET JOSEPHINE HEFFERNAN.

The death occurred this morning in Otonabee township of Bridget Josephine Heffernan, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Heffernan, of Otonabee township.

The funeral took place this afternoon to St. Peter's cemetery, Peterborough.

MRS. JAMES McEWAN

(Davidson Leader)

Within the past week the hand of death has removed an ancient land mark and Davidson has been deprived of its oldest resident. In the passing of Mrs. McEwan, a "mother in Israel has been called from the church miliant to the church triumphant. After a brief illness, and without much suffering, in the peace and quiet of Sunday morning last, her spirit stole away.

Mrs. McEwan, relict of the late Jas. McEwan, whom she survived twenty-six years, was born in Cavan, Peterborough County, Ontario, on May 25, 1834. She had therefore attained the great age of 85 years, 10 months and 11 days. With her husband, who came from Dunblane, Scotland, she migrated to the west in 1888, settling in Elgin district, Manitoba, then 40 miles from a railway. The town of Elgin was subsequently built on their farm. Though Mr. and Mrs. McEwan remained life long staunch Presbyterians, their house ni those pioneer days, was always a home for the preacher, irrespective of his denomination. Mrs. McEwan is survived by a sister, Mrs. Brisbane, aged 69 years, who resides in Cobourg, Ont. Only two out of Mrs. McEwan's family of ten are now living, namely, a son who resides in Elgin, and her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Robnison, of Davidson, at whose home she died. Since coming to Davidson in 1903, Mrs. McEwan endeared herself to the people of this community by her deeds of thoughtful kindness and her disposition of genial good nature.

Rev. H. Joyce conducted a funeral service in Mr. Popplewell's undertaking parlors on Monday afternoon at three o'clock, in which Rev Mr. Henderson of the Methodist Church also took part. The body was taken to the station for shipment to Elgin, where interment will be made. Mrs. W. J. Robinson and her son, Fletcher, accompanied the remains.

Among the floral contributions: Sprays from Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Curtis, Mrs. John Donald, Miss M. A. Munroe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Hutcheon.—Davidson Leader, Saskatchewan.

MRS. (DR.) WALMSLEY

After an illness of several months' duration, Evalyn Overholt, beloved wife of Dr. A. G. Walmsley, died at her residence, 366 Water street, last night at 10.45, aged 37 years. She was born in Newmarket and came to the city about ten years ago from Toronto, where she was married previous to coming to Peterboro. Before coming to the city she had been an active member of the Baptist Church, but failing health compelled her to retire from all active work. She was a graduate of Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio.

Service will be conducted at the home of Mr. McKee, 559 Water St., this evening at 8.30. The remains will be taken to Buffalo, tomorrow evening by the 5.12 C.P.R. train, where interment will take place in Forest Lawn Mausoleum.

a bad name, the boy was not given a chance. The children should be given an honest deal. The Methodist Church, the speaker remarked, is endeavouring to raise the "Standard of Chance" for children. He described how the Methodist "Home for Girls" was founded in Nova Scotia, and described what work it was doing Also he mentioned other Methodist homes for children in Canada, but particularly referred to the "Home and College" at Edmonton.

Artistic Work.

The speaker said that it was the most up-to-date place of its kind on this continent. The success of this institution for girls is mainly due to the lady that was put at the head of it. Mr. Millson then showed the audience some of the excellent and artistic crochet-work done by the girls, trained in the college at Edmonton Some of the pieces of work had won first premiums in their classes at the recent Edmonton Exposition, which was open to the whole province. It is remarkable to think that young girls could win such coveted premiums such as these, against much older people.

Mr. Millson, in conclusion, referred to the large number who feel keenly the loss of loved ones in the war. Yet, he stated, there is a greater loss than bereavement, namely, the loss to God of those who sin.

Veterans' Tag Day

FOR RELIEF FUND

Saturday, April 19th

Peterborough citizens are reminded of the Annual Tag Day on Saturday next on behalf of the Relief Fund of the organization.

The money received this way is kept in a separate fund and is used solely to relieve cases of distress among soldiers and in the families of the men who are still serving.

The fund has been well administered in Peterborough and your contributions in the past have helped to spare much of the suffering to Peterboro that has existed in other cities where a similar fund has not been organized.

The thoughtfulness of Peterborough citizens so much appreciated in the past, it is felt, will be again in evidence on Saturday next.

A TRIAL FOR THE JUDGE.

The spring non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court were adjourned from one o'clock this afternoon until six o'clock this evening owing to the absence of Mr. Justice Lennox, who, coming by way of Port Hope, found that the former connection with Peterborough had been long discontinued. As a result he was detained there until the late afternoon train reaching here at 5.30 p.m.

The Man Who Outwitted German Secret Agents

With the commencement of hostilities the activities of Councillor Peter Wright became a deadly menace to German interests and word went out to her secret agents that he must be done away with.
Though in hourly danger of losing his life, Councillor Peter Wright never failed in his duty; neither did the fear of death deter him in his missions. Twice his life was attempted, but on both occasions he cleverly outwitted his enemies. To-day he is in Canada to tell the people of this Dominion what he saw and knows of German atrocities, Bolshevism and the work of our gallant seamen.

COUNCILLOR PETER WRIGHT

Chairman and Trustee of the Seamen's and Firemen's Union of Great Britain, is head of the bravest union in the world. He represents the seamen of the Empire, and he is ready to tell the world the reasons why British seamen are determined to boycott the Germans on every sea.

Hear Him Speak in the Peterboro Collegiate Institute Hall
On TUESDAY, APRIL 15th, 1919, at 8p.m.

As a special investigator for the British Government, he visited the reclaimed lands of the Western Battle Front and saw for himself the terrible deeds of German brutality; he was sent to the neutral capitals of Europe and there talked with German Labour Leaders, who are heads of the Teutonic Republic to-day. He visited Russia and interviewed the leaders of the Bolsheviki Party. He knew Trotsky and Kerensky personally, and saw the chaos of the Russian Socialistic Revolution.

He will tell you about these men and their motives. Now is your chance to learn facts that have made history. Don't miss your opportunity. Hear Councillor Wright speak. His lecture is inspiring, educational and free from fiction.

The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Peterborough Branch of the Navy League, and Judge E. C. Huycke will take chair.

In obtaining the services of Councillor Wright, the members of the Local Branch consider themselves fortunate indeed, and it is to be hoped that the public will turn out in large numbers to hear Councillor Wright.

THE CHURCH HOCKEY LEAGUE BANQUET WAS BIG SUCCESS

Long Toast List Had Its Compensating Feature in the Form of a Splendid Banquet Provided by the Ladies.

Last Friday evening a very successful banquet was given in the Sunday School Room of George Street Methodist Church for the benefit of the members of the different hockey clubs who partcipated in the Church Hockey League during the past winter. The banquet was given by the teachers and officers of the Sunday School together with members of the older classes. The tables were very artistically arranged. Congratulations were tenderd to the ladis for their generosity and kindness in preparing the sumptuous banquet.

The music supplied by the orchestra of the George Street Sunday School, led by Mr. Cunningham was very much appreciated. The members of the other Sunday Schools especially congratulated the orchestra for its fine showing.

The first toast was proposed to the King by the chairman, Rev. A. J. Thomas, while on his feet, Mr. Thomas expressed his thanks to the ladies as did every speaker after who followed.

A Recitation

The chairman then called upon Master Hughson Johnston for a recitation. One recitation was not enough and Hughson responded to an encore. Master Hughson Johnson, although only a boy of about thirteen has a very clear enunciation and has developed this talent remarkably well. He is not nervous on the platform but on the other hand quite emotional, thus adding to the effect of his delivery.

Mr. Kenneth Anderson, a member of the St. Paul's Hockey Team, then rendered a very acceptable solo entitled, "God Send You Back to Me."

Mr. A. B. Gates was then called upon to propose the toast to the "Church Hockey League." Mr. Gates very ably showed the advantage of the different churches getting together in their sports. He pointed out how the ability of one depends upon the ability of others. This was clearly shown and emphasized in the unity of the Allied Nations. The Church Hockey League has been along the same lines, and for this reason has been very successful in the past three seasons. He said that he was proposing his toast to what has been well done, and what will be done in the future, better than well done.

Presidential Remarks.

Mr. E. Burnham, the President of the Church Hockey League replied to the above toast. He stated that it had been a pleasure for him the past season to act in the capacity of president and that he never had one moment of regret throughout all the season. He congratulated the George Street Hockey Team for winning the cup three times in succession thus becoming the owners of it for all time to come. He reminded the ministers that another cup would be very much appreciated.

Mr. MacKenzie, president of the Ministerial Association was then called upon to present the cup to the winning team. "It was an honour that he appreciated," he said, "to be asked to present the cup to the winning team." The ministers all have an interest in hockey and had much enjoyment watching the hockey games the past winters. He then asked the manager of the George Street Hockey Team, Mr. P. Gettas to come forward and receive the cup. Mr. MacKenzie congratulated the George Street team and its manager for their showing in hockey.

The captain of the George street team, Mr. Harold Graham, replied and thanked the George street Methodist Church for the way they helped the team and also the Ministerial Association for their interest in hockey and for the cup they had presented.

The Association.

Mr. J. Wearing then proposed the toast to the Ministerial Association. He congratulated the ministers for the stand they have taken in regard to sports. He explained the relationship that should exist between the church and sports. He stated that the people recognize what the Ministerial Association is doing in regard to sports and appreciate it.

The president of the Ministerial Association, Rev. F. J. MacKenzie, replied that the ministers are interested in sports. Christianity is worthy in all lines of activity and permeates everything. The best Christian is one who carries hat spirit into all activities, into business, sports and etc., and makes it a Christian business and and a Christian sport.

Other contributions to the toast test and programme were Mrs. F. L. Jenne, Mr. C. Parsons, Mr. Webber, Mr. G. H. Roper, Mr. Roots, Mr. Burnham and Rev. A. Thomas.

Good Ball in New League

"Cannon Ball" Scott Will Pitch for Lindsay.

The prospects are that Peterborough fans will see some very lively ball in the Central Ontario Baseball League this summer. All the towns in the circuit will have strong line-ups, and the calibre of the League is shown by the fact that "Cannon Ball" Scott, the sensational pitcher of last year's Hillcrests, Ontario champions, will be on the firing line for Lindsay this year. It will take a good team to stop Scott, but the other clubs are not worrying any. The League will open on May 24th, and the Peterborough outfit expects to be right up in the running from the start.

U.S. DUMPING COTTON GOODS ON BRITISH MARKET

LONDON, April 14.—Suggestion was made in the House of Commons that American manufactured cotton goods were being offered in England at prices below which they were sold in the United States. W. C. Bridgeman, Under-Scretary of the Board of Trade, said that an anti-dumping bill was already in print, and the Board of Trade would like to have any information in the possession of the member regarding the suggestion made.

GRAIN MARKET

Cash markets are strong on all the coarse grains. There is no scarcity of oats in farmers' hands, but the high prices of corn in comparison with the cheaper oats has a good deal to do with the present boosting in oats. The present high price of hogs is used as an argument against any lowering of corn prices. Cash prices are 2c. to 3c. higher on oats, barley, buckwheat, and rye in the local market. In the option markets yesterday, prices followed the advance in the cash markets.

The mill feed situation is a little easier, with bran and shorts quoted $2 lower on the best grades.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards— Receipts, 193 cars, with 2,800 cattle, 738 calves, 4,662 hogs, and 196 sheep and lambs.

There was a quieter tone to the cattle trade yesterday following the recent rather heavy buying for the Easter trade. A few extra choice baby beeves are still in good demand, at good prices, but even those seem to have about already filled requirements. Butcher cattle were generally lower, estimates varying from 25 cents to 50 cents.

Calves, $1 to $1.50 lower.

Hogs steady to a quarter higher than last week's close, but packers are not sending out any quotations for to-day.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"No!" She spoke with sweet severity. "I shall not. After such a scene? I must be more careful than ever. Go right away. I, at least, shall continue to be above reproach."

"Oh!" He swallowed the natural expression of masculine irritation. "If you won't let me in I'll say what I've got to say right ...ere. Will you divorce that brute and marry me? I can get you a divorce on half a dozen grounds."

"I'll have no divorce, now or ever." Mrs. Balfame of Elsinore spoke with haughty finality. "I abominate the word." Then she added graciously: "But don't think I am unappreciative of your kindness. Now you must go away. The Gifnings live on the corner, and they always come home early."

"A good many have left ,including Balfame. He spoilt the evening." Rush stared at her and ground his teeth. "By God! I wish the old duelling days were back again. I'd call him out. If you say the word I'll pick a quarrel with him anyhow. He carries a gun, and there isn't a jury in Braybant County that wouldn't acquit me on the plea of self-defence. My conscience would trouble me no more than if I had shot a mad dog."

Mrs. Balfame gave a little gasp, which he mistook for horror. But temptation had assailed her. Why not? Her own opportunity might be long in coming. It would be like Dave Balfame to go away and stay for a month. But the temptation passed swiftly. Human nature is too complex for any mere mortal to reduce to the rule of three. While she could dispose of her husband without a qualm, her conscience revolted from turning an upright citizen like Dwight Rush into a murderer.

She closed the door abruptly, knowing that no mere verbal refusal to accept such an offer would be adequate, and he went slowly down the steps. But in a moment he ran back and a few feet down the veranda, thrusting his head through one of the open windows.

"Just one minute!"

She was passing the parlour door and paused.

"Promise me that if you are in trouble you will send for me. For no one else; no other man, that is, but me. You owe me that much."

"Yes, I promise." She spoke more softly and smiled.

"I intended to close them before going up stairs. But—perhaps you understand— the house when I came in seemed to reek with tobacco and liquor—with him!"

His reply was inarticulate, but he pulled down the windows violently, and she locked them, smiling once more before she turned out the light.

She returned to the dining-room, thinking upon food with distaste, but determined to eat until her head felt normal. She had no intention of speaking to her husband should he return, for she purposed to sleep on a sofa in the sewing-room and lock the door, but tones and brain must be lightly poised when she telephoned to her friends.

The telephone bell rang. Once more she frowned, but answered the summons as promptly as she had opened the front door. To her amazement she heard her husband's voice.

"Say," it was thickly, "I'm sorry. Promise not to take another drink for a month. Sorry, too, I've got to go to the house for a few minutes. Didn't intend to go home to-night—thought I'd give you time to get over bein 'as mad as I guess you've got a right to be. But I got to go to Albany—politics—got to go to-night—must go home and get my grip. You—you—wouldn't pack it, would you? Then I needn't stay so long. Only got to sort some papers myself."

Mrs. Balfame replied in the old wifely tones that so often had caused him to grit his teeth: "I never hold a man in your condition responsible for anything. Of course I'll pack your suitcase. What is more, I'll have a glass of lemonade ready, with aromatic spirits of ammonia in it. You must sober up before you start on a journey."

"That's the ticket. You're a corker! Put in a bromide, too. I'm at Sam's and I guess I'll walk over— need the air. You just go on bein' sweet and I bring you something pretty from Albany."

"I want one of those new chiffon-velvet bags, and you will please get it in New York," she said practically. "I'll write an exact description of it and put it in the suitcase."

"All right. Go ahead." His accents breathed profound relief, and although her brain was working at lightning speed, and her eyes were but a pale bar of light, she curled her lip scornfully as the childishness of man, as she hung up the receiver.

She made the glass of lemonade, added the usual allowance of armotic spirits and ammonia and bromide—bottle of each was kept in the sideboard ready for instant use—then ran upstairs and returned with the colourless liquid she purloined from Dr. Anna's cupboard.

Her scientific friend had remarked that one drop would suffice, but being a mere female herself she doubled the dose to make sure; and then set the glass conspicuously in the middle of the table. The half opened can of sardines and the plate of bread were quite forgotten, and once more she ran upstairs, this time to pack his useless clothes.

She performed this wifely office with efficiency, forgetting nothing, not even the hair tonic he was administering to a spreading bald spot, a bottle of digestive tablets, a pair of the brown kid gloves he affected when dressed up, and a volume of detective fiction. Then she wrote a minute description of the newest fashion in hand bags and pinned it to his dinner jacket. The suitcase was an alibi in itself.

When she had packed it and strapped and carried it down to the dining-room, returned to her room and locked the door, she realized that she had prolongd these commonplace duties in behalf of her nerves. Those well-disciplined rebels of the human system were by no means driven to cover, and this annoyed her excessively.

She had no fear of not rising to precisely the proper pitch when she heard her husband fall dead in the dining-room, for she always had risen automatically to every occasion for which she was in any measure prepared, and to many that had caught her unaware. It was the ordeal of waiting for the climax that made her nerves jeer at her will, and she found that a series of pictures was marching monotonously through her mind, again, and again, and yet again: with that interior vision she saw her husband walk unsteadily up the street, swing open the gate, slam it defiantly insert his latch-key; she saw his eye drawn to the light in the dining-room at the end of the dark hall, saw him drink the lemonade, drop to the floor with a fall that shook the house; she saw herself running down, calling out his name, shattering the glass on the floor, then running distractedly across the street to the Gifings'—and again and still again.

She had been pacing the room. It occurred to her that she could vary the monotony by watching for him, and she put out her light and drew aside the sash curtains. In a moment she caught her breath.

Her room was on a corner of the house and commanded not only the front walk leading down to Elsinore Avenue, but the grounds on the left. In these grounds was a large grove of ancient maples, where, dressed in white, she passed many pleasant hours in summer with a book or her friends. The trees, with their low thick branches still laden with leaves, cast a heavy shade, but her gaze, moving unconsciously from the empty street, suddenly saw a black and moving shadow in that black and almost solid mass of shadows.

She watched intently. A figure undoubtedly was moving from tree to tree, as if selecting a point of vantage, or restless from one of several conceivable causes.

Could it be her husband, summoning his courage to enter and face her? She had known him in that mood. But she dismissed the suggestion. He had inferred from her voice that she was both weary and placated, and he was far more likely to come swaggering down the avenue singing one of his favourite tunes; he fancied his voice.

Frieda never returned before midnight, and then, although she entered by the rear hall door and stole quietly up the back stairs, she would be quite without shame if confronted.

Therefore, it must be a burglar.

There could not have been a more welcome distraction. Mrs. Balfame was cool and alert at once. As an antidote to rebellious nerves awaiting the consummation of an unlawful act, a burglar may be recommended to the most amateurish assassin.

Mrs. Balfame put on her heavy automobile coat, wrapped her head and face in a dark veil, transferred her pistol from the table drawer to her pocket, and went softly down the stairs. She left the house by the kitchen door, and, after edging round the corner stood still until her eyes grew accustomed to the dark. Then, once more, she saw that moving shadow.

She dared not risk crossing the lawn directly from the house to the grove, but made a long detour at the back, keeping on the grass, however, that her footsteps should make no noise.

A moment or two and she was within the grove. She saw the shadow detach itself again, but it was impossible to determine its size or sex, although she inferred from its hard laboured breathing that the potential thief was a man.

He appeared to be making craftily for the house, no doubt with the intention of opening one of the lower windows; and she stalked him with a newly awakened instinct, her nostrils expanding. The original resolve to kill her husband had induced no excitement at all; even Dwight Rush's love-making had thrilled her but faintly; but this adventure in the night, stalking a house-breaker, presently to confront him with the command to raise his hands, cast a momentary light upon the emotional moments experienced by the highly organized.

Suddenly she heard her husband's voice. He was approaching Elsinore Avenue from one of the nearby streets, and he was singing, with physiological interruptions, "Tipperary," a song he had cultivated of late to annoy his political rival, an American of German birth and terrific German sympathies. He was walking quickly, as top-heavy men sometimes will.

She drew back and crouched. To make her presence known would be to turn over the burglar, to her husband and detain the essential victim from the dining-room table.

She saw the shadow dodge behind a tree. Balfame appeared almost abruptly in the light shed by the street lamp in front of his gate; and then it seemed to her that she had held her breath for a lifetime before her ears were stunned by a sharp report, her eyes blinked at a spurt of fire, before she heard David Balfame give a curious sound, half moan, half hiccough, saw him clutch at the gate, then sink to the ground.

She was hardly conscious of running, far more conscious that some one else was running —through the orchard and toward the back fence.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.
The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.
Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

ZAM-BUK HEALED SEVERE CUT

Mrs. J. E. Bierwirth of Carnduff, Sask., writes: "My little son cut the end off his finger. As it was such a severe cut, I was going to take him to a doctor, but in the meantime to ease the pain, I applied some Zam-Buk. This stopped the bleeding and gave him such relief that he ceased crying and seemed quite at ease. I therefore decided to see if Zam-Buk would heal the wound. Next day I replaced the dressing, and continued to do so each day, using nothing but Zam-Buk. Complete cure resulted."

FINDS EVIDENCE TO HELP DR. WILKINS' STORY OF MURDER

MINEOLA, L.I., April 14.—Evidence that is expected to strengthen the story of Dr. Walter K. Wilkins, of Long Beach, that his wife was murdered by burglars on the night of February 27 and not by himself, as is charged, was revealed here by Charles N. Wysong, counsel for the physician. He obtained the evidence through Samuel Whitehouse, a lawyer, of Long Beach and New York.

A woman prominent in Long Beach will testify at the trial that two roughly dressed, suspicious looking men knocked at her door a few hours before Mrs. Wilkins was killed, the lawyer stated. When the woman answered the men's ring she refused to open the door, but spoke to them through the window. They asked "Is this a three family house?" then went away.

Mr. Wysong declared several persons will testify that two men of similar description were seen later in the bar of a Long Beach hotel and later boarded a train at Wreck Lead.

In the County Jail here Dr. Wilkins is writing an account of everything that hapened on the night of the crime, furnishing instalments of it to his counsel daily.

Dr. Wilkins related to-day how he took home a handbag on the night of the murder and left it on the porch, remembering it several hours after the tragedy and going for it in company with a Long Beach policeman. Had the entrance of himself and his wife been undisturbed, he asserts, he would have taken the bag in with him.

The physician also declared that a Long Beach policeman picked up Mrs. Wilkins' false teeth from the driveway. This fact, he says, discredits the story of detectives that they found the plates in an upstairs bedroom.

HELP!

You may be able to defend yourself from a frontal attack, but how about it if you are held up from the rear?

Your body has to fight constantly against disease. It isn't always a fair fight, because constipation is a treacherous enemy that you usually don't recognize until too late.

Stagnating, poison-forming food waste in your large intestines, helps disease to attack you and hinders you from defending yourself. Such self-poisoning causes over 90% of human illness.

You may be held fast for months in the grip of constipation, trying vainly to free yourself by taking castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., in order to force the bowels to move. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies but you will be less able to defend yourself against the attack when it comes.

On the other hand, Nujol overcomes constipation and brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals. It acts gently and harmlessly, at all ages under any conditions.

Take Nujol and constipation can't sneak up on you and cripple you when you least expect it.

Admiral Sims Describes Birth of Depth Bomb Idea

Says British Naval Officer's Failure to Run Down U-Boat Produced "Ash Can."

Rear-Admiral William R. Sims, in an interview in his room at the Baltimore Hotel, told for the first time how the now famous depth bomb, popularly known in the navy as the "ash can," came to be invented. Much has been published about this efficient engine of destruction which accounted for so many of the German undersea craft, but this story told Admiral Sims by Viscount Jellicoe of Scapa, formerly chief of the Grand Fleet of Britain, is the first account of the origination of the depth bomb idea.

"The bomb is of such simple construction and fills such an obvious need," said Admiral Sims, "that if it had not been invented at the period it was it must surely have come to light within a few months of that time.

"It was first thought of at the Admiralty, according to Lord Jellicoe, when Admiral Madden, second in command of the British fleet, called for some such device after an encounter that a cruiser he was aboard had with a submarine. The German rose suddenly close to the cruiser and launched a torpedo at her from short range. This, fortunately, missed, and the cruiser was swung about and rushed toward the enemy at full speed in an endeavour to ran it. However, the German commander got his craft under water in time to save her, but as the British ship went over him the officers leaning over the side could distinctly make out its outlines at some distance below the surface.

"Chagrined by the escape, one of Admiral Madden's officers remarked that they would have got their prey if they had had a mine to drop over the side as they passed above her.

"'Why can't we have something of that sort,' replied the Admiral; and immediately forwarded the suggestion to the Admiralty offices asking that experts be put at work on the task of preparing specifications.

"Out of this episode," concluded Admiral Sims, "was developed the 'ash can' loaded with TNT, with the aid of which a few destroyers were enabled to protect great convoys and terrorize the Hun undersea force. The depth bomb and the destroyer became the chief naval factors of the struggle."

The Rear Admiral, who reverted to this rank upon delivering to the Navy Department his report on his service as commander-in-chief of the American naval forces in European waters during the war on Wednesday, said that he may attend the celebration of the return of America's Victory Fleet as a guest but will not be here in any official capacity. Incidentally, he remarked that only a few hundreds among the eighty thousand seamen who were abroad under his command brought home English brides. The American girl, he believes, is good enough for the American jack tar and then some.

Voice of The People

QUESTION?

How can efficiency of workers be so increased as to make high wages economically practicable?

As a continued part of a plea for shop representation I would suggest that the employees' representatives have power to elect the foreman of the workshop, and the foremen choose the superintendents, each from among their fellow workers. This method I believe would secure capable leaders. The men of each branch are better fitted to select their directors than any one else, because they know the qualifications of their fellows and also the duties they are to perform. "When appointments are made from above these requisites are often lacking, and a theory or correspondent pupil will be placed over practical men." The employees would select the best men from the fact that it would be greatly to the interest of all to have efficient directors. The individual income would depend upon the social product so they would be interested in securing the most capable leaders that their labour might be directed to the best advantage; inefficiency would be sufficient for his recall. It is the only way of securing ability at the head of affairs. You must reduce the labour turnover. By this I mean the constant changing of employees, which proves unprofitable to large establishments, especially when engaged in standardized and repetition work, reduced production, foreman's time instructing new operators, all of which increases overhead expenses. Do not place the workman in the same category as a machine, for the labourer is inseparable from his labour. In reconstructing your firm. Put human effectiveness first and machine efficiency next. Give an eight hour working day, because a man is more physically fit, and therefore can produce more efficiently, healthy shop conditions, a fixed minimum wage, that prevents exploitation of the worker and therefore creates confidence, make the employee feel that he is part partner of the firm, by giving a certain dividend, an equitable share in proportion to the contribution he makes to the net result of the business. You will have happy, prosperous workers and therefore you would get results.

T. Teems,
Peterborough.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Brig. Gen. Williams in speaking to the members of the G. W. V. A. on Friday evening, criticized my letter of the 10th inst., very warmly. I should like to know what foundation there was for his so doing. My letter was based on facts. In it I asked a direct question of Mr. Whatley in regard to that surplus one hundred Veterans? who are enrolled as members of the G.W.V.A.

The number of real Veterans who are not members of this association is becoming greater every day. Why is this? Surely there is a reason. Can Mr. Whatley or Gen. Williams explain it?

I also mentioned the lack of any kind of welcome to returning men, perhaps it is this lack which the General refers to when he says, "You men do not want to be pampered, all you want is a square deal." That is quite right and I think every member of the Canadian Corps will agree with him. They are looking for a square deal and no more.

This I think should wake the G.W.V.A. up to the fact that there must be something wrong somewhere.

Thanking you again Mr. Editor for your valuable space.

Respectfully yours.

ALIENS ARE LEAVING AMERICA IN SHOALS

33,000 Have Sailed From New York Since Armistice Was Signed

NEW YORK, April 14.—Enriched by war work, aliens are leaving this country at the rate of more than 1,000 a day, it was learned here from custom officials, who expressed fear that, with the possibility that Congress may limit immigration for the next four years, the United States will face a serious labor shortage, instead of a condition of unemployment.

Since the signing of the armistice, it was said, Italians, Greeks, Spaniards and Portugese have been pouring out of the United States through this port. Since November, 76,221 passports have been vised at the Custom House and since December, 33,000 aliens have sailed.

Discards Its Government

WEIMAR, April 14. — The Bavarian Government has sent Deputy Vogel, of Furth, to Munich, as its representative. He is charged with the entire civil and military authority in Munich. All the Soviet decrees have been annulled.

The government at Munich was overthrown by the garrison, after two hours' fighting.

Civil war in Munich is regarded as imminent following the action of the Communists in deposing the revolutionary council republic. Three would-be governments are now in existence in Bavaria. The first act of the Communists was the creation of a Council of ten, which was proclaimed in power. Armed bands then stormed the police and arrested several officials as hostages. The Communists were aided by the Russian Bolsheviki leader, Dr. Levien, who recently returned from Russia.

LABRADOR NATIVES DYING LIKE BEASTS

Influenza Epidemic Cutting a Great Swath in Coast Population

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., April 14.—Mr. John McRae, of Messrs. R. D. McRae & Sons, received a telegram showing the terrible ravages influenza has made on the Labrador coast amongst the Esquimaux population. If at all possible (and is it not possible, by way of Quebec?) aid should be sent in the shape of doctors and medicine to save the remnant of these poor natives. The Government should also take measures to prevent our own people going down there in thousands next summer from meeting a like fate. Influenza is expected to revisit Europe and America next year in a more deadly form. Amongst things found to be safeguards to some extent elsewhere is inoculation with serum. If our Medical Society approve, the Government should procur a supply for our Newfoundland and Labrador population, and have enough doctors, nurses and other means of relief in readiness. No time is to be lost.

"I Shall Have to Quit, Principal, I Cannot Manage This Class"

"HOW is that?"

"Well, I have tried hard enough, but the worry is too much for me and has got on my nerves."

"You should not worry!"

"That is just what everybody tells me, but I cannot sleep nights, and can only think of the troubles I will have with the class next day. I have stood it as long as ever I can. The doctor says I must quit before it is too late."

"Did you ever try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"No, I never have."

"I have never used it myself, but I have heard so many of the teachers telling about how it helped them when they were on the verge of a nervous breakdown that I have come to think there must be something in it."

"Yes, I have often heard about it, too, but did not just think that it would help me. Perhaps I had better try it."

"I would if I were you. We do not want to lose you, for you are just getting this class into good shape. Three teachers failed in this room, and the boys got rather unruly. That is why it has been so difficult for you, but if you can get your nerves built up you will get along all right."

"Well, I will make another try, and in the meantime I shall begin using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

In your nerves lie your greatest strength and greatest weakness. When the nerves are weakened and exhausted by worry, disease or overwork every muscle loses its strength and endurance. Every organ is partially paralyzed and the mind befogged.

By strengthening and building up the nervous system Dr. Chase's Nerve Food brings new energy and strength to mind and body. With new nerve force comes the power to achieve and the joy of health and vigor. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

Only 125 Blinded, 4,000 Amputations In American Army

More than 500 Artificial Limbs Furnished Disabled Men by War Risk Bureau.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — There were only 125 cases of total blindness and less than four thousand amputations in the American forces engaged in the war, it is stated to-day by the bureau of war risk insurance in an announcement concerning the bureau's activity in supplying crippled soldiers and sailors with artificial limbs and in otherwise caring for the wounded and the disabled.

Kept From One British Ship, They Scorned Another and Took Dutch Vessel

NEW YORK, April 15—The irreconcilable Boers who had arranged to go to the peace conference at Paris aboard the steamship Durham Castle, from Cape Town, South Africa, and were unable to leave on board that steamship because of the refusal of the British crew of the Castle Line vessel to go aboard ship with them, arrived in New York on board the Dutch steamship Bawean from Cape Town.

When the Boers abandoned the Durham Castle, the British naval authorities in South Africa offered passage on board the British cruiser Minerva, thus anticipating any complaint by the irreconciliables that they were forcibly prevented from attending the Peace Conference to plead the cause of a Transvaal republic. They refused this offer, however, and waited for the Dutch vessel, the crew of which made no objections to carrying the disgruntled Transvaalers.

The party arriving in New York was headed by General J.B.M. Hertzog and included A. D. W. Wolmarans, who is a senator in the South African Union; Dr. D. F. Malan, N. C. Navenga, Dr. Hyalmar Rentz, U. H. Gey Van Pittius, Frederik Wilhelm Beyers, Andreas Theodorus Spies, Bernadus Zibee Stegnan and Ernest Jansen.

General Hertzog said that he and his companions expect to go to London from New York and thence to Paris, where they will plead for an independent government for the Transvaal. Hertzog has been leader of the nationalist party in South Africa since 1910, is an advocate of secession and is the political opponent of Premier Louis Botha, one of the famous Boers of the old regime, who is now thoroughly in accord with the new order of things in South Africa. The Hertzog element forms but a small portion of the present Boer aspirations.

The attitude of the nationalist party during the war has often been declared to have been pro-German. Premier Botha issued a warning after the nationalist success at the polls in 1917, to the effect that the activities of Hertzog and his followers was leading "straight to civil war, with disaster, bloodshed and tears."

Propaganda of the nationalist included, it has been charge, a distortion of President Wilson's message to Russia, to further the ends of the irreconciliable element of South Africa.

DAD LICKED SON, JUDGE HELD WATCH

Novel but Effective Method of Punishing Young Auto Thief.

CHICAGO, April 14. — A two round bout with a Juvenile Court Judge holding the watch, resulted in a bad mauling for James Froeme—but it saved him from the reform school. The boy's father did the battering.

"What you need is a goo dbeating," Judge Victor Arnold told him. "Your father is the man to do it."

Father and son followed Arnold to his chamber, slipping out of their coats.

"Time," called the Judge, and the two flew at it, James striking as many blows as possible but refusing to strike back. "You've have had as fine a thrashing as I ver saw a young husky take," pronounced the judge, at the end of the second round.

"Shake honds now. The average bay criminal is a coward. If physical suffering is in store for him he will quit his crooked ways."

Young Froeme will go to an Illinois farm.

KILLED ZAPATA BY TRICK

Mexican Rebel Chief's Death is Being Advertised by Government Now

MEXICO CITY, April 14—Gen. Emiliano Zapata, the rebel leader of Southern Mexico, news of whose death reached this city, was killed on Thursday morning last during an engagement between his troops and Government soldiers who had by a ruse entered his camp at Hacienda Chinemeca, near the village of Petlalicingo, Morlos.

The Government soldiers, under the command of General Pablo Gonzales, planned to capture the rebel chief, and pretended they were a part of the 40th Regiment, which had come to join Zapata's forces. When Zapata was asked to review the men he became suspicious and took with him a large number of rebel troops. This prevented the carrying out of the plan and resulted in a general fight. Zapata fell with many of his followers. A number of Government soldiers also lost their lives.

The Government is taking unusual precautions to establish the fact of the rebel leader's death. Official photographs have been taken of the body, which has been viewed by many who knew Zapata, and depositions have been required from those taking part in the battle.

44 CHINESE ARE REFUSED ENTRY

VICTORIA, B.C., April 14.—The largest number of Chinese ever deported in a batch from here sailed on the outgoing Empress of Russia, when 44, who arrived here on the same vessel, were refused landing privileges. Twenty-seven of these had been destined for Victoria, but of these 24 were allowed to be bogus students and 3 bona fide farmers. Of 17 destined to Vancouver, all were bogus students.

GRAND TRUNK IS HUSTLING GRAIN

Midland Free Press.— The Grand Trunk Railway has been hustling the grain from this point during the past few weeks at a terrific rate. When the embargo was put on export grain a couple of months ago there was considerable speculation as to what would happen in the spring when vessels were anxious to move. A month ago the embargo was removed, however, and unloading commenced. The railway rushed their cars forward to this point with the result that to-day nearly all the grain has been released and this week will see all the vessels empty.

Girls! Use Lemons! Make a Bleaching, Beautifying Cream

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quarter pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is truly marvelous to smoothen rough red hands.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Very Naughty Girl

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

Mrs. Ferguson was John Ferguson's second wife. Lucy Ferguson was her stepdaughter. The former was also stepmother to a son of John Ferguson, who had been wild, had quarrelled with his father and left home. Since his departure he had never been heard from.

John Ferguson had brought his daughter Lucy up with the understanding that she should marry a wealthy man. Lucy had her own notions about that, but said nothing. Her father communicated his idea on this subject to his wife and charged her to keep an eye on his daughter's associates, seeing that she did not become involved with some poverty stricken young fellow who would give her a life of hardship.

Mr. Ferguson was a very busy man and was much away from home. This made it especially essential that his wife should look after Lucy. One day before starting on a long trip he charged Mrs. Ferguson not to permit Lucy to receive any one young man at the house oftener than once a month during his absence and not to allow her to go out with any young man at all. Lucy was in an adjoining room during the giving of these instructions with her ear to the keyhole in a connecting door.

For a couple of weeks after her father's departure Lucy appeared to be perfectly contented at home. No men called on her, and she never went out in the evening. There had been no more sympathy between her and Mrs. Ferguson than there usually is between stepmother and daughter, but during this period of her father's absence Lucy evinced so much feeling for her father's wife as to quite win her heart. "Lucy," she wrote her husband, "is much changed. She seems content with me only for a companion and has taken to calling me 'mamma.' You have no need to worry about her. There is no one at all attentive to her."

One afternoon when Mrs. Ferguson and Lucy were in the sewing room the doorbell rang. Lucy went downstairs and opened the door. Then Mrs. Ferguson heard the following dialogue:

Lucy—Oh, my goodness gracious!

Man's Voice—Do you know me, Lucy?

Lucy—Know you? Indeed I do.

The Voice—Who am I?

Lucy—Why, Tom, of course. Oh, Tom, how could you be so cruel as to go away as you did?

The Voice—I deserved to be shot. But I've changed. I've come home repentant and will try to make up for my misdeeds. Do you think father will forgive me?

Lucy seemed hopeful as to this, but said that much would depend upon how the matter would be broken to their father. He was away at the time, and if he knew that his son had returned she believed he would write to have him sent away. But if they waited till he had returned and Lucy should announce the arrival of the prodigal, at the same time imploring for him her father's forgiveness, she believed she could obtain it.

"But you must meet our new mamma," she added. "She's perfectly lovely, and I'm sure she will help us."

So Lucy took Tom up into the sewing room and introduced him to the stepmother. He was dressed very shabbily and seemed to have had a hard time of it. Mrs. Ferguson, who was a kind hearted woman, pitied him. Besides, she knew that her husband had grieved over the conduct of his only son, and if a reconciliation could be effected it would be pleasant for all concerned. She invited her stepson to take up his quarters in his former home, but Tom declared that he would on no account do that till after he had received his father's forgiveness.

So it was agreed among the three that Tom should make himself at home in the house during the day, but should occupy a room elsewhere. Mrs. Ferguson acceded to Lucy's plan that the husband and father should not be notified of his son's return till Lucy broke the news to him after his arrival.

Never were there a more affectionate brother and sister. Mrs. Ferguson several times surprised them sitting in close proximity, and every time Tom came in or went out they kissed. This continued till the evening of Mr. Ferguson's arrival. He came unexpectedly and was received by his wife, Lucy and Tom. Lucy and Tom knelt before him, and Lucy said pleadingly

"Papa, forgive me. This is my husband. We were married a week ago."

What Mr. Ferguson said in reply is not necessary to this story. What Mrs. Ferguson said was:

"Oh, heavens, what have I done?"

Mr. Ferguson regarded his wife sternly. He had relied upon her to keep his daughter from an alliance of her own choosing. He asked some questions as to how the young man had effected an entrance to the family circle, whereupon Lucy confessed the trap she had laid for her stepmother in introducing her lover as her brother, and took all the responsibility upon herself.

The couple were finally forgiven—indeed, there is nothing else to do in such cases—and all ended happily. The real Tom came back later on, but it took a good deal of time to convince his stepmother that he was not an impostor. It must be acknowledged that Lucy was a very naughty girl, but how can a girl choose a husband for herself in opposition to her parents without being naughty?

ONE thousand times around the equator is about the mileage of all Maxwell trucks now in use.

What this tremendous mileage has taught may be found in the Maxwell truck you buy today.

For the keen engineering done in this remarkable carrier of freight has not been laboratory engineering but road engineering.

That is why the Maxwell is so practical, why it is so hardy, why it seldom needs mechanical attention, why it is always a delight for engineers to look over.

It is every man's truck. It is not a road rolling monster. Neither is it light and flimsy. It will carry 80% of the different kinds of loads conveyed by horse or motor.

Surprising, of course, is the chassis price—$1550 f.o.b. Windsor; several hundred dollars less than any other truck of similar capacity. Quantity production is the reason for this.

First War Balloon.

At the battle of Fleurus, June 26, 1794, in the French revolutionary period, the balloon was for the first time used in the service of the army. The Austrians, stupefied, saw the captive airship Entreprenant above their heads at a height of 300 meters. This apparition greatly angered the Austrian General Cobourg, who cried out, "Is there anything these scoundrels will not invent?"

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel clean, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowel pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A splendid health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs but very little at the drug store but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on inside-bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull, aching head or have furred tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, sallow complexion, others who have bilious attacks, and stomach or constipation are assured of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN---IT'S YOU

If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.
You'll only find what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town—
It isn't your town—it's You!

Real towns aren't made by men afraid
Lest somebody else get ahead.
When everyone works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.
And if while you make your personal stake
Your neighbour can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see;
It isn't your town—it's You! —G. D. Ellyson.

ST. THOMAS CASHIER OF EXPRESS CO. HAS STRIKE ALL HIS OWN

Was Only Union Man There, But He Went Out When Called.

The Canadian Express employees' strike has its amusing sides.

At St. Thomas one man, Chester Cushing, the cashier, has a little strike all his own. He is the only union man there, having joined in London. He went out when called. The local union heads say they are organizing the other workers at St. Thomas and will have all out by Sunday.

At Chatham there is a similar situation.

Stratford has a funny one. There are two employees, J. W. Brown, agent, and his son Joe messenger. Joe is a union man. He is on strike, and so is now sitting around and "letting dad do it."

Guelph strikers did not get an order to strike and went to work.

Rev. J. N. Clarry Is Called to Church In Kincardine, Ont.

BELLEVILLE. — The Transfer Committee of the Methodist General Conference, in its meeting at Toronto, sanctioned the call of Rev. J. N. Clarry, B.A., to fill the pulpit for the coming four-year term in the Methodist Church at Kincardine, by endorsing the application for a transfer from the Bay of Quinte Conference to the London conference.

Mr. Clarry's removal to the western town will not take place, of course, until the end of the present conference year in June.

The Board of West Belleville Methodist Church has extended a call to Rev. A. H. Foster, a popular member of the Methodist conference now stationed at Whitby. Mr. Foster, we understand, has accepted the call.

Mr. Clarry will leave his present charge with only the best wishes of his entire congregation. He has proved himself to be a strong sermoniser, a faithful pastor and a wise administrator. Holloway Street has never been in such a strong position, financially, numerically and spiritually as at the present time. The church at Kincardine is to be congratulated upon securing so capable and worthy a pastor to take charge of their work the coming term.

Trans-Atlantic Flight Delayed

Capt. Hawker and Major Morgan Are Held Up by Fog.

(Special to The Examiner.)

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 14.— Unfavourable weather conditions continuing to-day, in all likelihood will cause the further postponement of Harry Hawker's start across the Atlantic in a Sopwith machine. A heavy rain fell throughout the night and this morning the hangars are enveloped in a dense fog.

With adverse weather conditions delaying Hawker, and with Major Morgan's Martinsid, plan being rapidly assembled to-day, indications pointed to an almost simultaneous getaway of the rival airmen in their race across the Atlantic.

Hawker will carry the following mail:

Three letters from Governor Harris to the Colonial Office in London; two from Premier Lloyd and one from Chief Justice Horwood; three from Colonial Secretary Halfyard, one from D. Robinson, the Postmaster-General; seventy-eight ordinary letters; a package of photographs for the "Daily Mail," and a package of parcel post. It was reported that individuals paid as high as $500 an ounce to send their mail with Hawker.

NO CONSTIPATION NO PILES

We think, without a doubt, that constipation is the most prevalent and at the same time, one of the greatest troubles human nature is afflicted with, and causes more sickness than anything else.

Unless a free action of the bowels occurs at least once a day, constipation is sure to ensue, then comes the sore and uncomfortable piles, sick and bilious headaches, coated tongue, obnoxious breath, sour stomach, heartburn, water brash, and many other ailments.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus removing the constipation and its allied troubles.

Mr. Dan Doucette, Eel River Crossing, N.B., writes: — "Having been troubled for years with constipation and trying everything I know of, a friend advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I used four vials and am completely cured. I can gladly recommend them to anyone who suffers from constipation."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills have been on the market for the past 25 years, and have been used with the best results by thousands of people in that time, and we have yet to hear of a complaint as to their curative powers.

Meeting Held in Hamilton on Saturday—Asks That Players From Local League be Allowed in Midland League.

HAMILTON, April 14.—The Ontario Amateur Baseball Association held an executive meeting here Saturday afternoon and the consideration of applications for reinstatement by players was one of the chief items.

Mr. Dan McCabe of the Peterboro City League appeared before the committee and asked that players from his league be permitted to also compete in the Midland League. He wanted to choose an All-Star team to qualify for the O.B.A.A. playoff, but it was pointed out that this was impractical unless the Midland League allowed them to enter such a team and qualify through them. The constitution of the association was gone over and the amendments which have been prepared for the annual meeting to be held in Toronto on Saturday, April 26, were all passed upon.

No Definite Charge.

The complaint from the Brantford City League, sent by Secretary Harry Fleming, that certain Brantford players had been approached and offered attractive propositions to go and play in Hamilton, failed to provide an concrete evidence or to lay a definite charge. The committee felt that they could not investigate he matter unless his information was forthcoming and referred the complaint back to Secretary Fleming, stating that if his league wished the association to take the matter up they must provide a definite and concrete charge.

Summary of the Grocery Market

A More Satisfactory Outlook—Conditions Improving.

The Canadian Grocer says: The Government has again come into the market for flour on the eve of a meeting between the millers and Cabinet Ministers with reference to the milling situation. The orders to be placed, however, are comparatively small, and millers want something definite from the Government as to what they can expect in the way of future business.

To say the least, the present situation is decidedly unsatisfactory. There seems some hope of an improvement in the general outlook, as word comes through the United States exportable surplus of wheat has narrowed to a very small compass. However, it would seem that Dominion Government officials have not been keen sellers of the Canadian product when the Canadian mills must sit back and wait until another country has absorbed all the business it can handle.

Mill feeds are very scarce, and mills are oversold, the lack of business for flour limiting the operations of the millers, with a consequent effect on the feeds.

Toronto.—A better feeling is noticeable in respect to canned vegetables, after a period during which price cutting has been general. There are still some fairly low prices going in a few quarters, but the position of the market is much improved, due in a measure to the substantial export business which has been done and present indications that surplus stocks are becoming considerably reduced.

Opening prices have been named on asparagus tips, and these show an advance over those of last year, with reports stating that pack will be considerably smaller than output of 1918. Canned lobsters are scarce and high in price, and canned peaches are said to be hard to secure.

ONTARIO MORATORIUM

Will Continue for Another Year at Least.

The Ontario Government's moratorium will continue in force for another year at least. In the Legislature Mr. Mageau, Liberal member for Sturgeon Falls, agreed to drop his bill for the repeal of the Mortgagors' and Purchasers' Relief Act, which is the official title of the moratorium. Mr. Mageau's bill, which repealed the Act on and after July 1 of this year, was presented for second reading. After unfavorable expressions of opinion had been delivered from both sides of the House, the member for Sturgeon Falls withdrew his bill.

Sound and Progressive Liberalism Canada's Need

Mr. Fred Pardee Virtually Declared That He is Going Back to the Liberal Party, in His Address on Titles Question in the House Yesterday.

A SENSATIONAL UTTERANCE

OTTAWA, April 14.— Mr. Fred F. Pardee, Chief Liberal Whip until he broke with the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the conscription issue, who, it is generally known, has been repeatedly invited to enter the Union Cabinet, caused a tremendous sensation in Parliament this afternoon when he practically declared, though not in so many words, that he was going back to the Liberal party.

Nation Needs Liberalism.

Mr. Pardee said that he "differed from his Chief and from others of his party on one question only. That question was conscription. I consider it to-day to have been good Liberalism on my part to support that policy, however much other may differ from me. But my political faith and tenets are not changed. They are those I have always held. In these great and eventful days of reconstruction my Liberalism is perhaps stronger than it ever was, because I believe the country needs sound and progressive Liberalism. When this question of abolishing titles was up last session I sank my convictions and voted as I did to support what I believed to be the vital war issue before the Government in war time. Such action is not necessary to-day. I consider that, so far as this country is concerned, we must come to one form of government and one only, and that is the party system."

Mr. Pardee's startling statement was warmly applauded by the Opposition, while the occupants of the Government benches maintained absolute silence. It was made during the discussion of a resolution intro-

[illegible] K. L. Hinderson of Bruce, to abolish hereditary titles. The speeches of Messrs. Nickle and Richardson were somewhat like a warmed over dinner, being practically a repetition of their declaration of last year. The sensational utterances of Mr. Pardee, occupying but a few minutes, crowded the rest off the stage and held the spotlight for the remainder of the day.

Speculation in Corridors.

Parliamentary corridors and galleries seethed with speculation and excitement. "Would Mr. Pardee cross the floor of the House immediately?" was the question on every lip. "Certainly he will now attend the Liberal convention in August," one was assured. It was the opinion of his friends that he would not in future attend the caucuses of the Union Government supporters. Many wondered what effect his action would have on other Liberal Unionists? How many would follow him? The answer of one was that "the notice calling the Liberal convention for August next was the death-knell of Union Government."

It is a well-known fact that many times Mr. Pardee has been approached to enter the Cabinet. When he declined to accept a portfolio he was given one of the arm chairs immediately behind the seats of the Cabinet Ministers, but this session he has been sitting in the centre aisle on the cross-benches facing the Speaker, between the Government and Opposition benches, and it is quite probable that he will remain there for the time being. Hon. W. S. Fielding also occupies one of these seats.

Pardee's Stirring Statement.

Mr. Pardee's exact words this afternoon were as follows:

"My own opinion is that titles are not good for the country, and I have very grave doubts whether they are very good for the persons upon whom they are bestowed. I think we would be far better without them. Our country would be better; the people would be better. It is indisputable that the vast majority of the people are bitterly opposed to titles being handed out.

"But I did not rise so much to discuss that question as to say a word with regard to the position I took last year when this matter came before the House. Much fault was found with me, and, as I had been the first to introduce this matter in the early part of a session a good number of years ago, my position was regarded by my friends as very extraordinary. In May last—those days in May were dark and dreary days; it was either Calais or Paris—the question of titles came up in this House, and we had the very extraordinary spectacle of the Prime Minister (Sir Robert Borden), upon a private member's resolution, suddenly taking to himself the right to say that that resolution should be treated as a Government resolution or not as a Government resolution, but that by his amendment it should be made so, and that, should the resolution carry, he would feel

ENGINEER OF RAILWAY BOARD EXAMINES THE LOCALITY OF BRIDGE

Mr. T. L. Simmons and staff of the Engineering Department of the Railway Board are in the city to-day in connection with certain details of the Hunter Street Bridge plans, upon which the Board must pass its approval. Mr. Simmons met Mr. Frank Barber, the city's consulting engineer, and Mr. G. P. Edwards, of the Quaker Oats Company, this afternoon at which the detail of railway crossings on Hunter street were explained. Mr. Simmons was especially interested in the clearances required by the Railway Commission, and which must be provided for in the plans. His visit to Peterboro was to examine the locality at the crossings under the proposed bridge, and other aspects of the situation before formally approving Mr. Barber's plans. The clearances mentioned are particularly under the arches over the tracks, providing safety for railway employees, and also the main span arch.

JUDGMENT REVERSED BY APPEAL COURT

Action was entered by the Fruit Company to recover the balance alleged to be due by Mr. Oke on a car load of bananas shipped to him by the plaintiff. At the trial the action was dismissed with costs.

The appeal is allowed with costs and judgment directed to be entered for the plaintiff for the amount of claim with costs. F. D. Kerr for the Atlantic Fruit Co., and G. N. Gordon for the defendant.

Anybody who knows anything about the whereabouts of the youngster is asked to communicate with the Police Station.

REPARATION A PROBLEM

Belgium Has First Claim—Secondary Powers Likely to be Dissatisfied.

A COMMISSION

Canadian Press:

PARIS, April 15.—The problem of reparations settlements still has troublesome times before it in connection with the question of the distribution of indemnities to be paid by Germany. Smaller powers which suffered under German invasion and devastation are still to be heard relative to their shares of the reparation fund, particularly Belgium, the claims of which are entitled to first consideration under various pre-conference pledges. The tentative scheme of distribution which Great Britain and France have advanced apportions between 80 and 90 per cent., probably 85 of the total sum realized to three big powers, leaving perhaps 15 per cent. to satisfy the demands of Belgium, Italy, Serbia, Roumania, Russia and others. This is a smaller proportion than secondary powers expected, and they are almost sure to be dissatisfied with it. It has been suggested among experts of the Reparations Commission that Roumania, Serbia and other nations have received reparations through the acquisition of territory, but this reasoning will scarcely appeal to Belgium.

Hill, who is an indoor painter by trade, has been busy for the last half year brightening the cells and vestibules at the jail by means of a new coat of paint.

Canadians On Siberian Front

Canadian Gunners Have Done Good Work in Russia.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, April 15.—(Reuter's.)—Six hundred Canadian troops, mostly artillery, are serving with the Allied forces in Northern Russia, on the Archangel and Murmansk fronts, it has been learned here. The Sixteenth Brigade, Canadian Field Artillery, is the principal unit, but there are drafts from infantry and various services, including many men from the Klondike, accustomed to Arctic conditions. The Canadians have at all times born the full share of the fighting, and General Ironside has frequently emphasized their efficiency.

The first engagement of Canadian artillery was at Seletskauna, on Oct. 6, 1918, when the enemy attacked in force, but were driven back. Later the Canadian artillery was outranged and compelled to withdraw. On October 11th, however, when the Bolsheviki were advancing on the front and flanks, the Canadian artillery stood their ground and did great execution at point blank range.

A COMMITTEE ON TITLES

Amendment to W. F. Nickle's Resolution Was Carried by Only Seven of a Majority in the House.

VOTE WAS 71 TO 64

OTTAWA, April 14. — Sir Thomas White's proposal that a special committee of the Commons be appointed to consider what attitude should be taken toward the "conferring of titular distinctions and decorations upon subjects of his Majesty ordinarily resident in Canada, including those who has performed overseas, in Canada or elsewhere, naval, military and civilian service in connection with the war," was carried in the House to-night by the narrow majority of seven votes. The proposition was submitted by way of sub-amendment to the resolution of W. F. Nickle, of Kingston, calling for a pronouncement against the granting of any titles to Canadians except those denoting naval or military rank or judicial position, and an amendment by R. L. Richardson, of Springfield, Manitoba, calling for the extinction of hereditary titles held by Canadians upon the death of the present holders. It was carried upon a division by 1 votes to 64. Nine Unionist members voted against the Acting Prime Minister's motion, namely: J. A. Campbell, of Nelson, Man.; S. J. Crowe, of Burrard, B.C.; Robert Cruise, of Dauphin, Man.; Thomas Foster, of East York; A. E. Fripp, of Ottawa; John Harold, of Brant; Dr. R. J. Manion, of Fort William; F. F. Pardee, of West Lambton, and John F. Reid, of Mackenzie, Sask.

The Vaudeville At the Grand

"Four Jacks and a Queen" Head the Bill

The feature picture at the Grand last evening was Norma Talmadge in the "Safety Curtain." It was easily worth the price of admission and fully sustained the reputation gained by this well known artist in filmdom. Charlie Chaplin in "His Million Dollar Job," and a special news feature completed a well selected picture programme. The remainder of the programme was taken care of by Pepple and Harris' offering of "Four Jacks and a Queen," consisting of a male quartette that sang very acceptably and a pretty dancer whose first offering was given on a table in a cabaret scene. "Johnny" Mangles" completed the programme with an exhibition of skilful juggling interspersed with a good repertory of jokes. This programme will be repeated tonight and tomorrow and will be followed on Friday and Saturday by "Berzac's" mammoth indoor circus.

Outline of the Peace Treaty Which is Nearly Ready for Hun Signature

Treaty Will Be Handed to the Germans in About Ten Days—Separate Treaties for Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria.

(By Fred. S. Ferguson—United Press Staff Correspondent).

PARIS, April 15.—The peace programme was authoritatively outlined to the United Press to-day as follows:

The treaty will be handed to the Germans on April 25.

If the Germans have plenary powers, it will be signed almost immediately; otherwise it will first be submitted to the German Government at Weimar.

Separate treaties will be presented to Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria within a few days after the Germans arrive at Versailles.

As soon as all treaties are signed, a period of twenty to thirty days will be permitted for the ratification by the Allied Governments.

When two-thirds of the Governments have ratified the treaties they become effective.

President Wilson is expected to call a special session of Congress for this purpose not later than June 1.

Mechanical Detail.

The Little Five (Foreign Ministers' Council) met to-day to discuss the mechanical details of the final peace sessions. Under present plans a plenary session probably will be held next week, in which the new covenant of the League of Nations will be presented, as well as the final reports of other commissions.

No definite conclusion has been reached regarding the work after the German delegates arrive, but it is understood a special committee, composed of the "Big Four," will deal with them. The treaty will be gone over and the various points explained. The Germans are then expected to return to Weimar and submit the treaty to their Government. This plan naturally will be altered if the German delegates have plenary powers, as they will then be able to sign the treaty without leaving Versailles.

Good Roads Formed the Subject of Interesting Address at Meeting of Farmers

Deputy Minister of Public Highways Addressed the Meeting—What Good Roads System Would Mean to Peterboro County.

Last evening, in the interests of good roads for Peterborough County, Mr. W. A. MacLean, Deputy Minister of Public Highways, addressed a large representation of farmers in the Sons of England Hall. A good percentage of the Reeves from the townships were present and spoke, following Mr. MacLean's address.

Mr. MacLean said that he had been watching the counties coming into the fold of good roads, and though he strongly suspected one county would be last, he hardly expected so important a one as Peterborough to be the one. Peterborough, he said, is like the Scotch girl, who, seeing her brother's regiment passing, called her mother's attention to the fact that all the men were out of step but Jock.

When he was invited to the city to address the Farmers' Club, he was asked to adhere strictly to facts, and he inferred from this that something which were not facts had been stated. He thought the real issue was clouded by discussion, so he would endeavour to state the bare details of the County Roads System.

Improvement Act.

Under the County Road System the Province, since 1901, has been seeking to aid the construction of good roads under an Act called the Highway Improvement Act, not the Highway Construction Act.

Under the system of county roads the roads are classed according to the amount of traffic, and the amount of money spent on them is spent in proportion to the amount of traffic over them. The roads must be maintained and constructed according to the amount of travel over them. The important roads are meant roads leading to the markets and other objective points.

The Superintendent.

The county is authorized to appoint a superintendent to act as their manager for the proper maintenance of the roads, and he is their adviser and manager between the sessions to carry out the Council's instructions. He is appointed by the Council, with no instructions from the Department, which has at times been asked and refused to appoint the superintendent and the County Council instructed to select a man. Every superintendent has been appointed without interference from the Department.

In the construction of roads under the proposed system the county gets the service of a consulting engineer without cost.

The class of roads expected by the Department to be constructed under the system are constructed according to the traffic over them and financial conditions. Gravel stone, macadam, and in some cases concrete, has been used, but the greater mass of county roads have been constructed of gravel or stone, with a few of earth. If the county has the means, and earth roads will do, the Department is willing to stand by the decision of the County Council, but whatever is done, the Department wants done well. The first step to be taken must be the Reason For High Prices

Stocks of Butter Show a Falling Off.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, April 15.—Reduced stocks of butter in storage April 1, are shown in the report of the Cost of Living Branch to the Minister of Labour. The total amount of creamery butter in storage was 1,771,260 pounds, 69 per cent. less than last month and 17 1-3 per cent. less than last year. Dairy butter also shows a shortage of approximately 75 p.c. Increase in prices partially due to an increased international price rising to higher levels than present Canadian price, and to shortage of supply in Canada.

Major Wallis Is Promoted

The many friends of Major Hugh Wallis, M.C., will be delighted to learn that he has been appointed General Staff officer with the 2nd Canadian Division. Major Wallis for the past year has been acting as brigade major with one of the 2nd Division bridages and his promotion is a recognition of the splendid work he has done in that capacity. This former Peterboro boy went overseas with the 1st Canadian contingent as private and won his commission in France. His career at the front has been a brilliant one and he has won promotion after promotion by his fine service. Major Wallis is a graduate of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute He is a nephew of Mrs. Walter Roger, Park street.

"THE ROSARY"

That there is a growing unrest in modern times, and that irreligion is prevalent is conceded on all sides. That there is marital unrest and that there is something vitally wrong is also apparent, as our divorce courts will attest. Taking these things in point, Edward E. Rose wrote "The Rosary," a modern play, in which these topics are handled graphically and forcefully. Realising the demand for plays of this sort, Messrs. Rowland & Clifford have made a splendid revival of this play, and it will be seen at The Grand Opera House on Thursday, April 24th, with a notable company, headed by Oscar O'Shea, a former well known Peterborough old boy, as "Father Kelly," and a costly production. The story deals with a home that is wrecked by unfaith, but restored by the effort of a kindly priest, Father Kelly, whose insight into human nature, whose great love for humanity and whose saving grace of humour rectifies the grievous mistakes of the chief characters.

10 O'clock Despatch:

(Special to The Examiner.)

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 15. —Auspicious weather conditions are still being awaited by the British aviators, who are here ready to start their flights across the Atlantic.

The Martinsyde plane is practically ready for the jump, while the defect in the wireless equipment of the Sopwith has been remedied.

Pilot Harry Hawker of the Sopwith, it is understood, may depart from his original plan for an afternoon start and make his getaway in the forenoon. This would necessitate making the last stage of the journey at night. All plans heretofore have been for an afternoon start.

Capt. Senn, manager of the Sopwith team, announced last night that the machine was in perfect condition and ready to go at a moment's notice.

The rival camps are keeping a wary eye on each other, Hawker being especially alert to prevent the Martinsyde people stealing a march on him by making an unexpectedly quick start.

Major Morgan of the Martinsyde, is not making any very accurate forecasts of the time he will begin his flight. He said he was not sure that he would attempt even a trial before Wednesday. If the trial is satisfactory he said, the plane might start for the other side a few hours afterwards. He expressed confidence in getting across. A rumour that two small packages of parts, essenial to the Martinsyde machine, had disappeared, was denied by Morgan.

Will Continue Lux Demonstration

During the past week the keenest interest has been taken in the Lux demonstration which is being held in the main floor of Turnbulls and yielding to the insistent demands of the ladies who were through some difficulty to attend the demonstration last week, the management of the store has been fortunate in inducing the demonstrator to remain here until Thursday to continue to show the Peterboro ladies the proper way to wash their fine blouses etc. The demonstrator is pleased at all times to give practicall advice to any one who wishes to know how properly to handle washing mixture for any purpose.

TUESDAY, APRIL 15TH, 1919.

THE MEN YOU HELP.

The very fact that the Veterans' Tag Day is in commemoration of the second battle of Ypres should be sufficient to ensure the success of Saturday's campaign on behalf of the G.W.V.A. Relief Fund. If the Canadian troops had not fought any other action in the war than during those terrible days commencing with the 22nd of April, 1915, their matchless heroism in the face of overwhelming odds on that occasion should have earned them the undying gratitude of the people at home. "Their gallantry and determination undoubtedly saved the situation"—so reads the official report of Sir John French. The few words of the War Office communique furnish a reason why the people of Peterborough should open their purses freely on Saturday and replenish the Veterans' Relief Fund, so that the Association will be able to take care of the case of distress and suffering among the families of the city's soldiers during the coming months.

Some of the men who made that gallant stand at Ypres will be among the collectors on Saturday. So will their comrades who fought in many a bitterly contested battle in the subsequent days of the war, men who helped to capture Courcelette, who went over the top at Vimy, who fought hand-to-hand with the Huns in the fierce fighting outside Lens. With them who will be Peterborough boys who struggled through the quagmires of Flanders and wrested Passchendaele Ridge from the grasp of the Prussians, and who had their part in Haig's hammer blows that pave that smashed through the Hindenburg line. The services these men have rendered should earn them a generous response to their appeal on Saturday. The public should remember what the collectors have done for the Empire. If the people of Peterborough do this there is no doubt of the success of Saturday's effort.

THE IRON SECONDS.

The decision of the orginal members of the 2nd Battalion, who are already home, to tender a reception to the Peterborough boys still with the famous unit when the Iron Second return from overseas next week, is to be commended and the civic authorities and the citizens in general will undoubtedly be glad to co-operate. The committee of the 2nd Battalion will meet to-morrow night to make arrangements for the arrival of their comrades, and the programme they decide upon should be assisted in every way possible by the people of Peterborough. The battalion has sailed from England on the Olympic, and is due in Halifax at the end of the week. It is expected that as soon as Kingston is reached — probably on Tuesday of next week—the Peterborough men will be sent home in a body, so that there will be an opportunity to extend them a hearty welcome. Peterborough is peculiarly interested in the 2nd Battalion. The first infantry quota from this city which left Peterborough in August, 1914, was incorporated in that battalion at Valcartier Camp and had their first battle four years ago, when the Iron Seconds helped to hold the line at Ypres. Only a handful of the one hundred and thirty men who marched away from Central Park on that bright August morning nearly five years ago, are left to come home with the battalion. There should be a royal welcome for those gallant spirits who have carried on during the weary months since the Eastern Ontario unit went to France in February of 1915. Since the first month of the war have these boys been away from home, and the warmth of the reception tendered them should be proportionate to the length of their service. Coming home with them will be other Peterborough soldiers, who joined the 2nd Battalion after being drafted from the unit with which they went overseas. Their record at the front has not been quite as long as the originals, but some of them have been on the firing line since early in the war, and theirs in the story of many a terrible battle. Peterborough is not to be given a chance to welcome the whole battalion, but full advantage should be taken of the opportunity to tender a proper reception to the boys from this city who wear the numerals of the 2nd on their caps and collars.

THE PRICE OF MUSIC.

If the City Council is regarded in some quarters as extravagant in its ideas in connection with bridges and the relative values of steel and concrete, the same accusation certainly cannot be brought against the civic rulers in their attitude towards band music. For six hundred dollars, something less than the price of a player piano, the council is asking the three bands of the city to give a total of thirty-nine concerts during the summer. Each of the bands to receive a two hundred dollar grant must play thirteen concerts in the parks so if all the organizations accept the terms the city will have secured band music at the bargain rate of about $15 a concert. In view of the ever-increasing cost of living the members of the council must be congratulating themselves upon the fact that band music is retailing at one-third of its pre-war cost, for it must be remembered that a few years ago the grant that is now to be shared by three bands went to one organization, so that the city secured only thirteen concerts instead of the thirty-nine billed for this summer. How the City Fathers expect the bands to keep supplied with music and carry on their work with the meagre allowance of $200 allotted to them, is not stated. The appropriation for music was none too large when it was given to one band; it is ridiculously inadequate when three musical organizations have to divide the grant.

PETER WRIGHT.

The calibre of the man himself and the impression that he has made on those who have heard his addresses are shown by the reference to Councillor Peter Wright made by the "Mail and Empire" yesterday. "We cannot think of any other man who, coming to this country a complete stranger, made such a host of friends as this stalwart spokesman for the British Seamen's Union," remarks the Toronto journal.

Peterborough is fortunate, thanks to the local branch of the Navy League, in having a chance on Wednesday night, in the Collegiate Assembly Hall, of listening to the message that Peter Wright brings from Great Britain. His addresses are of the type that help to cement the different portions of the Empire, and the hall should be crowded to-morrow evening to hear this remarkable patriot.

The "Mail and Empire" further says of him:

"We are all sorry to see Peter Wright go. The only people who are glad to see the last of him are the open and the sneaking enemies of Britain and the Empire she has brought into the world. The skulking Bolsheviks we have among us, the prowlers of the I. W. W., and others of the enemy connection who keep in ambush here have no reason to love Peter Wright, for he has been fierce in his denunciations of them here and in his operations against their kind in Europe and on the high seas. Both before the most and in centres of enemy activity in Northern Europe he has rendered great service to his country in the midst of great perils. Plans for his assassination were foiled by his own resolution and resourcefulness, and it has been his experience to have the ship on which he was sailing torpedoed by a U-boat. One of his sons was killed in action. The money Peter Wright had accumulated for the declining years of himself and wife he spent in the service of the State in this war-time. When favoured for nomination as a candidate for Peebles, he stood aside in favour of his friend and party chief, Sherlock Wilson, who, we are glad to say, was triumphantly returned for the seat. These and like facts in the record of Peter Wright's activity would ensure him the warmest welcome in this country. But he came without horn-blowing, and the people had to find out the manner of man he was from the message he bore. The men of the British merchant marine could not have a better representative to speak to the people of Canada. About the grandeur of the manhood of Britain's merchant seamen Canadians learn from Peter Wright's speeches."

Voice of the People

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir: We are asked why the prospect of having to pay such a wage as is proposed to establish in this city for laboring men, that of a minimum of 50c per hour, has affected the amounts of the tenders sent in for the construction of the Hunter street bridge.

Leaving to one side the claim that such a wage as indicated is necessary to meet the cost of living, which it may be, some idea of the thought in the mind of the contractor can be realized when he has looked at the prevailing rate of wages paid for laboring work in other places.

From the issue of the Canadian Labor Press, the Labor paper published in Montreal, for April, is given following a compilation of wage amounts current in several cities of about the population of Peterborough.

London has 30c per hour and a nine hour day. St. Catharines, 33c to 40c and nine hours; Guelph, 35c; Stratford, 32c to 37c; Galt, 25c to 26; Hamilton, 35c to 40c; Brantford, 45c an hour for civic day laborers, and an 8 hour day.

Thus it is seen that if the bridge were to be built at Galt, instead of at Peterborough, that the labor cost would be only about one-half of what is to be asked for Peterborough. Is it possible that the cost of living in Galt is one-half the cost in this city, if claims for advances be based on the prices of foods and supplies? Or is it possible that in Peterborough the attempt is to be made to enhance the services to such an extent that all work will be practically at a standstill? For assuredly, whether intended or not, whether realized or not, that is the effect the proposed action is taking. Work is locked up because those who would have it done will not pay the price that is in prospect. And serious unemployment continues, and will continue for months as yet.

How would the wage scale as paid at Galt affect the cost of the bridge? Practically, one-half of the cost at Peterborough. Take Guelph, as an average, and make a trial of the results. Suppose as many as 80 laboring men are employed, and it takes a year and a half to complete the bridge if built of concrete. Allow that there be three months out of the period in which work cannot be carried on, as may be the case, the 80 men would put in 280,800 hours, working a nine hour day, the labor cost would foot up to $56,160.00. If the same time were paid for at 50c per hour, the cost would be $140,000.00. That is a condition that faces the contractor, and it may be reflected in his proposals to build. The above sums represent only one part of the service, and we have to add the large amount of the erection of the supporting false work, the supply of materials, erection of plant, bringing it to the works, the cost of supervision, engineering skill and many other needful and contingent expenses. Can we then be surprised that the proposed bridge should represent up in the neighborhood of a third of a million dollars.

This does not discuss the question of policy, that is the idea of supplying much needed occupation, even at the public expense. That matter is to be settled by those having care of the proposition. No doubt they will decide as wisely as may be, bearing in mind the situation of our working people. There is no doubt, however, in the public mind (and the public will pay for the bridge) that if there were in view a reasonable idea among working men as to finding work and doing so in a spirit of helpfulness, that employment as soon as possible even at wages not the figure as proposed to be set, that citizens would encourage the council to go on and have the work started as soon as possible.

Putting forward any propaganda, that because it is a municipal project, it should pay the very highest wages, even if the cost of living could seem to encourage such a stand, only induces people to remonstrate personally and as individuals to the council, as many have done and are doing, that excessive expense should not be incurred, while there is any way that the aggregate of cost could be lessened. While looking for some way to overcome this, the Council is trying, (and this trying spells delay), and delay means longer unemployment.

Cannot some get-together spirit be shown, despite the facts as we find them and despite the slippery fact that butter soars to the vicinity of 80c per pound.

F. H. Dobbin.

Veterans' Tag Day

FOR RELIEF FUND

Saturday, April 19th

Peterborough citizens are reminded of the Annual Tag Day on Saturday next on behalf of the Relief Fund of the organization.

The money received this way is kept in a separate fund and is used solely to relieve cases of distress among soldiers and in the families of the men who are still serving.

The fund has been well administered in Peterborough and your contributions in the past have helped to spare much of the suffering to Peterboro that has existed in other cities where a similar fund has not been organized.

The thoughtfulness of Peterborough citizens so much appreciated in the past, it is felt, will be again in evidence on Saturday next.

Sir Sam Hughes Was Censured

Grand Army of Canada Move a Vote of Protest.

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, April 15.—Major-General Sir Sam Hughes was severely censured last night at the meeting of the Grand Army of Canada, for his recent utterances regarding the alleged action of the Durham and Yorkshire (Imperial) regiments, during the war, the former Minister having declared on the floor of the House of Commons that both these units had thrown down their rifles and run at the second battle of Ypres. So strong was the feeling against Sir Sam that a resolution was passed that General Hughes be prohibited from resuming his seat in the House until he had publicly retracted his slandering statement.

"It does not come very well from the lips of a man like Sam Hughes, who never saw the trenches," indignantly declared one member of the audience. "He's no man," retorted another with equal heat.

Easter eggs promise to be fairly plentiful on the roadside unless the owners of the fowl keep their biped property within the confines of the coop. Simple Way TO End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and dizziness of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Do You Wear The Right Kind of Corset

It is presumable that you do. But does it fit you perfectly? That is the all important question. Size is not the most important point about a Corset. A half dozen women may wear the same size corset; yet the corset that may be right for one woman may be bad for the other woman.

The secret of our success in satisfying so many women is that we FIT THE CORSET to each individual figure. It may require some alteration, but when we are through fitting, that corset is scientifically correct in every detail. Make an appointment with our Corsetierre for a fitting.

Good Roads Formed Subject

draining of the roads, as roads undrained are broken to pieces in the spring. If the majority of the counties did nothing but drain the roads, the Department would be satisfied, as this is at least a start. What they do object to is putting on gravel or stone without grading or draining. They do not object to grading or draining a year or so before the actual bed is made. Such work would come under the heading of construction, and be paid for as such.

Treated Fairly.

Under the system the Department pays 40 per cent. of the construction and 20 per cent. for the maintenance. Mr. MacLean said that he has yet to see the county that has adopted the system and complained that they have not been treated fairly. Construction consists of the earthwork digging drains, putting in culverts, bridges or anything pertinent to the improvement of the road. The grant for maintenance applies as soon as the county takes over the system in all repair to the roads improved or unimproved. By 40 per cent. the Department means 40 per cent. of the cost of work, not 40 per cent. of what the county pays.

The County Road System is also aided by recent legislature in what is called Provincial County Roads. To these the Department pays 60 per cent. of maintenance and the same to construction.

These roads will require a wider surface and must be made at least 14 feet wide and of stone. In other particulars, they are the same as the county roads. The greater width is stipulated in order to spread the traffic.

Cost of Roads.

Under favourable circumstances roads are built at $1,000 a mile. Ordinarily, counties are not spending more than $3,000 a mile, while the average road is built from $1,500 to $3,000 a mile. In the County of York, where the traffic is heaviest, $3,000 is being spent per mile. The speaker said it was easy to scare oneself as to the cost of the roads by taking the annual expenditude and multiplying it by the years it expended. In the past ten years, with an expenditure of $200,000 in actual cash on roads, the county might just as well have been receiving Government aid and the county might have had quite a few thousand dollars for bridges, etc. It is, Mr. MacLean said, the duty of every British subject to maintain the King's highway in a reasonable condition.

No Dictation.

In making the appropriation, there is no dictation from the Department as to the money to be spent. They give the county a free hand to go as far as they like, but the speaker would not advise the counties to go into special debenture issues. The system has been criticized on account of a clause which stipulates that once undertaken the system must be maintained for at least three years. This is a protective measure against a new council being elected and turning the roads back to the municipality at the end of two years. Such a thing has never been done. The clause which states that the Minister may take out of the system any road not considered of sufficient importance to be a highway is also a public protection to save the public from needless expenditure.

It has been found in recent years that the cities have been using the highways more than before with the advent of the automobile. All farmers use the county roads. To them the improvement of such is an immediate advantage. Other counties have entered into the scheme of getting their share of Department help and have had excellent results. Mr. MacLean concluded by stating that, judging by the interest shown, he is assured the farmers are satisfied as to the best way of road improvement.

Reeves Satisfied

Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee said that he was satisfied that it was a question of whether the people were to put up 40 per cent. of the cost or accept help from outside. "It is a question we must settle at once," he said to which a voice in the rear responded "we're ten years behind as it is." Continuing Reeve Anderson said that he was satisfied to do as the rate-payers want. Warden McIntosh did that he concurred with Reeve Anderson. In interviews with several farmers he had found only one who opposed to the Good Soads System. He thought in the matter an expression of general opinion should be taken and the best system he could advise was a vote. He concluded, by stating that he thought the County should have some of the auto license money, which is devoted to the Good Roads System, returned. Reeve Coughlin of Douro, said that he had obtained all the information he needed and was ready to act accordingly.

Better Term

The County treasurer, Mr. Elliot, who spoke briefly said that he agreed that the County should participate in the Good Roads System but thought better terms should be secured. The talk of good roads emanates from the City he contended. Years ago before the auto traffic grew to any extent there was no talk of good roads and the highways then were good enough to haul the heavy loaded carts from the country. He hoped for an amendment with better terms.

With sublime indifference to what the town clock indicated the meeting was carried on on standard time which as several of those attending werecity people proved confusing but the farmers maintained to the end that the proper time was theirs.

POULTRY AT LARGE

And Owners Are Warned That the Flocks Must be Kept At Home

From all parts of the city complaints have been reaching the police that hens are allowed to run at large, wandering far and wide over neighbouring lawns, freshed raked boulevards, etc., and generally conducting themselves as if they had a lease on th whole block. Sergt. Reid requested the press to warn the people that this practice must be discontinued at once. After this notice, an example will be made of offenders against the city's by-law "to prevent hens running at large."

Just One Application and the Hairs Vanish

(Toilet Talks.)

Any woman can keep her skin free from unsightly hair or fuzz if she will follow these simple instructions: When hairy growths appear, apply a simple paste, made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. Apply this to hair surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a harmless treatment, but be sure you get the real delatone.

Band Grants Disposed of By the City Council

Each of the Three Bands Will Receive an Equal Share—Returned Soldiers to be Reinstated.

COUNCIL MEETING

Deputations from two city bands appeared before the City Council last night, and both were in favour of the bands being put on a 50-50 basis as far as the city grant was concerned. Adj. W. Buntin, of the Salvation Army, stated that his band wanted as much as the other bands. New instruments must soon be purchased, and they want to give the best of service. Bandsman Fred. Gandy also spoke in favour of an equal appropriation for the local bands. The uniforms of the men in the Salvation Army band are purchased by the men at a cost of $30, and they received no remuneration. Although the war has depleted the ranks 35 per cent. they have never turned out less than seventeen strong.

Captain Morrison, president of the Great War Veterans' Association, asked that the grant be increased. There were 34 men in the G. W. V. A. band now, and the number is constantly increasing as the men return from overseas.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Garside, that $600 be appropriated for band grants, and that each band that will give 13 concerts in the city parks during the summer months shall receive $200. The motion was carried.

Ald. Gainey—"The band concert is about the only pleasure that the workingman has. I do not think that $600 is sufficient. I also would like a sacred band concert on Sunday afternoon. A $1,000 grant would not be too much."

Ald. Taylor—"The appropriations have been struck and only $600 provided."

A by-law was passed giving each band $200 that plays thirteen nights in city parks, as designated by the Chairman of the Parks Committee (Ald. Edgar).

Checks on Bridge Tenders.

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Taylor, that the checks be returned to tenderers that wish them returned. Ald. Gainey objected on the grounds that they might all want them returned, which would hold up the work indefinitely. Ald. Edgar contended that the committee couldn't hold a man if he wished to withdraw. It is understood that Mr. R. Sheehy is the only contractor who wishes to have his check returned, and the motion was amended to read that Mr. Sheehy's check be returned to him

The amended motion was carried unanimously.

Returned Soldiers.

Ald. A. A. McIntyre, rising, stated that men who before the war were on the Fire Department were not given positions when they returned. "Chief Grange just threw one application aside," stated Ald. McIntyre. He moved, seconded by Ald. Gainey, that any returned soldier who worked at the Fire Hall or in any department of city work before the war applied for his old position that he be reinstated. If he is not physically fit for his old position, he will be transferred to some other department of city work

Ald. Morrison, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee — "There are three returned firemen back now. What firemen are you going to discharge if you put them back on the job?"

The Mayor — "That is up to the Chief."

Ald. Morrison—"There are a number of new men under the two platoon system. Would it be the men who took the soldiers' places or the new men who would be relieved of their duties in favour of the returned soldiers?"

Ald. Turner—"We should put the returned men back on the staff and keep all of the present firemen. We would be getting the brigade up to the required strength of the underwriters, and it would add greatly to the efficiency of the brigade."

Ald. Phelan—"One of the firemen was granted leave of absence when he went to the front, and I think that he has an excellent case. The city should not fall down in this respect. It is not a good example to the manufacturers."

Ald. Phelan followed Ald. McIntyre when he said that the Fire Chief disregarded the leave of absence of this particular returned soldier, saying that it didn't amount to anything.

Ald. Edgar thought that the returned man should be reinstated, and that the man who took his place on the brigade should be relieved of his duties.

Mayor Duncan—"We can't increase the staff. The appropriations won't stand for it. I think that we can dispense with one man at the Hall and put this particular man back on the force. The returned soldier is entitled to it."

The Mayor's suggestion was put in the form of a resolution and carried. The Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and the Chief being appointed to decide upon which man now at the Fire Hall would be dropped.

Ald. Morrison—"Couldn't we put the fireman who loses his job on some other job?

The Mayor—"When we start to build the bridge."

Condition of Monaghan Road.

Ald. Edgar drew the attention of the Council to the present condition of Monaghan Road, from Homewood Avenue to Patterson Street. From Charlotte to Patterson Streets it is closed against traffic, and from Homewood Avenue to Charlotte Street it is badly heaved by the frost. Ald. Phelan assured the Council that work would proceed on this road almost immediately. On motion of Ald. McIntyre, the City Engineer was instructed to write to the G.T.R. and the C.P.R. and ask them to fix their crossings, which in some parts of the city are badly in need of repair.

Cut Down Trees on Gilmour Street.

Mrs. M. C. McClennan, 465 Gilmour Street, was given authority to have some trees cut down under the supervision of the City Engineer.

Ald. Gainey, looking after the interests of residents on Carlisle Ave., asked that a hydrant be installed on that street near Knox Street, and also that a better system of drainage be installed. Referred to the Board of Works and the Fire, Water and Light Committee. A crossing on Caddy Street will also be rejuvenated.

Pavements in Bad Shape.

Replying to Ald. Edgar, who wanted the condition of the city pavements looked into, the Mayor stated the officials are coming to the city soon to look them over and do necessary repairs.

Ald. Phelan Under Fire.

"I'd like to know," said Ald. McIntyre, speaking to the Council in general, but to the Chairman of the Board of Works in particular, "why we haven't the plans for the piers of the new bridge to be erected at London Street. The City Engineer was instructed months ago to have plans made."

Ald. Phelan—"He was waiting for the soundings to be made."

Ald. McIntyre—"That is a poor excuse."

"Does the Chairman of the Board of Works know how much work is being done by his department every week?" asked Ald. Edgar. Last year the Council asked the City Engineer to hand in an itemized report every week to the Chairman of the Board of works. He would then be able to answer all questions of the Council.

"And here I have been shaking hands with myself," said Ald. Phelan. "I haven't had a complaint. Ald. Edgar is the first man who has ever done anything in that line. We haven't fallen down once."

Ald. Edgar explained that he wasn't criticizing the Chairman of the Board of Works, but that he wished to inform him that last year's Council requested the City Engineer to make out a weekly report.

Pavements, Crossings and More Crossings.

Ald. Turner asked if anything was going to be done, and what the cost would be, concerning a pavement down Water Street to King Street and down King Street to George Street.

Ald. Garside wanted a new crossing on Dalhousie and Park Streets, and Ald. Morrison asked that a new crossing be constructed on Bolivar Street, "where the car stops." Referred to the Board of Works.

Will Resume Train Service

KINGSTON, April 15.—Word was received to-day that the Board of Railway Commission will, on May 4th, resume the local train service between Belleville and Brockville, which was cut off during the war, and which caused much inconvenience to the local travellers. The local Board of Trade took the matter up with the Commissioners. The service will be restored on May 4th.

Strike Ties Up Telephone Service

Over Eight Thousand Operators Are Out.

(Special to The Examiner.)

BOSTON, Mass., April 15.—Approximately 8,000 operators of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Co., in New England, went on strike at seven o'clock this morning to enforce their demands for increased wages.

Hospitals and institutions of every description where telephones are depended on in emergencies were without service. Practically the entire telephone system of New England was paralyzed.

Nearly 12,000 other telephone employes will join the strike of the operators to-day, according to Union leaders.

"TOPSY"

"Topsy," in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," never was so funny as the "Topsy" pony with Mack's Educated Ponies, presented with Berzac's Indoor Circus at the Grand Opera House, on Friday and Saturday, with two matinees.

"Topsy," the pony has the same inborn delight in upsetting things as the character of the play and gets many a smile throughout the act, and a "sure fire" laugh when her turn comes to jump the hurdle.

Mac's group of ponies are celebrated from coast to coast and are expected to tour Australia next season.

Sound and Progressive Liberalism

it essential that his Government resign and go to the country.

An Absolute Calamity.

"To me that was most extraordinary. A general election in the crucial war days of May, 1918, would have been an absolute calamity.

"I was elected on the issue of conscription. I was given a mandate from my constituents to see that conscription was carried out. At the time that the titles resolution was brought up conscription had not been carried out, and had I voted against the Government on this subject with others who felt just as strongly on the subject as I did, and had the Government been defeated, it would have meant a general election. It would have meant the disruption of business. It would have meant that I was not carrying out the mandate of my constituents. Therefore it was, sir, that I absolutely sunk my own convictions, that I let them go where they might, and that I stood by the Government, with the result you know.

True Liberal Policy.

"To-day I feel just as strongly on this question as I ever did. To-day I believe that the abolishing of titles is clear, pure Liberalism. May I say, if it is of any import to anybody, that I differed from my Chief and from others of my party on one question, and one question only. That question was conscription. I consider it to-day to have been good Liberalism on my part to support that policy, however much others may differ from me. But my political faiths and tenets are not changed. They are those I have always held. In these great and eventful days of reconstruction my Liberalism is perhaps stronger than it ever was, because I believe the country needs sound and progressive Liberalism. But, as I say, when this matter was up last session I sunk my convictions and voted as I did to support a vital war issue to which the Government was pledged in war time. I do not consider that such is necessary to-day. Such action is not necessary to-day. I consider that, so far as this country is concerned, we must come to one form of government, and one only, and that is the party system." (Opposition applause.)

Limerick Under Martial Law

Factories and Stores Closed—Barriers Across the Roads.

(Canadian Press.)

LIMERICK, Ireland, April 15. — Factories and stores in Limerick were closed to-day except the provision and bread shops. During the night military forces enforcing martial law in this region, erected barriers across all roads entering the city, and no persons except those with military permits, were allowed to pass. Strike notices given by the railroad men expire at midnight to-night. Officers' reports are being made to bring out employees on all Irish railroads. The length of the Limerick strike, it is believed, depends on the success of the movement. No disorders have been reported.

MOTHER! YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH, FROM CONSTIPATION

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once—a teaspoonful to-day often saves a sick child to-morrow.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs": then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

NEW BRANCHES OF THE G.W.V.A. BEING FORMED

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 15.— For the past seven weeks the number of new branches in Ontario taking out charters and existing as a part of the Great War Veterans' Association has averaged one a day. At this rate the number of branches to be added during the coming year to the G.W.V.A. in this province would be well over 300.

Some of the branches that have been long established, as well as the newer ones, have doubled and trebled their membership during the past five months. At the last two meetings of local branches of the Association 510 members were added to the roll of Toronto district.

"If you want a comparison of the G.W.V.A. and other veterans' associations," stated the Provincial Secretary, "you may say that we have 290 branches in the Dominion, while no other association has 29. Our membership exceeds 100,000 and we have twenty fighting men of the present war in our ranks to every one in all the other veterans' associations put together."

Had Hacking Cough

Couldn't Sleep Nights

Hacking coughs are very wearing on the system. The constant coughing disturbs the rest, and keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in an irritated and inflamed conditions.

Don't neglect the hacking cough. You can get rid of it with a few doses of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; the most prompt, pleasant tated and inflamed condition.

Miss Catherine M. McLean, Craik, Sask., writes:—"Last winter I caught a heavy cold and was laid up for some time. I had such a hacking cough I couldn't sleep at night. I didn't think I would get over it. One day a friend dropped in to see me and was surprised to see how bad my cough was. She advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. The next day I sent for a bottle, and I soon got relief, and by the time I had taken two bottles, my cough was all gone, and now I am able to do my work again. I don't think there is anything to equal it."

There are plenty of "pine" preparations on the market trying to live on the reputation of "Dr. Wood's." The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c and 50c a bottle. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Local Contractors Opponents In First Case on the Docket

Messrs. Brown and Aylmer Claim $3,868.21 From Messrs. Dennon and Rogers for Rental of Dredging Fleet, Used on Frankford Section of the Trent Canal.

MR. AYLMER'S STATEMENT

At 6.45 o'clock last evening the Honorable Mr. Justice Lennox opened the Spring non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court of Ontario, after spending a long afternoon in Port Hope, where he expected to make a connection with the noon train to Peterborough, which had been cancelled as a war saving measure and has not yet been resumed. The first case called was the action of F. D. Brown and J. A. Aylmer against William Dennon and A R S. Rogers, claiming $1,212.21 balance on an account for the rental of a dredging fleet in the seasons of 1917 to 1918, and $2,646 damages represented by alleged loss of rentals resulting from the defendants' retention of the plant beyond the time expected by the plaintiffs. Mr. Joseph Wearing, assisted by Mr. J. A. O'Brien, appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. E. Gus Porter, of Belleville, for the defendants who have a counter claim of $1,918.00 including overpayment, equipment purchased and loss of the use of a scow.

Mr. John A. Aylmer stated that he was a member of the contracting firm of Brown and Aylmer. He had carried on the negotiations with the defendants for their rental of the dredging plant.

Mr. Wearing read the contract which specified that this equipment valued at $18,000, consisting of a dredge, two scows and one tug, was rented to Messrs. Dennon and Rogers at $18 a day from the time of starting work at Frankford until the work was completed, after which the fleet was to be returned to its berth at Campbellford. The defendants agreed to pay all the costs of making the plant ready for work.

The negotiations were begun in July 1916, by Mr. Rogers.

"I drew up the contract and set the time from the day the dredge left Campbellford until it was returned there," said Mr. Aylmer. "This was subsequently changed, because we had to move the dredge below the G.T.R. bridge. The contract was therefore dated from the time the plant began work at Frankford until it was returned.

Mr. Wearing—Do you know whether the plant was inspected?

Mr. Aylmer—I don't know. They could have inspected it. I told them they could inspect it. I told Mr. Rogers when we were negotiating that he could go and look at it.

Mr. Wearing— What does Section No. 2 of the canal mean?

Mr. Aylmer—It was the section at Frankford, and is so designated.

Mr. Aylmer stated that the rent money was paid every month. A lump sum for three months was first received. About $120 had been deducted from it by the defendants for some rope they said they bought, but this sum was afterwards paid.

Rented For Dredging Seasons.

Mr. Wearing—Did you send in a bill for the winter?

No. It wasn't fit weather for dredging and we didn't think it was fair. We based our rent on the dredging season, estimated at about 200 days.

Mr. Aylmer continuing, said that in 1917 the defendants commenced work about the end of May, although the dredging season, he averred, in practice begins on May 1st, and extends until the end of November.

"We billed them in 1917 for 175 days for $3,150 and they tendered us $2,702 I insisted they would have to pay for the whole of May."

The entire account was paid.

"In the next season of 1918, I met Mr. Rogers in the spring and advised him to get the dredge ready early so that he could begin to use it on May 1st. On April 27th he told me that the plant would be working in a couple of days.

Tug Became Leaky.

"On May 15th, Mr. Rogers telephoned me that the tug was leaking badly. He said he had caulked it, but couldn't get it to work. I told him they shouldn't have caulked it, as the hull was of thin sheeting which would be parted by the caulking. The tug was a converted pleasure craft. I suggested that they should have covered the hull with canvas and paint or tar.."

On May 16th the defendants wrote to Mr. Aylmer that the tug leaked so badly they had to get another, and asked him if he could recommend one.

Mr. Aylmer replied on May 22nd, stating that the plant had been in use for two seasons without causing any complaint. He suggested to the defendants that they return the plant to Campbellford in order to avoid expense. Besides they had retained it longer than was at first contemplated.

Mr. Wearing referred to the defendants' letter of May 16, in which they said they had covered the hull with canvas and paint.

"That's what I suggested," replied Mr. Aylmer, "but the damage had already been done."

"In all the time they had the plant," he added, "there was never a complaint, except that one about the tug, that everything wasn't in good working order."

Dennon and Rogers then hired another tug for $100 a month.

Was Working First Rate.

"When we were approached in 1917 by the Hydro-Electric Company for the use of the plant at Healey Falls, Mr. Brown and I went to Frankford to see Messrs. Dennon & Rogers about when we could get the plant. Mr. Dennon said the dredge was working first rate. We told him we'd like to get the dredge as soon as possible. We had thought of tendering for a piece of G. T. R. work at Campbellford, but we couldn't tender unless we had the dredge. I also said we had an opportunity to rent it. He said he had about a month and a half's work.

"Later they wrote us, on August 16th, that they couldn't finish the work when they expected, but would take about two months longer. We didn't get it until August in the following year.

Did Extra Work.

Mr. Wearing— What do you know about the extra work they did?

Mr. Aylmer—Late in the spring of 1918 I heard it by chance, followed it up and found that they had sublet the plant by the day to the Department of Railways and Canals.

Mr. Aylmer offered as evidence the report he found in the official records, but Mr. Porter's objection to its admission was upheld.

Was It Rented For Working Days?

Beginning his cross-examination, Mr. Porter read Mr. Aylmer's letter of July, 1917, and also his statement, under examination for discovery, deducing that the plaintiff's interpretation of the contract was a rental of $18 for every day it could work.

"In the dredging season," explained Mr. Aylmer.

"You have charged them for every working day?"

"We didn't expect to get paid for time when the plant was tied up by a frozen river."

Mr. Porter— The first point of dispute is that you charged Dennon & Rogers from the first of May each season, while they asked you to charge them from the time they began work?"

Mr. Aylmer—Yes.

Mr. Justice Lennox — Don't the working seasons vary more or less?"

An Extensive Plant.

Mr. Aylmer—Yes, but the dredging fleets generally begin work on May 1st. This was an expensive plant, and every day lost was a loss to us. It was reasonable to expect them to begin work on May 1st each year.

Mr. Porter—If they couldn't begin on May 1st you wouldn't call on them to pay?

Mr. Aylmer—No.

Mr. Porter enumerated the items in an account submitted by the defendants at the close of 1918. It totalled $113.20 and consisted of rope, cable and other materials which they declare they had to buy for the plant.

"I never saw that statement before, so there's no use reading it to me." Mr. Aylmer observed.

A letter from Dennon & Rogers notified the plaintiffs that the plant had begun work in 1917 on June 7th, at 2 p.m., indicating, said Mr. Porter, that they understood they were paying for it only on the days it was used.

In 1918 it opened up at 11 a.m. on May 21st.

Mr. T. A. Brown.

Thomas A. Brown, of Campbellford, was next called. He is a son of Mr. Aylmer's partner of the identical name. The dredging plant was put away in August, 1915 in good condition after working nearly all that summer. Ordinary "wear and tear" repairs were made to it. Witness told of several inspections of the plant made by the defendants or by their agents.

THIS MORNING'S EVIDENCE.

Mr. John. E. Russell, of the contracting firm of Russell & Townsend, Toronto, who are one of the tenderers for the Hunter street bridge contract, was a witness in the Brown vs. Dennon case this morning, having been called as an expert in dredging work and equipment.

To Mr. Wearing he stated that the defendant's bill of $1600 for repairs to the fleet seemed a very reasonable item.

"I've spent more than that on just two scows."

To Mr. Porter, he admitted that while he had previously examined the plant with the intention of buying, he had no actual knowledge of its condition when it was taken over by Mr. Rogers.

"So your opinion of the $1600 is not based on actual knowledge?"

"Just from experience with my own fleet."

Mr. Russell considered the plant was a good one, but the tug would be likely to deteriorate more quickly than the other parts.

The Defence.

Mr. William Dennon first called, stated that the first trouble the defendants had with the fleet was at Glen Ross, 15 miles below Campbellford, where it had put in on its way to Frankford. He saw it laid up there while the workmen were engaged in pumping out the dredge and a scow.

"The whole fleet wasn't in good working order. It was bad," he said.

"It was the same fleet that you had seen at Campbellford," remarked His Lordship.

"But we hadn't steam up. I took Mr. Aylmer's word that the whole plant was in good working order.

Mr. Dennon stated that he didn't use one scow at all in the season of 1916. He told the plaintiffs, but couldn't remember any reply.

Mr. Porter—How do you account for the date of beginning work in 1917?

"We began on June 7th. The water was so high and strong we couldn't begin earlier. In 1918 we started about the middle of May.

"Was it any fault of yours or your company's, that you didn't begin earlier?"

"No; we were ready to start. It would have been in our interests to begin as soon as possible."

"It is suggested that you were delayed because you had not begun your repairs early enough?" remarked His Lordship.

"No; we were held up by the water."

Mr. Dennon stated that the dredge leaked all the time and had to be syphoned by steam with an attachment to the boiler."

"Finally we had to put a steam pump on the dredge and another on a scow. There was none on the dredge, but the law requires it."

"Did you leave these pumps on when you returned the plant?" asked His Lordship.

"No; we took them off."

Mr. Dennon explained that one pump was put on the scow because the syphon proved inadequate. It was supplied by steam from the boiler when the pump was operated."

Mr. Porter—"Tell the court in what condition you returned this fleet."

"A great deal better than when we got it—decidedly better."

Mr. Dennon stated that the defendants never tried to calk the tug, as suggested by Mr. Aylmer, except where calking had been put in before. Some of the main ribs were rotten.

"Did you take the plant over as an experienced dredger?"

"No; I took it on Mr. Aylmer's word."

Mr. Wearing—"Then I understand that when you took it over you were not experienced?"

His Lordship—"He had experience, but he was getting some more."

Holiday on July 12th.

Mr. Wearing adverted to the counter-claim. "You have charged us for July 12th, 1917. Are you aware that the plant was closed down while the men were at the Orange walk?"

Mr. Dennon explained that the men were allowed days off singly, but they decided to take their holidays all together on the 12th."

"You've charged us for September 23, 1917. Are you aware that was a Sunday?"

"I couldn't tell you about that."

Mr. Wearing also mentioned several other days for which he intimated there had been unwarranted charge.

Mr. Dennon admitted having told the plaintiffs in 1917 that the plant was working alright.

"I told them it ought to—that we had spent a great deal of money on it that spring. It was early in the season when I saw them."

Referring to the extra work complained of by the plaintiffs, Mr. Dennon objected to the expansive term "extra."

"All our work was in section No. 2," he said. "I am positive I told Mr. Aylmer we were going to do the piece of work of dredging out some washed in material. We were ordered to do this and Mr. Aylmer knows as well as I that you have to do what the governemnt orders when you are under contract. I told Mr. Aylmer about this work before I signed for the rental of his fleet."

Mr. W. B. Dennon, son of the defendant, and bookkeeper for the firm, explained how by an error in copying from his diary it appeared that charges were made for several days when the plant was idle.

Perhaps you haven't been following styles the last few years, but we have; and we are catering now to well dressed men with the smartest suit styles for summer wear in vogue.

My new models cost no more than ordinary, ready-to wear garments, so, why not leave me your measure, and have a spic-and-span merchant tailored top coat or suit to your own particular taste.

The double-breasted waist seam model with military back is one of the newest styles. We can line them with silk or any way you like, and give it that dressed-up look that you have been missing so long.

Meat Prices Are Going Up

Price to the Peterboro Butchers has Increased.

Meat has gone away up out of sight," said a local butcher to-day. He said that a pound of meat from the hind quarter costs the butcher 30 1-2 cents and at that price the stock yards don't want your orders. Six or eight weeks the hind quarter sold for 18 to 20 cents a pound retail. He stated that he expected the price to go to 40 cents a pound in the near future. The reason for such abnormal prices he gave was the wholesale buying in Toronto of United States dealers who take the pick and leave the remainder for the Canadian butcher. England also requires millions of pounds above normal and this will continue until John Bull is able to resume his quota of production.

"There is no cheap meat," to-day he continued, "but there may be some reduction in September."

Mayor E. L. McLean of Lindsay, Mrs. McLean and Mrs. Dr. Nesbitt, were visiting in the city yesterday.

A System That Will Reduce Cost of Living

The consumer who pays cash and takes their purchase with them should not be charged with service that they do not get, such as delivery, bookkeeping, telephone and collecting system. If this service is not supplied the cost of same should not be tacked on to the price of the goods especially at a time when the cost of foodstuffs are a serious problem. To meet this condition, and offset the high prices a new service has been installed by E. F. Mason, Grocer, 420 George street, where the south side of the store has been set apart for a "Groceteria", (Cash and Carry), section where a quick service can be given as all goods are parcelled and priced and those prices are figured on actual cost plus only the service rendered. Outside of this one section, the store will conduct business in the usual way with prompt telephone and delivery service. 2d-89

MAN CRUSHED TO DEATH.

James Crouter's Life Extinct When Dug Out of Clay—Had Relatives in Peterborough.

TORONTO, April 15.—Crushed under a bank of clay weighing several tons, James Crouter, 698 Dundas street east, was instantly killed on Saturday afternoon at the Sun Brick Works, Don Valley. Mr. Crouter, along with several other men, were excavating clay from the bank, when the top slipped. Crouter jumped, but too late. When his body was unearthed life was extinct, and his remains were taken to the Morgue in L. W. Trull's motor ambulance.

He is survived by two step sons one of whom, Gunner Daniel Lindsey, 2nd Divisional Artillery, was expected home on Saturday, but did not arrive. Another step son was killed in action. Three brothers, Albert George and Sydney, all reside in Peterborough. Mr. Crouter, who was 58 years old, enlisted in the C.A.S.C., but was discharged on account of bad eyesight.

The funeral takes place to-day. Arrangements for this are in charge of Capt. McElhiney, a Salvation Army chaplain, who was overseas for some months.

Women as Brave As the Men

THEIR STRUGGLE SHOWS A REMARKABLE SPIRIT.

Talk of the bravery of men, but where can you find a finer spirit than among the half-sick women who are fighting and struggling to do their duty against the terrible odds of ill health, and who will not give up.

One woman in every three is struggling against weakness. Most of them are not exactly sick, but, oh, how miserable!

The burden and misery of it all has its foundation in the blood which is thin and watery. The red cells are too few. The very stream of life is reduced in vitality. Weakness and inevitable ill-health are the certain result.

Every ailing or weak woman can quickly regain her health in this very simple way. By filling the system with the nutrition that comes from rich red blood, a quick change for the better will result. To accomplish this take two chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets after each meal. You'll feel better immediately for the simple reason that Ferrozone renews the blood. It gives you vim, vigor, endurance, restores a tired, worn-out system very quickly.

You'll feel like new all over once you get Ferrozone working through your blood. It puts colour into faded cheeks, brightens the eye, quickens the step, brings back that wonderful feeling of youth.

One of the finest things Ferrozone does is to make you eat lots and digest it as well. With keen appetite sound sleep, strong nerves and lots of nourishing blood you're bound to regain robust health. Any sickly girl or ailing woman that Ferrozone won't make well must be incurable. There is a secret power in Ferrozone and it is worth a trial at all events. Fifty cents per box, six for $2.50. At all dealers in medicine, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont

MANY NEW MEMBERS

The rapid strides that the membership of the Peterboro Branch of the G.W.V.A. is making is shown by the fact that there were no fewer than fourteen applications on Saturday last. Three of the applicants won the M.M. overseas while another has both the M.M. and the D.C.M.

Her ready sympathy to human things
She found it sweet to live.

hi... time between eleven o'clock last night and five this morning. McCullough's escape is the most sensational in the history of the ... He cut away two heavy iron bars in the window while his guard, E. Curral, a returned soldier, slept in McCullough's cell. The prisoner cut his way through the bars with a sharp saw, pulled himself through the opening, dropped down on the wall which skirts the jail and jumped to freedom.

On the floor in the cell, McCullough left a note, hastily written in poor hand, stating that he had doped Curral's coffee. Curral was arrested by Detective Bart Cronyn, who was assigned to the case by Inspector Kennedy, and taken to police headquarters.

Curral's Story.

Curral's story is that he came on duty at ten o'clock, relieving Sam Follis, the day guard, and at eleven he fell asleep after having something to eat with McCullough. He did not wake up till five this morning.

Finding McCullough gone and the bars cut Curral rang the alarm bell at five o'clock and the other guards ran to the death cell. Chief Turnkey Henry Addey was notified and hurried to the jail.

A search about the place failed to show where McCullough jumped from the wall. It is about 20 feet high. Marks were on the wall where he climbed through the window and let himself down, his boots scraping the wall.

McCullough must have worked fast while cutting the bars away. He used chewing gum, butter and soap to smother the noise of the saw.

That he did the job from the inside, and during the operation got no outside help, is evident by the fact that he left the two pieces of the bar on the window still inside the window.

On the floor of the cell, McCullough left a note addressed to Ernest Currell, his guard, whom he doped. The note is written in pencil on an ordinary white business letter-head, in rather a poor hand, but is quite legible. It reads:

"Currell, old man.

"I am sorry but it had to be done. Now do not you be scared, for it isn't your fault, for I doped your coffee with a sleeping powder of Veronnal, and so you see kid they cannot blame you. I am leaving the paper on the wrapper in which I had the stuff, so that you can have the evidence if necessary. If you do not want this note shown to them, why lay the paper on the floor somewhere where you will be able to accidentally find it. You understand. I got the stuff I am using from a friend who came here as a prisoner on purpose and managed to slip it to me.

"Wish me luck. I am sorry, but you know life is sweet, old man.

"So long. "Frank."

The letter continues:

"The powder is harmless and is called Veronnal (Veronnal) and I will send your clothes back or the money for them at the very earliest opportunity. Maybe the authorities will let you have the ones I have downstairs.

"So sorry, friend Currell.

"Good luck to you and forgive me."

Star Received Letter.

TORONTO, April 16.— At noon today while the police and reporters were searching for McCullough, the Daily Star received from McCullough a six-page letter in which he tells over his own signature how he made his escape.

"I will explain part of my escape to you so that you may find out the truth and not put the blame for it on any of these men who were my keepers, for it is not their fault. The Veronnal sleeping powder which I introduced into the night guard's coffee was given to me by a prisoner who came to the jail for that very purpose, and after the guard had gone to sleep I pulled the saw up through the window by means of a string and was able to cut the bars in about one hour and 40 mins."

McCullough in his letter thanks "his Christian friends" for letters of cheer written to him while in jail, affirms he is a Christian and proceeds:

"Not Guilty."

"I am making an attempt for my liberty. Can I be blamed? No, I do not believe that you can blame me as long as I commit no sin in doing so.

State of Siege

British Troops, With Full War Equipment, Guard the Streets.

(United Press.)

DUBLIN, April 16. — The city of Limerick was virtually in a state of siege to-day, following the establishment of martial law in that district.

British troops, with full war equipment, were in possession of the streets. Barbed wire entanglements had been erected at all bridges and military passes were necessary to enter or leave the city.

Machine guns had been placed at strategic points. Armoured cars were being used for patrol work.

The city was cut off from all intercourse with the surrounding districts and fears were expressed of a food shortage.

32,000 Veterans On Pension List

Over Four Millions Have Been Paid Out.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 16. — The total number of veterans now being paid pensions throughout the Dominion totals 32,371, and the total amount being paid out for various grades of disability up to April 1st, was $4,851,750.

The largest number of pensioners are found among those who have been disabled, twenty to twenty-nine per cent, while the smallest class are those who have been incapacitated, from ninety to ninety-nine per cent.

A System That Will Reduce Cost of Living

The consumer who pays cash and takes their purchase with them should not be charged with service that they do not get, such as delivery, bookkeeping, telephone and collecting system. If this service is not supplied the cost of same should not be tacked on to the price of the goods especially at a time when the cost of foodstuffs are a serious problem. To meet this condition, and offset the high prices a new service has been installed by E. F. Mason, Grocer, 429 George street, where the south side of the store has been set apart for a "Groceteria". (Cash and Carry), section where a quick service can be given as all goods are parcelled and priced and those prices are figured on actual cost plus only the service rendered. Outside of this one section, the store will conduct business in the usual way with prompt telephone and delivery service. 2d-89

ADDRESS TO THE PETERBORO ART ASSOCIATION

WOODSWORTH AND THE ROMANTIC REVIVAL

(By FRANK MORRIS,
643 Aylmer street.)

To understand the man William Wordsworth and form a just estimate of his poetical art, we must take at least a glance at English Poetry in the ages that preceded; for Wordsworth was a heretic and a rebel in the ranks of poetry, a daring innovator, the leader of a forlorn hope.

The fact is that soon after the time of Shakespeare and Milton the very soul of Poetry somehow escaped the substantial body of verse that flourished (if one may so speak of a body uninformed with soul) during the Augustan Age of Reason. From Dryden and Pope to the middle of the 18th century, the vast bulk of so-called poetry was a uniform expression in monotonous couplets, of commonplace thought; the form and language were both artificial, but sanctioned and sanctified by usage; poetic expression was reduced to a formula and the muse with her wings clipped and swathed in the bands of custom and authority became to all appearance dead as an Egyptian mummy, inert as a papoose and hardly more beautiful.

Apart from her men of action England owns no more loved or honored sons than her poets. Verse is justly held the highest expression in language of a nation's emotional thought, and in a literature of many eminences, England's crowning eminence is surely her Poetry. In no other [illegible] does her genius so [illegible] confluence of [illegible] Celt- [illegible] questions [illegible] Ramsay and Ferguson that culminating [illegible] Robert Burns, and the said it is not true that [illegible] Ballads colected [illegible] 1760). [illegible] revolutionary [illegible] tress, and [illegible] which the [illegible] alleged to have [illegible] villa.

The whole Augustan Age is barren of real poetry throughout the reigns of Dryden and Pope. "The Age of Reason," it has been called and the very phrase proclaims aloud the death of poetry. For poetry, as Milton well said, must be simple, sensuous and passionate; it is born of the heart, it is thought fired with emotion and transfiguring its whole world with the glamour of imagination.

If you look over the whole interspace between Milton and Wordsworth (1675-1798) you will find the entire world of fashion and letters given over to the production of monotonous verse (the everlasting heroic couplet), filled with artificial and insincere thought, couched in a barbarous language—a jargon perverted and debased from Milton and the Classics by Dryden and Pope, till the poet (so called) stood at anywhere from three to seven removes from the subject of his poetry. A false and pinchbeck art born in the stifling atmosphere of urban life and fed on the unwholesome vapours of patronage.

Two things, among many, stand out in the Poetry of the Age of Reason: Love of Nature is either dead or cherished in secret shame, and Lyric Verse is almost a lost art.

I said that the great river of English poetry went underground with the death of Milton. But there were signs here and there that it was working strongly under the surface at first far away from the fashionable world of Grub St. and Belgravia, in gushing springs about the famous Borderland—the Lowland Scots poetry [illegible] Ramsay and Ferguson that culminating [illegible] Robert Burns, and the said it is not true that [illegible] Ballads colected [illegible] 1760). [illegible] revolutionary [illegible] tress, and [illegible] which the [illegible] alleged to have [illegible] villa.

Laudru, according to statement made by the detectives, admitted having used various names because he had been imprisoned several times. He denied, the authorities say that he did away with any of the women but said that he killed the dogs at the request of the woman because it was too expensive to feed them.

Pointing out the difficulties of affecting peace, the Premier said a complete breaking up is threatened in Russia, Austria and Turkey.

"There is no authority throughout Russia," he said. "The question of recognition of the Soviet government has never been proposed or discussed."

Lloyd George declared, amidst an outburst of cheering, that the indemnity "will be no easy one." He asked that the delegates "who are trying to do their best" be left in peace, "because their work is not over and still full of perils to all."

"A stern peace and just peace, but not a vindictive peace is wanted," declared the premier. "I am going back to Paris and must have the fullest confidence of Parliament."

The Premier said the Allies had agreed unanimously not to publish the peace terms until they had been discussed.

First Class Blunder.

Much as the British government deplores conditions in Russia, the Premier continued, it is not its duty to commit England to a gigantic enterprise in order to improve conditions in Russia. There was no question, he said, of recognizing Russia. It had never been proposed and had never been discussed. The Premier denied trying to escape declarations made during the election campaign. The declaration regarding compelling Germany to pay was concurred in by all party leaders. The Conference decided not to publish the terms of peace. He said that would be a first class blunder. Premature publication could only serve to encourage resistance of the enemy. Lloyd George sharply criticised certain newspaper attacks made in connection with the Peace Conference, which tended to cause dissension.

William Adams, leader of the Labour Opposition, following Premier, said in regard to the latter's address: "The speech was eloquent, but not entirely satisfactory."

Pensions Report Is Nearly Ready

New Legislation is in Process of Formation.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS, Toronto, April 16.—Dr. W. A. Riddell, who was appointed by the government some months ago, to investigate the question of pensions for mothers and widows, has nearly completed his considerations on that subject, and will submit a report to the government in the near future. While no official announcement is forthcoming, it is understood that he will make recommendations in favour of a graded scale of such pensions. These may be made in the form of an interim report, or may come in the main report.

Will Carry On.

It is understood that the present gas commissioner, E. S. Estlin, who was appointed to the office a year ago under the jurisdiction of the Railway Board, will continue to hold office until the bill is introduced in the Legislature, where it is provided that the Department of Lands and Mines will have charge of this work. His duties include the conservation of gas in Ontario. It is not likely that the annual report of the Department of Agriculture will be ready before the close of the present session, stated Hon. Geo. Henry, Minister of Agriculture to the Examiner this morning. "It is being held up on account of the field crop report from Guelph not being ready," he said.

Bersac's Circus Coming Friday and Saturday

The wonderful educated ponies with Berzac's Mammoth Indoor Circus which comes to the Grand, Friday and Saturday, are over twelve of the best trained ponies before the public today. They are presented in three distinct groups. Each displaying a cleverness unusual to the animal mind.

Ponies, dogs, goats, mules and monkeys, all doing their specialty as presented by their trainers have always been a joy to the heart of old and young and with Berzac's Indoor Circus these delightful pets perform unusual feats with a celerity that is astounding. Matinee both days.

FRANK JENNE Says:

"The Semi-ready shops were not responsible for the ill-fitting uniforms supplied to the soldiers—we can cheerfully boast about that.

"But more of the officers' uniforms were tailored in the Semi-ready shops in Montreal at prices far below what the military tailors charged in times of peace. These were ordered by the individual officers.

"Nearly every other factory in Canada sought and secured Government contracts for soldiers' uniforms, and the boys who had to wear them and try to make them fit won't soon forget their discomfort.

"That is one reason why so many returned soldiers like to get a genuine Semi-ready suit when they come back to 'civies.' And they more than deserve the special discount which we and every other Semi-ready store in Canada give to returned soldiers."

Lumber Prices Bound to Go Up

CHICAGO, April 16.—Roger E. Simmons, who was sent to Russia in 1917 as a member of a United States Government Commission to study the lumber situation in the war devastated countries, and who was taken prisoner by the Bolshevik Government and at one time sentenced to be shot, told the Legislative Commission investigating high prices for building material that the world was facing a lumber famine.

Prices of lumber, he said, were certain to rise in the next few years because of the unprecedented demand which would come from the reconstruction of the war-stricken regions of Europe. The major portion of this lumber, he said, would have to be supplied by the United States and Canada.

Canada already has received an order from the British Government for one billion feet of lumber, while this country has received orders for one million feet of oak from England and twelve shiploads of lumber from Italy.

NEW YORK WORLD

A moving picture version of "[illegible] Four Years in Germany," the book published by Former Ambassador Gerard shortly after his return from Berlin was shown before a packed house last night in the Knickerbocker Theatre.

The picture is a record of political events from the time when the German Government, convinced that war was necessary to save militarism, brought on the conflict, up to the present day.

Several meetings between Mr. Gerard and the Kaiser were shown on the screen, including the interview in which the Kaiser declared he would stand no nonsense from America after the war. How it was planned in Berlin to sink the Lusitania, how the Germans finally agreed to abandon ruthless submarine warfare, how they finally gave Mr. Gerard only six hours' notice of the resumption of ruthless warfare, how they told him America would not fight, were shown graphically.

Feed Up a Child in the Way It Should Grow

In the Spring, more than at any other time, children should have a well-balanced diet.

What is proper nourishment?

It is pure food—it is food that is easily digested—it is food that does not overtax the stomach—it is food that supplies the elements of nourishment in balanced proportion.

Your own doctor will tell you that milk is nature's finest food. That it is essentially a health giving nourishment. That you can keep your kiddies in constant good health during the trying Spring season by giving them as much milk as possible.

Now is the time to double your regular milk supply. Don't try to make a pint do the duty of a quart.

Serve extra milk with cereals, in puddings, in creamed vegetables, as a beverage at meals, and as an in-between-meals drink too

And be sure you get Peterboro Milk Products milk. Rich, pure, milk fresh from the countryside. Wholesome milk pasteurized and Clarified. Clean every drop.

Pointing out the difficulties of affecting peace, the Premier said a complete breaking up is threatened in Russia, Austria and Turkey.

"There is no authority throughout Russia," he said. "The question of recognition of the Soviet government has never been proposed or discussed."

Lloyd George declared, amidst an outburst of cheering, that the indemnity "will be no easy one." He asked that the delegates "who are trying to do their best" be left in peace, "because their work is not over and still full of perils to all."

"A stern peace and just peace, but not a vindictive peace is wanted," declared the premier. "I am going back to Paris and must have the fullest confidence of Parliament."

The Premier said the Allies had agreed unanimously not to publish the peace terms until they had been discussed.

First Class Blunder.

Much as the British government deplores conditions in Russia, the Premier continued, it is not its duty to commit England to a gigantic enterprise in order to improve conditions in Russia. There was no question, he said, of recognizing Russia. It had never been proposed and had never been discussed. The Premier denied trying to escape declarations made during the election campaign. The declaration regarding compelling Germany to pay was concurred in by all party leaders. The Conference decided not to publish the terms of peace. He said that would be a first class blunder. Premature publication could only serve to encourage resistance of the enemy. Lloyd George sharply criticized certain newspaper attacks made in connection with the Peace Conference, which tended to cause dissension.

William Adams, leader of the Labour Opposition, following Premier, said in regard to the latter's address:

"The speech was eloquent, but not entirely satisfactory."

Pensions Report Is Nearly Ready

New Legislation is in Process of Formation.

(Special to The Examiner.)

Will Carry On.

It is understood that the present gas commissioner, E. S. Estlin, who was appointed to the office a year ago under the jurisdiction of the Railway Board, will continue to hold office until the bill is introduced in the Legislature, where it is provided that the Department of Lands and Mines will have charge of this work. His duties include the conservation of gas in Ontario. It is not likely that the annual report of the Department of Agriculture will be ready before the close of the present session, stated Hon. Geo. Henry, Minister of Agriculture to the Examiner this morning. "It is being held up on account of the field crop report from Guelph not being ready," he said.

My dear Mr. Duncan,—

Safe Robbers Get $11,900 Plunder in Three More Raids

New York, April 12.—Three more burglaries involving loss of $11,900 in money, Liberty Bonds and War Saving Stamps, were reported at Police Headquarters. It is the theory of the police that the same band was concerned in the nine thefts called to their attention on Monday.

Liberty Bonds valued at $10,000 were stolen from a safe of Meyer Brothers, shirt waist manufacturers, at No. 72 Madison avenue. The safe was not damaged and the police believe the intruders either found it unlocked or had the combination.

Two safes were ripped open in the loft building at No. 21 Washington place. Fisher & Thompson, Inc., dealers in hatters' supplies, who occupy the fifth floor, lost Liberty bonds valued at $1,000; $200 in War Saving Stamps and $300 in money. On the third floor the burglars used a "can opener" on the safe of the University Button Company and took $400 in many. The police believe the intruders concealed themselves in the building late in the afternoon, and when employees had gone for the day entered the offices of the two firms.

The residence of the Misses Christobel and Davida C. Crain, sisters of Judge Thomas C. T Crain, of General Sessions, at No. 28 East Seventy fourth street, was looted of valuable antiques several weeks ago, it became known yesterday. The burglary occurred in the absence of the Misses Crain. Two hand-carved clocks, vases ten oil paintings, two Japanese work bskets and a hand wrought copper boiler all valued at $5,000, were taken. Judge Crain said the thieves overlooked many other valuable objects.

While there has been no official confirmation that a time limit will be placed on the Germans, the French consider such action as probable, else the discussions would drag on without end.

"THE ROSARY"

"The Rosary," which will come to the Grand Opera House on Thursday, April 24th, tells a story that is fascinating in every way. The central and guiding figure is that of Rev. Father Brian Kelly, a Catholic priest, played by Oscar O'Shea, a former Peterboro resident, whose great aim in life is to do all the good he can for his fellow man, of whatever creed or lack of creed. But while the play and story drive home a great moral lesson, the play and story are not sermons, and the lessons are not driven home with long faces and hypocritical palaver.

In fact, the priest has a keen Irish sense of humor, spontaneous and scintillating, and this acts as a foil to his priestly calling and robs it of austerity, if not of firmness. By his adroitness and kindliness as well as by his keen insight into human nature, this priest is able to save a home from destruction and to bring order out of a chaotic condition of intrigue and wickedness. The evil element of the piece is embodied in a man who seeks revenge because another has won the love of the woman he sought as wife. He wantonly brings the loving wife into disrepute, and nearly wrecks her life by his machinations.

Frank McCullough Makes a Sensational Escape From the Toronto Jail

Prisoner Was Under Sentence of Death and Was to be Hanged on May 2nd—Sawed the Bars.

GUARD SLEPT

The Peterboro police received word in this morning's mail from police headquarters at Toronto to be on the look-out for Frank McCullough, the convicted murderer of Constable Dixon, who escaped from the Toronto Prison last night at midnight.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 16.— Doping his guard, Frank McCullough, the young American, who was under sentence of death, and who was to be hanged on May 2nd for the killing of Acting Detective Frank Williams, escaped from his death cell at the Toronto jail some time between eleven o'clock last night and five this morning. McCullough's escape is the most sensational in the history of the prison. He cut away two heavy iron bars in the window while his guard, E. Curral, a returned soldier, slept in McCullough's cell. The prisoner cut his way through the bars with a sharp saw, pulled himself through the opening, dropped down on the wall which skirts the jail and jumped to freedom.

On the floor in the cell, McCullough left a note, hastily written in poor hand, stating that he had doped Curral's coffee. Curral was arrested by Detective Bart Cronyn, who was assigned to the case by Inspector Kennedy, and taken to police headquarters.

Curral's Story.

Curral's story is that he came on duty at ten o'clock, relieving Sam Follis, the day guard, and at eleven he fell asleep after having something to eat with McCullough. He did not wake up till five this morning.

Finding McCullough gone and the bars cut Curral rang the alarm bell at five o'clock and the other guards ran to the death cell. Chief Turnkey Henry Addey was notified and hurried to the jail.

A search about the place failed to show where McCullough jumped from the wall. It is about 20 feet high. Marks were on the wall where he climbed through the window and let himself down, his boots scraping the wall.

McCullough must have worked fast while cutting the bars away. He used chewing gum, butter and soap to smother the noise of the saw.

That he did the job from the inside, and during the operation got no outside help, is evident by the fact that he left the two pieces of the bar on the window still inside the window.

On the floor of the cell, McCullough left a note addressed to Ernest Currell, his guard, whom he doped. The note is written in pencil on an ordinary white business letter-head, in rather a poor hand, but is quite legible. It reads:

"Currell, old man.

"I am sorry but it had to be done. Now do not you be scared, for it isn't your fault, for I doped your coffee with a sleeping powder of Veronnal, and so you see kid they cannot blame you. I am leaving the paper on the wrapper in which I had the stuff, so that you can have the evidence if necessary. If you do not want this note shown to them, why lay the paper on the floor somewhere where you will be able to accidentally find it. You understand. I got the stuff I am using from a friend who came here as a prisoner on purpose and managed to slip it to me.

"Wish me luck. I am sorry, but you know life is sweet, old man.

"So long. "Frank."

The letter continues:

"The powder is harmless and is called Veronnal (Veronnal) and I will send your clothes back or the money for them at the very earliest opportunity. Maybe the authorities will let you have the ones I have downstairs.

"So sorry, friend Currell.

"Good luck to you and forgive me."

Star Received Letter.

TORONTO, April 16.— At noon today while the police and reporters were searching for McCullough, the Daily Star received from McCullough a six-page letter in which he tells over his own signature how he made his escape.

"I will explain part of my escape to you so that you may find out the truth and not put the blame for it on any of these men who were my keepers, for it is not their fault. The Veronnal sleeping powder which I introduced into the night guard's coffee was given to me by a prisoner who came to the jail for that very purpose, and after the guard had gone to sleep I pulled the saw up through the window by means of a string and was able to cut the bars in about one hour and 40 mins."

McCullough in his letter thanks "his Christian friends" for letters of cheer written to him while in jail, affirms he is a Christian and proceeds:

"Not Guilty."

"I am making an attempt for my liberty. Can I be blamed? No, I do not believe that you can blame me as long as I commit no sin in doing so.

A Compliment For the Health Officer

Questioned by Mr. Justice Lennox as to whether there were any streets in the city that were not provided with sewers, Dr. Amys replied that there were some, especially in districts it was almost impossible to reach. There were also many houses that were unconnected with available sewers. Dr. Amys stated that the Board of Health had endeavoured to reduce to $25. Hogs, f.o.b., $20.50. Calves, their plans had been interfered with by high prices and scarcity of labour during the war.

Limerick in State of Siege

British Troops, With Full War Equipment, Guard the Streets.

(United Press.)

DUBLIN, April 16. — The city of Limerick was virtually in a state of siege to-day, following the establishment of martial law in that district.

British troops, with full war equipment, were in possession of the streets. Barbed wire entanglements had been erected at all bridges and military passes were necessary to enter or leave the city.

Machine guns had been placed at strategic points. Armoured cars were being used for patrol work.

The city was cut off from all intercourse with the surrounding districts and fears were expressed of a food shortage.

32,000 Veterans On Pension List

Over Four Millions Have Been Paid Out.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 16. — The total number of veterans now being paid pensions throughout the Dominion totals 32,371, and the total amount being paid out for various grades of disability up to April 1st, was $4,851,750.

The largest number of pensioners are found among those who have been disabled, twenty to twenty-nine per cent, while the smallest class are those who have been incapacitated, from ninety to ninety-nine per cent.

A System That Will Reduce Cost of Living

The consumer who pays cash and takes their purchase with them should not be charged with service that they do not get, such as delivery, bookkeeping, telephone and collecting system. If this service is not supplied the cost of same should not be tacked on to the price of the goods especially at a time when the cost of foodstuffs are a serious problem. To meet this condition, and offset the high prices a new service has been installed by E. F. Mason, Grocer, 429 George street, where the south side of the store has been set apart for a "Groceteria". (Cash and Carry), section where a quick service can be given as all goods are parcelled and priced and those prices are figured on actual cost plus only the service rendered. Outside of this one section, the store will conduct business in the usual way with prompt telephone and delivery service. 2d-89

KILL WOMEN AND CHILDREN

WHY AID REFUSED

WASHINGTON, April 16. — The real reason why American assistance was not given to the Japanese detachment which was cut up in an engagement with Russians at Habarovsk in Siberia on February 25 last, has been reported to the War Department in official communications from Major-General William Sidney Graves, Commamnding Officer of the American Expeditionary Forces based in Vladivostok.

In official reports to the War Department General Graves states that American troops were not permitted to go to the assistance of the Japanese because Japanese troops had shot down Russian women and children, and also that he did not recognize the Russians, against whom the Japanese were sent in this case as the real enemy. General Graves' reports indicates that he did not regard these Russians as Bolshevists. The fact that General Graves has sent official reports to the War Department stating that among other reasons for his attitude the Japanese troops had shot down women and children, was definitely confirmed in official quarters.

Pensions Report Is Nearly Ready

New Legislation is in Process of Formation.

(Special to The Examiner.)

Will Carry On.

It is understood that the present gas commissioner, E. S. Estlin, who was appointed to the office a year ago under the jurisdiction of the Railway Board, will continue to hold office until the bill is introduced in the Legislature, where it is provided that the Department of Lands and Mines will have charge of this work. His duties include the conservation of gas in Ontario. It is not likely that the annual report of the Department of Agriculture will be ready before the close of the present session, stated Hon. Geo. Henry, Minister of Agriculture to the Examiner this morning. "It is being held up on account of the field crop report from Guelph not being ready," he said.

Bersac's Circus Coming Friday and Saturday

The wonderful educated ponies with Berzac's Mammoth Indoor Circus which comes to the Grand, Friday and Saturday, are over twelve of the best trained ponies before the public today. They are presented in three distinct groups. Each displaying a cleverness unusual to the animal mind.

Ponies, dogs, goats, mules and monkeys, all doing their specialty as presented by their trainers have always been a joy to the heart of old and young and with Berzac's Indoor Circus these delightful pets perform unusual feats with a celerity that is astounding. Matinee both days.

FRANK JENNE Says:

"The Semi-ready shops were not responsible for the ill-fitting uniforms supplied to the soldiers—we can cheerfully boast about that.

"But more of the officers' uniforms were tailored in the Semi-ready shops in Montreal at prices far below what the military tailors charged in times of peace. These were ordered by the individual officers.

"Nearly every other factory in Canada sought and secured Government contracts for soldiers' uniforms, and the boys who had to wear them and try to make them fit won't soon forget their discomfort.

"That is one reason why so many returned soldiers like to get a genuine Semi-ready suit when they come back to civies.' And they more than deserve the special discount which we and every other Semi-ready store in Canada give to returned soldiers."

HEAVY STORM RAGING.

ST. JOHN'S, April 16. — Heavy snow storm raging this morning. Doubtful if any flying will be attempted to-day.

Saturday's Tag Day

The Great War Veterans' TAG DAY on Saturday next, April 19th, is solely for the purpose of raising funds for the Relief Fund of the organization to relieve distress and suffering among the families of those who have served.

Not a dollar goes for the maintenance of the club-rooms or for the general work of the Association.

It is a fund you can support with all earnestness, knowing full well that it has and will continue to give relief to many families who otherwise would suffer great hardships.

Lloyd George Addresses House

America and Europe Are Not at Variance—Not a Vindictive Peace.

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, April 16.—There is a complete understanding on fundamental questions of the peace settlement, Premier Lloyd George declared in addressing Parliament this afternoon. He said it is not true that America and Europe are at variance.

Pointing out the difficulties of affecting peace, the Premier said a complete breaking up is threatened in Russia, Austria and Turkey.

"There is no authority throughout Russia," he said. "The question of recognition of the Soviet government has never been proposed or discussed."

Lloyd George declared, amidst an outburst of cheering, that the indemnity "will be no easy one." He asked that the delegates "who are trying to do their best" be left in peace, "because their work is not over and still full of perils to all."

"A stern peace and just peace, but not a vindictive peace is wanted," declared the premier. "I am going back to Paris and must have the fullest confidence of Parliament."

The Premier said the Allies had agreed unanimously not to publish the peace terms until they had been discussed.

First Class Blunder.

Much as the British government deplores conditions in Russia, the Premier continued, it is not its duty to commit England to a gigantic enterprise in order to improve conditions in Russia. There was no question, he said, of recognizing Russia. It had never been proposed and had never been discussed. The Premier denied trying to escape declarations made during the election campaign. The declaration regarding compelling Germany to pay was concurred in by all party leaders. The Conference decided not to publish the terms of peace. He said that would be a first class blunder. Premature publication could only serve to encourage resistance of the enemy. Lloyd George sharply criticized certain newspaper attacks made in connection with the Peace Conference, which tended to cause dissension.

William Adams, leader of the Labour Opposition, following Premier, said in regard to the latter's address: "The speech was eloquent, but not entirely satisfactory."

Lumber Prices Bound to Go Up

CHICAGO, April 16.—Roger E. Simmons, who was sent to Russia in 1917 as a member of a United States Government Commission to study the lumber situation in the war devastated countries, and who was taken prisoner by the Bolshevik Government and at one time sentenced to be shot, told the Legislative Commission investigating high prices for building material that the world was facing a lumber famine.

Prices of lumber, he said, were certain to rise in the next few years because of the unprecedented demand which would come from the reconstruction of the war-stricken regions of Europe. The major portion of this lumber, he said, would have to be supplied by the United States and Canada.

Canada already has received an order from the British Government for one billion feet of lumber, while this country has received orders for one million feet of oak from England and twelve shiploads of lumber from Italy.

DENIES REPORT.

COPENHAGEN, April 16. — A Vienna despatch says Herr Buehm, member of Soviet ministry at Budapest, has arrived there and has declared that Archduke Joseph, Dr. Alexander Wekerkle, the former premier and Baron Joseph Szeprenyi, Minister of Commerce, have not been executed, as reported yesterday at Berlin.

TEN FIANCEES, ALL MISSING

Paris Bluebeard Under Arrest Suspected of Wholesale Murder.

MADE LOVE TO WIDOWS

PARIS, April 16. — The disappearance of a number of women from a suburb of Paris has led to the arrest of Henri Laudru, who, the Paris detectives assert, may be able to solve the mystery of their continued absence from home.

The missing women were acclared to have made a specialty of clared to have made a specialty of of becoming engaged to widows. The police authorities say that from the papers found in Laudru's possession, they believe that he had at least ten fiancees who cannot be found.

Under the name of George Dupont, Laudru hired in 1915, a lonely villa in the outskirts of Gambass, on the border of the Rambouillet Forest. The villa is almost surrounded by walls and is 550 yards from the nearest house. The allegation is made that Laudru only made brief visits to the villa, accompanied by women, none of whom was seen to leave the place.

One woman visited the house with her two small dogs, the bodies of which were found Sunday under a heap of leaves. They had been strangled by a cord. Women's dresses, a revolver, a rifle, a blood stained mattress, and a cord similar to that with which the dogs were strangled, are alleged to have been found in the villa.

Laudru, according to statements made by the detectives, admitted having used various names because he had been imprisoned several times. He denied, the authorities say that he did away with any of the women but said that he killed the dogs at the request of the woman because it was too expensive to feed them.

Will Continue Lux Demonstration

During the past week the keenest interest has been taken in the Lux demonstration which is being held in the main floor of Turnbulls and yielding to the insistent demands of the ladies who were through some difficulty to attend the demonstration last week, the management of the store has been fortunate in inducing the demonstrator to remain here until Thursday to continue to show the Peterboro ladies the proper way to wash their fine blouses etc. The demonstrator is pleased at all times to give practicall advice to any one who wishes to know how properly to handle washing mixture for any purpose.

NEW YORK WORLD

The picture is a record of political events from the time when the German Government, convinced that war was necessary to save militarism, brought on the conflict, up to the present day.

Several meetings between Mr. Gerard and the Kaiser were shown on the screen, including the interview in which the Kaiser declared he would stand no nonsense from America after the war. How it was planned in Berlin to sink the Lusitania, how the Germans finally agreed to abandon ruthless submarine warfare, how they finally gave Mr. Gerard only six hours' notice of the resumption of ruthless warfare, how they told him America would not fight, were shown graphically.

The picture should prove a valuable piece of American propaganda.

German Peace Delegation Will Pass Over Route Taken By Once Victorious Armies

Will Have An Opportunity of Visualizing Some of the Damage Wrought by the Huns—Germans Will be Given Seventy-two Hours in Which to Sign Document.

(United Press.)
(By William Philip Simms.)

PARIS, April 16. — The German peace delegation, officially ordered to Versailles on April 25th, will follow the route over which their armies marched to the gates of Paris in 1914, it was learned to-day.

But the enemy, as in 1914, will not enter Paris. They will be forced to skirt the city and proceed directly to their quarters in Versailles.

The Germans, numbering about one hundred and seventy-five, will arrive in Cologne, where they will take a special train. They will be whirled towards Versailles through scenes of devastation wrought by German hands, possibly under the direction of some of the minor officials in the party.

They will pass Liege, the first city to suffer from Hun frightfulness, Namur and Maubeuge, where the doughty Belgians held the Germans at bay until the British and French could organize resistance in their rear; Charleroi, where Sir John French's "Contemptibles" fought and died; and the great Hindenburg line defences; the battlefield of the Somme—all with their memories of death and carnage, of heroism and of civilization at stake.

The Crucial Day.

Arriving at Versailles the Germans will be quartered at Hotel Reverrs, and the Hotel Petit Vatel.

The strictest precautions will be taken to prevent them from straying into Paris, lest "unfortunate incidents" should occur. They will meet with the allied representatives in the Trianon Palace Hotel. There Premier Clemenceau will read them the text of the treaty, bringing the actual crucial day down to about May 10th.

On or about that day—the anniversary of the treay of Frankfort, which ended the Franco-Prussian war in 1871—the world will see the state of war removed and peace proclaimed, or the Germans may be given 72 hours notice of a rupture of the armistice if they refuse to sign. Such seems to be the present programme as outlined in French circles to-day.

It has been definitely determined, it was said, that only the actual signing of the treaty will take place in the Hall of Mirrors at the Palace.

While there has been no official confirmation that a time limit will be placed on the Germans, the French consider such action as probable, else the discussions would drag on without end.

Express Employees Still On Strike

Are Determined to Win—May Involve Other Companies and Railroads.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 16. — There has not been one desertion from our ranks and the strikers are solid and determined, stated W. J. McPherson, general organizer of the Canadian Express employees to-day.

"All our pickets are on duty this morning in the rain and a determination to win exists on every side. I have wired General President A. Mosher at the time is opportune to extend the strike to the other members of the brotherhood and this is likely being taken into consideration now. Should this be decided upon it will involve over 7,000 employees of the other express and railway companies."

VICKERS TO START SERVICE

Plan to Charge $340 For Trip Across the Atlantic.

LONDON, April 14.—Vickers Limited are about to start a trans-Atlantic air service with airships which the company was building for the British Navy when the armistice was signed and which are no longer needed. The Pall Mall Gazette says. The passenger rate will be $240, and mail will be carried at the rate of $2,025 a ton.

The pioneer ship will have a gas capacity of 1,200,000 cubic feet and engines of 1,000 horsepower. Larger ships are being designed to carry 100 passengers.

Russia with means of resisting the invasion of Bolshevism.

"THE ROSARY"

"The Rosary," which will come to the Grand Opera House on Thursday, April 24th, tells a story that is fascinating in every way. The central and guiding figure is that of Rev. Father Brian Kelly, a Catholic priest, played by Oscar O'Shea, a former Peterboro resident, whose great aim in life is to do all the good he can for his fellow men, of whatever creed or lack of creed. But while the play and story drive home a great moral lesson, the play and story are not sermons, and the lessons are not driven home with long faces and hypocritical palaver.

In fact, the priest has a keen Irish sense of humor, spontaneous and scintillating, and this acts as a foil to his priestly calling and robs it of austerity, if not of firmness. By his adroitness and kindliness as well as by his keen insight into human nature, this priest is able to save a home from destruction and to bring order out of a chaotic condition of intrigue and wickedness. The evil element of the piece is embodied in a man who seeks revenge because another has won the love of the woman he sought as wife. He wantonly brings the loving wife into disrepute, and nearly wrecks her life by his machinations.

FOR RELIEP WORK SOLELY.

Although by thi. time the public should be thoroughly acquainted with the objects of the annual tag day of the Great War Veterans' Associations, yet there are individuals to be found who show by their remarks that they have so far failed to understand that the collections taken on the streets on the Saturday nearest the anniversary of the Second Battle of Ypres each year, are used solely as a relief fund. The money raised in this way is utilized in relieving distress and suffering among the families of those who have served. None of it goes to the maintenance of the club rooms that the Association maintains for the benefit of the members, or for the general work of the Association, the expense of which is taken care of by the fees that the Veterans pay in each month. The fund has been able to help many people who were temporarily in distress and it should be a source of comfort to the people of Peterboro that there is available in the city a fund upon which the returned soldiers and their families, who are in need of assistance, can call. Thanks to the generosity of the citizens, on cently, leaving her $2,000 life insurance, reported the sad news to her eastern relatives thusly: "Jim died this week. Loss fully covered by insurance."

TRUE TO FORM.

As the name of Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., does not appear in the list of the members of the Government who placed principle against party interest and voted against titles the other day, it must be taken for granted that the member for West Peterborough ran true to form. His voice was among the loudest of the chorus that condemned titles up hill and down dale, but when the time for voting came the doughty captain was among the missing from the ranks of those who voted as they talked. Instead of supporting the Nickle resolution against titles, which incidently was deserted by the mover himself, or the Richardson amendment, even more radical than the former, and likewise left to shift for itself by the member who moved it. Capt. Burnham was quick to get back into line and vote with the Government for the White amendment, which calls for an investigation of the matter by a special committee. It was a sorry performance on the part of Capt. Burnham and other members of the Government. As the Toronto Telegram

ADDRESS TO THE PETERBORO ART ASSOCIATION

(By FRANK MORRIS, 643 Aylmer street.)

To understand the man William Wordsworth and form a just estimate of his poetical art, we must take at least a glance at English Poetry in the ages that preceded; for Wordsworth was a heretic and a rebel in the ranks of poetry, a daring innovator, the leader of a forlorn hope.

The fact is that soon after the time of Shakespeare and Milton the very soul of Poetry somehow escaped the substantial body of verse that flourished (if one may so speak of a body uninformed with soul) during the Augustan Age of Reason. From Dryden and Pope to the middle of the 18th century, the vast bulk of so-called poetry was a uniform expression in monotonous couplets of commonplace thought; the form and language were both artificial, but sanctioned and sanctified by usage; poetic expression was reduced to a formula and the muse with her wings clipped and swathed in the bands of custom and authority became to all appearance dead as an Egyptian mummy, inert as a papoose and hardly more beautiful.

Apart from her men of action England owns no more loved or honored sons than her poets. Verse is justly held the highest expression in language of a nation's emotional thought, and in a literature of many eminences, England's crowning glory is surely her Poetry. In no other field of Art does her genius so transcend. Out of the confluence of three great races and tongues—Celtic, Anglo-Saxon and Norman—from Chaucer to Tennyson, what a mighty river of harmony has flowed!

And who can measure the influence of this divine art in the moulding of national character, humanizing, uplifting, ennobling? Wise, indeed, that friend of Andrew Fletcher of Saltoun who said, "Let me make a nation's ballads and I care not who make its laws."

All great works of art educate, not one but conveys a valuable lesson; and all great poets have a message to deliver; but the lesson and the message are implicit in their works, the greatest poetry is never didactic; the poet is not a preacher, he should be (as Shelley says):

"Hidden
"In the light of thought,
"Singing hymns unbidden,
"Till the world is wrought
"To sympathy with hopes and fears it heeded not."

Fortunately the soul of Poetry had not yet fled from Earth's confines, or even entirely from the haunts of men; this was made apparent by the golden sheaves of popular poetry, garnered by Bishop Percy, the vernacular Lyrics of Robert Burns, the rare voice of Collins, Gray and Blake, and the taste for Shakespeare and sane criticism of Charles Lamb.

But it was not till the publication of the epoch-making volume called 'Lyrical Ballads' by Wordsworth and Coleridge" that the fashionable world of City, Court and University began to have their eyes opened and their ears attuned to beauties of sight and sound entirely lost since the days of Shakespeare and Milton. The return to nature, heralded by Rousseau in France long before the Revolution was proclaimed in English letters in the year 1789. The romantic spirit entered once more its chosen home of Poetry, and with its return the realms of gold became bathed in the glamour of imagination. This revival or spiritual regeneration of English Literature, Theodore Watts-Dunton—the author of Aylwin—finely calls the Renascence of Wonder.

Nearly all our great poets have been recognized and loved if not by their fellowmen in general, at least by their brother poets. For the poet's nature is gentle, his sympathies are both wider and deeper than those of other men: he lives, like his art, by the affections, and he makes his appeal to the heart as well as to the head of his hearers; always to the heart first, and as Wordsworth himself finely says "What comes from the heart goes to the heart." That is why we see not once or twice in our rough island story, the love of a brother poet descend like a dove upon the head of his chosen master, in the form of a tender phrase.

Specier invokes the Father of English poetry as "Dan Chaucer, well of English undefiled." The singer of the "Faerie Queen" was so beloved by his brethren that we call him the Poets' Poet The Bard of Avon must have charmed all the Puritan out of Milton to be called "Sweetest Shakespeare, Fancy's Child.
Warbling his native wood notes wild."
Even rough Ben Wilson had his school of young admirers who loved to hear him call them sons and declare them sealed of the tribe of Ben: when he was buried in Westminister Abbey, a plain stone was left to mark his grave till a fitting inscription should be written; the turmoil of the times made this impossible, and Aubrey records in his memoirs how one Sir John Young, visiting the niche in Poets' Corner and seeing the blank slab, paid a stonemason 18d. to carve the immortal epitaph: "O rare Ben Jonson!" that still keeps sweet the memory of him who staged the humors of his time.

That Milton himself the acknowledged master of all succeeding English poets has had no such endearing tital is due in part to the solitary splendour of his genius. His power as a poet was so sublime that men were moved to admiration and awe rather than love. But there was another and a deeper reason; the great stream of our national poetry went underground almost suddenly on the death of Milton (1608-1674) to reappear in full flood only with Wordsworth (1770-1850) more than a century later.

The whole Augustan Age is barren of real poetry throughout the reigns of Dryden and Pope. "The Age of Reason," it has been called and the very phrase proclaims aloud the death of poetry. For poetry, as Milton well said, must be simple, sensuous and passionate; it is born of the heart, it is thought fired with emotion and transfiguring its whole world with the glamour of imagination.

If you look over the whole interspace between Milton and Wordsworth (1675-1798) you will find the entire world of fashion and letters given over to the production of monotonous verse (the everlasting heroic couplet), filled with artificial and insincere thought, couched in a barbarous language—a jargon perverted and debased from Milton and the Classics by Dryden and Pope, till the poet (so called) stood at anywhere from three to seven removes from the subject of his poetry. A false and pinchbeck art born in the stifling atmosphere of urban life and fed on the unwholesome vapours of patronage.

Two things, among many, stand out in the Poetry of the Age of Reason: Love of Nature is either dead or cherished in secret shame, and Lyric Verse is almost a lost art.

I said that the great river of English poetry went underground with the death of Milton. But there were signs here and there that it was working strongly under the surface at first far away from the fashionable world of Grub St. and Belgravia, in gushing springs about the famous Borderland—the Lowland Scots poetry of Ramsay and Ferguson that culminated in Robert Burns, and the Northern English Ballads colected by Bishop Percy (about 1760). Wordsworth himself was a dalesman of Cumberland quite near the Border; and it was his iron strength of character and steadfastness of purpose that by repeated hammer blows at last broke the fetters of custom and authority in English verse.

How these bonds had cramped the natural genius of men like Thomson (1700-1748), Gray (1716-1771) Collins (1721-1759) Goldsmith (1728-1774 and Cowper (1731-1800) no reader of the Seasons, the Pindaric Odes, The Deserted Village and The Task, but has often sighed to think. Even in Collins' lovely ode to Evening and Gray's exquisite Elegy, one of the most perfectly beautiful poems in the English language, the vicious taste of their age is apparent, both in the artificial diction and in the fondness for philosophy's pale abstractions of thought in preference to the strong coloring and vivid images proper to the poet.

Gray actually tore from the heart of his Elegy one of the sweetest stanzas of human affection in the verse of his day, because to his academic taste it was out of keeping with the rest; describing the grave of the poet moraliser, Gray had written just before the epitaph or closing pendant of three stanzas:

"There scattered oft the earliest of the year,
"By hands unseen are showers of violets found;
"The redbreast loves to build and warble there
And little footsteps lightly print the ground.

But after twice printing this tender little quatrain he finally withdrew it from the poem.

William Wordsworth was born in 1770 at Cockermouth in Cumberland on the border of his beloved Lake District. In early childhood he became passionately fond of these scenes. He had the true poetic temperament of extreme sensibility especially to the sights and sounds of Nature. As a child he romped and played with other children and took a keen delight in all forms of outdoor games. But long before he was conscious of the influences that were to mould his character and shape his life for him, he was drinking in the beauties of nature at every pore.

There is no man about whose inner life of the soul we know so much as about Wordsworth's. Not only can we read this life story between the lines of his nature poems, but in the very words of his autobiographical blank verse—especially Tintern Abbey, The Influence of Natural Objects and The Prelude. There never was a man of greater sincerity, a man more free from cant than Wordsworth and added to this he had a most amazing memory. He could recall at 75 years of age the very place and circumstances where some stray impression first struck him as a boy of ten. To most of us this faculty seems almost superhuman, but if we study Wordsworth's poetry and piece together with it all he has told us about himself; we shall find it no miracle after all; or rather, something less of a miracle than the faculty of poetic inspiration itself.

I cannot help thinking that Wordsworth closely resembled Richard Jefferies, only with a far stronger physique and with an imaginative power second only to that of Shakespeare and Milton. If you have ever read Jefferies' "Story of My Heart" you will partly understand Wordsworth's aching hunger for solitude and his passionate love of nature.

The observation of nature and the unconscious storing up of countless sense impressions marked his early boyhood; reflection, intense and prolonged meditation on nature and humanity, grew out of this in youth and early manhood. When he left his beloved mountains, his lonely dells and woods, for student life at Cambridge he found himself restless and unsatisfied; but even a return to his favorite haunts, though it brought him comfort and peace of mind, does not seem to have clearly shown him that if he was (as he intended) to devote his life to poetry, it was from nature he must draw his inspiration.

On leaving the University he went to France and was caught in the wild whirl of the Revolution. A true dalesman, he upheld the dignity of the human soul housed whether in prince or pauper, peasant or potentate. Had he not been called home peremptorily by his guardian, he would probably have shared the fate of the Girondists.

FRENCH SUFFERED EVER SINCE A BOY

"Positively I am in better condition now than I have been in fifteen years," said Chas. T. French, of 1736 Dundas street, West, Toronto, Ont.

"Ever since I was a boy," he continued, "I had stomach trouble. My food did not digest well, and I got into a general run-down condition that worried me for years. My back hurt me terribly and many a time I would have to quit work, and I lost so much life and energy that my work became a drudgery to me. Although I was taking medicines all the time, I kept getting worse, till I could hardly keep going at all.

"My wife got me a bottle of Tanlac and I soon felt it was brightening me out. I kept it up and now I can eat anything I like and it never hurts me at all. The pain in my back is entirely gone and I am so much better and stronger in every way that my work is a pleasure and I get through the day without feeling all tired and worn out."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

CLEAN-UP WEEK FOR KINGSTON

KINGSTON, April ..—Kingston has decided upon the first week of May as "clean-up week," when all householders will be expected to get busy and clean up their yards and move the ashes. For several years it has been the custom to have police constables make a yard inspection of the city, but this year for the first time the work is to be undertaken by the garbage collectors. They will look over the yards and report to the police, and summonses will be issued to the parties who have been negligent.

SOLD HIS LIFE SUPPLY.

Seaforth Man Got Tired of Guarding Dozen Barrels of Liquor.

SEAFORTH, April 11.—Recalling that two years ago Jacob Webber had secured acquittal when he was charged with having a dozen barrels of whiskey in his house, pleading he had laid in a stock for the lifetime of himself and wife, two license officials recently called to see how the stock was holding out. Webber told them he and his wife worried so much over guarding the supply that he had sold it to a passing stranger and didn't know where it had gone.

So he was hailed to court and fined $200 and costs for thus unloading.

Special Meeting of Council Was Held Last Evening

Council Has Started to Return the Cheques to the Tenderers—Letter From Gen. Williams.

A special meeting of the City Council was held last night to authorize the return of the cheque of the J. H. Tromanhauser Company of Toronto who were one of the tenderers of the bridge. This makes the second cheque of tenderers which has been returned, that of Mr. R. Sheehy being returned last night.

A letter of congratulation from Brigadier General V. S. Williams, who officially opened the Motor Show was read in which he congratulated the Health Association of the success of their venture and wishing them every success in the future. The letter follows:

Headquarters, Military District No. 3
Kingston, Ont., 14th April, 1919.

My dear Mr. Duncan,—

I desire to express my deep sense of gratitude to you ... citizens of Peterboro for the kind reception extended to me during my recent visit to Peterboro.

Not having visited Peterboro for some years, I was very much impressed with the City as a whole and the spirit shown by the citizens at large.

As I said in my speech in opening the Motor Show, I considered it a great honour to be present at the opening and now desire once more to congratulate you and the citizens of Peterboro on making the Show such a succecas for such a worthy object.

Will you please convey to the Chairman and Members of the Peterboro Health Association my hearty congratulations and I sincerely trust that the show was as much a success on the last two evenings as it was on the first.

With kindest regards,
Believe me to be,
Most sincerely yours,
Victor A. S. Williams.

His Worship Mayor Duncan,
Peterboro,
Ont.

Safe Robbers Get $11,900 Plunder in Three More Raids

New York, April 12.—Three more burglaries involving loss of $11,900 in money, Liberty Bonds and War Saving Stamps, were reported at Police Headquarters. It is the theory of the police that the same band was concerned in the nine thefts called to their attention on Monday.

Liberty Bonds valued at $10,000 were stolen from a safe of Meyer Brothers, shirt waist manufacturers, at No. 72 Madison avenue. The safe was not damaged and the police believe the intruders either found it unlocked or had the combination

Two safes were ripped open in the loft building at No. 21 Washington place. Fisher & Thompson, Inc., dealers in hatters' supplies, who occupy the fifth floor, lost Liberty bonds valued at $1,000; $200 in War Saving Stamps and $300 in money. On the third floor the burglars used a "can opener" on the safe of the University Button Company and took $400 in many. The police believe the intruders concealed themselves in the building late in the afternoon, and when employees had gone for the day entered the offices of the two firms.

The residence of the Misses Christobel and Davida C. Crain, sisters of Judge Thomas C. T Crain, of General Sessions, at No. 28 East Seventy fourth street, was looted of valuable antiques several weeks ago, it became known yesterday. The burglary occurred in the absence of the Misses Crain. Two hand-carved clocks, vases, ten oil paintings, two Japanese work baskets and a hand wrought copper boiler, all valued at $5,000, were taken. Judge Crain said the thieves overlooked many other valuable objects.

PRESBYTERIANS AND BAPTISTS UNITE IN SPECIAL SERVICE

Choir Over Fifty Voices Will Take Part.

Good Friday morning a Union Service of all Presbyterian and Baptist churches including Bethany Tabernacle will be held in the edifice of Murray Street Baptist Church at eleven o'clock.

It has been arranged to have a combine choir of over fifty voices under the direction of Mr. Asa Hunt who will himself sing "The Palms."

The service will occupy but the one hour from eleven to twelve o'clock but ministers of all the churches reported will participate.

The members of these denominations using their auto cars to bring the service those whose age or distance from the church would make attendance otherwise impossible.

It is most fitting that this should be so and that the spirit of unity should be manifest on the day made sacred by the death of Him who prayed "That they may be One."

The general public will receive a hearty welcome to what promises to be a service of great interest and spiritual profit.

FORMERLY RESIDED IN PETERBORO

TORONTO, April 16.—Alexina Deels, a Frenchwoman, formerly resident in Peterboro, latterly of Toronto, who died on 16th of January bequeathed her whole estate consisting of $1,500 in real estate, $50 clothing and jewelry, and $250 insurance, to her brother, Romeo Deels, a soldier, now in France.

Poetry of motion is synonymous with the motion of poetry when the latter passes is into the waste basket.

Rival Planes Will Start at Same Time

Bad Weather Still Holds up Trans-Atlantic Flight.

(Canadian Press.)

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 16.--With both the Sopwith and Matinsyde planes ready for their trans-Atlantic flight to-day, indications were that the rival crews would jump off at the same time when the weather conditions become favorable.

Pilot Harry Hawker and Lieut.-Commander MacKenzie Grieve, whose Sopwith plane has been ready for several days, are impatient at the delay occasioned by extremely bad weather and the cyclonic conditions over the mid-Atlantic. Pilot Raynham and Captain Morgan, although arriving here weeks behind the Sopwith flyers, now believe they have better than an "even break."

As matters now stand, Captain Morgan declared, "the Sopwith plane cannot get away more than two or three hours ahead of us. Our machine's greater speed can easily overcome the lead in an 18 or 19 hour flight, notwithstanding the fact that we have ninety hourse power less.

More Paving For Lindsay

LINDSAY, April 16.—The contract for the construction of a permanent roadway on Queen street to the boundary, also Lindsay street, south to the boundary, as part of the County Good Roads System; also a block on Peel street, between William street and Cambridge street has been awarded to the Standard Paving Company, at a cost of $2.90 per square yard.

Everybody Goes To a Circus

The oldest and best known entertainment in the world is the circus. Everybody at some period of life has visited and enjoyed this always novel amusement, which from childhood lingers in the memory as the "big event."

The gay colors, the funny clowns, the animal pets, the sensational and daring feats, the stirring music gives a thrill which no other event in the world can. This, combined with the comfort of the modern theatre, gives added zest to the big event coming to the Grand for two days, commencing Friday with matinees both days.

EASTER BRINGS NEW FASHIONS

EXPRESSING THE JOY OF THE VICTORY SEASON

EASTER is just around the corner. We would counsel a speedy selection of apparel if you would grace the Spring-time event. You'll find INDIVIDUALITY and EXCLUSIVENESS interpreted in the Easter Displays at Cressman's. The showing of fashionable apparel for women presents one of the most interesting collections of SUITS, WRAPS, DRESSES, BLOUSES, HATS, ETC., ever assembled in our showrooms—a revelation in original designs and unusual effects. Then too, we have comprehensive stocks of the many little things that are absolutely necessary to complete Milady's costume, such as footwear, lingerie, gloves, hose, neck-fixings, etc.

Easter Suits

Fashionable women may delight as never before in the individuality of their suit attire if the selection is made here. Every model that we offer is a character study, reflecting the versatile thought of the masters of Fashion. The qualities of the fabrics are fitting foundations for the innumerably cleverly designed trimming innovations. We mention just two of the many stunning models—

Cut on very distinctive lines, is an elegant suit of fine, all-wool Botany serge, in navy blue. The coat is tight and plain to the waist line, then from under a narrow belt two box pleats come down to points with narrow silk braid trimmed panels on either side. The price $67.50

Another navy serge suit is fashioned after the redingote style. Narrow cross-over belt in back, and a ripple braid trimmed skirt on the coat. The front is severely plain with a mannish tailored collar. The price is $55.00

Easter Frocks

New frocks, fitting the needs of the present frocks that have as many variations as there are women and occasions to wear them. There are tailored frocks—a whole division in themselves, made of finer woollens and satins. There are lovely gowns that serve a double purpose — meeting present-day requirements for afternoon or informal evening needs.

Charming to a degree, is a gown of combination satin charmeuse and georgette, plainly draped and verging on the Russian Tunic effect. The skirt is of satin with an overskirt of georgette elegantly braided with grey silk floss. Price $62.00

Youthful lines are so enticing in a pretty model dress of poilus blue georgette. It has touches of pearl grey georgette on the collar and cuffs, and the bodice and bottom of the over-skirt are embroidered with blue silk and grey braid. Priced at $47.50

Easter Wraps

The new wraps are so lovely, words are scarcely adequate to do them justice. The beautiful new shades brought forth this Spring are as delectable as the styles are different and smart. So many women are finding in our wrap assortments just the most satisfactory sort of selection. There are coats in cape lines and capes, and capes in lines entirely modish.

Picturesque, yet eminently serviceable withal, is a Dolman wrap made of elegant French velours, in a beautiful rookie brown shade. It is belted across the front. Pipings and collar of poilus blue velours. The price is $49.00

If your fancy urges a cape, you'll be sure to like this model in navy blue serge. Lined throughout with plaid silk that runs out at the top to form part of the collar. Loose panel back edged with black silk fringe. Price $49.00

Blouses for Easter

Blouses chart the way of Spring, quite as if they had realized the high favor of the suits, and they refresh everyone who sees them with their different ways. Georgette crepe holds full sway as far as material goes, in all the new enticing spring-time colorings. It makes a fitting background for the beautiful bead and embroidery trims.

A lovely suit blouse, comes in beige georgette with panel front and back of navy georgette, embroidered with black and red beads. Small collar in the back. Price $19.50

Fine Lingerie

The excellence in shapeliness and dainty charm in our showing of silken lingerie will appeal instantly to the discriminating woman. These undergarments are fashioned from the finest quality crepe de chine and washabl satin.

There's a flesh color crepe de Chine envelope chemise that will win your heart at once, with it's charming simplicity. Bandeau yoke of flesh satin with inserts of torchon lace. Trimmed with tiny blue rosebuds and blue ribbon. The price $18.50

Practical as well as dainty because they wear and wash so well are the Italian silk "undies"—combinations, vest, knickers—in both white and flesh. Priced from ..... $2.98 to $5.50

Easter Hats

A revelation in correct millinery awaits the visitor to the Millinery showrooms. Our own adaptations of the most select and advanced modes — characterized by attention to individual type requirements, which women of discriminating judgment appreciate.

Simplicity tends to elegance, in a pretty hat of a large Capeline shape. It has a champagne georgette top with black lisere braid edge, and black satin facing. The trim consists of narrow Foch blue ribbon and pink and blue daisies. Price $20.00

There's a very charming pattern hat, large, slightly drooping shape, and all black. Made of lisere straw with front of brim of maline with bandings of sipper. For trimming, it boasts of a single black jet ornament across the front of the crown. Priced at $20.00

A dust color straw crown has a corresponding shade in georgette for a brim, and this brim turns up sharply in the back, making an attractive and distinctive shape. The trimming is of large velvet poppies of a lighter tone and poilus blue ribbon. Priced at $12.00

Gloves for Easter

New Gloves—that very essential part of Milady's Easter Costume—are here in the approved styles and favored colorings for Spring 1919. There's a wide selection, too, in the ever-popular silk gloves, kid gloves and gloves of washable capeskin.

Washable capeskin gloves, well cut from very pliable skins, may be had in white, natural, brown and black. Plain or fancy backs. Priced at ..... $2.50, $2.95 and $3.25

Plain kid gloves, fine soft qualities, come in whates, tans and blacks. Priced at ..... $2.00 and $2.50

Silk gloves may prove the solution to your color problem. In the new sand and dust shades, white, black, taupe and smoke grey. "Queen Quality and "Kayser" makes. Prices 75c to $1.50

Hose and Underwear

Correct silk hosiery must be worn with your new shoes. We have a pleasing array of hose, correct for footwear fashions of Spring and Summer. The practical and smart are combined in our well selected assortments.

Fine summer underwear must also be on Milady's purchasing list these days. Let us advise you that our new stocks are well worth seeing.

Fancy silk stockings are very much the vogue at present. We have them in black, white and grey with fancy stripes and clocks. Prices ..... $2.00 and $2.25

A very specially priced line of silk hose comes in colors—black, white, navy, castor, light and dark sand, paddy green. Price $1.19

Summer vests and combinations, lovely, fine knit underwear with plain and fancy tops. And some with tape or ribbon shoulder straps. Various prices.

THE GREAT WAR VETERANS

The Great War Veterans's Association has been responsible for obtaining more than $2,000,000 in settlement of claims advanced on account of widows, orphans, soldiers' dependents, and Veterans of the Great War.

It led in the agitation which resulted in the M.S.A., and was largely responsible for the increase in the pensions, separation allowances, post discharge pay and war bonus, the extension of vocational facilities and improvement in treatment given to comrades returned to Canada.

No organization had more to do with the Ontario and Dominion Governments setting aside twenty-seven million dollars for town planning and housing during the period of reconstruction.

The problems of the returned soldiers and the dependents of those who will never return can be adjusted by the G.W.V.A. with greater satisfaction than is possible through any other organization in the Dominion of Canada.

The G.W.V.A. extends a hearty welcome to all returned men to call at their club rooms with any grievances they may have, such as—

Difficulties with pay;

Assistance in finding employment;

Arranging for Vocational Training;

Adjustment of Pensions;

To help and advise the widows and orphans of those who have paid the supreme sacrifice.

The service of the G. W. V. A. is entirely at the service of all returned men in matters of this description.

The G.W.V.A. is glad to welcome every returned soldier and give them advice and help at any time.

It is the desire of the G.W.V.A. that every returned soldier should get a square deal, and even more, to help each returned soldier back to civil life and civil activity.

Remember the Tag Day drive on Saturday, April 19th.

Returned Men Have a Big Song Success at Empire

Three returned wounded Veterans are at the Empire this afternoon and to-night with a big song success entitled "The Boys we Left Behind 'Over There,'" written by themselves. The song is a beautiful memory song, dedicated to our fallen heroes. Sapper Browning sings the song, and although having five wounds in his back, he has a powerful voice, and his words are very distinct and quite different from most singers. He proves that he has one of the greatest of war songs.

Authorities Use Prompt Measures

Order Has Been Restored in All Parts of India.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, April 16.— Prompt measures taken by Indian authorities to deal with the disturbances that occurred at Bombay, Almedebab and other points have resulted in restoration of order everywhere, says a despatch from Bombay, filed on Sunday. In disorders at Almedebad, government buildings were burned down and a train conveying troops from Bombay to restore order was derailed by removal of rails. There were no casualties, but the line was blocked and telegraphic communication interrupted.

Express Employees Still On Strike

Are Determined to Win—May Involve Other Companies and Railroads.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 16. — There has not been on, desertion from our ranks and the strikers are solid and determined, stated W. J. McPherson, general organizer of the Canadian Express employees to-day.

"All our pickets are on duty this morning in the rain and a determination to win exists on every side. I have wired General President A. Mosher that the time is opportune to extend the strike to the other members of the brotherhood and this is likely being taken into consideration now. Should this be decided upon it will involve over 7,000 employees of the other express and railway companies."

VICKERS TO START SERVICE

Plan to Charge $340 For Trip Across the Atlantic.

LONDON, April 14.—Vickers Limited are about to start a trans-Atlantic air service with airships which the company was building for the British Navy when the armistice was signed and which are no longer needed, The Pall Mall Gazette says. The passenger rate will be $240, and mail will be carried at the rate of $2,025 a ton.

The pioneer ship will have a gas capacity of 1,200,000 cubic feet and engines of 1,000 horsepower. Larger ships are being designed to carry 200 passengers.

Man is good; his enemies are bad; and the rest of the world is indifferent.

"Hands Off," Says Premier in Commons

Says Situation at Peace Conference is Still Full of Perils.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, April 16.—Replying in the House of Commons to-day to criticisms of his activities at the Peace Conference, Lloyd George said the situation was still full of perils for all countries. He pleaded that those who were trying to do their best be left alone.

Bolshevism is Waning in Europe

Says Premier Lloyd George, Although Armies Are Growing.

LONDON, April 16.— "We do not despair of the Russian situation," declared Premier Lloyd George, in addressing Parliament this afternoon.

"Although the Bolshevik forces are growing, Bolshevism is waning. We are supplying the countries bordering Russia with means of resisting the invasion of Bolshevism.

"THE ROSARY"

"The Rosary," which will come to the Grand Opera House on Thursday, April 24th, tells a story that is fascinating in every way. The central and guiding figure is that of Rev. Father Brian Kelly, a Catholic priest, played by Oscar O'Shea, a former Peterboro resident, whose great aim in life is to do all the good he can for his fellow men, of whatever creed or lack of creed. But while the play and story drive home a great moral lesson, the play and story are not sermons, and the lessons are not driven home with long faces and hypocritical palaver.

In fact, the priest has a keen Irish sense of humor, spontaneous and scintillating, and this acts as a foil to his priestly calling and robs it of austerity, if not of firmness. By his adroitness and kindliness as well as by his keen insight into human nature, this priest is able to save a home from destruction and to bring order out of a chaotic condition of intrigue and wickedness. The evil element of the piece is embodied in a man who seeks revenge because another has won the love of the woman he sought as wife. He wantonly brings the loving wife into disrepute, and nearly wrecks her life by his machinations.

Roads Are Bad Around Warsaw

Automobile Traffic Tied Up at Many Places.

WARSAW, April 15. — The roads were so bad last week that cars did not venture out much. Of the few that did, several were stalled in different points.

Pte. Vernon Ellis has returned home from overseas.

Mr. Charles Ellis has bought out Mr. Henry Clement's blacksmithing business, and took possession Monday.

As Friday, 18th April, is Good Friday, the meeting of the "King's Daughters'" Girls' Club will be postponed until Friday, April 25th. It is hoped that all members and all who wish to become members will be present on that afternoon.

Owing to the very bad condition of the roads, the social evening to have been held by the Young People's Society, Cottesloe, on Wednesday evening, has been postponed for two weeks.

Attendance Small.

The rain and the bad roads on Thursday afternoon was responsible for a small attendance at the Women's Institute. Mrs. James Moore had an excellent paper on "Women's Part in Reconstruction." There must be house-cleaning, mental, moral and physical. Useless old ideas and methods must be done away with. We need a broader outlook on life, so that we may do good and live a life worth while.

McDonnel St. Sewer By-law Reviewed By the City Clerk

Trial Began Yesterday Afternoon and Continued Through a Night Session—Facts Are Familiar—Plaintiffs Question Council's Good Faith.

OTHER EVIDENCE

City Clerk Armstrong was on the stand from 7.30 until 10 o'clock last night in the trial of Mr. G. W. Hatton's application for the quashing of the city's by-law authorizing the construction of a sewer on McDonnel street, from Cambridge street to the Monaghan road, which was chiefly intended to provide a connection to Mount St. Joseph across the boundary in North Monaghan township. His testimony was almost entirely the presentation of the records of the Board of Works, the City Council, the local Board of Health and the Provincial Board of Health, all of which bodies had approved this propose work as a local improvement. Mr Armstrong's sheaf of records was complete, forming a chronological history of the by-law from its inception last September until Mr. Hatton's motion in the Supreme Court was directed by Mr. Justice Logie in Toronto to be tried as an issue at the present sittings. To those who follow the reports of the Council meetings there was nothing unfamiliar in the evidence offered yesterday.

Mr. R. R. Hall, assisted by Mr. J. F. P. Birnie, represented the plaintiff, and Mr. Daniel O'Connell of Toronto, with City Solicitor Widdifield acted for the city.

The case opened with a preliminary discussion by Council and Mr. Justice Lennox upon the question at issue. Mr. Hall stated that he would endeavour to show that this sewer was for the sole benefit of parties living outside of the city, and not for the benefit of any person within the city, that it was not necessary or desirable on sanitary grounds, that the lands on both sides of that part of McDonnel street were vacant, and that the owners objected to the construction of the sewer.

"The City Council has wide discretionary powers in these matters," His Lordship remarked, "and you will have to go to the extent of showing bad faith on their part."

"That's what we propose to show," said Mr. Hall.

"If the by-law was passed at the solicitation of some person and couldn't be in the public interest, of course it could be set aside," Justice Lennox added.

Mr. Hall stated that he intended to show the sewer subserved the interest of private persons.

A Map and a Tip.

Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, land surveyor was first called. He submitted a map he had prepared of the district, centring about the junction of McDonnel street and Monaghan road.

His Lordship studied the map which was a comparatively large one complimented Mr. Fitzgerald, and suggested for the benefit of the lawyers that it was advisable in such cases to prepare a small sketch which the judge could keep on the bench at his elbow for reference as the evidence was unfolded. Mr. Fitzgerald was the last witness before the 6 o'clock adjournment, and when court resumed at 7.30 the large map was set up in easy view near the witness box.

The City Clerk's Volumes.

City Clerk Armstrong verified copies of the minutes of the Board of Works meeting on September 6th 1918, when a resolution was passed recommending that the city construct the sewer, the sum to be paid by Mount St. Joseph as rental for this service to be paid later.

The next resolution was passed by the Board of Health on September 10th, when this body recommended the construction of the sewer as necessary and desirable in the interests of the community on sanitary grounds.

"What was the reason advanced for the construction of this sewer on McDonnel street?" Mr. Hall asked.

"The condition of the cess pools at Mount St. Joseph was the main reason I remember."

Mr. Armstrong recalled that Dr. Amys had expressed the view that the opinion of the property holders should be obtained, but at the meeting it was pointed out that this was unnecessary under the statute. A subsequent meeting of the Board of Works also recommended the work and the Council ratified the report at its regular meeting. An amendment by Ald. Edgar, seconded by Ald. Dobbin, urging that the Board of Works report be sent back for further consideration was defeated.

"So there was some division of opinion in the Council?" Mr. Hall suggested.

"I remember Ald. Edgar's argument," Mr. Armstrong answered. "He proposed that the Council should first annex the property of Mount St. Joseph or that the Council should determine upon a settled policy whereby sewer extensions and connections to other parties living outside the city."

On September 27th at another meeting of the Board of Works, it was decided to rescind the former resolution to allow another conference between the committee and the representatives of the Mount, but this clause was struck out of the Board's report at the regular meeting of the Council on October 7th.

A Special Committee.

A special committee was appointed composed of Aldermen Worth, Taylor, Weir, M. McIntyre and A. A. McIntyre, to meet representatives of Mount St. Joseph and decide what sum should be paid by the Mount for the use of the sewer. On October 17th Ald. Worth verbally reported the result of their conference and a by-law was passed authorizing the execution of an agreement with Mount St. Joseph for the construction of the sewer At the same time the customary resolution was passed providing for the notification of the property owners on McDonnel street who would be affected by the proposed sewer.

On November 4th the agreement was signed by both parties.

Mr. Justice Lennox— There was nothing in the by-law regarding the amount that was to be paid as rental. Was there no objection raised in Council to that form of procedure?

Mr. Armstrong—No, I don't think so. The amount was to be approved by the Mayor and chairman of the Board of Works.

Mr. Hall—How was the agreement drawn up?

"I think the special committee must have met the city solicitor."

Mr. Justice Lennox— Were you at any meeting at which the terms of the agreement were determined?

Mr. Armstrong—No my Lord.

An Anticipatory Clause.

The agreement contained a clause to the effect that if the city were restrained or delayed in or prevented from building the sewer, the Council should not be liable for any default in carrying out the terms of the agreement.

Mr. Hall inquired about the reason for that clause so worded.

Mr. Armstrong—I think they were Mr. Gordon's own words.

Mr. Justice Lennox—Was there anything said in Council that there might be litigation?

"Not up to that point."

Mr. Armstrong stated that there were no houses on McDonnel street fronting the proposed sewer extension.

"They would be encumbered by this sewer," Mr. Hall observed.

Continuing the chronology of the events—Mr. Hatton interviewed the Council on December 2nd, stating that he had been instructed to oppose the proposed sewer extension. He and the other property owners on that part of the street didn't want the sewer at that time.

At that meeting By-law 2125 was passed ,authorizing the construction of a sewer on McDonnel street from Cambridge street to the Monaghan road on sanitary grounds as a local improvement.

Needs of Mount St. Joseph.

To Mr. Hall Mr. Armstrong stated that the Council was influenced by the sanitary needs at Mount St. Joseph and not from any conditions arising in the city itself.

Mr. Hall—The by-law speaks of the sewer having been determined as necessary and desirable in the public interest on sanitary grounds. What discussion was held in Council by which that was determined?

Mr. Armstrong replied that the needs of Mount St. Joseph had been largely considered. It had also been stated that the property on McDonnel street west might be affected by cess pool conditions from Mount St. Joseph.

"The lots were not built up," Mr Hall remarked.

"Was it ever suggested?" Mr. Hall asked, "that this sewer was necessary for sanitary reasons arising out of conditions inside the city?"

Factory to Extend.

"Not from any conditions that arose out of the city," Mr. Armstrong replied. He remarked that the Bonner-Worth had announced their intentions to build a factory on part of McDonnel street and would require the extension of the sewer.

"But that was only a matter of some 300 feet out of 700 feet to the boundary," Mr. Hall commented.

Mr. Armstrong's memory and memoranda followed the negotiations through February when Mr Hall entered upon the scene as solicitor for Mr. Hatton and forwarded several letters to the Council that portended legal proceedings if the by-law were not rescinded.

The Council responded by instructing the City Solicitor to defend the by-law if action was launched against it.

Mr. Hall directed a series of questions to the city's sewage disposal system and adduced the opinion that the city's problem would be increased by the connection to Mount St. Joseph, also that North Monaghan and Otonabee townships had begun litigation against the city some years ago over the pouring of raw sewage into the river.

Might Affect the City.

Mr. O'Connell then took Mr. Armstrong back over the evidence in cross-examination.

"Was there any description given by anyone of the conditions at the Mount?"

"Yes. Father Phelan told the Board. He said there was about sixty-five members of the community."

Mr. Armstrong said he remembered that at some meeting it was stated that the cess pool conditions at the Mount might affect the health of the city, but he could not recall the particular meeting at which this expression was made.

Under the agreement with the city, Mount St. Joseph was to pay the regular tax measured on Monaghan road and applied as if the property were on McDonnel street inside the city. They were also to pay the city's general rate.

Provincial Board Approved.

"After the resolution passed the Board of Works, was there any communication with the Provincial Board of Health?" Mr. O'Connell asked.

"Yes, there was the approval of John W. S. McCullough, Provincial Officer of Health.

Mr. Armstrong produced the official letter from the Provincial Board of Health.

Mr. Hall—Was the Provincial Officer of Health advised of the action that was being taken by Mr. Hatton?

Mr. Armstrong—Not that I am aware of.

Ex-Ald. Edgar Worth.

Ex-Ald. Worth stated that he had been a member of the special committee that had met Rev. Father Phelan in regard to the payment for the building of the proposed sewer. The Bonner-Worth factory, employing about 250 hands, was situated not far from the end of McDonnel street.

"I didn't mention that we intended to extend our factory," he said. "That was mentioned by some other member of the Council."

Mr. Worth, who was called by the defence because of a business appointment in Toronto to-day, stated that the committee had visited Mount St. Joseph. The soil was not adapted for cess pools. He thought that the terms of the agreement with the Mount were fair to both parties. He had noticed for a year or more a slime in the ditches along the Monaghan road near the corner of McDonnel street, and when Rev. Father Phelan first petitioned for this sewer, Mr. Worth then attributed the scum he had seen to faulty cess pools.

To Mr. Hall he admitted that he did not know what this surface matter was. It might have been the evidence of a frog pond.

Mr. Hall—Your real object in passing the by-law was to relieve the conditions Father Phelan had complained of?

Mr. Worth—That's what opened up the question.

Mr. Hall—And that was the reason the by-law was passed?

Mr. Worth—Yes.

Mr. O'Connell—The sole reason?

Mr. Worth—No. I was guided by the Board of Health's recommendation.

Mr. Justice Lennox—Did it occur to you as an alderman that the McDonnel street sewer should be extended in the interests of public health before Father Phelan described the conditions to you?"

Mr. Worth—No.

Witness stated that all the members of the Council but one had been in favour of the by-law.

"I didn't think it was in the interests of the city to have conditions like that," he added.

Mr. O'Connell — What influenced you in supporting the by-law to construct the sewer?

Mr. Worth—As a sanitary improvement and for the health of the general community of Peterborough, and of the teachers living at Mount St. Joseph who were teaching children in the Separate schools.

This Morning's Session.

This morning's witnesses were Ald. Edgar, Dr. Amys, William Buller and G. W. Hatton. The testimony on the whole added little to the foregoing evidence, and dwelt largely upon the considerations of the witnesses in their respective attitudes towards the McDonnel street sewer proposal.

Dr. Amys stated that he had given thought not only to the relief sought by Mount St. Joseph but also to possible effects on the general community from faulty cesspools.

Mr. Buller said that there were no unsanitary conditions within the city itself on McDonnel street that required the extension of the sewer. If is were built he believed it would add to the value of the property on that section of the street. It would not make any sanitary improvement at the present time for the owners of the property for the simple reasons that there were no houses on either side of the street. Mr. Buller said he was not surprised that the cesspools had not worked properly. They required sandy soil, but the ground in that locality had a rock bottom with clay on the top. He had known it as a boy, and expected that the sediment would flow out somewhere in their neighborhood.

COURT HELD IN BARN HUNDRED SPORTS FINED

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 16. —Early yesterday morning New York State troopers surrounded a barn near La Salle just over the line and caught one hundred or more sports from Niagara Falls, Thorold, St. Catharines and other places on this side who were conducting a cock-fight. Not a man escaped. A magistrate was procured and by lantern light he held court in the barn and fined each man $10. The birds were confiscated. Every man paid without a murmur.

Spent Social Evening at the Home of Teacher

Made Presentation of Set of Silver Coffee Spoons.

After attending the service at Trinity Church, the "Whatsoever Class" of Trinity Sunday School last evening spent a very pleasant hour at the home of their teacher, Mrs. P. B. Wright, it being the event of the Red Side entertaining the Green Side as the result of the recent contest.

The games and different diversions were all suggestive of the season, with the pretty decorations and refreshments to carry out the ideas of Eastertide.

During the evening the president of the class, Miss Marion Hugan, made an address of appreciation to Miss Parker and Miss Murray, who so kindly gave their help and direction towards the success of the recent play, "The Chaperon," given by the class.

Following the address, Miss Eva Waugh presented a set of silver vases to each of the ladies, who graciously acknowledged.

At the close of a very happy evening, the girls having learned it was her birthday, gave Mrs. Wright a delightful surprise. Miss D. Stocker on behalf of the class in words that showed the love and high esteem in which they feel towards their teacher, presented Mrs. Wright with a set of silver coffee spoons.

Mrs. Morley B. Lyle and Miss E. Margaret Slight, of Toronto, were also guests of the evening.

Mr. Gordon Calls Mr. Hatton a "Consistent Objector"

The hearing of Kosma Svesthekoff the Russian charged with using seditious language which was to have been resumed this morning was postponed until to-morrow morning when an interpreter from Toronto will be present.

Mr. Gordon appeared for the defence and asked that the wife be allowed to see the prisoner but the Magistrate said that concession must be wrung from the Crown Attorney Mr. Gordon stated that Crown witnesses were allowed to speak to each other and the same privilege should be granted to the defence witnesses.

"Mr. Hatton is a consistent objector", asserted the defence lawyer. "He objected to the city building a sewer on McDonnell street and he objected to the offices offered him by the County but I will say", said Mr. Gordon taking a breather, "that Mr. Hatton is a conscientious objector."

PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER

NEW YORK, March 11.—"My Four Years in Germany," meaning James W. Gerard's record of his ambassadorship in Berlin, a photoplay of patriotic value and artistic importance, was received last night upon its presentation in the Knickerbocker Theatre with an outburst of applause and cheering unprecedented at such entertainments.

The photoplay is an adaptation of Mr. Gerard's book of the same title, and owing to the elaborate care exercised in casting and productoin in every detail, the narrative becomes intensely dramatic when pictured on the screen.

A genuine patriotic value of this photoplay is that it sets forth reasonably and in authentic detail the attitude of the Kaiser and his military and naval chiefs toward the United States from the very beginning of the great war, and will serve as a clear record of these events for millions of persons.

Will Fight Government

Situation in Berlin Shows Very Little Improvement.

By Frank J. Taylor.
(United Press.)

BERLIN, April 16.— The Radicals bolted from the National Soviet Congress to-night, declaring they will join the Spartacans and "fight the government relentlessly."

The action of the Radicals, which is expected to put an end to the Congress, resulted from a fight for control with the Majority Socialists. After the latter showed themselves to be in power, the Radicals refused to accept a compromise and elect some of their members to the Executive committee.

The general strike seems to have passed its crisis, with the government winning control.

Woman Cries For Bolshevism

LONDON, April 16. — There was an unusual scene in the House of Commons last night. During a discussion of a Labor motion on pensions two women in the Strangers' gallery began shouting, "You are murderers. You have not settled the last war. You are leading the people and workers to another war."

They were immediately hustled out by the attendants. Then a third woman attired in a long white cloak, in the same gallery, arose and exclaimed: "We want the Soviet."

This woman left quietly on the request of the attendants.

Voice of the People

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Dear Sir,—In Wednesday's issue of last week the gentleman who signed himself Machinist expressed his views very satisfactory to himself only, judging by the way he spoke with regards to the Daylight Saving.

By saying that nine out of every ten he spoke to were in favour of Day light Saving makes his statement very exaggerating. I believe myself that if it went to a vote he would no doubt see his mistake, however, seeing that in a few years he is going to buy that beautiful car he mentioned nine out of every ten will excuse him, then he will give us all a ride.

I would like to ask him if he has seen all the people running to work for fear that they would lose half an hour when the Daylight Saving passed here in this city, perhaps he was too busy trying to make a hundred yards in ten flat that he did not notice what was going on. He should also take into consideration that after a person works nine hours in a factory he should be free, also to bear in mind that a person going home to work in a garden after working hours is drawing himself that much closer to his death bed. Does the big fellow with a big car work after hours? I guess not. He makes enough money in a short time to enable him to buy all the necessaries of life with out sweating twelve hours out of every twenty-four.

If these fellows would like us to enjoy Daylight Saving let them give us eight hours per day and enough money so we can buy our car without working overtime in order to do so.

Thanking you for the space in your paper, I am

Yours truly,
"One that does not favour D.S."

SELL OLEOMARGARINE FOR ANOTHER YEAR

OTTAWA, April 12.—While there is no official announcement on the subject, it is likely that the Government will introduce legislation extending the time which makes legal the sale of oleomargarine for another year.

The present Order-in-Council placing a ban on the product expires with peace, so that unless legislation is introduced, the sale, manufacture and importation will become illegal in Canada when the treaty is signed.

In view of the present high price of butter it is felt that the sale of oleomargarine should be permitted for at least another year when, with conditions possibly back to normal, a permanent policy can be determined.

SAFEGUARD CHILDREN.

Go Slow Signs to be Put up in Kingston.

KINGSTON, April 10. — There is an old saying that it is the little things that count. What looked like a little matter taken up by the Board of Works, may result in big things, for their action will possibly mean the saving of the lives of many school children.

Realizing the danger there is to the children in front of the schools as a result of so many automobiles passing to and fro almost continuously, the Board had the matter under consideration, and in an attempt to lessen the number of accidents has has signs labelled "SCHOOL—GO SLOW" —and these have been placed in a conspicuous place in front of the schools to remind the drivers of cars about the little folk. It is believed that the signs will be effectibe.

FREEPORT BANK ROBBER GETS 10 YEARS IN SING SING.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 11.—Henry Berman, twenty-two years old, who last week pleaded guilty to burglary in the first degree, in the County Court here, in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank at Freeport, three weeks ago, was sentenced to Sing Sing for not less than ten years nor more than twenty years by Judge Lewis J. Smith.

Berman, with two others, held up the cashier of the bank and stole more than $3,000. In the police chase David Bronstein was shot and captured, Berman was caught, and on information obtained from the two, Frederick Rothernel was arrested.

Railway Line For the North

Mr. Gorden's Plan Will Be Forwarded to Commission.

Last night the Railway Committee met with Alderman Edgar in the chair, and there were present Ald. Turner, McIntyre, Taylor and Morrison.

The meeting was called by Ald. Edgar, at the request of Mr. G. N. Gordon, who suggested the advisability of the council recommending to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission the construction of an electric railroad from the Junction of the Irondale and Bancroft Railway with the Grand Trunk Railway running from Lindsay to Haliburton, and extending this line through the Townships of Galway, Harvey and Smith, to the old Cobourg and Chemong Railway at Chemong Lake.

Mr. Gordon said the Canadian General Electric had a lease of the Cobourg and Chemong Railway right-of-way from Peterboro to Lake Chemong, and as this would be used as a testing track for the electric locomotives, some arrangement could, no doubt, be made with the Canadian General for the use of this old right-of-way. Part of the line of the proposed railway, which would run through Harvey, and cross Buckhorn Lake at Hall's bridge, has been surveyed already ,and it would run through a fertile part of Smith township. This would mean cheaper farm products for Peterboro and the development of the townships to the North, which are rich in minerals, and are waiting railway accommodation so they may be developed.

Submitted Plans.

Mr. Gordon said that there was water power nearly all the way down the line from Furnace Falls to Hall's Bridge, all undeveloped, which would be of value if it could be transmitted to Peterboro.

In addition to that there would be connection with the Grand Trunk Railway at the Irondale and Bancroft Junction, from the Haliburton District, and as the Irondale and Bancroft Railway runs easterly across to the old Central Ontario Railway, now owned by the Canadian Northern, this would draw business from the east as far as Coe Hill.

Mr. Gordon presented blue prints showing the road and distance of the railways and also the location of the various settlements and villages which would benefit through being linked up with Peterborough City.

On motion of Ald. Turner and Ald. Taylor, the proposition was recommended to the Hydro-Electric Commission to investigate, and for a report as to the possibility of the Railway being constructed.

A Complete Understanding

Lloyd George is Well Satisfied With the Result.

LONDON, April 16. —Allied representatives in Paris have arrived at a complete understanding on the great fundamental questions that would effect peace with Germany, Premier Lloyd George declared in addressing the House of Commons to-day. The Allies had formulated their demands and he hoped that by the end of next week they would be presented.

The Premier said he would rather see Russian Bolsheviki until they see a way out of it, than see Great Britain landed in bankruptcy. He declared the United States and European powers had not been at variance and deprecated attempts to show dissension among delegates. Referring to the League of Nations deliberations he said the conference might have taken more time but for the fact that it was setting up machinery capable of readjusting and correcting possible mistakes. The Conference had to shorten its labours, said the Premier, because while it was trying to build, in many lands the foundation of society was tumbling to dust. No men ever worked harder or in better harmony than the Peace Conference, and he doubted whether any ever worked under greater difficulties.

Presentation to Mrs. (Rev.) Clare

A Social Evening Followed the Presentation.

WARSAW, April 16. — On Monday night after the regular League meeting a number of the members of the Women's Missionary Society and Epworth League workers, repaired to the parsonage where they presented Mrs. (Rev.) D. R. Clare, pastor's wife, with a life membership certificate of the Women's Missionary Society, and the following address

Dear Mrs. Clare,—

During the past three years in our loving association with you and yours, we have had splendid opportunity to appreciate your many good qualities. You have been a faithful and efficient member of our Women's Missionary Society and Epworth League, and you also have assisted ably in all the different departments of church work. It is, therefore, with much pleasure that we ask you to accept this life membership certificate of the Women's Missionary Society as a concrete proof of our feelings towards you, and we trust that as you look upon it in future years it will be to you a symbol of the pleasant relationships between you and ourselves. Our prayer is that as time rolls on your service in the Master's work shall continue to be a blessing to all those amongst whom you may labor, and that you yourself may experience the joy and satisfaction which only those who truly serve, know.

Signed on behalf of the Warsaw Women's Missionary Society and Epworth League

Mrs. Wason.
Mrs. G. Taylor.
Miss E. M. Dewart.

The address was read by Mrs. Wason, and the certificate was presented by Miss Dewart.

Mrs. Clare, who was completely taken by surprise, made a very suitable reply ,expressing her appreciation of thus being made a life member.

A short social time was spent and after singing Auld Lang Syne, the company dispersed.

Heat prostration, according to a European physician, is due to the reduction by the high temperature of acids in the human system.

It's a pity a man can't dispose of his experience at cost.

Meeting Was Well Attended

Chair Was Occupied by Miss Winnifred Parker.

About fifty one members of the girls of the Secondary Divisions of all Sunday Schools attended the meeting last evening in the Murray Street Baptist Sunday School and the roll called proved practically every Sunday School in the city to be represented. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. MacKenzie of Knox Sunday School and the rest of the evening was spent in readings and recitations of myths and legends pertaining to nature. Miss Littlefield took charge of the activities at the close ofg the section of the section of evening devoted to "seeing nature." The chair was occupied by Miss Winnifred Parker of the Y.W.C.A.

Frank McCullough Makes A Sensational Escape

I do not deserve liberty I know, but in my own heart I know that neither do I deserve the fate which awaited me on May the 2nd this year. I have been a bad lot I know and may God forgive me. But, gentlemen, I never have broken my given word, and I swear that I am not guilty of murder. The way is open to my freedom.

McCullough claims in his letter that he did not get justice at his trial because one witness perjured himself.

Jail officals were certainly outwitted.

"McCullough is a daisy," said Turnkey Adley.

"It is a fine thing when a guard inside the cell with a man falls asleep and lets his man get away. Where did he saw come from?"

"What do you think about the note?" "Well, the guard eats his meals with McCullough and there is a stove in the room and they had some coffee to drink."

In making his escape, McCullough has fulfilled his oft-repeated boast that he would not be at the gallows, which police officers and jail guards looked upon as talk, for the prisoner was very talkative.

Police Opinion.

In the opinion of many, McCullough has been planning his escape for some time. Before his trial he used to boast and exercise at the jail and jokingly remarked that he was getting into condition to make his escape. He was a thick set, rugged fellow, a powerful man to handle, and a boxer of fair ability, having boxed in the United States. He was very active with his feet and hands.

After the sentence of death was passed on him, McCullough changed his manner. He showed at first signs of a nervous breakdown, and then with daily visits from his spiritual adviser was more cheery and spent much of his time reading passages from the Bible, writing letters and playing games with his "death watch."

Sheriff Mowat stated to-day that he is investigating McCullough's escape and would send his report to Inspector Dunlop, Inspector of Prisons at Queen's Park.

"Will there be a public investigation?" "That depends on the authorities. I will conduct my own investigation."

Ellis on the Job.

Ellis, the hangman, was in Toronto the other day making arrangements for the execution of McCullough, and visited the Sheriff's office. He is at present in Ontario and intended to come to Toronto and stay for the hanging.

Currell, the guard keeping watch over Frank McCullough at the time of his escape, is a returned soldier. He was wounded on October 10, 1916. He had been in the trenches only 11 days when a bullet struck him in the hand. He went to the front on Sept. 29. Prior to his enlistment he was a tinsmith by trade. A younger brother was killed in action about a month before Pte. E. Currell was wounded.

Reward of $1,000.

TORONTO, April 16.—At 2 p.m. it was announced at the Parliament Buildings that a reward of $1,000 had been offered for the arrest of the murderer, Frank McCullough.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFUL

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called 'hair tonics" in the world is a simple old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Compesee) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three, mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and 1-2 drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again, rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on your scalp as tight as a vise. Dandruff will disappear. You will find fine downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its result.

Also Twenty Billions of Bonds at Low Interest.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, April 14.—Germany, under the Peace Treaty, must pay five billion dollars in cash, or equivalent in commodities, before May 1, 1921. She must also issue immediately to the Allied and associated Governments twenty billion dollars of interest-bearing bonds. Interest on bonds until 1926 will be either two or three per cent., and after that date five per cent., according to the present plan. Bonds will be payable in instalments during a period of 35 years. They will probably be kept in control of the Central Commission of the Allied and associated Governments so that they shall not be marketed in quantities sufficient to break the price.

MRS. BALFAME

Hours later, it seemed to her, she was in the kitchen closing the door behind her. Something curious had happened in her brain, so trained to orderly routine, that it seldom prompted an erratic course.

She should have run at once to her husband, and here she was inside the house, and once more listening intently. It was the fancied sound that swung her consciousness back to its balance. She went to the front of the back stairs and called sharply.

"Frieda!"

There was no answer.

"Frieda," she called again. "Did you hear anything? I thought I heard some one trying to open the back door."

Again there was no answer.

Then, her lip curling at the idea of Frieda's return on Saturday night at eight o'clock, she went rapidly into the dining-room, carried the glass containing the lemonade into the kitchen rinsed it thoroughly, and put it away.

It was not until she reached her room that it occurred to her that she should have ascertained whether or not the key was on the inside of the rear hall door.

But this was merely a flitting thought; there were loud and excited voices down by the gate. In an instant she had hung up her automobile cloak and veil, changed her dress for a wrapper, let down her hair and thrown open the window.

"What is the matter?" Her tone was peremptory but apprehensive.

"Matter enough!" John Gifning's voice was rough and broken. "Don't come out here. Mean to say you didn't hear a shot?"

Two or three men were running about nearer the house. One paused under her window, and looked up, waving his hand vaguely.

"Shot? Shot? I heard—so many tires explode—What do you mean What is it?—Who—"

"Here's the coroner!" cried one of the group at the gate.

"Coroner?"

She ran down stairs, threw open the front door and went as swiftly toward th gate, her hair streaming behind her.

"Who is it?" she demanded.

"Now—now," Mr. Gifning intercepted her and clasped her shoulder firmly. "You don't want to go down there—and don't take on—"

She drew herself up haughtily. "I am not an hysterical woman. Who has been shot down at my gate?"

"Well," blurted out Gifning. "I guess you'll have to know. It's poor Dave."

Mrs. Balfame drew herself still higher and stood quite rigid for a moment; then the coroner, one of her husband's friends, came up the path and said in a low tone to Gifning, "Take her upstairs. We're goin' to bring him in. He's gone, for a fact."

Mr. Gifning pushed her gently along the path, as the others lifted the limp body and tramped slowly behind. "You go up and have a good cry," he said. "I'll phone for the Cummacks. I guess it was bound to come. There's been hot times in Dobton lately—"

"Do you mean that he was deliberately murdered?"

"Looks like it, seeing that he didn't do it himself. The damned hound was skulking in the grove. Of course he's made off, but we'll get him all right."

Mrs. Balfame walked slowly up the stair, her head bowed, while the heavy inert mass so lately abhorrent to his wife and several politicians was laid on the sofa in the parlour whose evolutions had annoyed him.

Mr. Gifning telephoned to the dead man's brother-in-law, then for the police and the undertaker.

Mrs. Balfame sat down and awaited the inevitable bombardment of her privacy by her more intimate friends. Already shriller voices were mingling with her heavier tones down on the lawn and out in the avenue. The news seemed to have been flashed from one end of Elsinore to the other.

CHAPTER VII.

Mrs. Balfame sat with Mrs. Battle, Mrs. Gifning, Mrs. Frew, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Cummack, and several of her other friends in her quiet bedchamber. It was an hour after the death of David Balfame and she had, for the seventh time, told the story of packing her husband's suit case, carrying it down stairs, returning to her room to undress, hearing the commotion by the gate. Yes, she had heard a report, but Elsinore Avenue—automobiles—exploding tires—naturally, it had meant nothing to her at the moment. No, he did not cry out—or if he did—her window was closed; it was the side window she left open at night.

She had accepted a bottle of smelling salts from Mrs. Battle, but sat quite erect, looking stunned and frozen. Her voice was expressionless, wearily reiterating a few facts to gratify the curiosity of these well-meaning friends, as wearily listening to Lottie Gifning's reiteration of her own story. As the night was warmer than usual she and her husband and the two friends that had motored in with them had sat on the porch for awhile; they had heard "Dave" come singing down Dawbarn street; two or three minutes later the shot. Of course the men ran over at once, but for at least ten minutes she was too frightened to move. One of the men ran for the coroner; if "poor Dave" wasn't dead they wanted to take him at once where he would be comfortable.

Mrs. Balfame's demeanour was all these solicitous friends could have wished; although they enjoyed tears and emotional scenes as much as any women, they were gratified to be reassured that their Mrs. Balfame was not as other women; they still regretted her breakdown at the Club, although resentfully conscious of loving her the more. And if they wanted tears, here was Polly Cummack shedding them in abundance for the brother she now reproached herself for having utterly despised.

Below there was a subdued hum of voices, within and without. The police had come tearing up in an automobile and ordered the amateur detectives out of the grounds; their angry voices had been heard demanding how the qualified fools expected the original footsteps to be detected after such a piece of idiocy.

Mrs. Balfame had shaken her head sadly. "They'll find nothing," she said, "If only I had known, I could have called down to them to keep out of the yard."

"Now, who do you suppose that is?" Mrs. Battle, who was short and stout and corsetted to her knees, toddled over to the window and leaned out as two automobiles raced each other down the avenue. They stopped at the gate, and in a moment Mrs. Battle announced: "The New York newspaper men!"

"Already?" Mrs. Balfame glanced at the clock and stifled a yawn. "Why it's hardly an hour—"

"Oh, a year or so from now they'll be coming over in bi-planes. Well, if our poor old boobs of police don't unearth the murderer, they will. They are the prize sleuths. They'll find a scent, or spin one out of their brains as a spider spins his web out of his little tummy—"

Mrs. Cummack interrupted: "Sam is sure it is Old Dutch. He's gone with the constable to Dobton."

Dobton, the county seat, and the centre of the political activities of East Brabant, intimately connected with the various "towns" by trolley and telephone, embraced the domicile of Mr. Konrad Kraus, amiably known as "Old Dutch." His home was in the rear of his flourishing saloon, which was the headquarters of the county Republicans. David Balfame had patronized—rumour said financed—the saloon of an American aired by Erin.

Another automobile dashed up. "Sam, I think; yes, it is," cried Mrs. Battle.

A few moments later Mr. Cummack appeared upon the threshold.

"Nothin' doin'," he said gruffly. "Old Dutch's got a perfect alibi. Been behind the bar since six o'clock. It's up to us now to find out if he hired a gunman; and we're on the trail of others too. Poor Dave had his enemies all right."

He paused and looked tentatively at his weary but heroic sister-in-law. His own face was haggard, and the walrus moustache he had brought out of the North-west was covered not only with dust but little moist islands made by furtive tears. With that exquisite sympathy and comprehension that men have for the failings of other men, which far surpasseth that of woman, he had loved his imperfect friend, but he had a profound admiration for his sister-in-law, whom he neither loved nor pretended to understand. He knew her surfaces, however, as well as any one, and would have been deeply disappointed if she had carried herself in this trying hour contrary to her usual high standard of conduct. Enid Balfame, indeed, was almost a legend in Elsinore, and into this legend she could retire as into a fortress, practically impregnable.

SWILL BARREL CONFISCATED IN MISTAKE FOR A STILL

PARRY SOUND, April 12.—Another arrest was made this week by Chief Constable Kidd and Provincial Constable Knight, and the result was the finding of a "Mash" at the home of Wally Parker, Wakefield Street, and a small quantity of home made potheen. No still was found, and nothing in imitation of one, and at the Police Court Parker pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

The next investigation was not so successful, and Inland Revenue Officer Mike Shaughnessy, of Barrie, ran into a swill barrel containing rotten prunes, raisins, and apple and potato parings in a keg at the residence of J. Hyman of William Street. At the Police Court the joke was on the inspector, and he had to return to the owner the two kegs, one tin boiler, some old garden hose, and other truck, as the case against Hyman was dismissed and the appearance of the articles brought into the court showed they could not have been used for the purpose of making liquor, but were receptacles for brewing houses scraps, etc., for chicken feed.

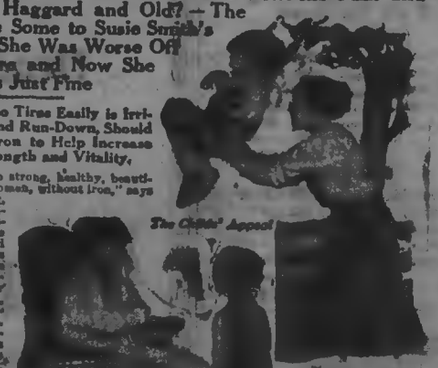
Mother, Why Don't You Take Nuxated Iron

And Be Strong and Well and Have Nice Rosy Cheeks Instead of Being Nervous and Irritable All the Time and Looking So Haggard and Old?—The Doctor Gave Some to Susie Smith's Mother and She Was Worse Off Than You Are and Now She Looks Just Fine

Any Woman who Tires Easily is Irritable, Nervous and Run-Down, Should Take Nuxated Iron to Help Increase Her Health, Strength and Vitality.



"There can be no strong, healthy, beautiful, rosy-cheeked women, without iron," says Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York physician and Medical Author. "I have strongly emphasized the fact that doctors should prescribe more organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for their nervous run-down, weak, haggard-looking vocal patients. Pallor means anaemia. The pale of anaemic women may be put in fair the finest fabric, the most delicate lace work, the handsomest tapestry, and behold they become weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and melancholy. While organic iron—the kind of iron found in the blood of women the roses go from their cheeks. Nuxated Iron contains the principle that makes rich red blood. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have increased astonishingly their strength and endurance simply by taking iron in the proper form and that, after they had in some cases been going on for months without getting benefit from anything. But don't take the old forms of inorganic iron, iron tonics, or mixtures of iron simply to save a few cents. The iron demanded by Mother Nature for the red coloring matter in the blood of her children is, alas, not that kind of iron. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

"How Aggressive" Nuxated Iron, which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists. Unlike the older inorganic iron preparations it is pretty generally stated, it does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee each package and unconditionally agree to refund the money to any dissatisfied purchaser if they will return the empty package. It is said to be sold in this city by all good druggists.

Why You Should be Interested in Pulleys

The Dodge Wood-Split Pulley is indispensable to industrial life in the sense that it is indispensable to economy in power transmission.

Metal pulleys will do the work of Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys, but their cost of operation averages $8.06 more per pulley per year.

The more economical operation of Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys is due to light, well-balanced construction, which eliminates weight friction, and to greater surface adhesion, which prevents belt slippage.

Our local stockers carry all Standard sizes, and will phone or wire orders to us for pulleys of special dimensions.

WASTING OUR WEALTH

FACTS ABOUT DISAPPEARANCE OF FORESTS.

People of Canada Are Blind to the Meaning of the Losses of Timber, and an Expert In Forestry Makes Some Plain Statements About the Situation—Food for Very Serious Thought.

A SEVERE indictment of the management of our forests, and especially of the attempts to safeguard them from fire, was made by Dr. C. D. Howe, Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto, at the recent annual meeting of the Commission of Conservation. He showed that not only is the present supply of pine, spruce, and balsam diminishing rapidly, but that the methods of logging and the repeated ravages of fire are killing off the young trees. The result will be in a few years the end of an industry which is exceeded only by agriculture and manufacturing as a producer of wealth to the country.

People are aware in a general way of the enormous loss to timber caused annually by forest fires, but the most destructive effects of these fires are not generally recognized or appreciated even by those who have our forests in their keeping. It is the repeated fire which is the most vicious agent of destruction, for it kills the young trees which are to make the future forest, and it also kills the mother or seed trees, which might if allowed to live replace the young that are destroyed. He examined 80,000 acres of cut-over and burned-over pine lands in the central portion of old Ontario and found 110 young pine trees on the average acre of area burned over once; 34 pine trees per acre on areas burned over three time, and only three pine trees on the average acre of areas burned over four or more times. It will take several hundred years for nature to restock these areas with pine.

"This is not an exceptional case. Repeated forest fires are producing similar results on thousands of square miles throughout the Dominion. One-half of our commercial timber lands have been burned. Even if there never were another forest fire, one-half of our future supply of timber should come from these burned areas. Every fire decreases that possibility by destroying the young commercial trees. We have not only killed the commercial, revenue-bearing trees on one-half the timber-producing area in Canada, but our forest policy has been such that we have virtually decreed their children shall not live."

The original forest in the St. Maurice River Valley was dominated by white pine from 3 to 6 feet in diameter and from 100 to 150 feet high, towering 50 to 75 feet above the associated birch, maple, spruce, and balsam. Judging from the stumps left, the trees ran from five to 30 per acre, but to-day there is only an odd pine standing on some inaccessible bluff. The original giants have disappeared from the forest, and, worse still, no young pines are rising to take their place. In order to prosper the pine requires plenty of light overhead, but the openings made in the forest by the removal of the original trees were allowed to fill up with hardwoods, which overshadowed and stifled the young pine shoots.

It was further shown by Dr. Howe that both spruce and balsam were also in danger of extinction. Taking 97 acres of severely culled areas from which 26 spruce trees per acre had been removed, he found that the present number of spruce trees per acre was: Seedings below half-inch, 422; half-inch to three inches, 28; four inches to seven inches, 19, and eight inches to eleven inches, 7. Although the total came to 477 new trees, it will be noted that the mortality increased very rapidly with the growth of these trees. The net result is that there will be only 7 spruce trees to take the place of the 26 per acre removed by logging operations. Taking the same severely-culled areas based on sample plots totaling 97 acres from which 32 balsam trees per acre had been removed, he found that the present number of balsam trees per acre was: seedlings below one-half inch, 2,477; half-inch to three inches inclusive, 58; four to seven inches, 27, and eight to eleven inches, 12. Apparently there would be over 2,500 balsam trees per acre to replace the 32 removed, but again the rate of mortality increases so rapidly with the growth of the trees that there will really be only 12 trees per acre where 32 had been taken away. Moreover, 7 out of the 12 will be so diseased as to be unfit for pulpwood, so that the net result will be only 5 pulpwood-bearing balsams where 32 were originally.

Dr. Howe states that the fundamental problem is how to guard the forests properly from fire; that in the last decade about $10,000,000 have been spent in protection, and yet that the forest has been so unsafe for trees through destruction by fire that there is apprehension of serious curtailment, perhaps exhaustion, of our timber supply. He declares that without adequate fire protection it is only a waste of time to discuss methods of forest conservation, and that when they are made reasonably safe from fire other measures are required to make them continually productive.

MYSTERY OF MATTER.

Endless Routine of the Material That Forms Our Bodies.

Mr. Geoffrey Martin has written a treatise on chemistry from which is taken this paragraph from the chapter on "Matter:"

"The endless circulation of matter in the universe is perhaps one of the most wonderful facts with which chemistry has to deal. It is this endless change that causes the history of the most common and insignificant objects about us to be more astonishing than any fairy tale.

"What a wonderful story, for example, could be written of the materials that forms our bodies! It came into existence in the immense depth of space millions upon millions of years ago and wandered for ages through darkness and void until it reached our earth. Perhaps it fell upon the earth in a fiery meteorite, or perhaps it merely joined the huge fire mist from which our solid world condensed. Since then it has run round age after age in an endless circle of change.

"First it formed part of that vast primeval atmosphere that surrounded the globe and blew in mighty winds round our planet; then it was absorbed into the body of some humble living being, and when this being died and its body decayed the matter passed into the rich mother earth. Thence it passed into some plant by means of its roots, and from the plant it passed by the process of being devoured into the body of some animal, and from the animal again it passed to earth and thence to plants and animals again, and so on through an endless cycle of change, coursing through the bodies of innumerable multitudes of living forms, which stretch far back in a dim, unending vista into the depths of time.

"Finally it reached man. Yes; the very atoms that thrill and flash in our brains and muscles once formed part of a living plant or animal millions of years ago and will again form part of a living plant or animal millions of years hence. In some form or other the matter that now forms our bodies will exist long after the whole present order of creation has passed away. Indeed, it may well yet blow in the winds of worlds as yet unborn and thrill in forms of life not yet evolved."

ART IN ITS DAWNING.

Primitive Man's First Crude Efforts Toward the Beautiful.

In the beginning man went forth each day—some to do battle, some to the chase, others again to dig and delve in the field—all that they might gain and live or lose and die—until there was found among them one, differing from the rest, who stayed by the tents with the women and traced strange devices with burnt stick over a gourd.

This man, who took no joy in the ways of his brothers, who cared not for the conquest and fretted in the field; this designer of quaint patterns, this deviser of the beautiful, who perceived in nature about him curious curvings, as faces are seen in the fire—this dreamer apart was the first artist.

And when from the field and from afar there came back the people they took the gourd and drank from out of it.

And presently there came to this man another—and in time others—of like nature chosen by the gods, and so they worked together, and soon they fashioned from the moistened earth forms resembling the gourd. And with the power of creation, the heirloom of the artist, presently they went beyond the slavenly suggestion of nature, and the first vase was born in beautiful proportion.

And the toilers toiled and were athirst, and the heroes returned from fresh victories to rejoice and feast, and all drank alike from the artist's goblets, fashioned cunningly, taking no note the while of the craftsman's pride and understanding not the glory in his work; drinking at the cup, not from choice, not from a consciousness that it was beautiful, but because, forsooth, there was none other.—James McNeill Whistler.

TELLS JUDGE RECIPE FOR GETTING PICKLED

NEW YORK, April 11.—Magistrate John E. McGeehan in the Morrisania Court obtained a recipe guaranteed by the originator to keep him pickled and immune from disease.

Louis Rabinowitz, of No. 956 Longwood avenue, the Bronx, was summoned to court by James Hanna, health officer, charged with carting fish in a waggon that was unsanitary and unfit for carrying foodstuffs.

Rabinwitz was confident he had committed no offence. He said the fish had been pickled and were immune to germs and could be eaten with perfect safety. In an earnest tone he said to the Magistrate:

"Your Honour, if you should drink a glass of strong salt water each day you would soon become pickled. Then you would be safe from all diseases and never feel anything."

Magistrate McGeehan replied that after June 30 he might try the scheme to get around the "bone dry" law. Then he fined Rabinowitz $2.

Ambassador May Not Return to United States

Viscount Ishii Will Return to Tokio to Confer With Government.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, April 15.—Viscount Ishii, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, will return to Japan shortly "for a conference with his government," it was stated authoritatively here to-day.

Significance is attached to this action in view of the Japanese situation in Paris, where the Tokio delegates are threatening to withdraw from the Peace Conference, and in view of numerous "difficulties" that have arisen recently in the relations between the United States and Japan.

The Ambassador goes to Tokio to lay important matters regarding the Japanese situation before his government, the United Press was informed. He has not been recalled as Ambassador, but there is some doubt in diplomatic quarters that he will return to Washington.

Aldermen Get Bill to Trottle Aliens and Disloyal Moves

Socialists See Failure in Mayor's "Desperate Game" and Attack Administration.

NEW YORK, April 12.—As a result of Mayor Hylan's suggestion for the passage of an ordinance to prevent the holding of meetings by aliens to attack the Government, Alderman William F. Kennedy introduced at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen an ordinance subjecting the owner, agent or occupant of a building who leases any part of it for such a meeting to a fine of $200 or three months' imprisonment. The resolution was referred to the Committee on General Welfare, with direction to refer its constitutionality to the Corporation Counsel.

Mayor Hylan's letter to Robert L. Moran, president of the Board, suggesting such legislation, also was referred to this committee, and it was said to be possible that another resolution might be framed, embodying moree specifically the Mayor's suggestion for the prevention of disloyal meetings of aliens conducted in a foreign language.

Alderman Algernon Lee, head of the Socialist delegation, attacked the Kenneally resolution as an attempt to throttle the Socialist movement in New York City and as an effort to prevent free speech.

The Mayor was bitterly attacked in a joint statement by the seven Socialist members of the Board, who charged him with seeking to screen his administration's failure to protect the people from food and rent profiteers by catering to race prejudice and stirring up social discord. The statement declared that the Mayor might pass the law he proposed and might enforce it with the aid of the Police Commissioner and "his millionaire deputies."

"But you will fail," the statement continued. "Abler men than you, the ministers of Kaisers and Tsars, have played this desperate game. It is a pity you are not capable of learning by their experience. All you will succeed in doing is to render social progress more costly and painful, not to stop or even delay its course."

The Board of Aldermen adopted Alderman Louis J. Zettler's resolution joining in a petition to the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy for the payment of six months' pay to each soldier, sailor and marine upon discharge.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Low Up-Keep Cost of Dominion Friction Surface Belting

Cost of maintaining equiment in the average plant is seemingly so small when compared with other costs that it is seldom considered seriously, but when totalled at the end of five years, represents a far greater expense than actual necessity demands.

Maintenance of belting is in itself an important item, because each repair means idle employees, idle machines and less production, the total cost of which is often greater than you would pay for better belting.

Dominion Friction Surface Belting is built for "service first" that its long, continuous performance may eliminate the necessity for repairs and replacements.

But it gives an added service in conserving power—the rubber that goes into it is a special friction compound that prevents practically all slipping on the pulleys even under quick load changes.

Our belting experts are ready to help lower your maintenance costs on belting and can suggest changes that will lower your production costs.

A phone, wire or letter to our nearest service branch, places at your disposal, without obligation or charge, not only their services but the entire facilities of the oldest and largest rubber organization in Canada.

Wilson and Italian Premier Confer on Adriatic Questions—Germans Allowed Eight Days to Sign.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, April 15.—Premier Orlando and President Wilson conferred for for four and a half hours yesterday on the Adriatic question, but did not complete their work, which will be resumed Wednesday. Hope was expressed that the question might be ready for the consideration of the Council of Four on Wednesday afternoon.

The Peace Conference secretariat is busy completing arrangements for the meeting of the Peace Congress at Versailles. It is anticipated that proceedings at Versailles will be of comparatively short duration. On the supposition that the Germans will be given eight days in which to study terms and communicate them to the German government, the middle of May has been suggested as the not improbable date of the final exchange of signatures.

LEST WE FORGET

People are talking about how to celebrate Peace when it finally comes. They talk about vast Te Deums and Hallelujah Choruses, pageants and orchestras—odes and requiems to the mighty dead.

Peace has been celebrated before by such things when poets, painters and musicians have conspired to make the pageant. But as there never was any art capable of immortalizing the deeds of the great war, so there can be no art able to commemorate the coming of peace after the war. The occasion defies art.

There is but one thing. One medium only can bring before the imagination of the world the emotional picture necessary to commemorate such a peace. One vast moving picture in three parts.

Lest We Forget

Part I.—The March of the Seven Million Dead Men.

Part II.—The March of the Legless, Armless, Blinded, Shell-Shocked, Gassed Men.

Part III.—The March of the Women Outraged, the Children Murdered, the Non-Combatants Massacred by air-bomb, sea-boats, undersea torpedoes and the bloody swords and guns of the Beast from the Rhine and his minions in Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria.

This gigantic film to tell the truth would take several weeks to run off. It should be done in absolute silence, because there is no music written or capable of being written, powerful enough to illustrate it.

Take the dead alone. Seven millions. Admit the German dead into the picture. Being dead they have paid the price. Go on top of a house and wait till this countless legion of dead men march past. Four abreast—patiently wait till this march of the dead seven millions is done. By the time the last four dead men are gone you will be eleven days older.

These are the men whom Germany killed when she went to war. You would not forget that Dead March very soon.

Justice never can settle the claims of this dead army. Humanity cannot forget them. Germany, alone, calculates that humanity will forget them. Germany who staged the thing and made it stagger humanity is now playing her last great trump card. It is the League of Nations to prevent war.

Exactly what German wants—because a League of Nations organized now to prevent war must be a League that fails to mete out full justice to Germany. Because the League of Nations, the boldest piece of international super-legislation ever formed with its 26 points based upon the original 14 commandments of President Wilson, is beyond the power of any but a few specialized thinkers to conceive and to carry out. But it is quite within the power of all people to argue about. So the argument goes on. In all countries the splendid dream is being criticized. The League has been thrust upon the Peace Conference as a condition for settling the claims of peace. The cart has been put before the horse. In the arguments about how to prevent wars in the future the guilt of those who caused the war that is just past may be glazed over. Germany which has gone through the burlesque of a national assembly and a republican form of government has already prepared to send "experts" to the final conference at Versailles. She expects to be taken into the League. And the League of Nations must take Germany in or make her an outlaw for a penal period of time.

But the League does not contemplate outlaw notions. Its object is to prevent international outlaws.

There was in the beginning of the Peace Conference but one League of Nations necessary. That was the League, which having fought Germany, had the right and the power to dictate immediate and final terms, both military and economic, to a beaten foe. And the terms should have been such as suited the March of the Dead Men—not merely to pay for destruction of property, or cost of war which is impossible—or to rectify boundaries; not merely to get revenge.

"Where," asks Lauzanne, "does humanity begin with Germany? Where does justice end? In the treatment to be inflicted, it is neither the principle of justice nor the principle of humanity that should be called into play, for Germany has shown herself incapable of understanding either."

Had the League of Nations been postponed until the existent League had done its work in settling the terms of peace, Germany would not have been now in such danger of becoming a state of anarchy. With Bolshevism making headway in the country such drastic peace terms as are now heralded in the press despatches must have a tendency to create a reaction. A Germany gone over to Bolshevism in a spirit of despair and of defiance will be a very decisive step towards a Bolshevistic State reaching from Vladivostok to the Rhine. And that may be even worse for civilization than the war-madness from which Europe has been delivered.—James Grant in the Canadian Courier.

Filing a will sometimes rasps the feelings of the heirs.

HAD WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

Those feelings of faintness, those weak, "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over most people from time to time, are warnings that must not go unheeded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When the system is in this condition there s no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from—will the next? One dizzy spell may pass off, but the next may be more serious.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before their case becomes deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and weakened nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting and weak spells, and I could never get any doctor's medicines to help me. One day a friend of mine was at the house when I took one of those spells, and she got me a box of Milburn's Heart and nerve Pills. That was six years ago, and from that day to this I have never had any of those spells. I would not be without your pills for any money and can highly recommend them to any one."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Philosophers take things as they come, but rag pickers and pickpockets take as they go.

GRAIN MARKET

The fact that the Government yesterday made another allotment of flour for export, will keep the mills going again for a time, and tend to strengthen the market. Cash grain markets were easier, but rather on the prospects of freer deliveries than on actual increase in receipts at the time. Weather conditions are unsettled and against any considerable movement of corn. Hog prices continue high, and so long as this condition lasts the market is not looking for any very material lowering of coarse grain prices.

MARSHAL FOCH PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO AUSTRALIANS

LONDON, April 12.—Marshal Foch has sent the following message to the soldiers and people of Australia.

LONDON, April 12.—Marshal Foch has sent the following message to the soldiers and people of Australia:

"The Australian troops have upheld the cause of the Allies with magnificent dash. From start to finish they distinguished themselves by their qualities of endurance and boldness. By their initiative, their fighting spirit, their magnificent ardor, they proved themselves to be shock troops of the first order.

"In the grave hours of 1918, with their British, American and French comrades, they barred the enemy rush. They stopped it, and at the appointed hour drove it far back.

"I am happy to express to Australia the undying memory which we shall cherish of her incomparable soldiers."

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards — Receipts, 45 cars, with 608 cattle, 211 calves, 933 hogs, and 71 sheep and lambs.

The market was very inactive yesterday. Fresh receipts were light, and most of that coming in, together with loads unsold on Monday, were held over for to-day's market.

Prices practically unchanged.

In the hog market, packers were bidding 25c. lower, but most of the hogs were unsold.

WINDSOR, April 14.—Negotiations to determine the purchase price for Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway will be opened immediately by the Provincial Hydro-Electric Commission following the reaching of an agreement by the Mayors of the five border municipalities who have organized to purchase the street car system of the border towns.

BILIOUSNESS
How to Prevent and Cure

Among the earliest symptoms are furred tongue and dull headache.

Then come dizzy spells, bad taste, quick pulse, fever and cold sweats.

Finally, sleeplessness and vomiting make the condition of the sufferer almost intolerable.

The root of biliousness is with the liver which is clogged and can't keep bile from getting into the blood.

Nothing works with the certainty of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they act directly on the liver, restore the bile to its proper course and prevent it from contaminating the vital fluid.

Of course, the bowels are ordered and relaxed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the kidneys receive new tonic, the blood is renovated, and the result is a renewal of good health.

No need for delay, the sooner you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the sooner you'll feel the brisk, keen satisfaction of a healthy, well-regulated system. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c.

BEER STEINS CHANGED INTO FLOWER POTS IN CHICAGO'S FIRST SUBSTITUTE SALOON

CHICAGO, April 19. — Scores of khaki clad men turned in at the sign of an old-time saloon only to find themselves in the first substitute saloon opened in Chicago by the Salvation Army. The swaying doors, the long mirror and the back bar were in evidence, but the free lunch counter had changes to a coffee and doughnut stand, while bizarre pictures had yielded to the camouflaeur's brush. Some nymphs were draped and beer steins were turned into flower pots.

Besides the Salvation lassies, several other young women were present. Some met their sweethearts there—one couple started from the place on their honeymoon.

The social centres, intended to take the place of saloons if prohibition becomes a reality, are the outgrowth of the overseas huts. Others are to be opened throughout the country.

Severe weather is reported in Montana and Wyoming. Fifteen inches of snow is reported at Cheyenne.

The heaviest snowstorm of the season is sweeping over South Dakota. Two and a half feet of snow had fallen up to noon, tying up train traffic.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner,

Sir:—In reference to my letter which you published on the 7th inst., I must say "Woman Teacher." of last evening has read without taking much interest in it. In the first place it is not becoming to a lady to be sarcastic, secondly the subject was education in manners, courtesy, etc., and not punishment. The principal I speak of was asked in my letter to state his reason for administering punishment, which will show her I do not believe in tale bearing; I like to hear both sides of the story and know it is true, before sympathizing or chastising. The very act of my letter being ignored and torn up, would show my boy was right that time, also would show lack of respect for me as a parent of the child under the principal's tuition and less respect for the child on being threatened more punishment, when delivering a second request for an answer for me. I am a lover of children and do not like to see, or hear of them being punished without just cause, although I find it helps to command obedience to keep a strap handy, but it breaks a boy's spirit to punish him for taking his own part. If he did not stand up for himself while young he will get beaten and trodden down all his life. As for talking about Eton, Harrow, etc. schools, they do not admit a child so young as 8 years, so that is a ridiculous comparison. I don't think "Woman Teacher" has much patience with children, also if she is not satisfied with her salary "which I understand are paid according to ability," why doesn't she get a better paying position of which there are plenty in Canada. Thanking you kindly for your space.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid,

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Colour and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This, ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Discharged Soldier Charged With Holding Up Two Women.

NEW YORK, April 9. A diamond ring which he had presented to his bride of nine months led to the arrest here of Ole L. Robinson, eighteen years old, of No. 203 North Walnut Street, East Orange, N.J., on a charge of holding up two young women in the streets of East Orange on two nights last week.

Robinson, according to a statement he made to the police after his arrest, was discharged from the army last summer after he had contracted rheumatism while in a training camp in France. He was returned to this country in July and soon after met Miss Esther Crowell, daughter of Jeremiah O. Crowell, publisher, and whose home is at the North Walnut Street address.

Miss Crowell, eighteen years old and pretty, was a member of the Women's Motor Corps of America, and one day in the latter part of July, while she was aiding in the work of conveying soldiers in automobiles from a nearby hospital to one of the canteens in Fifth Avenue she met young Robinson.

It was a case of love at first sight, and a few days later the young couple were secretly married in Passaic. On receiving his discharge from the army the youth called on his bride at her home, and there the news of their marriage was broken to the bride's parents.

Parental forgiveness immediately was received by the young couple and Mrs. Crowell invited them to make their home with her. Mrs. Crowell also sent word of the marriage to the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Robinson, of No. 316 Academy Street, South Orange.

Last Wednesday night Miss M. J. Farra, teacher in the East Orange High School, was walking on the street near her home when she suddenly was confronted by a young man who pointed a pistol at her head. She later told the police while he took fifty cents, all she had with her, from a chatelaine bag she carried on her arm, he smilingly warned her he recently was discharged from the army, knew how to use a pistol and would shoot to kill if she made an outcry.

Two nights later Miss Rose Oehler was walking in North Walnut Street, a few blocks from the Crowell home, when the same young man held her up with a pistol. After taking $1.25 from her handbag, she said, the robber made her take a handsome diamond ring from one of the fingers of her right hand.

That same night Robinson presented his bride with a diamond ring, and when Mr. Crowell learned of the holdup the next day he consulted Francis A. Nott, formerly Recorder of Orange. Mr. Nott brought the diamond ring young Robinson had given to his bride to Miss Oehler, and she immediately identified it as the ring stolen from her the night before. She also identified a picture of the young bridegroom as that of the holdup man.

In Police Headquarters both Miss Farra and Miss Oehler identified young Robinson as the holdup man. He was held to await the action of the Grand Jury. It was said by a friends of the bride's family that an action immediately will be started to have the marriage of their daughter annulled.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

Can Keep Afloat For Eight Days

Life-Saving Suits Tested by Trans-Atlantic Navigators.

ST. JOHN'S Nfld., April 10.—Harry G. Hawker and Lieut.-Commander McKenzie Grieve, his navigator on the impending airplane flight across the Atlantic yesterday morning tested the lifesaving suits they will wear during the big hop. The suits are those developed by the American navy with air bags on the chest and on the back between the shoulder blades. The feet have leaden soles and the fabric is waterproofed in such a way that they are guaranteed to keep a man afloat for eight days. The noly place they can admit water is at the neck and wrists when not adjusted snugly. The test was made in a small lake near the airdrome at Mount Pearl, and was a lark for Hawker and Grieve. Though ice was forming on the water and the air was filled with snow from the edges of what is said to be winter's worst storm, which is now raging farther inland, the two men splashed about like kids trying to swim, trying to duck each other and generally horseplaying. They even tried to shoot what have been nicknamed the "rapids", a tumultuous little stream that forms the outlet of the lake. The suits worked very well, though soe water got in the necks and sleeves and the men found that their feet kept on the surface. This was the result of the soles not being heavily enough weighted, and can easily be remedied. When the actual start is made on the flight, both Hawker and Brieve will wear these suits, with the collapsible lifeboat tested yesterday; this will form th eonly precautions against drowning the voyagers will take.

Is your wife better at saving than at spending? If not, take income insurance.

When a man dies there are three deaths:—

The death of a husband.
The death of a father.
The death of the income.

If your insurance is paid in one sum how long will it last?

For husband and wife who have no dependents the life income contract on the endowment form is the best policy. At the end of twenty years the income will begin. It will sustain them both as long as they live, and will provide a life income for the survivor if one should die.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Millie Won By Strategy

A Wedding Under Difficulties.

By W. CRAWFORD SHERLOCK.

"Millie, I have requested Mr. Mitchell not to come here any more," Mrs. Thompson purred rather than spoke the words, but her keen black eyes were fixed intently upon her niece as if expecting the news would provoke a storm. She was not mistaken.

"What do you mean, Aunt Hetty?" demanded Millie, her blue eyes flashing and her voice quivering with anger. "Why should you tell Jack not to call upon me again? I am not a child and can see no reason why you should object to his visits if I don't."

"You forget yourself, Millie," returned Mrs. Thompson in the same soft, purring tone. "I am your aunt, your father's sister, and he requested in his will that you should make your home with me until you are either married or have reached the age of twenty-five. That makes me your guardian, morally if not legally, and I deem it my duty to break up your intimacy with Mr. Mitchell."

"Why did you not object to Jack when I first met him? Why did you permit him to call here time and again after we met? Why did you wait until we are engaged to be married before you offered any objections to his visiting me?"

"I am not compelled to answer such questions, Millie Gray, especially when asked so disrespectfully," purred Mrs. Thompson, "but I will do so. I thought Mr. Mitchell was a very estimable young man when you first met him. This impression remained with me until lately, when I have had reason to believe him otherwise."

"What is your reason?" demanded the girl sharply.

"I decline to tell you," replied Mrs. Thompson. Her voice was still soft and low, but her thin fingers twitched nervously as if she were imbued with a strong desire to scratch the girl so boldly confronting her. "Mr. Mitchell shall not come here again. That is all I have to say. Of course, as you are of age, I cannot prevent you from meeting him clandestinely, but so far as my own home is concerned I shall endeavor to do my duty."

The suggestiveness of her aunt's words puzzled Millie, but their purport became clearer to her as she reflected.

"I think I understand it all now, Aunt Hetty," she said slowly and scornfully. "You have deliberately planned this thing, knowing that my father, who hated the very mention of runaway marriages, provided that I must be married at your home if I am married before I am twenty-five. If I am married anywhere else one-half of my fortune will go to you. My father made this strange provision, believing it would prevent me from eloping with any one before I had reached years of discretion. You introduced me to Jack Mitchell and encouraged him to come to see me. Now when we are almost ready to be married you trump up some objection to him in the hope that I will run away and get married, thus allowing you to become possessor of half my fortune. Aunt Hetty, I have never loved you, but I did not think you were capable of such a scheme."

"Believe what you please," retorted Mrs. Thompson, purring no longer, but speaking harshly and discordantly. "Mr. Mitchell shall not come here again. You may do as you please."

"I am going to marry Jack Mitchell," replied Millie quietly, "and I shall be married in your home. That is all I have to say." And, turning, the girl walked to her own room, leaving her aunt to reflect over the last words.

Bolting her door to guard against any intrusion, Millie reflected over the situation. She was now twenty, and by waiting five years until she came into possession of her fortune it would be possible to prevent Mrs. Thompson from obtaining any of the property, but the girl's mind revolted at the idea of waiting so long. She had known Jack Mitchell for two years and had been engaged to him six months. Five years seemed a lifetime, and she dismissed all thought of such a plan.

Aunt Hetty should not profit by her marriage to Jack—upon that at least Millie was resolved—but how could she possibly be married in her aunt's home? Aunt Hetty, having been discovered in her scheme to secure a part of the fortune, would spare no effort to prevent her niece's marriage in her home.

There seemed no way to solve the problem, and Millie arose to take a walk, thinking the fresh air might bring some relief to her troubled mind. As she stood before the mirror arranging her hat she noticed the reflection of men moving about the adjoining house, and she turned to investigate. Men were taking up the carpet and moving the furniture out of the room opposite hers, while others were on the floor below, similarly engaged. Could it be possible that the Jacksons were going to move? If they were the adjoining house would probably be for rent, and—Millie raised her window quickly and reached out her hand. It almost touched the window of the adjoining house. The houses were joined together in front, but in the rear a small space less than three feet wide separated them to admit light and air. A solution of the problem flashed across the girl's mind as she lowered and fastened the window. It might be possible to frustrate Aunt Hetty and not wait five years either.

During the next week Millie spent much of the time at home. Aunt Hetty, always on the alert, viewed this unusual proceeding with suspicion and remained indoors herself to guard against any possible invasion by Jack Mitchell. Instructions were issued to the servant to admit no one, and Mrs. Thompson felt confident of being able to frustrate any attempt on Millie's part to marry according to the provisions of her father's will.

Millie smiled complacently, but said nothing, as she noted her aunt's actions. Things were progressing finely, and at last the plan was ready for execution.

Locking and bolting her door, she spent two hours in putting on her prettiest gown. When this task was completed to her satisfaction she raised the curtain and opened the window.

"All ready, Millie?" he asked, restraining, a strong desire to spring across the intervening space and take her in his arms. "Here's the Rev. Mr. Walker, an old friend of mine, and two witnesses, Bert Latimer and Frank Long. We are all ready if you are."

Millie nodded, and the minister directed them to join hands across the space of separation. The marriage service was read in slow, measured tones, and they were pronounced man and wife. Jack would have come over to join his wife, but she prevented him.

"No, no, Jack; this is Aunt Hetty's house, and she has forbidden you to come here. Just wait for me at the door."

Mrs. Thompson, listening, as was her wont, at the keyhole, had heard the sound of voices and felt that something was wrong. Vigorously and violently she had pounded on the door of Millie's room, demanding admittance during the ceremony, but the Rev. Mr. Walker, previously apprised of the situation, had not heeded the interruption. As Millie unfastened the door Mrs. Thompson's angry face confronted her.

"Who is in your room, Millie?" demanded the aunt, glancing around in quest of the intruder. She found no one in the room, but caught sight of Jack's face across the way. The bridegroom had waited to see what developed when the door was unfastened.

"What is that man doing in the Jackson house?" continued Mrs. Thompson angrily. "I shall request Mrs. Jackson to forbid him coming there."

"Mrs. Jackson has moved, Aunt Hetty," said Millie calmly. "Has you have been so busy watching me that you failed to notice it. I, or, rather, we, have taken the house."

"We! What do you mean?" inquired Mrs. Thompson excitedly. "I have nothing to do with that house."

"I mean Jack and myself, aunt. We have just been married. I stood in my room, and Jack stood in the room of the house next door. I was married in your home and have complied with the condition of my father's will. Good-by, Aunt Hetty. Come over and see us. We will be at home on Tuesdays of next month."

But Mrs. Thompson was too much discomfited by the defeat of her well laid plan to make a reply.

ALMOST BLIND FROM HEADACHES.

It is hard to struggle along with a head that aches and pains all the time. Headache seems habitual with many people; indeed, some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief.

In nine cases out of ten, persistent headaches are due to poisoned blood, the blood being rendered impure through some derangement of the stomach, liver or bowels.

The reason Burdock Blood Bitters makes permanent cures of all cases of headache, is because it starts the organs of elimination acting freely, and the poisons and impurities are carried off from the system, purified blood circulates in the brain cells, and instead of pains and aches there is revived mentality and bodily vigor.

Mrs. Geo. Monck, Arden, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled a great deal with sick headaches, and at times would almost go blind, and have to go to bed. I tried different kinds of medicine without any benefit until I was advised to use Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking it, I have not been troubled since."

B. B. B. is a purley vegetable remedy, and has been manufactured for the last forty years by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When You Buy for Style

THERE is a point beyond which the adding of refinements to a shoe can add nothing to its value. There is a certain definite limit to the fineness of leathers and fabrics.

Shoes of graceful design, and in perfect good taste, can readily be obtained at moderate prices, and little extra service value can be secured at any price. There is no reason why you should not pay extravagant prices if you can afford it, but you should understand what your dollars are really buying.

The model shown above is correct and attractive in style, and represents good value for the money in any of the grades in which it is made. Our booklet "How to Buy Shoes" gives some interesting information about different types and grades of shoes. We gladly send it to any address in Canada upon request to our head office at Montreal.

SALLEE ORDERED TO HOSPITAL

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 12. — Harry "Slim" Sallee, of the Cincinnati Nationals, has been ordered to a hospital by Dr. H. H. Hines, the Cincinnati club's physician, where he will undergo the "hot air cylinder" treatment for a strained muscle on the right side of the spine.

Sallee was compelled to leave the Reds' training camp several days ago because of a recurrence of trouble with his back, which interfered with his effectiveness while with the New York Giants last season. Dr. Hines hopes by the treatment at the hospital to "iron out" the soreness. He says an X-ray did not reveal anything wrong beyond the strained muscle.

British Unionists Frame Memorandum

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, April 15. — Premier Lloyd George, who arrived from Paris last night, was expected to lay the case of the British peace delegation before the House of Commons tomorrow.

The Premier, on his arrival, gave out a brief statement. He said that all is going well.

The Unionist majority of the Commons recently directed a memorandum to the Premier demanding that Germany be made to pay the full cost of the war and virtually asking why Lloyd George was evading his pre-election pledges. His speech will be a reply to this memorandum.

Some of the newspapers professed to see a political crisis resulting from the present situation.

SPRING FEVER

Following Colds, Grippe, Thin, Watery or Poisoned Blood

(By Dr. Valentine Mott.)

At this time of year most people suffer from what we term "spring fever" because of a stagnant condition of the blood, because of the toxic poisons stored up within the body during the long winter. We eat too much meat, with little or no green vegetables.

Bloodless people, thin, anemic people, those with pale cheeks and lips, who have a poor appetite and feel that tired, worn or feverish condition in the springtime of the year, should try the refreshing tonic powers of a good alterative and blood purifier. Such a tonic as druggists have sold for fifty years, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a standard remedy that can be obtained in tablet or liquid form. Made without alcohol from wild roots and barks.

Occasionally one should "clean house" with casper oil or tiny pills made up of the May-apple, leaves of aloe and jalap, and sold by almost all druggists in this country as Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

SARNIA, Ont.—"I was in a very bad condition. I could not eat without feeling distressed. Had indigestion so badly I was always in misery. I had liver trouble as well, and the two just put me 'down and out' for about five years. I had many good doctors but got no relief. I took Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and before I had taken two bottles I was much improved, and in less than six months I was well. I could eat anything and do my work with pleasure." —Miss Annie Barrow, 289 Bernard St.

"WE ARE STANDING PAT."

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, April 14. — "We are standing pat," said Mr. W. J. McTamney, general organizer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, speaking to-day of the Canadian Express Company's strike, "and the information from headquarters is the same. The employees are out, and solid, from coast to coast. The statement of Manager W. E. Norman that 2 trucks were out delivering is not true. There are only two men altogether. He had six men on Saturday, and four have joined the organization and are out with us."

ILLICIT STILL IS FOUND IN TOWNSHIP OF RALEIGH

CHATHAM, April 12.—Following a complaint made to the county police to the effect that moonshine whiskey was being made in Raleigh Township, Louis Wilson, a Belgian, residing in that township, was arrested and faced charges of illegally manufacturing and keeping for sale intoxicating liquor. The defendant pleaded not guilty to both charges, stating to the court that the equipment had been installed by the owner of the property, who, he alleged, is responsible for the illicit traffic. The police visited the premises and found damaging evidence in the form of a huge kettle which, it is alleged was used in making the mash, and the worm and condenser. Sample of the liquor in various stages of manufacture were taken by the police.

DR. BANTA'S KIDNEY AND RHEUMATIC PILLS

Hundreds of people in the County of Peterborough have had their health restored from the use of these pills, and if they are taken according to directions and fail to help you, your dealer is authorized to refund the money.

The following is a sample of a number of unsolicited testimonials received from Peterborough citizens who, from a sense of duty, tell of the great benefit DR. BANTA'S KIDNEY AND RHEUMATIC PILLS have been to them:

I have suffered from kidney and bladder trouble for the past twelve years, and during that time I spent more than one hundred dollars with doctors and for different medicines, and was unable to procure any relief.

I was beginning to lose faith in medicines and I considered my case more or less hopeless. Hearing so much about Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills, I decided to give them a trial, and before I had finished one box, I felt like a different man; and am now completely rid of an ailment which had bothered me day and night for the past twelve years.

I procured Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills at Lynch's Drug Store, and when I purchased them I was told to return for my money if they did not help me. I can recommend these pills and I would willingly pay $100.00 a box to get the relief that I did from them.

This testimonial is given at my own suggestion, and I take pleasure and I consider it my duty to recommend Dr. Banta's Pills to anyone suffering from Kidney or Rheumatic ailments of any description.

Commons Throws Limelight on Conditions in Argyle House

Sir Edward Kemp Will Soon Return to Make a Statement—General Mewburn Praises the Work of Colonel (Dr.) Bruce.

CRITICISM ONLY DISAPPOINTMENT

OTTAWA, April 17.—Argyll House, Canada's overseas War Office, was heavily bombarded in the House of Commons Tuesday. Whether justly or not, the institution in question seems to be thoroughly hated by veterans of the front line trenches, not only because of the "red tape" and circumlocution found there, but largely because it is regarded by the men who fought as a bombiproof dugout inhabited, chiefly by troops of the "safety first" variety. The now famous building is located in Regent street, London, England.

Mr. Lemieux Leads Attack.

One of the howitzers of the Opposition fired the opening shot, to wit, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who dramatically declared that it was a crime if the charges were true that Canadian soldiers who had fought in France were murdered in cold blood at Rhyl, that some Canadians were languishing in the dungeons of the Tower of London, that others were stranded and penniless in London after fighting the Huns in the air, and that all who were at Kinmel Camp, near Rhyl, were "fleeced by grafters, shylocks and profiteers."

Charges From Members.

Mr. Lemieux read the charges of Brig.-Gen. Smart, M.P.P., in the Quebec Legislature, and Col. Arthur C. Pratt, M.P.P. for South Norfolk, and Col. W. H. Price, M.P.P. for Parkdale, in the Ontario House.

He also demanded that the last report of Col. Herbert Bruce, of Toronto regarding the Canadian Medical Service overseas be made public, characterizing it as "a severe indictment of the Canadian Army Medical Service." An investigation was urgently needed, and the Government should "let in the light," concluded Mr. Lemieux.

Is Smart Disappointed

Gen. S. C. Mewburn, Minister of Militia, opened the counter-attack. Gen. Smart, he said, was in charge of seven hospitals in the Shorncliffe area, and if there was anything wrong these hospitals he had only himself to blame. The Minister endeavoured to show that Gen. Smart might possibly be somewhat disappointed. He had been offered command of a Canadian Mounted Rifles regiment, and declined on the ground that he should be at least a Brigadier-General; he was in France but seventy-eight days, part of which time he was in hospital, and wanted a permanent military appointment.

Kemp Coming to Ottawa.

Gen. Mewburn had told Gen. Smart's friends that these permanent military positions were being reserved for officers who had served in France. He denied emphatically Gen. Smart's charge that there was no co-operation between home and overseas military departments and that intrigue was rampant, and added that Sir Edward Kemp would come to Ottawa before Parliament prorogued to give an account of his stewardship and answer all charges.

He had cabled Sir Edward with respect to the Col. Jenkins charge that there had been a leakage of ten millions of dollars at Argyll House, but had received no reply. He praised the Canadian Medical Service, and said it made his blood boil when he heard anyone criticising the work of the medical profession in this war.

Wants Definite Charge Made.

The Minister denied that General Sam Steele died of a broken heart. As for Colonel Pratt, the ex-Commander of the 133rd Norfolk Battalion, he had no particular right to attack the administration of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, nor had he any warrant to pass judgment on the Rhyl riot, seeing that he was not at Kinmel Camp when the rioting occurred. A military court of inquiry was still probing the cause of the Rhyl riot, and in the meantime if any member of the Commons would make charges on his responsibility as a member there would be an immediate investigation, but too much attention should not be paid to broadcast, promiscuous charges of returned officers of the C.E.F.

Dr. Bruce's Report.

Sir Thomas White practically closed the case for the Government when he sought to show that "the sweeping charges against General Turner and his gallant associates of Argyll House" were not justified. The Smart charges that Turner "was a weakling, surrounded by weaklings, who tolerates too much tattle and intrigue," was answered by the cabled words of General Turner himself that the charges made against him were "lying, malicious statements made by disgruntled and discredited officers sent back to Canada because they were incompetent." The Acting Premier explained that Col. Bruce's excellent report had not been carried out because it was absolutely essential that the hospital resources of the United Kingdom should be pooled.

At midnight the discussion petered out, the House went into supply, passed one item and adjourned.

Charges of Returned Officers.

OTTAWA, April 16.—On the motion to go into supply, Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux made reference to the charges which have recently been made against the administration of the Militia Department overseas, and declared that there should be an investigation at the earliest moment possible. However, he said that he did not intend to impugn the administration of

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"Say, Enid," he said hesitatingly. "These reporters—the New York chaps—the local men wouldn't dare ask—want an interview. What do you say?"

Mrs. Balfame merely turned her haughty head and regarded him with icy disdain. "Are they crazy? Or you?"

"Well, not they way the look at it. You see, it's up to them to fill a column or two every morning, and there's nothing touches a new crime with a mystery. So far, they haven't got much out of this but the bare fact that poor Dave was shot down at his own gate, presumably by some one hid in the grove. An interview with the bereaved widow would mak what they call a corking story."

"Tell them to go away at once." She leaned back against her chair and closed her eyes. Mrs. Gifning flew to hold the salts to her nose.

"Better see them," persisted Mr. Cummack. "They'll haunt the house till you do. They'e crazy about this case—hasn't been a decent murder for months, nothin' much doin' in any line, and everybody sick of the war. The Germans take a trench in the morning papers and lose it in the evening—"

"Sam Cummack! How dare you joke at a time like this?" His wife ran forward and attempted to push him out of the room, and the other ladies had risen and faced him with manifest indignation.

Suddenly Mrs. Cummack put her arms about him and patted the top of his head. He had burst into tears and was rubbing his eyes on his sleeve. "Poor old Dave!" he sobbed. "I'm all in. But I'll find that low-down cur who killed him, cut him off in his prime, if it takes the last cent I've got."

Mrs. Balfame rose and crossed to his side. She put her hand on his shoulder. "I never should have suspected that you had such depth of feeling, Sam" she said softly. "I am sure that the cowardly murderer will be caught and that yours will be the glory. Send those inconsiderate reporters away."

Mr. Cummack shook his head. "As well talk of calling off the police. They'll be round here day and night till the man is in Dobton jail—longer for they know the public will want an interview with the widow. Better see them Enid."

"I shall not." Mrs. Balfame put her hand to her head and reeled. "Oh, I am so tired! So tired! What a day. Oh, how I wish Anna were here."

Three of the women caught her and led her to her chair. "Anna!" she reiterated. "I must have something to make me sleep—"

"I'll call her up!" volunteered Mrs. Gifning. "I do hope she is at home—"

"She was to go out to the Houston farm," interrupted Mrs. Cummack. She stopped at our house on the way out—Sammy has bronchitis—" and Mrs. Gifning, who was as nervous as the widow should have been ran down to the telephone, elated at being the one chosen to horrify poor Dr. Anna while engaged in the everlasting battle for life.

"I'll stay with Enid till Anna comes," volunteered Mrs. Cummack. "I guess she'd better be quiet. One of you might make coffee for those who are going to sit up—"

"Frieda's doin' that," said Mr. Cummack. "They're all in the dining room—"

Mrs. Balfame had left the shelter of Mrs. Cummack's arm and was sitting very straight. "Frieda? This is her night out—"

"She was in bed with a toothache, but I routed her out. Well, I'll put the men off till to-morrow, but better make up your mind to see them then."

He left the room and when Mrs. Balfame was alone with her sister-in-law, whom she had never admitted to the sacred inner circle, but who was a kind, forgiving soul, she smiled affectionately. "Don't be afraid that I shall break down," she said. "But those women had got on my nerves. It is too kind of you to have dismissed them, and to stay with me yourself till Anna comes. It has all been so terrible—and coming so soon after what happened at the Club. Thank good heaven I did not permit myself to speak severely to him, and even when he telephoned for his suit case I was not cross—I never would hold a man who had been drinking to strict account—"

"Don't you worry your head. He was my brother, but I guess I know what a trial he must have been. And if he hadn't been my brother I guess I'd say we wouldn't have blamed you much if you had given him a dose of lead yourself—"

Mrs. Balfame raised her amazed eyes. But in a moment the weary ghost of a smile flitted over her firm mouth, and she asked almost lightly: "Do you then believe in removing offensive husbands?"

"Well—of course I'd never have that much courage myself if Sam wasn't any better than he should be—he's pretty decent as men go—but if their wives gave them prussic acid or hot lead they wouldn't lose my friendship, and I guess any jury would let them off."

"I guess you're right." Mrs. Balfame was beginning to undress. "I think I'll get into bed—But it requires a lot of nerve. And the risk is pretty great, you know. Anna once told be of an untraceable and tasteless poison she had—"

"Oh, Lord!" Mrs. Cummack may have been too hopelessly without style and ambition to be one of the arc lights of Elsinore smart set, but she possessed a sense of humour, and for the moment forgot the abrupt taking off of her brother. "Don't let that get around. The poison wouldn't be safe for an hour—nor a few husbands. I think I'll warn Anna anyhow—I'm not sure I can keep it."

The door opened softly and Mrs. Gifning's fluffy blonde head appeared. "I couldn't get Anna herself," whispered. "The baby hasn't come. But Mr. Houston said he'd tell her as soon as it was over, and let her go. He was terribly shocked and sent you his love."

"Thanks, dear," murmered Mrs. Balfame. "I'll try and sleep awhile, and Polly has promised to sit with me till Anna comes. Good-night."

CHAPTER VIII

There was a thin cry in the nursery of the Houston farm house. The mother slept and the new born was in competent hands. Mr. Houston, a farmer more prosperous and enterprising than his somewhat weedy appearance prefigured, beckoned Dr. Anna into the dining room, where a sleepy but interested "hired girl" had brought coffee and sandwiches.

The battle had lasted little over three hours, but every moment had been fraught with anxiety for the doctor and the husband. Mrs. Houston's heart had revealed an unsuspected weakness and baby had not only neglected to head itself towards the gates of life as proper little marathons should, but had exhibited a state of suspended animation for at least twenty minutes after its arrival at the goal.

Dr. Anna dropped into a chair beside the table and covered her face with her hand.

"I'm all in, I guess," she murmered, and the farmer put down the coffee pot and ran for the demijohn.

"You drink this," he said peremptorily. His own hand was shaking, but he made no verbal attempt to release his strangled emotions until both he and the doctor had drunk of coffee as well as whiskey. Then, when half way through a thick sandwhich made of slabs of bread and beef, he began to thank the doctor incoherently.

"You are just it," he spluttered. "Just about it. And your poor back must be broke. You doctors do beat me, particularly you women doctors. I'll never say nothin' against women doctors again, though I'll tell you now that although poor Aggie was dead set on you, I opposed it for awhile—"

Doctor Anna was sitting up and smiling. She waved his apologies and protestations aside. "I can't think what came over me to collapse like that. Once or twice lately I have thought I might be getting something. I'll have my blood taken to-morrow. Now I'll go home and get to bed quick, although that coffee has made me feel as fine as a fiddle."

"Well, I needed it, too, and for more reasons than you. Say—" Mr. Houston had risen and was pulling nervously at his short and bushy beard. "I got a 'phone from Mrs. Gifning a while ago. You're wanted at the Balfame's—bad."

Dr. Anna sprang to her feet, her full cheeks pale again. "Enid! What has happened to her?"

"Oh, she's all right, I guess. It's Dave—"

"Oh, another gastric attack?"

"Worse and more of it. He was shot—two or three hours ago, I guess. I didn't ask the time—was in too big a hurry to get back to Aggie—at his own gate, though, I think she said."

"Who did it?"

"Nobody knows."

"Dead?"

"No one'll ever be deader."

"H'm!" The color had come back to Dr. Anna's tired face and she shrugged her shoulders. "I'm no hypocrite, and I guess you're not either."

INFLAMED GUMS— THE CAUSE OF TOOTH-BASE DECAY

Just as the strength of a building is dependent upon its foundations, so are healthy teeth dependent upon healthy gums.

Permit the gums to become inflamed or tender and you weaken the foundation of the teeth. This condition is called Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Loosening of teeth is a direct result. And spongy, receding gums invite painful tooth-base decay. They act, too, as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) attacks four out of five people who are over forty. And many under that age, also. Its first symptom is tender gums. So you should look to your gums! Use Forhan's, which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. It also scientifically cleans the teeth—keeps them white and clean. Brush your teeth with it.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

Spanish Boys' Game.

Spanish lads have a game which they call "Hobbybull," and it has something on the American kiddies' bobbyhorse, according to those who have seen it. The boys of Malaga and other Spanish cities find an immense amount of excitement and amusement in mock encounters with the bobbybull, which is merely a framework mounted on wooden wheels and has a pair of horns lashed to its forward end. Armed with a scarlet cloth, one of the boys infuriates the bobbybull, while another operates the "animal."

If the matador has talent in the art of taunting and teasing and the other lad is spirited the game may become serious. Boys in training to become matadors practice regularly with the bobbybull and consider such play a part of their training.—Philadelphia North American.

Qualities of the Topaz.

The name of the precious stone inserted in the ring of Gyges has not been handed down to us, but it is probable that it was the topaz, whose wonders Philostratus recounts in the life of Apollonius. An attribute of the sun and of fire, the ancients called it the gold magnet, as it was credited with the power of attracting that metal, indicating its veins and discovering the treasures. Heliodorus in his story of Theagenes and Charicles says that the topaz saves from fire all those who wear it and that Charicles was preserved by a topaz from the fiery vengeance of Artaxes, queen of Ethiopia. This stone was one of the first talismans that Theagenes possessed in Egypt. The topaz at present symbolizes Christian virtues—faith, justice, temperance, gentleness, clemency.

Our Moral Codes.

Our moral codes were invented not to prepare men for heaven or for Utopia. They were invented by men who were none too good themselves to protect themselves from people who were not much worse. There are great differences in human beings as to the amount of knowledge and wisdom which they possess, but there is small difference in regard to the amount of goodness or morality that they manifest.—Mowry Saben in Forum.

PURITY - QUALITY - ECONOMY

With the increased cost of labor and materials due to war conditions, it is not reasonable to suppose that a really first class baking powder can be made and sold at the old prices. Rather than sacrifice the quality of we found it necessary to make slight increases in price during the war period. Even though Magic Baking Powder may cost a few cents more than the ordinary kinds it is still by far the most economical baking powder on the market to-day when purity, strength and leavening qualities are taken into consideration.

As usual there is not much activity in the cattle trade for the week immediately preceding the Easter noldings. Packers are already pretty well supplied, and what they are now buying is generally at lower paying than they were paying last week for the same class of cattle.

Sheep and lambs easier.

ODD ASSESSMENT CASES.

New Act May Make Lots of Work for Revision Court.

A peculiar feature of the new Ontario Assessment Act will be its effect upon Court of Revision. As a house assessed at $2,000 will be entitled to 50 per cent. exemption and one assessed at $2,001 will be entitled to only 40 per cent. exemption and so on up the scale, it is obvious that assessors will place a great many houses just over the border line into the next highest class to that in which they might otherwise be placed. The owners will of course, apply to Court of Revision for redress and a reduction of a few dollars in valuation will sometimes mean an increase of hundreds in the exemption. Thus if a house is reduced to $2,000 from $2,001, it will be exempted $1,000 instead of $800.40.

Cherokee Bill

GRAND JUNCTION, Col.—Nothing ever seems to bother "Cherokee Bill," 122 years old, credited by the United States census of 1910 as being the oldest man in the United States. He lives on and on in his little hut along the banks of the Grand River, south of this city. Influenza, grip, smallpox and other diseases never bother him, and he lives like a mole—underground—cooking all of his own meals and living alone.

The statement he gave the census enumerator in April, 1910, that he was born in the lower Mississippi Valley region of this continent June 6, 1917, is one that he always sticks to. He tells of the War of 1812 and says he was an old man when the Civil War broke out in 1861. How he got to Grand Junction, where his people were, and what he lives on no one seems to know. He says he is full blooded Cherokee Indian and that the only name he has ever known is just "Bill," so he is called "Cherokee Bill."

He gathers his fuel along the railway embankments and on the streets and in some way manages to get enough food to keep alive. He appropriated an old well once belonging to the city water works and which was discarded in 1899, and has been living in the little underground hovel ever since. He keeps a few chickens and in summer fishes and digs for gold along the river banks. He has shoveled up hundreds of pounds of heavy, black sand from the river and says some day it will make him rich. He says he is a prophet, among other things, and tells weird tales about his knowledge concerning the creation of the world. Many persons often stop and question him.

He does not appear extremely old at first glance, but closer scrutiny reveals his age. His claim of being 122 years old is doubted by some, but was accepted by the Government, and he seems to have a most remarkable faculty for remembering dates of many important events in his life and in history.

We all have our opportunities, but most of us manage to dodge them.

¶ You know appearance counts a whole lot when you buy a house—well, it counts a whole lot more when you come to sell and want a good figure for it.

¶ —if you knew as much about paint as I've learned in the last thirty years you wouldn't take long in getting a coat of MAPLE LEAF hugging the sides of your house.

The Only Sugar that is Canadian from the ground up

A LARGE part of the output of our three refineries is obtained from raw cane sugar—but our pride is in that increasing proportion of our output which is made from Canadian Sugar beets.

Thousands of Canadian women have used this sugar, but many of them without realizing it.

The war did much to bring about a realization of the superiority of this truly Canadian product. When supplies of raw cane sugar were at a low ebb in Canada the Canadian housewife still had sugar for her table and for her kitchen. On inquiry she learned that this sugar which "saved the day" was sugar refined from Canadian beets—Dominion Crystal Sugar. It was found to be all that sugar should be, and, accordingly, Canadian women who used it in war-time promptly adopted an attitude of extreme friendliness toward it and pride in its use. It is indeed a matter of pride that we have the ability to produce our own strictly Canadian sugar from our own Canadian-grown beets.

Try a 20-Pound Bag

Most grocers have Dominion Crystal Sugar in 20-pound bags as well as in barrels. They take pride in selling this superior Canadian product. Ask your grocer for it.

For a copy of our interesting booklet, "Sugar—From Beet to Bowl," write us direct. The book is free to anyone who asks for it.

TWO YEARS WASTED.

How Time Could Be Saved In Our Present Plan of Education.

There is a waste of at least two years in the present plan of American education. This is the conclusion reached by a committee of prominent educators in a report on "Economy of Time In Education," just issued by the United States bureau of education.

This conclusion follows an investigation lasting nearly ten years by a committee of the National Education association, of which President James H. Baker of the University of Colorado is chairman. The committee have endeavored to form a plan that would do away with the two year loss. They propose that six years be assigned to the elementary school instead of eight as at present; that the high school period be from age twelve to eighteen, divided into two parts, of four and two years each; that college work extend from eighteen to twenty or sixteen to twenty, according to the method of distributing the last two secondary years, and that graduate or professional work at a university cover the years from twenty to twenty-four. This would enable boys and girls to get ample vocational training after the age of twelve; it would enable those who go on to college to get through their college work at the age of twenty, and it would save the professional man from having to wait until twenty-seven to start his professional career.

The report insists that the present elementary course is too long; that the ground now covered in eight years can be covered just as efficiently in six, allowing secondary work to begin at the age of twelve. To save on elementary schooling they urge: "Choose the most important subjects and the most important topics; make a distinction between first rate facts and principles and tenth rate. Confine the period of elementary education to mastering the tools of education. Include the last two years of the present elementary school in the period of secondary education and begin the study of foreign language, elementary algebra, constructive geometry, elementary science and history two years earlier than at present."

POWER OF ELOQUENCE.

Financial Effect of Whitefield's Sermon on Ben Franklin.

Whitefield made seven visits to America. He brought great blessings to our land. Whittier wrote of him thus:

The flood of emotion, deep and strong,
Troubled the land as it swept along.
But left a result of boiler lives.

In Philadelphia he preached with such effectiveness that the dancing rooms were discontinued, and the ball and concert rooms were shut up "as inconsistent with the gospel."

Benjamin Franklin tells that in Philadelphia 30,000 heard him with ease. Ben was caught with the matchless delivery of his sermons. "I happened in a meeting in the course of which I perceived," writes he, "that he intended to finish with a collection, and I silently resolved that he would get nothing from me. I had in my pocket a handful of copper money, three or four silver dollars and five pistoles in gold. As he preached I began to soften and concluded to give the coppers; another stroke of his oratory made me ashamed of that and determined me to give the silver; and he finished so admirably that I emptied my pockets wholly into the collection dish, gold and all."—Christian Herald.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Acid Mouth.

An acid condition of the mouth may result from systematic or local causes—the taking of certain medical preparations, indigestion and dyspepsia, particles of food remaining about the teeth, which, with the heat of the mouth, decompose and produce acid; excessive use of sweets, which, fermenting, generate acid; continued use of wines, fruits, etc. Much can be done to alleviate this condition by home treatment. The mouth should be rinsed after each meal and all particles of food removed, and the teeth should always be brushed on retiring at night and upon rising in the morning, care being taken to move the brush with a rotary motion rather than too much across the teeth, as the latter has a tendency to cut or force the gums to recede. This simple treatment will prevent sensitiveness, erosion and decay.

MILLBURNS'

LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

Act as a stimulant to the sluggish liver, clean the furred tongue, sweeten the foul, obnoxious breath, and clear away all the poisonous accumulations from the system by causing the bowels to move regularly and naturally every day, thus preventing as well as curing constipation, sick headaches, bilious headaches, water brash, heartburn, and all diseases arising from a lazy, slow or torpid liver.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take, and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old-fashioned purgatives.

Mrs. John Kadey, Chipman, N.B., writes: "I have been using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for some time and can recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble. I tried other remedies, but they only relieved me for a short time. I always recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all sufferers, as I think they are a valuable remedy."

When you go to your dealer and ask for Laxa-Liver Pills, see that you get the genuine "Milburn's." Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ODD BATTLE PLACES.

Men Have Made War on Ice and Under the Earth's Surface.

Battles have been fought in many curious places, ranging from mountain peaks to sewers, from ice fields to desert sands.

At the battle of Monterey, in the Mexican war, the Americans were able to command the streets of the city with their artillery, but they had difficulty in dislodging the Mexicans from the houses; so, the city being built of stone or adobe in solid blocks of houses, the Yankees broke through the walls from one house to another, fighting and driving out the enemy, so that the battle of Monterey was largely fought indoors.

In one of the battles of the wars of William the Silent for the independence of the Netherlands the Spanish ships were frozen in on the Zuyder Zee. The Dutch came out on horseback over the ice and attacked them. This is probably the only battle in which cavalry was ever used directly against ships. Several other combats were fought between troops on the ice in these wars, and on one occasion the infantry is said to have worn skates.

The battle of Austerlitz was partly fought on a frozen lake, and when the allies were retreating across it the shot from the French artillery, plunging into the ice and breaking it up, caused the death of thousands of Russians and Austrians.

Of the many underground battles which have taken place in history the fiercest was probably that of the siege of Haarlem in the Dutch wars. The Spaniards mined and the Dutch countermined with equal industry, and below the ground a fierce conflict raged.

When the Versailles troops took Paris after the commune, they chased some of the communist troops to the great sewers of the French capital, where some desperate struggles took place.

COSTA RICA IS AGGRIEVED, WILL NOT JOIN LEAGUE

PARIS.—Representatives of Costa Rica have protested to the European Powers because, although Costa Rica declared war on Germany, it was not invited to the peace conference nor to participate in the League of Nations. The Costa Ricans said therefore that Cost Rica cannot join the League of Nations either as a belligerent or as a neutral.

Costa Rica declared war on the Central Powers late in May, 1918. The government of Costa Rica, headed by President Tinoco, has never been recognized by the United States.

Catching a Wireless Leak

Buzzing and spattering, the spark was acting up. The French Intelligence Department, with receivers all tuned up for Nauen and Madrid, could make nothing out of the supposed message. (It is E. T. Brenadon, recounting the incident, in Popular Mechanics.

"Nothing there!" was the verdict of the wireless expert.

Headquarters thought differently. The Germans had known far too much concerning Allied troop disposal in the Somme advance. News was getting across constantly; some of it was acted upon by the Boches before ever Allied troops in advanced positions could know of the changes made. Careful sifting had made a practical certainty of the theory that a neutral country was sending the news by powerful wireless. Further investigation had disclosed that in Madrid, Spain, an instrument was using the same wave length used habitually by Nauen, the great official station of the German empire. A little observation showed further that, at irregular times, both of these stations sent out these queer buzzings. It looked suspicious, to say the least.

For weeks afterwards the Allies kept experts busy on the strange problem. Every sort of instrument was tried, the theory being that perhaps some special receiving apparatus had been invented which made the buzzing jumble intelligent. The British who were called in to wrestle with the problem were unanimous in the opinion that the noise, which never lasted more than a fraction of a minute, was due purely to some imperfections in the sending stations. No message of any kind, except possibly some code word agreed upon before the war, could be sent in this manner—surely no data concerning the movements of divisions or army corps, for the names of these alone would take more spark than was wasted on the whole of each of these "mystery messages." The French were polite, but unconvinced.

Still the buzzing continued from Nauen and from Madrid, though more often from the latter. The leak, also, was growing worse. It had become so bad that the French organized a phantom attack under Gen. Debeneau. With only that general and Headquarters' Staff in "on the know," three divisions were scheduled to hammer the German front on a certain August morning. Two days previous to the imaginary attack the Germans on this front abandoned three moderately dangerous positions which they had held stubbornly to that time! Patrols sent out to reconnoitre reported a huge force of stosstruppen grimly waiting to annihilate the three divisions, which naturally never went over the top.

Positive orders went out to "tune up" on Madrid. Obeying this mandate, the Intelligence Department finally discovered the trick. A certain investigator, at his wit's end, attached a phonograph with a blank record to the receiving station which was investigating Madrid. When the buzzing came it was inscribed on the soft wax of a record. This first attempt yielded no specific result, but it furnished a hint. Running the record at two or three revolutions a minute, several experts thought they detected certain letters.

Immediately another trial was made. This time the blank record was run 300 revolutions to the minute.

The buzzing was caught. When the record was rerun at lower speed the code message was obtained! Then, of course, the problem was simplicity itself; no German ever yet has been able to evolve a code which the Federal Intelligence Department could not decipher in its sleep. The message, as expected, gave a wealth of details that no German was supposed to know. Soon after Nauen came through with questions which Madrid would answer as soon as possible.

The scheme really was simple. In each of these stations reels for holding a perforated tape message had been attached to the wireless sending apparatus. A mechanism essentially like that which reproduces from music rolls on a player piano took the message from the perforated roll and sent it out in ether waves at from 300 to 400 words a minute! At either end a phonograph picked up the seemingly meaningless jumble and ordinary steel needles reproduced it.

It is doubtful if the Germans ever found out that the French were on to their scheme, for on occasion, until nearly the end of the war, the device was used. Needless to say there always was a third party "on the line"—and it is certain that none of the information that subsequently went through ever bothered the Allied armies. Through various ruses, and through the leading questions asked by Nauen, the French were able to pick up many spies that they never would have suspected under ordinary circumstances, thus closing up most of Fritz's reliable sources of information.

National Debts.

National debts of the world have increased from $44,000,000,000 to $204,000,000,000 during the war period, and the interest payments thereon from less than $2,000,000,000 a year to more than $10,000,000,000, according to a statement made by O. P. Austin, statistician of the National City Bank of New York. The United States, he said, would enter the new conditions of world trade resulting from the war with a less handicap than that of many of the sister nations. The nation now holds fully one-third of the gold of the world.

His "Junior Partner" Entered.

Littleman was telling the young bachelors at a recent affair uptown just how to manage a wife.

"When you young fellows are married, you must take the upper hand at once," he said. "No weakness, no sentiment! Make your wife understand that, though you love her and so forth, she is the junior partner. If necessary, resort to the effective methods of our cavemen ancestors—use the heavy hand! Put her nose to the domestic grindstone. Why, when I speak to my wife"—

Littleman never finished. Why? See headline.—New York Times.

Dandruff Surely Destroys the Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

MATZENAUER GETS DIVORCE.

Ferrari-Fontana Still Permitted by Court to See Child.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y.—It became known today at the White Plains Court House that Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins had granted an interlocutory degree of divorce to Mrs. Margaret Fontana, known on the stage as Madame Matzenauer, from her husband, Captain Edoardo Ferrari-Fontana of the Italian army. The plaintiff was represented by the law firm of Riegelman, Carus, Levintritt & Goetz. Justice Tompkins ordered the testimony sealed.

The pair were married on June 28, 1912, at Buenos Aires, and have one child, Adriana, now 5 years old. The papers in the divorce were seized on the defendant at the Hotel Ansonia while he was appearing as tenor with the Metropolitan Opera Company, of which his former wife is still a member. The court gave her the custody of their daughter, with provision for the husband to see the child frequently.

"Congratulations, My Daughter, You Are Looking Fine"

"AND why shouldn't I look well after using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"Is that what has made such a change in your appearance? You were so pale and thin, I was rather anxious about your health."

"Why, I have gained fifteen pounds, and I feel so well, too."

"And you have such a good, healthy color. Your blood must be rich and red."

"I knew you were suspicious of anything that our doctor did not prescribe, so I said nothing about it to you."

"Well, I will not have any doubts about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in the future after what a healthy looking girl it has made of you."

"Yes, and I feel so differently, too. I was so nervous and irritable that I was very easily annoyed and upset. Then I would have those fearful nervous headaches. But, thank goodness, that is all over, and I know what to give credit to for the change."

"I am very glad you are so well again and think Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a very valuable medicine, since it has done you so much good."

Miss Gertrude M. Burrell, Clementsport, N.S., writes:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with splendid results. For a number of years I was afflicted with nervousness, and six years ago had a complete breakdown. I had no control of my nerves and had terrible hysterical spells. I could not sleep, had night sweats, awful dreams and nightmare. My physician gave me medicine to put me to sleep every night, and another kind to take every two hours during the day, but it did not seem to do me any good only while I was taking it. I never really expected to get well. Reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food one day, I gave it a trial, and the results from the first box encouraged me, so I continued its use, and found my nerves getting steady and stronger. My appetite improved and I gained in strength, ambition and flesh. Now I am able to do considerable work, and can highly recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a good tonic for the whole system."

(Alonzo W. Daniels, J.P., says: "It gives me great satisfaction to vouch for the testimony of this young lady and the benefit she has received from your wonderful discovery.")

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

Boston Culture

Boston is known as the place where everybody is very, very "cultured," and very precise in the use of words. The latest Boston story is about a small child who fell out of a window.

A kind-hearted lady came hurrying up with the anxious question: "Dear, dear! How did you fall?"

Simple Home Treatment to Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture.)

Two or three minutes use of a delatone paste will banish every bit of hair from your face, neck or arms. This paste is made by mixing some water with powdered delatone. After the paste is removed, the skin should be washed to free it from the remaining delatone and it will be clear and spotless. You will not be disappointed with this treatment if you are sure to obtain real delatone from your druggist.

A New Meaning

A British officer who has just returned from German East Africa tells an amusing story of the Askari recruits whom he was training. Mistakes in the drill were frequent, and, in consequence, "As you were" became an order rapped out with increasing severity of expression. Later the officer overheard a conversation between two natives in the squad.

"What does our officer mean by 'As you were'?" inquired one Askari.

"'Asuwer,'" replied the other, "is a word the Englishman has invented for when he wants to say 'I am sorry, I have made a mistake.'"

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Throat Scalds.

Burns or scalds affecting the throat become dangerous on account of the swelling produced. this latter result of the injury tending to excite symptoms of suffocation. Such accidents are not uncommon where children left to themselves have attempted to suck the vapor or steam issuing from the spout of a boiling kettle. Where suffocation is feared sponges wrung out of hot water should be applied to the throat and the doctor instantly sent for in view of the possibility that an operation for opening the windpipe may be required. Small quantities of cod liver oil or olive oil may be given at frequent intervals by means of a spoon by way of acting as a soothing agent.

LIKE A HUMAN SPHINX.

Lord Knollys Is Known as the Most Tactful Man in Europe.

"Europe's most tactful man" is, by common consent, Viscount Knollys, first Baron of Caversham, who is now just seventy-six. For over forty years he was private secretary to British royalty, the friend and counselor of three monarchs, and his recent retirement was considered in court circles to be little less than a calamity.

It has been said of him that "no other man ever knew so much or said so little." The tribute is deserved, for Lord Knollys was always a human sphinx. Shrewd insight, unfailing tact and courtesy and the rare ability to hold his tongue enabled him to win and hold the esteem and respect of not only those he directly served, but of cabinet ministers, diplomats and the people at large. Only the reporters disliked him, for never a word were they able to get out of him.

It was in 1868 that Francis Knollys then merely a "Mr.," entered the service of royalty as gentleman usher to Queen Victoria. Two years later he was appointed private secretary to the Prince of Wales, later King Edward.—New York World.

Using an Income.

No one can use an income with true economy who does not exert his best judgment and put forth all the wisdom he possesses to make it fulfill the highest ends of which it is capable in his peculiar circumstances. If it does not make some lives better, fuller and happier; if it does not develop the body and educate the mind; if it does not promote industry, honesty and good will; if, in fact, it does nothing to elevate and improve mankind, then waste and not economy is shown in its management.

AIR MEN GET SCARED.

They Never Know When a Panic of Fear May Grip Them.

Professional aeroplane pilots have long since ceased to be ashamed to confess that they get scared and that a panic of fear while in the air may seize them at any time. Why this is so is the subject of an article in the London Aeroplane.

It appears that a flier with an imagination is never quite happy, especially on a long flight in calm weather when he has nothing to occupy his attention. One pilot, who is one of the finest fliers in England, has a habit which is most disconcerting to his passengers, however consoling it may be to him personally. He will fly without a waver for perhaps half an hour, then suddenly the passenger will imagine that a storm has struck them, for the machine will stand first on one wing tip and then on the other, then it will dive terrifically, and then it will almost loop the loop. After that it will calm down and fly for another half hour, when the performance will be repeated. After they have landed and the passenger has remarked on the extraordinary squalls which struck them when over certain places, the pilot will casually explain that he was merely looking round at those intervals to see whether his tail was still there and was testing the controls to see whether anything was trying to jam.

"'Cold feet' may lead merely to proper caution, or it may lead to complete loss of nerve. A pilot may have cold feet of a certain machine and so fly it with due respect for its peculiarities or he may have cold feet of flying altogether, in which case he had better give it up, for if he does not he must take to 'doping,' which is fatal.

"A particularly malignant disease is 'constructor's cold feet,' in which the victim, always on the ground himself, watches every machine in the air in a constant state of terror, expecting it to fall in pieces whenever it is moved by a gust, and when a machine of his own or any other make is on the ground, he is always parving round it, finding some spot at which it may break."

He Liquefied Helium.

H. Kamerlingh Onnes, winner of the recently awarded $40,000 Nobel prize for physics in 1913, is a Holland scientist, living at Leyden, where he carries out his experiments in his own laboratory. He spent twelve years before he succeeded in liquefying helium, the last gas which still resisted the greatest cold as yet experimentally produced. In the course of his experiments with helium he obtained a temperature of 271 degrees C. or 2 degrees above the absolute zero, which, according to theory, is the lowest temperature obtainable.

Woman Proved Herself Heroine in Emergency.

With Husband Disabled by Broken Leg She Employed Unique Signal to Bring Help That Might Save Him.

The following would be almost unbelievable if the facts were not the talk of the community and if it were not substantiated by the various participants. In Penobscot bay, three miles from Islesboro, is a little island known as Mark island, owned by Preston Player, a State street broker of Boston, and he there maintains a big summer place. The keeper is Ralph Collamore of Lincolnville, who in the winter, with his wife and two children, makes his home on the island in a little cottage.

On Wednesday, January 23, he took the boat and started for Islesboro. Three hours were taken in making the trip of three miles by water. He came back and upon landing and pulling the boat up onto the shore on Mark island he pulled the boat over onto him, pinning him down and breaking his leg. His wife kept looking for her husband's return and finally, attracted by his groans, found him pinned under the boat. She is a frail woman but with him hanging onto his injured limb, she managed to drag him up to the cottage. There with the aid of a leather wallet and sticks she set the leg the best she could. There they were practically isolated and help was needed badly.

Mrs. Collamore, full of pluck and determination to get help, went to the Player summer home. There she managed to set agoing the electric dynamo by which the place is lighted. She turned on every light in that big house and put on also a red light. The lights were run all day Thursday and set until 5:45 Thursday afternoon was the light noticed at Dark Harbor. Telephone calls were sent to the naval station and the tug Zisania started to Dark Harbor to see what was the trouble. Dark Harbor was reached about 9:30 Thursday night. There no one knew what was the trouble at Mark island. The Zisania cut her way through the ice, in some places 8 and 10 inches thick, for three miles to the island. Captain Sherman and nine men went ashore. They made their way to the lighted house and there found no one. Groping along in the darkness they were frightened by the sudden uprising of a flock of turkeys from a tree. Then they came upon the cottage in total darkness with the door open but no signs of life about. Going in they found the courageous little woman asleep, the injured man half asleep and both children slumbering. The tug went back to Dark Harbor and there found a doctor who was brought back to Mark Island. The Zisania remained at Mark Island until four o'clock Friday morning when the injured man was attended to.—Bangor Commercial.

Britain's Indians.

The Indians in the British army on the western front, notably the Sikhs, that highly disciplined military force from British India, have little in common with the American red men. They come from the other side of the earth; they are sons of a deeply religious sect, and for 50 years or more have been an important factor in the British dominion of the far East.

They are tall, well-built, handsome men, most of them with beards, and in perfection of drill and military bearing they are not excelled by any troops on the western front.

But while their methods of fighting are quite dissimilar, the Sikh fighting force being a well-trained military machine while the American Indian is a flexible unit, there is one thing in which they are very much alike. As a humorous English writer—Punch and its punsters still live—puts it:

"I have had an opportunity to study both the Indians of the East and the Indians of the West, and while they are very dissimilar in most things, when it comes to courage, I may be excused for saying that it is Sikhs of one and a half dozen of the other!"

The Upper Class.

"So you wish to marry my daughter?" said the proud parent.

"Yes, sir," replied the young man.

"How much money are you making?" asked the governor.

"Forty dollars a week," was the reply.

"Forty dollars a week! Why my daughter can make that in a munitions plant and not work overtime."

WALL STREET WISE ONES.

You Can't Fool Them by Losing Things on That Thoroughfare.

While carrying a bar of gold weighing about two pounds from the United States assay office in Wall street recently a messenger dropped the little package from among other bundles he had in his care. Upon discovering his loss he retraced his steps quickly, but no sign of the gold could be found. He was notified he would have to make good. The policeman on duty near the assay office had this to say:

"It will be some half baked idiot who will pick that bar up. The wise ones of this street will never do it. If they saw it on the street they would think it a hoax of some kind and leave it severely alone. These very shrewd Wall streeters can't see their way a quarter of a block without matches in broad daylight.

"Two years ago a bank messenger dropped a leather bag with no more or less than $73,245 in it right in front of J. P. Morgan's office, corner of Wall and Broad. Was it picked up right away? Not for two hours. And who picked it up? Why a bunch of immigrants with packs on their backs came up Broad street, saw the bag, kicked it and then one of them, after a furtive look around, dared to pick it up.

"He laid down his pack, and so did his companions, while they examined it. I happened to be watching, and I saw the bills. They apologized abjectly in their jargon when I took it from them and saw by the lettering on the bag where it belonged.

"I didn't let on how cheap I felt myself. I had seen the bag an hour before, but refused to believe it worth while picking up. Some swift for a cop, eh?"

But he was no exception in Wall street.—New York Sun.

Remarkable Memories.

Thomas Fuller could write verbatim another man's sermon after hearing it only once, says the London Chronicle, and could do the same with as many as 500 words in an unknown tongue after hearing them twice, which reminds one also of "Memory" Thompson, who, among other remarkable feats, could repeat from memory the name of every shop in the Strand in proper order.

Agnail and Hangnail.

Hangnail was anciently spelled agnail, but did not really mean the bit of cuticle hanging from a nail, but a corn on the toe or any hard swelling. Palsgrave writes (1530) "agnayle upon one's too," showing that they were not very particular how they spelled any of the words.

VALUE OF LIME ON LAND SHOWN IN NEW YORK STATE

ELMIRA, N.Y.—Fields treated with lime produced an average of one and one-half tons of cured hay an acre more than unlimed fields in tests of ground limestone, burned lime and hydrated lime, conducted by the farm bureau through the country agent in Chemung county, N.Y.

A farmer who used one ton of ground limestone to the acre obtained 4,840 pounds of cured hay, compared to 1,208 pounds on an unlimited acre. Another, who applied 709 pounds of hydrated lime to an acre, obtained 6,299 pounds, against 1,461 pounds on an unlimed acre. A third farmer used one ton of burned lime to the acre and obtained 3,400 pounds, compared with 1,040 pounds on unlimed land.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Billy Atwood's Degree

It Was at Least Honorably Earned

By DWIGHT NORWOOD

"Billy," said John Atwood to his son, "I have something of great importance to say to you before your departure for college. You are going to receive what I have always regretted not having received myself—a university education. It depends upon you whether you take advantage of this great benefit I am going to give you or throw it away. If I were in your place I would study hard in order that I might take an influential stand in the world. I would eschew everything but my books, try to take all the prizes"—

"Father," the boy broke in, "I'm going to college to please you. I'd rather go into a machine shop and amuse myself with tools than worry over books. I never could learn anything by studying hard to do it; I must do it. And when I've done it once I can do it again and the second time better than the first and go on improving on what I have done. However, I doubt if a college education will hurt me, and if I can get through honorably I'll do so, but I won't go through by doing what I hear so many do—passing examinations by illegitimate means."

"You needn't resort to illegitimate means if you'll give your time and attention to your studies."

"Well, goodby, father. I'll do the best I can."

William Atwood while a freshman strove to please his father by attending to his studies. But when he came to the examinations at the end of the first year he ran up against certain subjects upon which he must be examined that he had no taste for and upon which he was as stupid as any dunce. There was small chance of his passing an examination in any of them. He had been picked out for one of the mainstays of the college in its athletic contests, and the college did not wish to lose him. Some of the best students in his class offered surreptitiously to help him with his examination papers, but since he was obliged to sign a statement that he had not received such help he declined the offer. They argued that receiving such help was a common practice among the students, but they did not move Billy. However, he was such a favorite with the professors that those passing on his examination papers gave him the benefit of sundry doubts and cleared him by a small fraction.

When the spring opened Billy was called upon for twirler of the university baseball team and won largely by his own efforts the championship for his college for that season. Again the faculty treated his examination papers plastically and scraped him through the final examination for the year.

Billy was as successful at football as at twirling. He was a husky fellow and as spry as husky. When in November the game between his college and its principal rival was played a run he made—celebrated at the time—won the championship for his team, and he was carried off the field with the usual eclat. Again he was ruled over his exams by the professors for he resolutely refused to be helped by his classmates.

After this it became an axiom—a self evident truth—among both faculty and students that Billy Atwood must, by hook or by crook, be boosted through college. It didn't make any difference to Billy how it was done provided he was not called upon to sign a false statement. The faculty were interested in keeping a man who by winning champion athletic games was attracting attention to the college, and the students were interested in the glory attending the winning of the games.

And so it was that in one way or another Billy, like a waterlogged scow in a shallow stream, replete with obstructions, was floated on till he approached the final examinations for his degree. His father went on to see him graduate, arriving the day after the exams had been finished. Crossing the campus, he met the president, who the moment he saw him rushed forward, seized his hand and exclaimed:

"We've got him through!"

"Who?"

"Your son. The examiners in metaphysics declared they couldn't possibly pass him on that subject. I called for the papers, found an ambiguous answer to a question, interpreted it favorably and made the mark three hundredths above the minimum. We're all delighted."

Mr. Atwood tried to look pleased, but failed. He left the president much disappointed that Billy had barely scraped through college. He inquired of a student he met who was the valedictorian of the graduating class and was surprised to receive for answer "Bill Atwood." Upon expressing his astonishment the young man added, "Oh, I was thinking of the man who won the game for us the other day."

"Great heavens!" muttered Bill's father. "Can it be that in college the man who kicks has taken the place of the man who thinks?"

The next day Mr. Atwood took his son home, and the athlete was escorted to the station by most of the students and a number of the faculty. The valedictorian went to the train alone.

Billy Atwood had inherited his strength from his mother's family, his father being rather a delicate man and, at the time his son was graduated with a diploma which should have read instead of "bachelor of arts" "bachelor of athletics," was in poor health. He nursed his disappointment at his son's poor intellectual showing in secret, but did not reproach him. One thing in Billy's college career he was proud of—the boy had not achieved his diploma by dishonorable means. And this matter set the father to thinking. After all, was it wise to place a temptation before mere boys such as in all his own career had never been imposed upon himself? He thought much on this matter, but did not arrive at any solution of the problem.

John Atwood, soon after Billy's return from the university, found it necessary to close out his business and seek a salaried position. He attributed his ill success to his want of education and, finally, to having spent so much money on putting his son through college. Being well liked, it was suggested to him by friends that if he would run for a lucrative office they would give him their support. He consented and was nominated by the best men in the town on an independent ticket to run against a man supported by as corrupt a gang of scoundrels as ever remained out of jail. From the moment of his nomination the opposition managers decided that if he could not be defeated by fair means he must be by foul. Certain of Atwood's supporters were let into this decision. Some of them were disposed to expostulate a failure.

Billy Atwood at a conference with the manager of a daily newspaper agreed that if given the use of its columns during the campaign he would not only show up the methods of the opposition, but would take the responsibility for doing so upon his own shoulders. He was assigned a desk in a room by himself, which was used for a reception room by the editor, no one being able to get at that functionary without passing through Billy's sanctum. Here he wrote sundry articles, accusing his father's opponent of such rascally proceedings that the town was shocked.

The managers of the attacked candidate held a meeting, at which ways and means for stopping the accusations were discussed. Since they were true and could be proved, it was decided to compel the accuser to withdraw them by an overawing process. Jim Donally, one of the most powerful of the henchmen, was selected to go to the editor of the paper publishing the charges and demand a retraction. Jim chose 11 o'clock in the morning for the purpose and found Billy in his sanctum writing the second article of the campaign. He had decorated the room with trophies he had taken during his college course. There were five champion bats of pure wood and exquisite finish, several silver cups, a wire mask, and on each corner of his desk was a baseball.

"Where's the editor?" asked Mr. Donally.

"What do you want to see him about?" was Billy's reply.

"I want him to retract them lies he wrote about the election."

"I wrote them."

"Well, you've got to publish a retraction tomorrow morning or I'll take one out of your hide."

"You get out of here."

Billy rose, and each stood looking the other over and sizing up his chances of victory, for it was evident that the matter between them would be settled by force. Billy took mental account of his munitions, consisting of sporting prizes, his enemy showing his own resources by pushing back his coat and fumbling at his hip. But since his enemy made no motion to use any weapon except such as nature had provided him Donally did not go into his pocket. It is a pretty low grade of politics where politicians dare to use firearms.

"You have no right here, and I give you warning that if you don't vacate the place I'll throw you downstairs."

"I'll vacate the place when I have had satisfaction," said Mr. Donally doggedly.

Billy took a step forward, and his enemy put his hand into his hip pocket, at the same time taking a step backward, which carried him to the doorway and very near the landing.

Billy sprang for the man and, shoving him through the open door, sent him down the stairway. Donally returned, holding a revolver. It was knocked out of his hand by one of the baseballs that had decorated Billy's desk. Then Billy jumped for him and sent him downstairs again. A second time the henchman returned with another revolver in the other hand, which Billy eliminated with a prize bat and for the third time tackled his opponent.

This time Donally made a better fight, grappling Billy, and the two struggled toward the landing. There Billy carried his man over, and both went down the stairs. But Billy's football practice enabled him to keep on top, and when they reached the bottom Donally's senses had been knocked out of him.

This ended the fight. The next morning an account of it appeared in all the papers. The opposition concluded to remain dormant till the reform movement had been forgotten, and the election was a landslide for John Atwood.

"Billy," he said to his son when the triumph was announced, "you needn't mind about not being a scholar. You're good enough for me as you are. My salary will be $6,000. You can have half of it with which to enter upon any career you like."

"Don't want a cent, father. I've decided to go into railroading. I shall begin tomorrow by firing on a locomotive."

Billy the next morning before daylight put on overalls and began his career. After passing through every position from fireman to superintendent he became president of the road.

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstructor which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

the Militia Department under General Mewburn, but he certainly would impugn his administration if after the disclosures had been made he did not consider it necessary to hold an inquiry and probe the whole matter to the bottom.

Mr. Lemieux said the public were entitled to know if the charges made of late were true. It was not a good answer to say that the war was over and that they must not investigate. The effort of Canada during the present war had been simply marvelous: 595,441 enlistments; total casualties, 218,443; loans to Government, $1,436,000,000; or $192 per capita; national debt on November 30, $1,307,429,661; and proceeds of taxation, $76,000,000. By all means, therefore, the country was entitled to the fullest information regarding the conduct of the war. There were fatal errors in connection with the demobilisation plan made by the Government, and these must be avoided in the future. Grievances could not be discarded with a wave of the hand.

Denial Not Sufficient.

When General Smart's charges, said Mr. Lemieux, were drawn to the attention of the Acting Premier he did not give them the attention which he should have given them. He simply gave a denial in toto to all the charges made by a gallant officer, who had severed his country overseas since the beginning of the war. There was dissatisfaction in every Province, not excepting Ontario, against the administration of the Militia Department, but for this General Mewburn, he said, was not responsible, for he had come late, and had nothing to do with the conditions he found. Mr. Lemieux said he could hardly find a returned soldier who had not his tale of woes. He was glad he could refer to the evidence of General Smart, Col. Pratt and Col. Price, not as constituting biased evidence, but as the evidence of men holding high and responsible office in the army and also as members of the Conservative party and supporters of the Union Government.

The Call of the Press.

The Press of Canada, said Mr. Lemieux, was asking for an investigation of the charges. He read from a newspaper editorial which stated that Canada was entitled to know the truth about the charges, good or bad, and that the Government should not be afraid to probe for it, no matter who was hurt.

Mr. Lemieux stated that he was informed that a report on the financial administration of the Overseas Medical Department had been made by Lieut.-Col. Jenkins at the request of the overseas military authorities. It was most important that this report should be tabled in the House during the present session. From information which he had received, said Mr. Lemieux, he understood Col. Jenkins had found a leakage of $10,000,000 in the finances of the Overseas Medical Department. The Jenkins report was now in the hands of Sir Edward Kemp. It was impossible to say when it would be presented to the Government, but Mr. Lemieux insisted that it should be tabled as soon as possible.

"Influence and Pull."

Turning to the charges made by Brig.-Gen. Smart, Mr. Lemieux stated that this officer, who represented Westmount in the Quebec Legislature, enlisted in the early days of the war and served his King and country faithfully and well. On his return from the front he had felt it his duty to tell the people of Canada that the moving factors in the Canadian Medical Service overseas were patronage, influence and pull. He had spoken of the bad treatment given to wounded and sick Canadian soldiers, and he traced it to the evil influence of Argyll House and Sir George Perley.

Dr. Bruce's Report.

After reading Brig.-Gen. Smart's charges, Mr. Lemieux remarked that they were nothing new. During the session of 1916 rumours came to the House that the medical services overseas were being impaired through the intrusion of outside influences. The Government appointed Dr. Bruce, one of the best surgeons in Canada, to investigate, and here Mr. Lemieux read the conclusions of Dr. Bruce's first report. Sir George Perley, Mr. Lemieux went on, found the report so severe against the Government that he thought by the appointing of another committee the Government might perhaps evade responsibility. Sir William Babtie, an Imperial officer, was appointed without Commissioners, and the object of the new Commission was to investigate Dr. Bruce's Commission—a most ridiculous state of affairs.

Dismissed Dr. Bruce.

Sir George Perley, instead of standing by the Canadian officer who had fearlessly done his duty by the Government and by the Canadian army, dismissed Dr. Bruce, practically, by getting him another appointment in France.

Sir Sam Hughes— He did not dismiss Dr. Bruce practically. He actually dismissed him, and he did not get Dr. Bruce a position in France. Dr. Bruce got the position independently.

Mr. Lemieux proceeded that Sir Thomas White had given the impression that the Bruce report was tabled. After many questions had been asked, Mr. Lemieux said, the Government of the day had finally declared that forty copies of the report had been sent from the other side. "But," he added, "you cannot find that report in the House or at the distribution offices. It was tabled in the House, but the Clerk of the House, the late Dr. Flint, ordered back the copies of the report which had been distributed, and it was the end of that report. We never saw it again."

Col. Pratt and Argyll House.

Turning to the charges made by Col. Pratt, Mr. Lemieux said that this gentleman was also a gallant officer, a member of the Ontario Legislature and an active Conservative. He had made very serious charges against Argyll House. He had stated that the conditions at Kinmel Camp were very bad. The men were given poor food, their quarters were not heated, they had no comforts nor pleasures, and in addition to all this they were fleeced by grafters, shylocks and profiteers. Col. Pratt had stated that thousands of Canadian airmen were stranded in London, penniless and unable to get help from the Overseas authorities. In order to get accommodation on ships coming across it was necessary for them to bribe ticket sellers. This officer had also declared that homesick veterans who had served at the front were detailed for duty, while draftees who had never fired a shot were given precedence on boats returning to Canada.

The charges of Col. Pratt were, said the speaker, corroborated by another Canadian officer, Col. Price.

Open Warfare Declared Between Lloyd George and Lord Northcliffe

A MODERN WARWICK

(Written for the United Press by W. Mason.)

NEW YORK, April 17. — Premier Lloyd George's attack on Lord Northcliffe, in the House of Commons, means that the two strongest men in Great Britain, after having helped win the war together, have changed sides on the policy of post-par reconstruction.

The fight between the two is due primarily to Lord Northcliffe's belief that Lloyd George is clinging to the Tory reactionaries for support in Parliament and is not working for the interests of the laboring classes.

Before the war, Lord Northcliffe was a Conservative, and Lloyd George was a Radical. Lloyd George now, however, is head of a ministry which is essentially a coalition cabinet, but in reality owes its life to the support of the Conservatives.

Progressive Policies.

Lord Northcliffe ,on the other hand believes British government should have adopted progressive policies, which are distasteful to the reactionaries. Lloyd George has shown no inclination to follow Lord Northcliffe's suggestion in the matter. The difference of viewpoint between them on the kind of ministers to carry out reconstruction reforms have led to an estrangement which now includes numerous other differences as well.

The probable downfall of the Lloyd George ministry soon after the peace treaty is signed, is foreshadowed by the open break between the Premier and Lord Northcliffe. The opinion of the country apparently has been rightly sensed by Lord Northcliffe, for two recent bye-elections in England have administered heavy defeats to the coalition candidates.

Owing to Lloyd George's violent attacks upon Lord Northcliffe, a change in the Premiership will be attributed to Lord Northcliffe's influence. Lord Northcliffe thus apparently is destined to come once more into the title of England's modern Warwick.

CHANGE IN THE PENSION SYSTEM.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, April 17.—It is stated in veterans' circles that there is every likelihood of legislation being enacted at Ottawa by which the Board of Pensions Commissioners will be enabled to make awards of pensions to permanent force men and their dependents on the same basis that awards are now made to men of the C. E. F.

To-night's Opportunity At the Royal

'My Four Years in Germany," Ambassador James W. Gerard's Book—A Wonderful Picture.

The presentation of the story of Ambassador James W. Gerard "My Four Years in Germany," at the Royal last night, proved it to be a wonderful picture. The whole program was a good one and can be seen for the last time tonight.

For Good Friday and Saturday a special program has been prepared, including Louise Huff in the "Sea Waif," May Allison in "In for Thirty Days," the Pathe weekly news feature, an excellent comedy and two reels of serial story. It is a fine program and you should see it.

Another Contractor Asks for Cheque

Mr. John O'Toole, contractor, Ottawa, one of the tenderers on the Hunter Street Bridge contract, has requested to Council to return his cheque for $10,000, and Mayor Duncan has called a special meeting of the council tonight to consider his application. If it is granted this will be the third cheque returned to contractors, thereby freezing them from any constraint the Council might hold over them.

Mayor Duncan stated this afternoon that it was obviously unfair to return one or two of the cheques and retain the others. The Russell, Townsend firm asked informally for their cheque a few days ago, but their request is not before the Council.

"We hope to reach something definite on Monday night," said the Mayor, "and nearly all may be returned after that."

Advanced Legislation

Bill to Protect Private Forest Reserves in Ontario.

(Special to Examiner.)

Parliament Buildings, Toronto, April 17. — Premier Hearst, during the morning session, introduced a bill unique in its provisions, establishing, as it does, a precedent in modern legislation. The bill in question is an act respecting private forest reserves, and has as its basic provision, that where forest land has been designated as a private reserve, no trees on this land may be cut or removed without the consent of the Minister of Lands, Forests, and Mines.

The Premier, in introducing the measure pointed out that it would contribute very materially to the beautification of the province by giving an impetus to reforestration, and by protecting existing forests.

He then added that the particular case in mind, when the bill was drafted, was the park presented Waterloo County by one of its former provincial representatives, Mr. Snider.)

Bill Approved.

Mr. William Proudlove, the leader of the Opposition, heartily agreed with the Premier, declaring he considered it a form of advanced legislation. The bill consequently passed through the House, without any opposition of any kind, for its first, second and third readings, and will become law at the conclusion of the session.

Due to the sustained criticism levelled at one of the provisions of the Bill to provide for the establishment of the office of public trustee, which specified the kind of securities in which this official could invest trust money, Mr. Lucas, the Attorney-General, withdrew the clause. In its stead a provision was inserted which limited the nature of securities in which such money could be invested, to those issued by the Ontario and Dominion Governments.

ALIMONY CASE WAS SETTLED OUT OF COURT

The case of Mrs. Elizabeth Healey, claiming alimony from her husband, Mortimer Healey, of Asphodel, did not proceed to trial. On the opening of the court this morning, Mr. J. Guise-Bagley, who appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. F. D. Kerr, who represented the defendant, announced to Mr. Justice Lennox that they had succeeded in effecting a complete reconciliation between the parties and an adjustment of all their difficulties. Judge Lennox congratulated the solicitors on the conciliatory course pursued, and marked the case settled.

Agnostic Saved By Love of Child

Redemption of Derelict Pictured in "The Turn in the Road," King W. Vidor's Beautiful Story of Life—Empire To-morrow.

Mr. Vidor has succeeded in making his drama a vehicle for teaching the omnipotence of love through the medium of a child. A man who has been brought up in the fear of God, loses his faith when his bride of a year dies in child-birth, goes down into the depths, and becomes an agnostic and a derelict. After years of vain search for the truth he is regenerated by the simple faith of a child, his own, whom he had deserted.

The human note is dominant throughout, while pathos, wholesome humor and a tender love-story combine to make the picture one of the most appealing screen dramas ever produced.

This is a film picture for the holidays and the Empire Theatre expects big crowds both tomorrow and Saturday. Balance of the program is excellent.

"THE ROSARY"

Laughter and tears are mingled in right proportions in "The Rosary", which will be seen in a magnificent revival at the Grand on Thursday evening only. It is a play in which there is heartbreak as well as humor Messrs. Rowland & Clifford are making the revival with a notable cast including Oscar O'Shea as Father Kelly and a splendid production.

Stirring Address By Councillor Wright

British Navy Was Largely Responsible for the Successful Conclusion of the War—The Navy League.

A GREAT MIRACLE

With the muzzle which he was compelled to wear during his last visit removed, Councillor Peter Wright, on behalf of the Navy League, last evening gave a thrilling and inspiring address to a keenly interested audience in the Collegiate Assembly Hall. As several factors militated against the attendance of a larger gathering, the audience which did attend was representative, and the Chairman, Judge Huycke, was satisfied with the very evident result of Mr. Wright's appeal for aid for the navy. The platform was occupied by the speaker, Judge Huycke, Mr. W. R. Morris, and Mr. Justice Lennox.

In introducing the speaker, the chairman spoke of the wonderful adventure he had taken part in and spoke of his coming departure for England, thence to the Peace Conference in the interests of indemnities for the seamen. He urged a wide membership of the Navy League in the city.

Great Miracle.

The speaker said that one of the greatest miracles to all intimately acquainted with the war during the past five years was that we succeeded in gaining victory over the Central Powers. Prior to 1914 every one in Canada, Australia, the United States and the leading statesmen of Great Britain were living in a fool's paradise, thinking that in future there would be no more war. Lloyd George himself stated in 1914 that he had evidence enough to satisfy himself that Germany was at least anxious to avoid war. But meanwhile a few saw the storm brewing. Lord Charles Beresford and [illegible] members of the Navy League, a non-political party, urged greater efficiency in the navy, knowing that the security of the nation depended upon the navy and asked the speaker to assist in holding a campaign to draw attention to the navy. At Birmingham, after a meeting in the interests of this, the papers reported Lord Beresford as getting old and Lord Roberts a victim of senile decay and softening of the brain and Wright a paid agent. But they knew as seamen that they were right in their predictions of a storm, and knew as members of the Navy League that Germany was building with all her might. They knew that Germany was not building ten million pound dreadnoughts for fun, and that Germany had secret service agents among the aristocracy preaching peace and preparing for war.

Building Programme.

But they kept on agitating, and in 1910 the building programme, which is responsible for the safety of the world to-day, was started. In spite of the warnings of Lord Beresford in 1914 that England lacked torpedoes and destroyers, and Lord Percy Scott that she lacked submarines, their warnings gained little, and at the outbreak of the war the Emden sank 18 large ships loaded with valuable cargoes. There were no light cruisers to get her. Our ships were busy guarding the German navy from escaping from Heligoland. "What we would have done but for the Japanese navy then, I don't know," he said. If the German navy had got out they would certainly have finished us. The United States appreciates the British Navy's work, and Admiral Sims said that the work of the Navy has not yet been published. The American Navy is admitted by one of the foremost Admirals to be a joke. Mr. Wright quoted Admiral Tirpits insolent message to Wilson warning the United States to be careful as they would come next after Great Britain had been finished. His programme did not come off, because Britain had a navy.

When the war started Great Britain had a navy of three and a half million tons and one hundred and forty thousand men to man it. To-day she had six and a half million tons, with a personnel of four hundred and fifty thousand men. Our greatest, he said, depends upon two things. As long as we are members of the group of nations comprising the commonwealth, our safety is assured, and as long as we are members of the group of nations is going to build, and we don't want to become an adjunct of the States from a maritime standpoint. We can be a great nation without being a great sea power.

The Navy League.

Mr. Wright strongly urged all to be-

Weather Still Delays Flight

Trans-Atlantic Flight May Not Be Attempted Within Next 24 Hours.

(Special to the Examiner)

ST. JOHNS, NFLD., April 17.—Hope that either Pilot Harry Hawker or Captain F. B. Raynham would make their many-times-postponed "hop-off" in the trans-atlantic airplane flight for the $50,000 London Daily Mail prize was dissipated today by reports of unsettled weather all across the ocean.

Indications this morning were that the flight would not be attempted within next 24 hours, owing to a storm which was raging over a wide area. Should the wind moderate at any time today, Captain Raynham will make a trial flight in his Martinsyde plane, after which he will be all ready to start on the big dash the moment the weather permits.

"We are not downhearted," declared Captain Fenn of the Sopwith airplane to-day, when questioned regarding the flight. Pilot Hawker and Lieut. Mackenzie Grieve, his navigator, were confident and eager to be off, but they would not discuss their hopes or plans.

Special to the Examiner:

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 17.—The Martinsyde airplane, an entrant for the trans-Atlantic flying honours, made a trial flight this afternoon. Captain F. B. Raynham and Captain Morgan were in charge of the craft.

The machine, much smaller than the Sopwith, in which Pilot Hawker and MacKenzie Grieve intend to make the big jump, rose quickly to a height of 3,000 feet and circled over the western side of the city.

Frank McCullough Is Still at Large

Prisoner is Still at Large and for the First Time in History the Police Are Without a "Clue."

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 17.—A woman, it is believed, was probably the accomplice who aided Frank McCullough in his escape from the death cell in the Toronto jail, the first escape of its kind in Dominion police annals. It is alleged that this woman came to Toronto from the United States on hearing of McCullough's death sentence, and by means which are yet uncertain was able to send letters and even parcels to McCullough. These letters and parcels, the latter often the size of a small box of chocolates, reached McCullough in his cell.

According to Inspector Dunlop the guards were chosen by the Sheriff's office, irrespective of local police authorities and when a prisoner is taken to the jail and placed in the death cell he then comes under the jurisdiction of the Sheriff's department. These guards were chosen on recommendations from various cabinet ministers and War Veterans' Associations. Mr. Dunlop stated to-day that in view of the comment on the adequacy of the staff at the jail an investigation by Sheriff Mowat and himself will probably be held either on Saturday or Tuesday next and a report given to the public.

War Buttons Returned.

The war service buttons which McCullough returned to Guard Currell were enclosed in an envelope postmarked Toronto, April 16, but the time of posting was rather vague. It appears six p.m., which points to its having been posted late last night. One of the guards now reports that McCullough was writing letters in his cell for the greater portion of Tuesday evening, prior to his escape. The buttons were taken to the Toronto jail by Mrs. Currell and are now in the possession of Turnkey Addey, to be later turned over to the police. Currell's cap and coat, both civilian apparel, are still out of sight. Mystery surrounds McCullough's moves since getting out. One deduction is that he was able to catch the Grand Trunk Montreal train which left the Union station about eleven o'clock on the night he escaped.

His financial assistance is also baffling. Investigation in Youngstown, Ohio, shows that his people, Schwartz, are of ordinary means, the father of the family being a labouring man, and that it would be most improbable for any financial aid coming from that quarter.

T. C. Robinette, K.C., who defended McCullough during his trial, to-day received a letter from the Dominion Parole Department at Ottawa, whom he has petition for a repeal of sentence. The letter, dated April 14, is signed by W. D. Archibald on behalf of the Dominion authorities, and states everything possible is being done in the interests of Frank McCullough and that the matter is at present under consideration by Mr. J. D. Clarke, in charge of this work.

Mr. Robinette told a reporter today that he was of the opinion that the mater would probably be heard by the Cabinet to-day and that he was hopeful of the sentence being changed to life imprisonment.

"He will never be taken alive," Mr. Robinette told a reporter.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Minister of Labour Will Leave For Montreal To-night—Strike May Spread.

A MASS MEETING

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 17. — Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labour, left for Montreal last night to endeavor to settle the Canadian Express strike. Deputy Minister of Labor, F. A. Acland left Ottawa for Toronto to try and settle the impending dispute between the Canadian National Express employees and the government administration.

This is the information contained in official telegrams received to-day by the Toronto strikers, and also that preparations have been made for a general tie-up next week.

General President A. R. Mosher, head of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, to which the strikers on the Canadian Express belong, wired "Evidently pressure being applied has the desired effect. The situation is excellent. Instructed all the Canadian National Divisions to prepare for immediate action. The first of next week will see a general tie-up if no settlement."

This wire came from Halifax.

General Chairman Alf. Scholey, from the headquarters of the strikers at Montreal, sent the following message

"Montreal is absolutely firm; likewise all points heard from today. Montreal Trades Council meeting to-morrow night. Expect strong action in our favor. Advise men to stand firm We have no doubt here of final victory. Steps for general strike have been taken."

The strikers at their mass meeting to-day cheered the messages from their chief officials. The Toronto Trades and Labor Council meets to-night and the strike of the Express men will be considered by the delegates as President O'Leary and Secretary Hevey have promised the strikers the support of the Council.

Will Present Minister With An Automobile

TORONTO, April 17. — The Bloor street Baptist church has increased the salary of Rev. W. A. Cameron by $500, making it $4,500 and decided to present him with a motor car by private subscription.

FRANK JENNE SAYS:

"For twenty-five years Semi-ready tailoring has held the foremost place in Canada—and its premiership has never been challenged.

"Ours is the only store in Peterboro which is not stocked with a polyglot collection by many and various makers—for every garment we show is a genuine production and model from the Semi-ready shops.

"In America and in many cities in Canada the Germans had a practical monopoly of the clothing trade, but their most insidious efforts have not disturbed the hold on the public of Semi-ready tailored clothes—made by one of the few English firms still in existence. When you buy clothes, ask who makes them—analyze the name of the makers."

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, APRIL 17TH, 1919.

GIVE AS THEY FOUGHT

As tomorrow is a holiday and consequently there will be no issue of the Examiner, this is the last opportunity of reminding the people of Peterboro of the annual tag day of the Great War Veterans' Association on Saturday. The need of a relief fund to assist the soldiers who have served and their dependents is greater on this occasion than in the past and for that reason a hearty response on the part of the citizens is urged. Every resident of Peterboro should consider it a privilege to be allowed this opportunity of assisting the G. W.V.A. in their mission of looking after the interests of the men who have fought for us and of their families. The complaint is sometimes heard that the people at home do not properly appreciate what the soldiers have done for us overseas. It is true that at times there seems to be grounds for this complaint and the public should on Saturday endeavour to show by their response to the appeal that so far as Peterboro is concerned our citizens are grateful to the men who offered their lives for Canada and intend to see that they shall not be allowed to suffer at home because of circumstances over which they and their families have no control. If Peterboro gives as the veterans fought the answer on Saturday will not only be a record amount but will be a public acknowledgment that this city is proud of her soldier citizens and glad to help them in every legitimate effort.

STILL TRUE TO FORM.

A letter received by the Examiner to-day from Capt. J. H. Burnham reveals the fact that we did the member for West Peterborough an injustice yesterday when we assumed that he had voted with the Government in favour of the White amendment. Capt. Burnham did not vote for the Government; neither did he vote against titles. He did not vote at all. Having to choose between the principle that he has so frequently endorsed in his speeches and letters, and the government of which he is a member, Mr. Burnham declined the issue, and following his tactics of last year, failed to register his vote. His local press supporter makes much of the fact that the member for West Peterborough was the first to bring the titles question before the House of Commons—it will be a historic occasion if Capt. Burnham ever gets to the point when he will vote as he talks, and worthy of a special edition of the paper that applauds his words and fails to mention that, up to this stage at least, he has invariably failed to translate his verbal assault on titles into action by voting against them.

Here is Capt. Burnham's letter.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Titles have been referred to a committee. This would not have been necessary if it had not been for Richardson's amendment to Nickle's motion, which mixed the whole matter up. Sir Thomas White necessarily came to the rescue of the situation with a committee. But the whole wind-up is unsatisfactory and I did not vote at all, being in favour of a straight vote for the abolition of titles or otherwise. If it is not yet, it will come some day and the electors must pledge their candidates. Titles do immense harm—far more than money. I send you a copy of Hansard and would suggest that you give excerpts from it to inform your readers of the general trend of the debate, which was a disappointment.

J. H. BURNHAM.

PETER WRIGHT.

It was unfortunate as well as surprising that there was not a larger audience present in the Collegiate Hall last night to hear Councillor Peter Wright, chairman of the British Seamen's Union. Here was a man whose reputation as a labour leader is world-wide and yet the organized labour of Peterborough was scarcely represented; a patriotic citizen of the Empire who has seen all phases of the war and whose addresses in Canada have been listened to by thousands of people, and only a meagre crowd, three-quarters of whom were women, gathered to hear him on the occasion of his local visit.

It is safe to say that those who did attend will not soon forget Peter Wright or his message. He does not mince words. Brought up in the hard school of the forecastle, where men call a spade a spade, Councillor Wright does not hesitate to employ some of the old Anglo-Saxon terms, and his frankness in this respect might prove embarrassing to his audience did not the patriotic zeal and the earnest conviction of the man efface everything but the truth of the message. Nothing that they had heard or read about the German submarine atrocities had revealed to last night's audience the sheer horror of the deeds of the pirates as it was revealed in Peter Wright's thrilling description of the loss of the Belgian Prince and of the murder of British seamen on many another tragic occasion. There was on the speaker's part no desire to conjure up pretty phrases to please the ear of his hearers; he told the plain truth about these tragedies, and as he talked his audience, in their hearts, thanked Providence that the nation that had caused this carnage on the high seas had been at last brought to its knees.

The key-note of Mr. Wright's address was the need of a closer joining up of the different parts of the British Empire—or "commonwealth" as the speaker perferred to call it—and the desirability of Canadians taking a deeper interest in the navy of that Empire. This was the message that Mr. Wright drove home in his eloquent peroration, and as the speaker told of the deeds of the British navy and of the enormous financial burden that its maintenance entails upon the people of the British Isles, there must have been a feeling of shame in the hearts of many of the audience that Canada had not in some way or another undertaken her share of the task.

ccame members of the Navy League, and outlined some of its activities. It is he impressed upon the audience, a non-political organization that stands for supporting Great Britain in her naval supremacy. He is of the opinion that the time has arrived when we should take a greater part, in a financial way, we never having paid a cent to the maintenance of the safety of our liberty. Great Britain has a debt, with an annual interest of four hundred million pounds to pay for the expense of the navy which is today costing twice as much to maintain as at the outbreak of the war.

Spies in the Service.

When the war started there were two thousand German seamen on the British ships, some of whom had been there for twenty-four years. Sixty per cent of these men were spies and two or three hundred were German navy officers. The German prisoners were treated with the utmost courtesy by the British and put in a compound with every comfort. On the evening of the sinking of the Lusitania the speaker broke the news of it to the prisoners and watched their faces. Not a muscle moved and at the conclusion of the news they broke into singing Deutschland Ober Alles, and Der Wacht Am Rhein.

The Labour Men.

"The Bolsheviki tell you that the labour people were against war; they are liars," he said. The speaker knew every international labour leader and was in a position to prove this. He asked Jochar, one of the leaders in Germany, to influence the people to have the British prisoners treated similarly to the Germans in England and to intercede in having unarmed ships sunk. The reply came that the labour people could not interfere with the military or naval authorities and the sinking of unarmed ships was justified. If a Canadian or American were told to do what the German did he would rather stand up and be shot.

Some Atrocities.

Mr. Wright's recital of Hun atrocities, which he himself had witnessed, were a revelation to most of the audience. He had been amongst the seamen who tossed about in the water after their ship had gone down and been jeered at by the Germans. He told of how one torpedoed ship went down and thirty men climbed upon the German U boat. The British captain was ordered down and the remaining men ordered to hand in their life belts. The submarine then took the party miles from any hope of clinging to wreckage and submerged. Three who were able to keep up until saved, returned to sea a week after. He never saw a man refuse to sail. He was asked to get men for the Aquatania, and within twenty-four hours had the crew, consisting of men, some of whom had been rescued from the wreck of a torpedoed ship twenty-four hours previously. They boys knew the Empire needed them. As a sample of German Kultur he told of a ship upon which a friend of his was captain. She was signalled to that the U boat would sink her, and the Captain signalled that his wife and children were with him. "Give us your wife and we will see the ship is safe," the U boat answered. The old boat's answer was to immediately get up steam, and followed by fire from the U-boat she fled until a torepdo boat came over the horizon and saved the ship.

"The Hun is a dirty cur," the speaker said, "yellow from his head to his feet. Brave at killing women and children and when backed by a machine gun, but not in front of one." "Our men, your men, stood in icy water up to their necks and faced odds of twenty to one and yet kept smiling. The only way to overcome our present difficulties is to follow the lead of the men over there."

Ignore German Degrees.

In France the speaker witnessed unspeakable horrors and atrocities. While on a visit with Joffre he was invited to make a tour of some trenches recently evacuated by the Germans, and in one officers' dugout, fitted out as comfortably as a home, he himself saw the bodies of thirty murdered French women. Their heads, in a German idea of a joke, had been replaced on the wrong bodies. As a result of an atrocity in which the hands of forty little children had been severed skillfully from their arms, the medical councils of England, Italy and France have agreed to boycott the German from the medical profession and never again to recognize a degree or diploma from a German University.

The speaker urged against mercy for the Germans. They cry now "be generous" but their threat that all they would leave England with nothing but their "eyes to weep with" must not be forgotten. He concluded by stating that through the League of Nations war would be made impossible; and repeating Nelson's words, "This day England expects every man to do his duty."

On behalf of the audience, Judge Huycke tendered the speaker a hearty vote of thanks for his speech which by the recital of facts was an education to all.

Short Programme.

Preceding Councillor Wright's speech a short and interesting musical programme was given by Mr. and Mrs Maurice Park, who each gave much appreciated solos, and concluded by a duet, "Where My Caravan Has Rested," Judge Huycke referred to the fact that last night was probably the last public appearance of Mr. John Allan, who accompanied the numbers. He said that during the past five years no family had been more willing or generous in doing any and everything towards patriotic work than the Allan family and that he voiced the sentiment of the entire city in saying their departure was deeply and sincerely regretted.

The International Peace Bridge

People of Dominion Will Have Voice in Choice of Title.

(Special to The Examiner.)

BRIDGEBURG, April 17.— Senator Graves of Buffalo, has dropped the name Roosevelt from the New York State bill to promote the proposed International "Peace" bridge, as he conceded that the people of the Dominion should have a voice in the choice of a title for the span.

"As a first step in my drive," said Senator Graves, "if I cannot get the necessary $50,000 to finance the commission I will put it down to $35,000. Anything to get the plan started at this session of the New York State Assembly."

From other sources it was stated that the name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier might be suggested for the bridge.

ADDRESS TO THE PETERBORO ART ASSOCIATION

His faith in the Revolution sustained two great shocks, the first due to England's part in the French struggle for freedom and the second to the frightful excesses and lawlessness of mob rule. A weight of painful depression, almost despair, fell upon him.

That he emerged triumphant from this, the one great crisis of his life, was largely owing to his sister, Dorothy, whose tender affection and constant companionship lifted him out of morbid brooding. Dorothy, as we know from her letters and journal, was no less shrewd an observer of nature than William, but without his power of intense meditation and imaginative insight. It was at this critical juncture in his life that Wordsworth made the grand discovery (helped to it by his sister) to seek in nature his interpretation of life and transfigure by his wondrous imagincration and the poet's dream.

till they glowed with the light that never was on sea or land, the consecration the common things of earth creation and the poet's dream.

Wordsworth and his sister were living together in Dorsetshire at this time and shortly before 1798 they took a house at Alfoxden in Somerset in order to be near Coleridge at Nether Stowey. Here the three were in close companionship, and Coleridge became an ardent admirer of Wordsworth. The two presently planned a volume of "Lyrical Ballads" which were published in 1798. Wordsworth's task was to dignify and idealize the commonplace by imaginative treatment, Coleridge's to popularize the supernatural and mysterious. "The Ancient Mariner" represents Coleridge's share; Wordsworth's included "Tintern Abbey" and some of his earliest nature poems in ballad form. The book was as revolutionary in the field of poetry as anything in the political creed of these two red republicans of manhood's fiery prime.

There was a storm of protest among the critics led by the famous Jeffreys of the Edinburgh Review. "The Ancient Mariner" and the more commonplace of Wordsworth's ballads came in for the brunt of this attack. The "Tintern Abbey" was practically ignored, one of the noblest pieces of blank verse since Milton's time, and touching a height of imaginative vision perhaps never surpassed, though sometimes recaptured for a moment by Wordsworth. So true was it as Coleridge pointed out, that Wordsworth had to create his own audience. There were doubtless a few kindred spirits who could understand such a poem, but the famous Jeffreys was not of these, nor any of the leading critics.

Along with his wonderful gift of interpretation of nature, Wordsworth combined three other qualities, a memory of extraordinary tenacity, a depth of reflection almost unrivalled and—Poetry's supreme gift—a rapture of imaginative vision. When these qualities all conjoin the poet is truly inspired. It may be said that no real poetry can ever be composed except when the poet has passed into a sublimely exalted mood, far above selfconsciousness, an exultant passion, a transport of ecstacy, in which he sees the visions and dreams the dreams that we call poetic inspiration. And this mood of imaginative passion Wordsworth often had, it seems almost always to have come to him out of the contemplation of Nature, the depth of his insight so surpassed that of ordinary people that the commonest objects became transformed and full of significance. To him the meanest flower that blows can give thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.

A whole treasury of golden thoughts and verse might be culled from Wordsworth on the subject of memory and its exquisite pleasures. Wordsworth in a very valuable essay tells us that he regards poetry as the spontaneous overflow of powerful feelings; it takes its origin from emotion recollected in tranquility. The object and the emotion it produced lying side by side in the memory as cause and effect, are contemplated till the emotion revives. Many of Wordsworth's loveliest poems were conceived when the immediate experience of the hour had revived some far distant memory of his childhood or youth, as in the verses to the Cuckoo and the Ode on Intimations of Immortality.

Memory as Wordsworth well knew has the same softening effect as imagination. To this inner vision even the sorrows and tragedies of one's childhood becomes a source of exquisite pleasure, and the commonest scenes are lit with the magic glamour of love and romance. Altogether we have no sweeter singer of memory and of the Fairyland of Childhood than William Wordsworth.

Soon after the publication of the Lyrical Ballads, Wordsworth and his sister crossed to the Continent, where they spent a winter in Germany. There the poet's spirit harked back to boyhood's days in the fells of Cumberland and the Muse's homing instinct found outlet in some of the most beautiful flights of imagination in the English tongue, the Lucy poems. On his return he settled in his old home country of the Lakes to devote the rest of his days to poetry.

In 1800 he published a second volume of "Lyrical Ballads" with a long introduction justifying his heresies as to the language and subjects proper to poetry. In 1802 he married Mary Hutchinson, and about the same time began his poetry of Sonnet form. He lived to be fourscore, dying in 1850. His writing of pure poetry, I mean his period of greatest imagination, is almost entirely in the decade between 1798 and 1808. After that time it was only rarely that he reached great heights of imaginative beauty and power and never the magic peaks of his early manhood.

But all this time he was creating an audience and widening men's sensibilities by spreading a love of nature in her more peaceful unobtrusive moods about the Border, as Scott had done in what Byron calls his rhymed guide to the Highlands, The Lady of the Lake.

This aethetic sense of the picturesque in scenery made both the Trossachs of Scotland and the English Lake District popular tourist resorts. Wordsworth was prevailed on to write (about 1820) a "Guide to the Lakes," which as you may well imagine, was remarkable for the insight and strength of its descriptions. One of the tourist pilgrims, complimenting Wordsworth on the excellence of his prose Guide, asked him if he had ever written anything else. "Yes," he replied, modestly "I have written some verses." It is not likely that this occasion won Wordsworth a new reader, few tourists are guilty of either reading or writing poetry.

Though it is true Wordsworth lost his magic touch before he was forty years of age, he wrote much fine poetry till a far later date, especially in his sonnets, a form that admirably suited his genius of meditative feeling and lofty ideals, he is one of the very few great masters of the sonnet in the English language. Here and in blank verse, he turned with reverence to his master Milton and is worthy to take a place beside him.

His art not only widened his readers' sensibility, it widened his own; in Peele Castle and in some of his later sonnets he shows noble appreciation of the kindred arts of painting and artcture.

Perhaps the greatest thing in Wordsworth's poetry is its restful, healing quality. The sweetness of rural life, the wholesomeness of quiet ways, the dignity of man, the indomitable steadfastness of the soul in face even of earthly desolation, all these are Wordsworth's. You have but to read the story of Margaret, (The Ruined Hut), or Michael, to find the spirit purified, strengthened, sustained through all the poignant tragedy of human anguish.

In conclusion one may say that while much of Wordsworth's poetry —it's inmost heart, we mean—must remain a sealed book to all but nature lovers the best we can do in all fairness is to meet the poet half way, frankly admitting that even if we fail to see how Nature can teach us morals and high thinking, yet Wordsworth both could and did see this miracle performed in his own life experience of the influence of natural objects.

Took Severe Cold ON HIS LUNGS

COUGHED PHLEGM and BLOOD.

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse, and gets settled on the lungs, causing bronchitis, pneumonia and other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will cure the cough or cold on its first inception and perhaps save you years of suffering.

Mr. G. F. Stratychuk, Canora, Sask., writes: "Last winter I took a most severe cold on my lungs and was coughing up phlegm and blood most of the time. I had the cough for over two months, and took a great deal of different medicines, but found no relief from them. At last a friend advised me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I did, and it gave me great relief in a very short time, and to-day I am enjoying good health again."

The marvellous results that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has achieved in its cures of coughs and colds has caused many so-called "pine" preparations to be put on the market, which do not contain any pine whatever. See that you get the genuine when you ask for it.

Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The International Peace Bridge

People of Dominion Will Have Voice in Choice of Title.

(Special to The Examiner.)

BRIDGEBURG, April 17.— Senator Graves of Buffalo, has dropped the name Roosevelt from the New York State bill to promote the proposed International "Peace" bridge, as he conceded that the people of the Dominion should have a voice in the choice of a title for the span.

"As a first step in my drive," said Senator Graves, "if I cannot get the necessary $50,000 to finance the commission I will put it down to $35,000. Anything to get the plan started at this session of the New York State Assembly."

From other sources it was stated that the name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier might be suggested for the bridge.

ADDRESS TO THE PETERBORO ART ASSOCIATION

His faith in the Revolution sustained two great shocks, the first due to England's part in the French struggle for freedom and the second to the frightful excesses and lawlessness of mob rule. A weight of painful depression, almost despair, fell upon him.

That he emerged triumphant from this, the one great crisis of his life, was largely owing to his sister, Dorothy, whose tender affection and constant companionship lifted him out of morbid brooding. Dorothy, as we know from her letters and journal, was no less shrewd an observer of nature than William, but without his power of intense meditation and imaginative insight. It was at this critical juncture in his life that Wordswort made the grand discovery (helped to it by his sister) to seek in nature his interpretation of life and transfigure by his wondrous imagincration and the poet's dream.

till they glowed with the light that never was on sea or land, the consecration the common things of earth creation and the poet's dream.

Wordsworth and his sister were living together in Dorsetshire at this time and shortly before 1798 they took a house at Alfoxden in Somerset in order to be near Coleridge at Nether Stowey. Here the three were in close companionship, and Coleridge became an ardent admirer of Wordsworth. The two presently planned a volume of "Lyrical Ballads" which were published in 1798. Wordsworth's task was to dignify and idealize the commonplace by imaginative treatment, Coleridge's to popularize the supernatural and mysterious. "The Ancient Mariner" represents Coleridge's share; Wordsworth's included "Tintern Abbey" and some of his earliest nature poems in ballad form. The book was as revolutionary in the field of poetry as anything in the political creed of these two red republicans of manhood's fiery prime.

There was a storm of protest among the critics led by the famous Jeffreys of the Edinburgh Review. "The Ancient Mariner" and the more commonplace of Wordsworth's ballads came in for the brunt of this attack. The "Tintern Abbey" was practically ignored, one of the noblest pieces of blank verse since Milton's time, and touching a height of imaginative vision perhaps never surpassed, though sometimes recaptured for a moment by Wordsworth. So true was it as Coleridge pointed out, that Wordsworth had to create his own audience. There were doubtless a few kindred spirits who could understand such a poem, but the famous Jeffreys was not of these, nor any of the leading critics.

Along with his wonderful gift of interpretation of nature, Wordsworth combined three other qualities, a memory of extraordinary tenacity, a depth of reflection almost unrivalled and—Poetry's supreme gift—a rapture of imaginative vision. When these qualities all conjoin the poet is truly inspired. It may be said that no real poetry can ever be composed except when the poet has passed into a sublimely exalted mood, far above selfconsciousness, an exultant passion, a transport of ecstacy, in which he sees the visions and dreams the dreams that we call poetic inspiration. And this mood of imaginative passion Wordsworth often had, it seems almost always to have come to him out of the contemplation of Nature, the depth of his insight so surpassed that of ordinary people that the commonest objects became transformed and full of significance. To him the meanest flower that blows can give thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears.

A whole treasury of golden thoughts and verse might be culled from Wordsworth on the subject of memory and its exquisite pleasures. Wordsworth in a very valuable essay tells us that he regards poetry as the spontaneous overflow of powerful feelings; it takes its origin from emotion recollected in tranquility. The object and the emotion it produced lying side by side in the memory as cause and effect, are contemplated till the emotion revives. Many of Wordsworth's loveliest poems were conceived when the immediate experience of the hour had revived some far distant memory of his childhood or youth, as in the verses to the Cuckoo and the Ode on Intimations of Immortality.

Memory as Wordsworth well knew has the same softening effect as imagination. To this inner vision even the sorrows and tragedies of one's childhood becomes a source of exquisite pleasure, and the commonest scenes are lit with the magic glamour of love and romance. Altogether we have no sweeter singer of memory and of the Fairyland of Childhood than William Wordsworth.

Soon after the publication of the Lyrical Ballads, Wordsworth and his sister crossed to the Continent, where they spent a winter in Germany. There the poet's spirit harked back to boyhood's days in the fells of Cumberland and the Muse's homing instinct found outlet in some of the most beautiful flights of imagination in the English tongue, the Lucy poems. On his return he settled in his old home country of the Lakes to devote the rest of his days to poetry.

In 1800 he published a second volume of "Lyrical Ballads" with a long introduction justifying his heresies as to the language and subjects proper to poetry. In 1802 he married Mary Hutchinson, and about the same time began his poetry of Sonnet form. He lived to be fourscore, dying in 1850. His writing of pure poetry, I mean his period of greatest imagination, is almost entirely in the decade between 1798 and 1808. After that time it was only rarely that he reached great heights of imaginative beauty and power and never the magic peaks of his early manhood.

But all this time he was creating an audience and widening men's sensibilities by spreading a love of nature in her more peaceful unobtrusive moods about the Border, as Scott had done in what Byron calls his rhymed guide to the Highlands, The Lady of the Lake.

This aethetic sense of the picturesque in scenery made both the Trossachs of Scotland and the English Lake District popular tourist resorts. Wordsworth was prevailed on to write (about 1820) a "Guide to the Lakes," which as you may well imagine, was remarkable for the insight and strength of its descriptions. One of the tourist pilgrims, complimenting Wordsworth on the excellence of his prose Guide, asked him if he had ever written anything else. "Yes," he replied, modestly "I have written some verses." It is not likely that this occasion won Wordsworth a new reader, few tourists are guilty of either reading or writing poetry.

Though it is true Wordsworth lost his magic touch before he was forty years of age, he wrote much fine poetry till a far later date, especially in his sonnets, a form that admirably suited his genius of meditative feeling and lofty ideals, he is one of the very few great masters of the sonnet in the English language. Here and in blank verse, he turned with reverence to his master Milton and is worthy to take a place beside him.

His art not only widened his readers' sensibility, it widened his own; in Peele Castle and in some of his later sonnets he shows noble appreciation of the kindred arts of painting and artcture.

Perhaps the greatest thing in Wordsworth's poetry is its restful, healing quality. The sweetness of rural life, the wholesomeness of quiet ways, the dignity of man, the indomitable steadfastness of the soul in face even of earthly desolation, all these are Wordsworth's. You have but to read the story of Margaret, (The Ruined Hut), or Michael, to find the spirit purified, strengthened, sustained through all the poignant tragedy of human anguish.

In conclusion one may say that while much of Wordsworth's poetry —it's inmost heart, we mean—must remain a sealed book to all but nature lovers the best we can do in all fairness is to meet the poet half way, frankly admitting that even if we fail to see how Nature can teach us morals and high thinking, yet Wordsworth both could and did see this miracle performed in his own life experience of the influence of natural objects.

Took Severe Cold ON HIS LUNGS

COUGHED PHLEGM and BLOOD.

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse, and gets settled on the lungs, causing bronchitis, pneumonia and other serious lung troubles.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will cure the cough or cold on its first inception and perhaps save you years of suffering.

Mr. G. F. Stratychuk, Canora, Sask., writes: "Last winter I took a most severe cold on my lungs and was coughing up phlegm and blood most of the time. I had the cough for over two months, and took a great deal of different medicines, but found no relief from them. At last a friend advised me to take Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I did, and it gave me great relief in a very short time, and to-day I am enjoying good health again."

The marvellous results that Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has achieved in its cures of coughs and colds has caused many so-called "pine" preparations to be put on the market, which do not contain any pine whatever. See that you get the genuine when you ask for it.

Hatton vs. Peterboro Trial Closed Last Night, Lawyers to Argue the Case in Toronto

Aldermen and Members Board of Health Favoured Sewer to Remove Unsanitary Conditions—City Engineer Reported That Effluence From Cesspools at Mount St. Joseph Welled From Ground and Reached Monaghan Road.

The case of Hatton vs. Peterboro, an action to quash the McDonnel street sewer by-law, reached the end of the evidence for both sides at six o'clock yesterday evening, and the opposing counsel, Mr. Hall and Mr. O'Connell, arranged to present their argument in Toronto at the convenience of Mr. Justice Lennox.

Alderman W. H. Taylor, the last witness, was called by telephone from his home and while the Court was waiting, His Lordship met Mr. Kerr and Mr. Bagley, counsel in the alimony case of Healey vs. Healey, and in his retiring room discussed the likelihood of a settlement, which had been rumoured since the present sittings opened. At one stage yesterday it became known that the terms of an agreement were being drawn up to apply as a bondage to the domestic rupture between this Asphodel husband and wife.

The evidence in the Hatton case yesterday afternoon was in part as follows:

W. H. Lytle

William H. Lytle said he objected to the sewer as the owner of property on that part of McDonnel street. He would have to pay for something that was of no benefit to him. If the sewer were built it would necessitate an eight foot cut through lime rock that reached almost to the surface. The cost price would be from $8 to $10 a foot not only for the 769 feet of sewer, but also for 23 connections of 33 feet each from the sewer to the street line. Mr. Lytle said he had owned the property on McDonnel street since 1913.

To Mr. O'Connell he explained how he formed the estimate of $8 to $10 a foot as the cost of the sewer. The substructure was lime rock or shale, and would have to be blasted nearly all the way. Drilling would cost one dollar a foot and three drillers would be needed. Drills would have to be made about every 22 inches. Other details of the estimated price were discussed.

Mr. Lytle said there was light, sandy, porous soil about one-quarter of a mile west of Mount St. Joseph. He believed that it was part of the Mount's property.

City Engineer Parsons

City Engineer Parsons was next called by Mr. O'Connell for the defense. He had accompanied the council's special committee to Mount St. Joseph last October and had acquainted himself particularly with the lay of the ground. The sewerage ran easterly from the building toward the Managhan road to the cesspools. Mr. Parsons stated that the land, on which Mount St. Joseph stands, slopes toward the east and the highest point of land is to the west of the building. The ground continues to rise for a distance of about 150 feet behind the building, and the elevation of the apex is about 35 or 40 feet above the level of the Monaghan Road.

Mr. Parsons said it would be possible to build a sewer westerly from the Mount to a septic tank or cesspool. The main consideration would be entirely a question of cost. It would be practicable to build a septic tank, in fact one of the two cesspools was a miniature septic tank, Mr. Parsons said. However, this would have no salutaty effect on the sanitary conditions for it had been found that the effluent from a septic tank was more dangerous than the sewage entering it, because of the multiplication of bacteria in the tank.

Mr. O'Connell—"Would it be practicable to construct the sewer south on Monaghan Road?"

Mr. Parsons—"It wouldn't be good engineering for the ground at Elm street, two streets south of McDonnel, is much higher than at McDonnel street."

Mr. O'Connell elicited the statement that the septic tank in Ashburnham was not a proper method of disposing of sewage. The effluent flowed directly into the Little Lake without undergoing treatment for purification.

Justice Lennox—"Is it feasible for them to adopt the septic tank principle at Mount St. Joseph?"

Mr. Parsons—"I think it is possible."

Justice Lennox—"And you think the Provincial Board of Health would approve it?"

Mr. Parsons—"I think they would."

To Mr. O'Connell, witness said it should be possible to dispose of the sewage by tanks built west of the Mount. If the soil was not porous, a large expenditure would be entailed by a special disposal plan. Mr. Parsons described trenches with gravel bottoms which could be built to extend in fan shape from the outlet to carry off the effluent and permit its purification.

Witness stated that in his recent inspection of the property he saw the effluent from a cesspool and a septic tank coming through the ground and flowing toward Monaghan Road.

Mayor Duncan

Mayor Duncan stated that in supporting the by-law he was actuated by consideration for the health of the general public, of the children going to school, of citizens living near Cambridge street, and of the inmates of the Mount.

"We thought it best to recommend the construction of a sewer on sanitary grounds," said His Worship.

Witness repeated that his motive was not solely to supply a sewer connection to Mount St. Joseph, but to Justice Lennox he said, that if the sewage were not coming from Mount St. Joseph there would have been no need for the sewer.

Mr. James Murty

Mr. Murty, a member of the Board of Health said he had been aware of the discharging from the cesspools for several years and had seen the effluent near Monaghan Road.

His Lordship—"You had observed that condition for two years? You thought it was dangerous to public health, but you said not a word. The moment it was mooted in the Board of Health you took the matter up and advocated that a sewer be built on sanitary grounds. And you didn't want time to investigate and consider it?"

Mr. Murty—"No."

Ald. A. A. McIntyre

Ald. McIntyre said he supported the by-law because he didn't think the conditions as described were good for the Mount or the citizens of Peterboro.

To Mr. Hall he said there were no unsanitary conditions arising in the city which the sewer would prevent.

Ex-Ald. Weir

Ex-Ald. Weir's evidence was similar to that of preceding witnesses. He was chairman of the Board of Works last year.

Justice Lennox—"Did it occur to you as a member of the Board of Works to ask Father Phelan when he applied for sewer connection why he did not have sewerage to the tanks opened up?"

Mr. Weir—"I didn't say it."

"He represented a taxpayer living outside the city, and while this may be alright, shouldn't you have found out both sides first? Looking backward wasn't it precipitate action?"

"It looks a little that way now."

His Lordship—"It does to me too."

Ex-Ald. McIntyre

Mr. Malcolm McIntyre, a member of last year's council, said he was moved to support the by-law because of the sanitary considerations, also because the Mount agreed to pay so much of the cost of the sewer which would reduce the cost to the progerty owners. The Bonner-Worth Company was going to build and would need a sewer and the work might as well be carried out.

"I thought it was a good business proposition," said Mr. McIntyre, who also said he was influenced by the fact that the Mount spent $20,000 a year in the city, and members of the congregation were teachers in the Separate Schools.

Inspector Mowat

Mr. Alexander Mowat, the Public School Inspector stated that the average attendance at the Queen Mary School was between 500 and 520. About 30 pupils were from the county.

London Press Endorse Speech

Are Satisfied With Explanation Given by Lloyd George.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, April 17.—While opinions are divided regarding the substance of the address of Lloyd George before the House of Commons, there is general agreement by the London press that it was a great parliamentary triumph, as indeed was shown by rousing cheers of his audience and expressions of individual members in the lobbies. With the exception of Labourite and Nordcliffe newspapers none of the morning journals condemn the Premier's statement wholly, while several warmly applaud it. These admit that Lloyd George revealed nothing of the peace terms, but they do not complain. The Telegraph, for instance, says that his general account of terms will give deep satisfaction, and adds that he demolished the whole structure his critics built on his supposed departure from his pre-election pledges.

Farm Hands Are Going Back

United States Expects to Harvest a Big Wheat Crop.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WASHINGTON, April 17. — Farm hands who answered the war call of factory are migrating back to farms by hundreds of thousands, according to reports to-day to the Department of Agriculture, which showed nation's farm labour supply April was 83 per cent. of demand. This represents an increase over a corresponding period of 1918, when supply was but 72 per cent. of total demand.

Agriculture department officials say farm labour outlook is brightening surprisingly, doubly welcome news in view of the forecast for the biggest wheat crop in the world's history.

Claims $5,173.20 From Peterboro Lumber Co.

This morning's session of the Non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court were occupied by the case of Lenton vs. the Peterboro Lumber Company in which the plaintiff claims $5,173.20 the principal and the interest on a note for $3,800. Mr. J. Guise- Bagley appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. John McIntosh, K.C., of Toronto, with Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill acted for the defendants. The evidence delved into the beginnings of the Peterboro Lumber Company from the time it was formed under an agreement by Mr. John Thompson, Mr. Dickson Davidson and Mr. Lenton. Of the original stock allottment the plaintiff received 38 shares, which remained unpaid for, and with the shares of the other members were put up as security for a loan in 1912, when the capital was increased.

The plaintiff claims that this stock was his property and was simply loaned to the company, whereas the defendants deny that the stock was given out right to Mr. Lenton or paid for any time.

MEMORIAL EASTER SERVICE

With the Christian the dominant thought in a memorial service should be the resurrection. This fact makes it peculiarly fitting that the evening of Easter Day should have been chosen by the officers of Murray Street Baptist Church for the memorial service of soldiers who have died for their country since the similar service of some time ago.

The soldiers in whose honor, and to whose memory this service as arranged are: John Ellam, Joseph Horton, Fred Stanley, Arthur Lewis, Geo. Collins.

The order of service with the hymns for the evening has been printed, and a very appropriate selection of music has been made by the choir. The sermon will be preached by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb and all the returned soldiers of the congregation will be present.

The church building having been prepared for Easter Services, presents an appearance of life and hope and the theme as well as the day insures such a service as should be held in view of the resurrection

The morning service at Murray street includes the baptism of a considerable number of applicants for church membership and a program of Easter music by a full choir. The numbers as given in the column of church notices indicate that the Murray Street Church choir is in the very front rank for this most joyous day of the year.

On this day the semi-annual offerings for the building fund will be made thus completing the third payment on the shares by which the debt is being retired.

WILLIAMSON HAS A BIG SURPRISE

Toronto Man Finds Relief From Troubles After Year's of Suffering.

"I was never so surprised over anything in my life as I was over the relief I got through using Tanlac," said C. W. Williamson, of 1115 St. Clarens avenue, Toronto, Ont., recently.

"My kidneys had been worrying me for four or five years," he continued, "and kept me miserable most all the time. I had terrible pains across my back and rheumatism in my right leg that pained me so awfully that I'd almost drop in my tracks. I had no appetite and could hardly sleep, I was so nervous, and many a night I never closed my eyes at all.

"I had no life or energy. I felt blue and discouraged, for I was in a dreadful condition, and there seemed to be no help for me.

"One of my friends told me to try Tanlac, which I did, and have been improving every day since I started on it. The rheumatism never bothers me now at all, and my kidneys are in fine shape. My appetite is fine, and everything agrees with me. My nerves are steady and I sleep like a log all night and have gotten back by former strength and energy."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert, by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

A SHOWER FOR MISS K. McQUAIG.

The girl friends of Miss Kathleen McQuaig gathered at the home of her sister, Miss Wilson, 250 Charlotte street, on Friday evening and gave her a miscellaneous shower in the event of her coming marriage.

About fifty young people were present and many beautiful and useful articles were received. An address was read, to which Miss McQuaig replied very suitably. The remainder of the evening was spent in music, etc., and a thoroughly enjoyable time was spent.

The Ministers at Ottawa Have An Eye For Luxuries

Two and a Half Miles of Carpet Bought by Newburn; Yes, and 150 Rugs, Too!—Government Elected to "Win the War" Is Bent Upon "Ease."

OTTAWA, April 17. — It would appear from the Auditor-General's report that if the present government was elected to win the war, it decided after it was elected that it might as well win it with the greatest possible degree of comfort to itself. It was all right for the common folks who were simply fighting at the front, to sleep in dugouts, with their feet in mud and water, and their heads on sandbags, but for the men who were really elected to "win the war," such uncouth and uncomfortable quarters were not even to be thought of.

Duncan C. Ross, and J. H. Sinclair, Liberal members of the Public Accounts Committee, started to-day an inquiry into a formidable list of items in the Auditor-General's report which would indicate that the members of the Cabinet created to "win the war" desired that, so far as they were concerned, luxurious surroundings were necessary to accomplish that purpose.

Lavish Refurnishings.

It would appear that during the most critical period of the war a general house-cleaning and rejuvenation of government offices was in progress. And the departmetn of Militia and Defence was the most pretentious of all in this regard.

During the year 1917-18 upwards of two and a half miles of expensive carpets were purchased for the office of the Minister. In addition, there were purchased 150 rugs, ranging in price all the way from $35 to $100 each. There were Axminsters and Smyrnas and Brussels and all sorts of rugs soft to the foot and pleasant in their colors to the tired eyes of the hard worked Cabinet ministers. In fact there were enough carpets and rugs purchased to cover Ypres salient or hide the mud of Vimy Ridge, and there were in addition, portieres and curtains and hangings of all sorts. Indeed, judging from the materials purchased, some of these offices must resemble Turkish harems in their soft luxuriousness.

To uphold the dignity of the "brass hats" of the Militia department 1,377 yards of carpet were purchased and 56 rugs.

Calder's Mahogany Crane.

The taste of Hon. J. A. Calder, the Minister of Immigration, ran to solid mahogany. For the sanctum there were purchased six mahogany chairs, costing over $100. Two tilter chairs of the same wood, costing $72; a mahogany desk, costing $105, and another with a glass top, costing $132; a mahogany table costing $109; a mahogany wardrobe, costing $89; and last, but not least, a mahogany waste-paper basket, costing $32.28.

Just think of it!—A mahogany waste-paper basket costing $32.28 to hold the discarded remnants of Mr. Calder's correspondence. The names of the Krug Furniture Company and Snider Bros. appear in the list of those from whom the various luxuries were purchased by the various ministers. If the present Cabinet won the war it did so verily with the least possible discomfort to itself.

J. Moore & Son, ladders, $11.00; N. A. Moore, crushed oats, $60.06; Bell Telephone Co., account, $7.20. Total, $328.21.

Moved by Councillor Porter, seconded by Councillor McDonald, that the report of the Finance committee be received and adopted.—Carried.

Moved by Councillor Smith, seconded by Councillor Porter, that the Reeve issue a proclamation ordering the adoption by the village of Lakefield of daylight saving time in conformity with railway time. That the change in time be effective on Friday, April 18th, at 2 a.m.—Carried.

A By-law.

A by-law, entitled a by-law to issue debentures of the village of Lakefield to the amount of sixteen thousand dollars for the purpose of erecting a building to be used for village purposes such as a town hall, public library and reading room, fire station and public offices, said building to be known as Lakefield Community Memorial Hall, received its first and second readings.

Moved by Councillor Porter, seconded by Councillor McDonald, that the Council do now adjourn.—Carried.

Voting will take place on the Memorial Town Hall By-law on Monday, May 19th. The vote will be for a memorial hall in honour of our soldier boys who have made the supreme sacrifice.

Labour Council Refused to Rescind Motion Re Ald. Edgar

Also Wants Wholesale Buyers of Produce Excluded From the Market Until 12 O'clock, and An Eight Hour Day for City Labourers—Variety to the Subjects.

EX. ALD. CROWE ENDORSED

Ald. Murray returned his mandate as an Aldermanic representative of Labour by announcing to the Trades and Labour Council last night his intention of resigning from the City Council. In the letter, which was suggestive of a farewell, Ald. Murray said that his experience as a delegate of the Trades and Labour Council, would always be to him a very pleasant memory.

His resignation was accepted with expressions of regret and acknowledgment that the Labour Council, and the city as a whole was losing a useful citizen.

Mr. Joseph Crowe was nominated as the Council's choice as successor to Ald. Murray when the appointment is made by the City Council.

In taking this step it was stated that Labour had a moral right to this position in the city council, and it was hoped that the other Aldermen would assent and defer to this claim. Mr. Crowe was a member of the council some years ago, has long been a resident of Peterboro and if accepted by the city council will not find himself in strange surroundings. Mr. Arthur Sharpe was also suggested for the vacancy but declined in favour of Mr. Crowe, who has the unanimous support of the Labour Council.

Want Market Hours Changed.

A special committee that investigated the public market with special attention to the hours at which retailers, restaurant and hotel proprietors are permitted to buy produce, recommended that the council be requested to change the market bylaw to exclude all restaurant and hotel proprietors and retail grocers, until 12 o'clock, new time. The information was given that at present the hotel and restaurant keepers are admitted at 10 a.m. and the grocers at 11 o'clock. As a result the market loses much of its value to the consumer. The Daylight Saving time works to the detriment of householders in this instance, for the farmers cling to standard time, and when they arrive at the market at 10 o'clock by their watches, it is eleven o'clock in the city, and any person can buy all the butter and eggs that they can afford and need.

Incidentally, the advocates of co-operative stores recommended that system as an advantage to the city consumers. One delegate said that in Great Britain four-pound loaves of bread are sold three or four cents cheaper than the Canadian three-pound loaves, and Canadian flour is used in both.

"The biggest purchaser of Canadian flour," said another member is the Co-operative Society in the Old Country. They have even their own wheat fields here and are thus enabled to sell bread cheaper than it is sold in Canada."

Want 8 Hour Day Here.

It was pointed out that the laborers employed by the city work nine hours a day. The aldermen were requested to endeavor to put the eight-hour day into effect for city laborers in order that openings might be created for some of the unemployed.

Pensions for Widows.

A resolution recommending that pensions be provided by the Government for widows with children, was passed, and copies will be sent to the Provincial and Federal Premiers.

Endorse Electric Line.

The council unanimously endorsed the movement outlined on Tuesday night to the Railway Committee of the City Council, by Mr. G. N. Gordon, urging Sir Adam Beck to undertake the construction of an electric rural railway from Peterboro to Chemong Lake, and by way of Hall's Bridge to the junction of the I. B. & O. and the Grand Trunk Railways. A copy of this resolution will be forwarded to Adam Beck.

The Band Grants.

There was variety to spare at last night's meeting. Discussion turned for a time to the City Council's appropriation "for music," and members of the Musicians' Union had their innings. One delegate stated that the 57th was the only organized band in the city. They had estimated that if paid the union rate for the concerts in the parks they alone should receive $604.50. With only $200 available, each man would receive 45c and the conductor 90c a night.

Another delegate, whose opinion was supported by others, said that the city should support only one band and endeavor to provide good music for the citizens. He paid a high tribute to Mr. R. Gliddon, who, he declared, was unequalled in Peterboro as a musician, and had few superiors in the province. The Council's grant of $600 to be equally apportioned to the three local organizations, was dubbed a "lousy, penurious" sum, and this avowed lover of good music said that Ald. Gainey was right in proposing that the appropriation be increased.

Ald. Edgar's Intimation.

The musicians talked themselves out, ruefully realizing that the City Council's action was beyond remedy.

The next item was a letter from Mr. G. N. Gordon in behalf of Ald. Edgar, to the effect that the Labour Council's resolution placing him on the unfair list was based on a statement of fact that was not accurate. Mr. Gordon wrote that Ald. Edgar had not opposed the Fair Wage clause in the Hunter street bridge contract, but desired to show that there would be no difference in the cost of the bridge arising out of this provision. Mr. Gordon intimated that the Trades Council should rescind its resolution naming Ald. Edgar.

President Bolwell remarked that between the lines there appeared to be a threat of legal action.

"Gordon and Edgar can't bulldoze me," said the mover of the resolution, which was passed at the meeting on April 2nd. "If a man's unfair to organized labor, he's unfair. They can't scare me."

The seconder likewise stood his ground.

Several delegates were disposed to revoke the resolution, stating in other words the axiom of tact, "That a soft answer turneth away wrath."

There was an opinion that the resolution had used the term boycott, but the minutes showed that the council had declared Ald. Edgar on the unfair list because of continued opposition to Labour. Hence, it was argued, that there was no suggestion of boycott in the resolution whatever else might have been said by members at the former meeting, and that the resolution was not evoked solely by any action Ald. Edgar might have taken in regard to the Fair Wage clause in the bridge contract.

With that elucidation, the council decided to take no action with Mr. Gordon's communication. In fact it was stated that naming persons or organizations as unfair was a common practice by Labour bodies, that it had been frequently resorted to in Peterboro, numerous instances being recalled, and for these reasons the Council refused to back down.

Bread Company is Fair.

Delegates urged that all Union men should support the Mother's Bread Company. Their employees had been union men from the time the company began business here.

The Library Contract.

The committee that interviewed Mayor Duncan about the contract for the painting of the Public Library, which his men performed, reported that the Mayor told them he had never thought of his position, and not single out Mayor Duncan as Mayor of the city. He had painted the Library from time to time, and did not consider he was doing anything wrong. Referring to the fact that tenders were not called for this public work, he said he knew nothing about it, except that he had the contract handed to him by Mr. Sollitt. It never occurred to him that there was anything morally or legally wrong about it.

The question broadened out when it was stated that the Hicks Company and Ald. Edgar had sold goods to the Utilities Commission. A delegate who had read the last annual report of the Commission said there were probably other men in the same position as Mayor Duncan.

"Why not strike at the whole principle, and not singl eout Mayor Duncan," he urged, and a committee was appointed to draft a resolution, covering this grievance, to be presented at the next meeting.

Overlook No Opportunity.

Reference was made to Ald. Murray's attempt at the last Council meeting to secure a motion recommending to the Provincial Government the abolition of property qualifications for municipal elections. It was stated that the other Labour members should have seconded the motion, but Ald. Gainey replied that he had twice submitted this motion without success, and Ald. Morrison said the remained silent because he didn't think the motion would carry.

Several delegates advised that every opportunity to advance the cause and interests of workingmen should be accepted.

A resolution from the One Big Union, Vancouver, urging the severance of affiliations with the international organizations was laid on the table.

Tartan Tailor Shop

Get Measured To-Night

Who is your Tailor?

Keep your money in Peterborough, not in Toronto, or Hamilton, or some other outside place.

Whoever buys a Suit or Top Coat from the Tartan Tailor Shop is welcome to come in and pick out his cloth and linings, and is entitled to a "try on." We can satisfy you that they are made by skilled tailors, who do nothing else.

Every Suit and Top Coat made in this store is a man-tailored job — Made-to-Measure—not sawn out by the hundred.

ABOUT THE PRICE.

The big item in a suit of clothes is the material, of course. Certainly not in the rent we pay,—just off the main street.

We don't claim to sell you a $40 suit for $30, or a $30 suit for $25.

What we do claim is that we give you better value than you can get anywhere else in Peterborough or outside of it.

And we PROVE our claim.

Good material and workmanship add months to the wear, and makes the clothes keep their shape.

When will you be in? Don't take a gamble on your new Spring Suit or Top Coat till you have consulted me.

My store is at the same convenient location — just off George Street, on Hunter — where we have been for seven years.

"The Better 'Ole" Coming to Grand

Announcement of the forthcoming engagement of the Boston Company in "The Better 'Ole" at the Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday April 25, 26, matinee Saturday, will be greeted by theatregoers of this city with great expectancy. The fame of this unique play, following its New York presentation this Fall, has promated throughout the United States. It is described as "a fragrant from France in two explosions, seven splinters, and a short gas attack", by Captain Bruce Bairnsfather and Captain Arthur Sliot, based upon Captain Bairnsfather's inimitable war cartons. A dozen or more catchy musical numbers by Hermon Darowski and Percival Knight add to the attractiveness and charm of the production. The comedy will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Coburn, who are appearing in it at the Cort Theatre New York with enormous success. Mail orders now. Seats on sale Wednesday.

IRRITABLE NERVES RESTORED AND HEALTH REGAINED IN A SIMPLE WAY

The man or woman who is run-down, not feeling up to the mark, perhaps irritable, nervous or sleepless, can well afford to learn about the wonderful results the newly discovered blood food is giving to folks that use it.

There is wonderful power in this new blood food, and every weak, pallid person can be quickly nourished back to health that uses it as directed.

After each meal, with a sip or two of water, you simply take two little chocolate-coated tablets, sold in all drug stores under the name of "FERROZONE."

The effect is noticeable at once. You feel happier, brighter, more contented. That old time feeling of weariness departs—you forget your "nerves" and no longer get irritable or cross over trifling annoyances.

There is a reason for the change, and that reason consists of the fact that Ferrozone contains blood making materials you can get in no other way.

Ferrozone makes the blood tingle, and sing, with new vitality. This ensures lots of nourishment and strength being supplied to every part of the body.

No wonder the eyes brighten and the cheeks radiate color and happiness. With abundance of strength, a keen appetite, good digestion, and plenty of sound sleep—all the result of Ferrozone—you quickly feel as if life held new charms and pleasures.

Shortly afterward he married Mary Jane Robertson, who lived with him a short time and then left for parts unknown.

PRESENTATION TO MR. AND MRS. CHRISTIE

A gathering of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Christie, took place at their home in Asphodel, when the following address was read, and a presentation made of a handsome couch, [illegible] and a beautiful necklace.

Dear Friends:

We gather around you to-night to spend a social hour together among us. We meet together to show our appreciation of the long and many years of true friendship, which has existed between us. Although not old in years it is the removal of one of the old landmarks from among us, and we would ask you, Mr. and Mrs. Christie, to accept this couch, and Miss Vina this pendant and chair, as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by your many friends and neighbors.

May you long be spared to enjoy them and may they be a source of comfort to you through many years to come, and be a reminder of the good old times we have had together ,also of this night, of the 26th of March, 1919.

Signed on behalf of the many friends and neighbors.

Hugh Christie.
Geo. Gillespie.

Mr. Christie made a suitable reply, thanking the people of their neighborhood for their kind remembrances, after which refreshments were served and a pleasant social evening was spent.

Government Sitting Tight

By H. F. GADSBY.

Sitting tight and breathing hard — that is the position of Union Government after Parliament has been in session two months. The lid heaves uneasily but Pandora's box is safe enough until the Easter holidays are over when those twin troubles, the tariff and the franchise, will be let loose to do their worst.

Their worst, the Government hopes, will not be so bad as was expected, because the Unionist members of Parliament seem much more resigned to let sleeping dogs lie than the voters at home. Some say it is a lively sense of tariff reductions to come which keeps the Western members quiet; while others say it is the chloroform of environment which puts members on the Government side asleep in the assurance that they have three years to run yet if they don't stir things up. For those who do not expect to come back at the next election this is soothing syrup enough. But for those who do expect to get a nomination again, other sedatives have to be invented.

Even at that, things have happened which throw a rude jolt into this drugged slumber. For instance, Maharg, became deliriously truthful for a few minutes, put his nightmare into words and almost raised a rough House. It would have been a rough House if the other sleepers in the Green Chamber hadn't been so thoroughly under the influence. As it was, they tossed a bit, moaned in their dreams, and let it go at that. Next morning they made excuses for Maharg. They said he must have been lying on his back or he wouldn't have screamed out like that.

Then there was the McMaster resolution. There was no doubt that this was done deliberately by a wakeful Opposition which had decided to see what a dash of cold water would do to the sleepers. Jarred out of their repose some of the sleepers complained that it was a party trick—which it was, and a pretty good one at that—while others muttered that no gentleman would do it. Please go 'way and let us sleep; don't disturb our slumbers deep— that was what the argument amounted to. It was a shabby trick, so they said, to face them with a picture that had been turned toward the wall, to hit them on the head with a name that was not to be mentioned until something could be done about it. The condition the poor unfortunate tariff has got into is considered disgraceful, but nothing is to be gained by talking about it in public.

But human nature is human nature, and if you tell people they mustn't do a thing that is the very thing they'll do— as Mr. Rowell very well knows—if you don't give them something else to play with. So the Government has gone into the business of providing toys for the mischievous fellows—pretty toys that will keep Satan away.

One of these toys is Daylight Saving. They gave it to the farmers to take their minds off the tariff and a sick looking toy it is now—each party to the quarrel having gone off with an arm and a leg. The farmers are a great deal more gullible than I take them to be, if they accept this kind of green cheese as a substitute for tariff reform. Incidentally it goes to show what the Machiavellis of Union Government think of the public intelligence.

Another diverting toy was the Department of Public Health fathered by Mr. Rowell but left by him, if rumour is true, on Mr. Calder's doorstep, now that Mr. Rowell has lost interest in it. Mr. Rowell lost interest in it because the House did to it what Dr. Godfrey would do to the criminal classes—that is to say sterilised it. The bill was rightly regarded by the House as our old friend Social Welfare in a very thin disguise. There was one omnibus clause in it which would have allowed the Department of Public Health to do anything to anybody short of interfering with the law of gravitation. The House sniffed in this the Uplift Menagerie in which Mr. Rowell finds his greatest delight and tamed its roaring by reducing it to a mere whereas in the preamble. Social welfare, as visualized by Mr. Rowell and his admirers, is a congries of German ideas, pauperising palliatives offered by the junkers to the labouring classes, instead of fair wages and better treatment. Old age pensions, unemployment, insurance, and maternity bonuses, are, as I recollect, the chief features of the programme which aims to keep the workingman under the employer's thumb by giving him just enough sop to keep him out of the poor house. Of course the right way to mend the workingman's condition is to give him longer pay and shorter hours, the two together making a margin of thrift and leisure which will enrich his old age.

Moreover, any other way than that has no place in a new country like Canada, boundless in hope, opportunity and resources. But Mr. Rowell thinks it has and when the House planted its foot on the Social Welfare clause which was the kernel of the whole bill Mr. Rowell just naturally backed away from his offspring and handed it over to Mr. Calder who will probably be wise enough to let it die through lack of nourishment. The House may not be in a hurry to afford tariff relief, but it is not in a hurry either to add costly fads to an already overburdened treasury.

Another pretty toy is the joint commission to investigate the relations between Capital and Labour, which Hon. Gideon Robertson announces. It is quite true that there are at least two reports on this subject already in the possession of the Government which may embody the facts, but these reports are four or five years old and Union Government claims the right to a new revelation. The conditions are the same only more so—that will be the substance of the report which of course will be delayed as long as possible. The idea is that if you can get the people talking hotly enough about Capital and Labour—Whitley Councils and such, the tariff may get by without being noticed.

By the way, the Minister of Labour displays a sense of humour. It is to be a commission of five, two of whom are to be capitalists in whom the the people have every confidence. Where are these two miracles to be found? Is one of them by any chance Sir Joseph Flavelle, whose cold storage friends threaten us with dollar butter for the simple reason that they prefer selling their goods at famine prices to Europe to selling them to loyal Canadians at a reasonable profit. When is Union Government going to take these entortioners by the throat and tell them that their first duty to a highly protected home market is to sell to the Canadian consumer at a Canadian price not at a price fixed by the pinched bellies overseas. In a word we are not willing to starve just to enable Sir Joseph Flavelle and his tribe to become deporters. What they are free to export is their surplus after our wants have been satisfied.

I observe on the order paper a number of leading questions by Mr. Middleton, the chief Government whip, whose drift is toward the high tariff doctrine. For instance, he asks what is the total current and capital expenditure for the fiscal year 1919-20; what are the chief sources of revenue and the estimated revenue from each source; what other sources of revenue are available. The answer Mr. Middleton expects to get is that the tariff, like Abou Ben Adhem's name, leads all the rest. Another question will bring out a comparison of income, war profits and other taxes with the customs duties collected and may reasonably fortify an argument that Mr. Middleton has in mind—to wit: that the East pays the lion's share. Another question raises invidious contrasts as to the amounts contributed by the various provinces to the war loans. While two very long questions at the last are calculated to bring out a statement that the customs duties collected on agricultural implements are relatively small and that the price of wheat in Canada is relatively large when we range it alongside the Argentine, India and Australia.

As Mr. Middleton says, East is East, and West is West, and Mr. Middleton evidently believes in sowing the little seeds which will keep them that way. With the interesting body of statistics which Mr. Middleton gathers from the replies, we may reasonably expect that he will deliver a good old-fashioned high tariff speech when hell breaks loose over the budget.

LETTER FROM MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.

The following letter from the Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, D.D., LL.D., President of the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, formerly Chancellor of McMaster University of Toronto, to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., of Peterboro, on the subject of the latter's views regarding Prohibition, will be of such general interest and benefit that Mr. Burnham has forwarded it for publication. The letter is as follows

Montreal, Sept. 15, 1918.

J. H. Burnham, Esq., M.P.,
House of Commons,
Ottawa, Ont.

Dear Sir: Your letter without date in answer to mine of April 10th, has been received, and I thank you for it. It has been my rule through life to keep an open mind, and I am always especially pleased when able and thoughtful men, busy, too, with great affairs, personal or national, are willing to take time to state to me their point of view in respect to vital matters. Prohibition is regarded by many as a vital matter ,though I submit there is a possibility that neither the average advocate or opponent of the measures which are commonly connected by that term is certain to be thinking yet in perfect harmony with the thought of God.

And, by the way, may I be permitted to express my satisfaction that you as a responsible Member of the House of Commons, are disposed, as each of your letters to me has indicated, to turn your thoughts to God, and to enquire about His will in respect to a matter affecting the liberty and welfare of the people as well as the integrity and prosperity of the State.

In the letter now before me, you use the words, "God, who by the way prohibits nothing!" You put an exclamation mark after this statement. The exclamation mark is the only part of the statement which does not surprise me. My chief knowledge of God comes from the statements found in the Bible and from the intimations discoverable in the laws of matter and mind; and from these sources of information I have never learned what you state in the words, "God prohibits nothing." In view of this you may be certain that your point of view interests me exceedingly. I am, dear sir,

Respectfully yours,
(Signed) O. C. S. Wallace.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

This correspondence arose from a letter received by me from Mr. Wallace and in reply to his request I frankly told him that I endeavored to find out always what God intended, believing that men were included in creation, and not above it, and that I found that to curse alcohol was to curse something that God made in nature, and, therefore, was to curse God, and to be an athiest. It was not for me to criticize the ways of God, but to imitate them, and I may say that whilst I have always voted for Prohibition in the past, I will never do so again, although I will vote for strict government control and sane regulation, which is permissable by the divine law to which I have referred.

Your total abolitionist, or extinctionist, presumes to censure the Creator, whether he will acknowledge it or not, and is setting up a system that will result, if successful, in the downfall of the world. The subject is too long to go into at further length, but arguing from this principle, the whole question will permit of an assured and easy solution. He is too wise who knows more than God.

J. H. Burnham.

Monthly Income Insurance

Is your wife an experienced financier? If not, take your insurance on the income plan.

Is your wife better at saving than at spending? If not, take income insurance.

When a man dies there are three deaths:—
The death of a husband.
The death of a father.
The death of the income.

If your insurance is paid in one sum how long will it last?

For husband and wife who have no dependents the life income contract on the endowment form is the best policy. At the end of twenty years the income will begin. It will sustain them both as long as they live, and will provide a life income for the survivor if one should die.

A great help in Cooking

One of the most remarkable features of OXO CUBES is the economy they effect in cooking. They are an excellent substitute for meat in soups and savouries. They prevent waste and oddments can be served in many appetising ways by their use

Then contrast the old-fashioned cumbersome way of cooking with the quick, convenient OXO CUBE way. Think of the time saved—the material saved—the fuel saved—and then reckon up that in dollars and cents. But that is not all. OXO increases nutrition—it makes every dish more wholesome and digestible.

OXO CUBES

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"I'm no more a hypocrite than I am a Democrat. His yellow streak was getting wider every year. It's good riddance. Still I wish he'd died in his bed. I don't like the idea of a fellow citizen, good or bad, bein' shot down like that. It's against law and order, and if the murderer's caught and I'm drawn on the jury, and it's proved he done it I'll vote for conviction."

"Quite right," said Dr. Anna briskly, as she went out into the hall and put on her hat. "I suppose it's Mrs. Balfame who wants me?"

"Yes, that's it. I remember. But you ought to go home and get sleep. There's enough women to sit up with her. The hull town likely."

"But I know she wants me." Dr. Anna's face glowed softly. "I'll sleep there all right—on a sofa beside her bed—if she wants me to stay on."

"Well, look out for yourself," he growled. "If you don't think about yourself a little more you'll soon have no show to think so much about other people. I'm goin' for the car."

A few moments later he had brought the little runabout to the door, lighted the lamps, and given the doctor a hard grip of the hand.

The returned the pressure in kind. "Now don't worry, Mr. Houston. She's all right, and that nurse is first rate. Don't talk to her. Aggie, I mean. See you to-morrow about ten."

She drove rapidly out of the gate and into the road. There was a full moon shining and the drive was but ten miles between the farm and Elsinore. Her face was tired and grim. She had been in daily contact with typhoid fever in the poor and dirty quarter of the town. In her arduous life she had often experienced healthy fatigue, but nothing like this. Could she be coming down?

She swung her thoughts to Enid Balfame, and forgot herself. Free at last, and while still young and lovely! Would she marry Dwight Rush? He had leaped into her mind simultaneously with the announcement of Balfame's death. But was he good enough for Enid? Was any man? Why, now that she was a real widow and in no need of a protector, should she marry at all? At any rate she could afford to wait. There were greater prizes to be captured by a beautiful and still girlish woman.

She was glad for the first time that Enid had never had a child, for there was a virgin and mystic appeal in the woman that had escaped the common lot. Spinsters lost it, curiously enough, but a chaste and lovely matron, who ignored the book of experience so liberally offered her, and with eyes as unalloyed as a girl's (save when flashing with intellectual fires)—what more distracting anomaly could the world offer? Only Mrs. Balfame's indifference had kept the men away—Dr. Anna was convinced of that. Her future was in her own hands.

Dr. Anna's mind wandered to the scene of the murder. It was not difficult to construct, even from the meager details, and she shuddered. Murder! What a hideous word it was! Horrid that it should even brush the name of an exquisite creature like Enid Balfame. Would that Dave Balfame could have fallen of apoplexy while disgracing himself at the Club! But Anna frowned and shook the picture out of her mind. Doctors are too long trained in death to be haunted by its phantoms in any form.

A sharp turn and the road ran beside a salt marsh, a solemn grey expanse that lost itself far away in the grey of the sea. Suddenly Dr. Anna, became aware of a man walking rapidly down the road toward her. He carried his hat in his hand as if his head were hot on this cool autumn night. There was no fear of man in Dr. Anna, even on lonely country roads; nevertheless she had no mind to be detained, and was about to increase her speed, when her curiosity was excited by something pleasantly familiar in the tall loose figure, the almost stiffly upright head. A moment later and the bright moonlight revealed the white face of Dwight Rush.

She brought the car to an abrupt halt as he too paused and nodded recognition.

"What's the matter?" she asked sharply. "You looked as if you were walking to beat time itself—as if you saw a ghost to boot—"

"Plenty of ghosts in my head. It aches like the dickens—"

"Were you there when it happened?"

"When what happened?"

"What? You pretend you don't know—when all Elsinore must have known it within five minutes—"

"I don't know what you are talking about. I followed you in from the Club and then took the train for Brooklyn, where I had to see a man. When I got back to Elsinore—off the train— my head ached so I knew I couldn't sleep— so I started out to walk it off—been walking for about two hours."

"Dave Balfame was shot down at his own gate three or four hours ago."

"Good God! Who did it? Is he dead?"

"He's dead, and that's about all I can tell you. Houston went to the 'phone but he was in such a state of mind about his wife that he didn't stay for particulars. Enid wanted me—it was Lottie Gifning that 'phoned. I gathered, however, that they haven't caught the murderer yet.'

"Jove!" Rush was shaking. "I feel as if I'd been hit in the pit of the stomach. And I'm not on to go to pieces, either. But I've a good enough reason."

Dr. Anna continued to stare at him. He met her gaze and wonder grew in his. Then the blood rushed into his face and he threw back his head. "What do you mean? That I did it?"

"No—I don't see you committing murder—"

"Not in that damned skulking way—"

"Exactly. But you kind of suggest that you might know something about it. You might have been in the grove, or some part of the grounds —with some idea of protecting Enid—"

"Why should you think that?"

"She told me—I didn't think it a bad idea myself—that you asked her to divorce Dave and marry you. But she said she wouldn't and I guess she meant it. Now, get in," she added briskly. "I'll drive you home and never say I met you. Met anybody else?"

"No one."

"Unless they get the right man at once, everybody who was known to have any reason to wish Dave Balfame out of the way will come under suspicion. For all you know, somebody may have guessed your secret; I saw it in your eyes at the clubhouse when you were trying to get Dave out of the room for her sake; but of course I was 'on.' Those New York newspaper men, however—watch out for them. They'll fine-tooth-comb the county for the man in the case."

Rush had disposed his long legs in the little machine and it was once more running swiftly on the smooth road. "My brain is still too hot to theorise," he said. "May I smoke? What is your opinion?"

"He had many political enemies; besides, these last two years he's been growing more and more unbearable, so I guess he had more than one in his own party. But it isn't unlikely that some girl did it. For some reason the trollops liked him, and I've met him several times of late driving with a red-headed minx that looks as if she could shoot on sight."

"I don't mind telling you that I saw Mrs. Balfame a few minutes after you left her. I was boiling. Instead of piloting Balfame out to Sam's car I wished that I had run him behind the club house and horse-whipped him. We are too civilized these days. I merely went to his house and asked his wife if she would divorce the brute and marry me. Two centuries ago—maybe one—I'd have picked her up and flung her on my horse and galloped off to the woods. We haven't improved; we've merely substituted the long-winded and indirect method and called it civilization."

"Just so. Did she let you in?"

"Not she. You might know that without asking. Nor was she any nearer divorce than before. When I offered to pick a quarrel with him, she merely slammed the door in my face. But I went to the window and made her promise that if she were ever in trouble I should be the first person she would send for—"

"But you weren't!" Dr Anna's voice rang with jealous triumph. "I was the first. But never mind me. I've adored her for forty years, and you haven't known her as many weeks. Tell me, you didn't conceal yourself anywhere in the grounds to watch over her? She must have been all alone. Every servant in town takes Saturday night out."

"I inferred that Sam would keep him at his house all night. Besides I knew she had a pistol. Balfame told me the other day he bought her one in New York; when those burglaries began."

"Well, don't tell any one that you offered to dispose of her husband—a few moments before he was killed! It might make unnecessary trouble for a rising young lawyer."

"I am quite able to do my own thinking and take care of myself" he said haughtily, stung by her tone. "If you choose to think me guilty, do so. And let me tell you that if I had done it I should not have put my head in the ash barrel."

"No, but you might do your best to avoid the chair. Small blame to you. Well, as I said before, you're safe as far as I am concerned. I wouldn't send a dog to the chair. That is—" she looked at him threateningly, "if you really do love Enid and want to marry her."

"Love her? I'd marry her if she had done it herself and I'd caught her red-handed."

FARMER ACCUSED OF KILLING HIS NEIGHBOR'S DAUGHTER

NEW YORK.— John Sandoe, twenty-five years old, a farmer near Greenland, was arrested on the charge of killing Anna Mary, four years old daughter of Lloyd B. Hershey, a Lancaster lock works superintendent, whose home is near Sandoe's.—

The child went there one afternoon to play with Sandoe's child and was seen on his porch, though Mrs. Sandoe and child were absent. Sandoe declared she had not been at his house. Today suspicion fell on him, and when his premises were searched the child's body was found. Only police protection prevented a lynching.

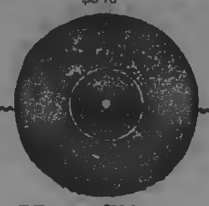
Model "Organola" $340



Hear Them

There's a new list of selections each month. They are played with a sapphire point. No needles to change. Beautiful, clear, "Phonola" records that are practically indestructible.

The Only One With Organ Pipes

A credit to Canadian ingenuity and Canadian skill. The only musical instrument of its kind in the world equipped with tone control resonating pipes which include every note in the scale. That Phonograph is the

"Phonola" REGISTERED

Declared by experts to be the most wonderful improvement in Talking Machines since the beginning of the industry.

Records played on this "Organola" Model are given a really wonderful reproduction. Play a "sextette" record on the "Organola" Model, and you will have a real idea of the value of the tone control pipes. There is none of that confused blurring as when played on ordinary makes of phonograph, the tone control pipes of the "Organola" Model separating the different voices and notes, giving a pure, clear, lifelike rendition.

We take pleasure in announcing to the public that in the future the Phonola will be equipped with a new Universal Seamless Tapered tone arm which does away with all attachments. The entire arm is beautifully designed and finished, and is a marked contrast to the cheap dye cast arms seen on other makes of Phonographs.

It is the only Universal tone arm that is scientifically designed and the only one that will play all makes of records perfectly.

The Phonola will also be equipped with a new Aluminum Reproducer fitted with a special insulated rubber connection which eliminates metallic sounds from being transmitted to the Amplifier.

Equipped with these two new devices, the Phonola takes another step in advance of all competitors as furnishing the truest, clearest and sweetest tone it is possible to reproduce.

From Now On

A California sheriff was discussing the way in which different prisoners accept sentences. Among others he mentioned a pair of negroes whom he was taking to St. Quentin. "What you all hein' shet up for," demanded one dusky prisoner of his companion.

"Ah sorta busted up a friend of mah wife's, an' he done croaked," was the answer.

"An' how long are you sentenced for?" persisted the other.

"From now awn," the murderer answered sourly.

APRES LaGUERRE

On ne sait jamais le dessous des cartes," as the perplexing dialect of the aborigines of this country would put it. William and I, when we used to discuss after-the-war prospects o' nights in the old days, were more or less resigned to a buckshee year or two of filling shellholes up and pulling barbed wire down. Instead of which we all go about the country taking in each other's education. No one, we gather, will be allowed to go home until he has taken his B.A. with honours. And ofter that—. But it would be better to begin at the beginning.

It began within ten days of the signing of the armistice, assuming the shape of an official inquiry from Division, a five-barred document where in somebody with a talent for confusing himself (and a great contempt for the Paper Controller) managed to ask every officer the same questions in five different ways. They cancelled each other out after a little examination and left behind merely a desire to discover whether or not each officer had a job waiting for him on his return to civil life. William and I took the thing at a gallop, stuck down a succinct "Yes, Yes, No, No, Yes," subscribed our signatures and returned the documents—or so William proposed to do—"for your information and necessary inaction."

"They're getting deuced heavy about these jobs, aren't they?" observed William a day or two later. "The Old Man wants to see us all at orderly-room for a private interview—he's got to make a return showing whether his officers have got jobs waiting for them, if not, why not, and please indent at once to make good any deficiencies. Hullo, what's this?"

It happened to be William's mail for the day—one, large, offical-looking envelope. It turned out to be a document from his old unit (he had entered the Army from an O.T.C.), headed, "Re-settlement and Employment of ex-Officers: Preliminary Enquiry." It was a formidable catechism ranging from inquiries as to whether William had a job ready for him to a request for a signed statement from his C.O. certifying that he was a sober, diligent and obliging lad and had generally given every satisfaction in his prestnt situation. In case he hadn't a job or wanted another one, there were convenient spaces in which to confess the whole of his past—whether he had a liking for animals or the Colonies, mechanical apitude (if any), down to full list of birth-marks and next-of-kin. William thrust the thing hastily ito the stove. But I observed that there was a cloud over him for he rest of the day.

However, we both of us satisfied the examine at the orderlyroom, though the renewed evidence of a determined conspiracy to find work for him left William a trifle more thoughtful than his wont. Shades of the prison-house began to close about our growing joy. "These 'ere jobs," remarked William, "are going to take a bit of dodging, dearie. Looks to me as though you might cop out for anything from a tram-driver to Lord Chief. Wish people wouldn't be so infernally obliging. And, anyway, what is this—an Army or a Labour Exchange?"

As the days wore on the strain became more and more intense. William iam's old school had contrived an association which begged to be allowed to do anything in the world for him except leave him for a single day in idleness. And what time the Army was not making inquiries about his own civil intentions and abilities it was insisting on his extracting the same haggard and morose. He began looking under his bed every night for his prospective employers and took to sleeping with a loaded Webley under his pillow for fear of being kidnapped by a registry office. He slept in uneasy snatches, and when he did doze off, was tormented by hideous nightmares.

In one of them he dreamt he was on leave and walking through the City. At every doorway he had to run the gauntlet of lithe and implacable managing directors, all ready to pounce on him, drag him within and chain him permanently to a stool—with the complete approval of the Army Council. In another he was appearing to all forms of work.

The last straw was when Brigadier caused it to be made known that if any officer was particularly unsettled about his future, he might be granted a personal interview and it would be seen what could be done for him. William sat down with the air of one who has established a thumping bridgehead over his Rubicon and wrote to the Brigadier direct, and as follows:

"Sir,—I have the honor to hope that this finds you a good deal better than it leaves me at present. In case you should be in any uncertainty over your prospects on return to half-pay, I shall be happy to grant you a personal interview at my billet (Sheet 45; G 22a 3.7) and see whether anything can be arranged to suit you. I may add that I have a number of excellent appointments on my books, from knife-boy to traveller to a firm of mineral water manufacturers. For my own part, my immediate futrue is firmly settled, thank you. For at least three months after my discharge from the Army I have no intention of taking up any form of work.

I have the honora to be, Sir,
Your otherwise obedient servant, etc"

The court-martial was held last Thursday and sentence will be promulgated any day now. Medical evidence certified William as sane enough to understand the natrue of his offence, but as the War is over it is unlikely that he will be shot at dawn. William himself is confident that he will be cashiered, a sentence which carries with it automatic and permanent exclusion from all apointments under the Crown. "That makes a tidy gap in the wire," says William, hopefully. "They won't even be able to make a postman of me. With a bit of luck I'll dodge the unofficial jobs—I get that holiday after all old bean,"—Punch.

COUGHED, COUGHED ALL NIGHT LONG

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it is a constant cough, cough that will not be quieted.

Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible.

Whatever kind of a cold or cough you have, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you need to cure it, for the simple reason that this valuable preparation combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Miss Margaret Landly, Bristol, P.E.I., writes: "I am writing to tell you the benefit I have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

Last fall I took a severe cough and cold in my head. I was unable to do anything. At night I could not sleep, but cough, cough, all night long. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before the second bottle was used, I was entirely cured, and I have found this the best cough medicine I can buy."

Do not accept any other "pine" preparations when you ask for "Dr. Wood's." This remedy has been on the market for a quarter of a century. It is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Bandits in Turkey

LONDON, April 18. — The situation at Smyrna, where the Turks and the Greeks are ready to spring at each others throats, is typical of the situtation throughout Turkey. Bands of brigands dominate the country, even within a few miles of Constantinople, and commit atrocious murders.

The Committee of Union and Progress, the Young Turk organization, which was driven from power in Constantinople as a result of the allied victory, is reported to be secretly conducting an energetic reorganization movement.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Were we good we should be beautiful. We all feel this. There are plain features so charming with the sparkle of good humor, that we love them. There are blemished faces so sweet that they are pleasanter to look upon than the most perfect. After all, it is in the expression that the actual charm lies. So that were same one to promise the secret of beauty for twenty-five cents and post-paid envelope, he would scarcely be an impostor should he return the golden rule with instructions to learn and practice it. If we only could do this earnestly and truly for one generation, the next might wonder whether it were not a fable that such a thing as ugliness was ever known upon earth.

Look on the bright side. It is the right side. The hour may be cheerless and somber with clouds, but it will be no better to wear a gloomy and sad countenance. It is the sunshine and not the clouds that makes the flowers. The sky is blue twice where it is black once. You have troubles—so have others. None are free from them. That would be a dull sea and the sailors would never get skill were there nothing to disturb its surface. There is more virtue in a sunbeam than in a whole hemisphere of cloud and gloom.

Push! Push! It is just the word for the grand, clear morning of life; it is just the word for strong arms and young hearts; it is just the word for a world that is full of work as this is. If anybody is in trouble, and you see it, don't stand back, push!

The man who is always telling about his good character should be careful to always have it with him.

Girls of a marriageable age do not like to tell how old they are, but you can find out by following the subjoined instructions, the young lady doing the figuring: Tell her to put down the number of the month in which she was born, then to multiply it by 2, then add 5, then multiply it by 50, then add her age, then to substract 365, then to add 116, then tell her to tell you the amount she has left. The two figures to the right will tell you her age and the remainder the month of her birth. For example, if the amount is 822, she is twenty-two years old and was born in the eighth month (August). Try it.

Would you have your home a happy peaceful spot? Then let only gentle actions be found there. Let the husband press a kiss on the careworn brow of his tired wife, then, amid her never-ending round of household duties, is sure to find rest and encouragement in his love and sympathy.

The street corners is the best place in the world for teaching vice, profligacy, and crime. Nearly all the bad language and idle, vicious habits of boys are taught on the street at late hours of the night.

Although it is a terrible misfortune to lose a home by fire, it is not nearly so bad as losing the happiness of home by the dissipation, unfaithfulness or disgrace of one of the members of the family.

Good manners are not taught in the school books. They are found in the home lessons.

In the home should be found the most delicate and refined society, as here it is that we receive our first and most influential lessons in the great school of life. These lessons should partake of perfect honesty, truthfulness, manhood, heroism, patriotism and all things that tend to elevate the human character.

The old-fashioned office boy, who swears, smokes sigarettes and is impertinent usually, and reads dime novels in a corner, or loafs when he is sent on an important errand, is fast disappearing, and it is predicted that in the course of time the office girl will have entirely taken his place.

Good housekeeping has more to do with domestic happiness than young lovers dream of. We believe these times need women whose most beautiful work will be done inside their own doors. Without good housekeeping, the romance will soon go out of marriage.

We have a few young men who seem to think it makes them manly and noble to make themselves appear tough. If you are tough, people will find it out without any effort on your part. It is just as easy to be a gentleman and hold the respect of the community in which you live.

"You Will Have to be Careful, John, the Doctor Says Your Heart is Very Weak"

"I DON'T see how that is."

"Well, he says that the great majority of people who had the 'flu' have suffered afterwards from weak heart action."

"I never had heart trouble."

"No, but the way the doctor explains it is that the nervous system is so weakened by the 'flu' that there is not enough nerve force left to drive the machinery of the body."

"That is about the way I feel, for I have no appetite, and do not feel able to stir."

"No, and you do not seem to digest the little food you do eat. So you cannot expect to gain strength. Why not try some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food?"

"Oh, I do not see how that would help me."

"Now, John, I think that is exactly what you need. It always helped me when I got run down in health, and I hear so many saying the same thing that I think you should give it a trial. You know yourself that you are not gaining any these days."

"How would that help my heart?"

"Because it enriches the blood and increases the nerve force. Anything that strengthens the nerves will naturally strengthen the action of the heart, for the heart, like the stomach and other organs, is dependent on the nervous system for operating power."

"Well, you talk as though you knew. I guess your training as a nurse is coming in useful."

"Will you try the Nerve Food, then?"

"Yes, I will give it a good trial, for I want to get around, and not sit here like an invalid."

"I am so glad, for I feel sure it will soon get you feeling all right again."

You can obtain Dr. Chase's Nerve Food from all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto, 6 boxes for $2.75. On every box of the genuine you will find the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

Sad Death of L.C.I. Student

Fred Howe Expired Suddenly After Exercising in the School "Gym."

A sad and distressing fatality occurred at the Lindsay Collegiate Institute Tuesday afternoon, after school hours and while a number of the students were playing at Basket ball in the gymnasium. Thos. J. F. Howe a Janetvile lad, who familiarly known as "Fred," was exercising in the basement of the gym., playing baseball with himself, by batting the ball up against the wall. After eight minutes in Gym., he went to the cloak room on way home and complained of illness. Others tudents nea noticed that he was quite pale as he went to the cloak room to put on his coat. Here he was found a few minutes later by Mr. Murtagh, caretaker, who immediately summoned Physical instructer A. Johnson. It was thought at the time that he had simply taken a slight weak spell but Dr. Blanchard was immediately summoned. On arrival a few minutes later he found that the heart was still beating but breathing had ceased, and the lungs were filled with blood. The young lad failed to regain consciousness and the doctor stated that death had resulted from an internal hemorrhage. Dr. Collison was also summoned but life was extinct on his arrival.

In conversation with the father of the deceased student, Mr. Jas. Howe of Janetville, he said that the young lad seemed to have been left in a somewhat weakened condition because of a recent serious attack of pneumonia.

Economy

The difference in cost between an ordinary baking powder and the pure, strong, double-acting

EGG-O Baking Powder

is trivial. It amounts to only a fraction of a cent on each cake you bake. Against this you risk your high-priced flour, butter, sugar, eggs and milk, and your reputation as a cook.

Spoiled bakings not only cost you money, but they waste food. With the heavy Government Standard flours in use to-day, the selection of a strong baking powder is absolutely necessary.

The double-acting strength of Egg-O is needed to make a baking of a light cake from a heavy flour. Try a can and watch your bakings improve. You can use sweet milk, sour milk, buttermilk or water with Egg-O —a different and better baking powder.

Each New Day Brings a Better Maxwell

MOST anyone would think that after building 50,000 motor cars on one chassis plan that close on to perfection would be reached.

That is true in a large measure; but it happens to be only the point at which the Maxwell executives began.

They decided to keep on building Maxwells better and better as each new day went by.

The locomotive engineer drives his engine better every day. The banker who loans money does so with more and more judgment. The man at the forge—likewise.

This is the principle on which the Maxwell is built. It is not new in the business world. But it is sound.

And to-day, with 300,000 Maxwells built on this plan, anyone will readily understand—

Why a Maxwell runs on and on and never quits with age;

Why a Maxwell seldom turns in at a repair shop;

Why a Maxwell is so eagerly sought for in the second-hand market.

One of the last of more than 1000 improvements made since the first Maxwell was built is the appearance.

Let your eyes glance over this present day Maxwell and you'll think the price $200 more than we ask for it.

AWAY WITH MONEY

Japanese Idea of a Paradise of Peace.

Claim Made That Complete Abolition of "Filthy Lucre" Would Promote Equality in Public Life of Mankind—Ticket System Urged.

We will make here a suggestion which furnishes us a method to prevent the appearance of the rich, and avert the consequent result of the difference between rich and poor. The suggestion consists of the entire disuse of the money over the world, in order to give the struggle for existence a check, to make away with the difference of rich and poor, and thus to promote peace and equality in the public life of mankind.

It is through the medium of the money that wealth is accumulated, and the accumulation entails the difference of rich and poor, with its resultant struggle for existence.

This state of things is most undesirable. The end of mankind is not to be proud of individual talent or ability, but to co-enjoy the peace of the world, just as in a family, and any cause which brings about any inequality in public life must be radically eliminated. It is for this reason that we dare to suggest the disuse of the money to prevent the difference of rich and poor.

What crafty fellow ever produced the money for use in human life? Of course, nationalization of various valuables, such as gold, silver, jewels, etc., shall be implied in the disuse of the money and their ownership by individuals be prohibited. Such valuables retain their values only when they are used as a means of inequality, but will be nothing more than those pebbles on the road when equality is to be prevalent. They may have some value in giving us a good feeling on account of their elegance, then they may be used, under public ownership, for the decoration of shrines, temples, churches, halls, and many other like buildings to the common pleasure of the public at large.

Most complicated troubles may arise from the adjustment of properties after the enforcement of the disuse of the money. With the proposed suggestion mines, railroads, ships, electric and gas plants, waterworks, and many other properties essential to the common interest of a nation shall be transferred to the national ownership, not to say of the nationalization of land, and they shall be equally compensated for, as for the confiscation of money and several bonds, with a kind of registration bond newly issued for the purpose, which should have the characteristic of temporary transitional means until an improved feature makes its appearance in a new society.

In other regards individuals may be permitted to retain their own property, personal and real, and maintain their professions or occupations. Transactions shall be carried on by the exchange of kind in kind, or barter. But as barter is too inconvenient to be enforced, a ticket system may be taken for the remedy of this defect. As has been stated, our ideal disuse of the money does not admit any accumulation of wealth, and so the tickets shall be given each a certain period of time, say 10, 20, 30 years or more, during which they can be in use, and after which their circulation ceases.

When this is accomplished, there can be no more complaints, no more dissatisfactions, no more contradictions, and no more misunderstandings, and the world will be reorganized into a paradise of peace.—Seijiro Bawashima in Dai Nippon.

FOCH MADE PLANS, FORESEEING THE WAR

Gives Credit to Gen. Wilson of British Staff for Quick Mobilization

LONDON.—That Marshall Foch foresaw the danger, before the outbreak of the war, of German aggression is indicated in a letter which he has sent to London to be read at a dinner which the members of the Houses of Parliament are to give soon after Easter in honor of General Henry Wilson, Chief of the Imperial General Staff. Marshal Foch says:

"Long before the war General Wilson and I worked togetherto prepare for the struggle against the German peril, which we both foresaw. It is due to the success of his mobilization arrangements and his careful and detailed plans for transporting troops that the British Army was able to arrive quickly on the field of battle as soon as the Government had come to a decision.

"During the war, in the most anxious days, especially those of 1917 and 1918, how often—it was almost every day, sometimes every night—we worked together to strengthen as rapidly as possible a weak spot in the link, to combine our efforts, to reinforce our hard-tried armies and once again to enable them to go forward. And as I recall these memories, still so fresh in my mind, I can see him always before me as one of the most capable, most loyal, and most valiant soldiers of the allied armies, and one of the greatest servants of his country."

FOUR HUNDRED WOMEN MURDERED BY BOLSHEVIKI.

LONDON, April 17.—Eighteen hundred persons, including four hundred women, were murdered by the Bolsheviki at Ufa, according to a telegram from Omsk, received in official quarters here.

THE BIG HEALTH DRIVE HAS BEEN STARTED

TO BUILD UP THE BLOOD OF THE PEOPLE

Spring is the Time When People Worn and Weary After a Hard Winter Need a Tonic to Restore the Blood and Renew Energy and Ambition.

It is one of the most persistent traditions of the human race to take a tonic for the blood in the spring, and like most of the accumulated wisdom of mankind it has a sound scientific basis. Winter is always a trying season for people who have small reserve of physical strength. Not many of us get as much exercise and out-of-door air in winter as in summer. Much of our time is spent in rooms none too well ventilated, our diet lacks the fresh green foods of summer, and it is no wonder that the blood grows thin and sluggish with ill effects on the entire system.

Many people who need a tonic neglect it, because they are not sick enough to cause them any worse feeling than one of fatigue and discomfort. They do not realize that the decline in health is so gradual that they, themselves, do not realize how far from normal they are until the pale face, weak nerves, languidness and irritability attract the attention of friends. Even then a tonic is the right remedy, and there is absolutely no other tonic to compare with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This medicine builds up and enriches the blood and sends renewed health and strength to every part of the body. The appetite is improved, the digestion is toned up, there is new colour in the cheeks and lips, vigorous health replaces weariness and lassitude and you find a new joy in living.

INDIGESTION CURED.

Mrs. Harry Odd, Nipissing, Ont., says "For a long time I was a great sufferer from indigestion. I could not eat a meal without undergoing much suffering and as time went on I naturally became much run down and found the greatest difficulty in doing my housework. In fact only those who have suffered from stomach trouble can realize how deplorable my condition was. I was treated by a doctor but as he was not helping me I began taking other medicine, and had used several kinds without benefit before I heard that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended for this trouble. The result was that I was constantly growing weaker, when my mother advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using a few boxes I found that they were helping me and I continued taking them until I had used eight boxes, by which time the trouble had entirely disappeared and I was again enjoying the best of health."

A NERVOUS WRECK.

Miss Faith Scott, Brantford, Ont., says: "It would be difficult to find a person more benefitted by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than I have been. At the time I used them I was a nervous wreck, suffering from sleeplessness, dizziness and a severe form of headache. I was recommended to try your pills and I did so with such good results that to-day I am enjoying the best of health and feel like a different person. A dose of the pills occasionally keeps me in the best of health."

RHEUMATISM CURED.

Mr. Fred Elsie, Dashwood, Ont., says: "When I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was little better than a wreck; for years I had suffered periodically from rheumatism and lumbago. I was constantly doctoring, and while this gave me some relief it did not cure me. As a matter of fact before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I had spent more than a hundred dollars in other treatment and was still a great sufferer. Then I was recommended to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the use of only six boxes made a cure and I have not had a twinge of the trouble since. While taking the pills, my weight and general health increased in a most gratifying manner, and you may be sure I will always be a warm friend of this medicine.

ST. VITUS DANCE CURED.

Mrs. William Hill, of Stratford, Ont., says: "I suffered from a nervous breakdown after the birth of my first child, and the trouble developed into St. Vitus dance, which put me into such a condition that I was scarcely able to do my housework; my hands twitched and trembled so that I could scarcely hold anything and I walked so unsteadily that I was afraid to go out. Before beginning the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I tried several remedies but they did not help me. It was on the advice of a friend that I took the pills and in a short time they made a complete cure and I have ever since enjoyed the very best of health."

BAD BLOOD PURIFIED.

Miss Annie Darocher, Maidstone, Ont., says: "I am more grateful than I can say for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. My blood was in a bad condition, I was weak, appetite poor, the least exertion would leave me breathless and my face was covered with pimples. I tried many medicines without getting any help, and then through a friend heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to give them a fair trial. The result is that this medicine purified and enriched my blood, cleared away all the pimples and left me enjoying the best of health. If I feel that I need a medicine again, you may be sure that it is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I shall take."

DIZZINESS AND FATIGUE

Miss Beatrice M. Thomson, Guelph Ont., says: "I have derived great benefit from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. For nearly a year I was troubled with anaemia, and many of its attendant evils. My face had a pale, tired, worn-out appearance, and I suffered from dizziness and fatigue with the slightest exertion. I tried different medicines, but instead of helping me I was actually growing worse. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and by the time I had used three boxes felt much better. I continued using the pills until I had taken six boxes, when I found my health fully restored. I most warmly recommend these pills to anyone who may be in poor health."

Do not be persuaded to take a substitute. See that the full trade mark name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is printed on the wrapper around the box. If you cannot get these Pills through your dealer they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MARRIED ELEVEN TIMES

Arkansan Makes Last Matrimonial Venture at 74.

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. — Not many men now living can boast of having married eleven times, and lived to tell the tale, yet such has been the experience of Samuel J. Killow, an ex-Confederate soldier, and reputable citizen of Walnut Ridge, who recently took unto himself his eleventh bride in the person of Mrs. Agnes O'Neal.

Mr. Kilow was born 74 years ago, in Williamson county, Tennessee. Folowing are extracts from the log of Mr. Killow's voyage on the turbulent matrimonial seas:

On December 26, 1866, he was married to Miss Mary Jane Patterson. She died in 1873, leaving two children.

In 1874 he married Lucretia Sanders, who, as he expressed it, "soon cut loose from me." In this year he moved to Lawrence county, Arkansas.

In 1882 he was married to Nancy Jane Ellison, who died in 1892.

In 1894 he was married to Sarah Ann Holcomb, who lived about four years.

Some time later Mr. Killow married Elizabeth Haws. Elizabeth left him "with the sack to hold," as he explains it.

The next marriage was with Amanda McCritchen, who had five children. Death soon claimed her.

Lady Constance Richardson is now on her way to Siberia where she will establish schools for Russian war orphans.

Leap Year.

Leap year is a year which leaps over, as it were, one day more than an ordinary year; a year which contains 366 days, as distinguished from an ordinary year, which includes only 365 days. Every year the number of which is divisible by four is a leap year, except when it happens to be any number of hundreds not divisible by four. Thus 1884 was a leap year, but not 1900, this omission of leap years in such centuries being necessary to correct the error which arises from the excess of the addition of one day in four years (i. e., six hours) to the year over the true length of the year, i.e., 365 days 5 hours 49 minutes.

Mrs. Gadabout—Are you still bothered with the awful Boresum family coming to dine with you every few evenings?

Mrs. Babalot—Oh, no; they finally took the hint.

Mrs. Gadabout—What did you say to them?

Mrs. Gabalot—Oh, nothing was said. But we served sponge cake every time they came.

Not Too Tired to Fight.

Among the cheering anecdotes Elizabeth Shepley Sergeant reports in an article on the present French-American offensive, none raise more sanguine hopes of allied victory than this:

Somewhat over a month ago a French general encountered an American colonel of infantry below Chateau-Thierry.

"How long have your men been on the march?" asked the general.

"Thirty-six hours."

"Then of course they are too tired to go in."

"Not at all—they'll go right in."

"Can you stop the Germans?"

"Certainly we can stop them."

It was thus that an American infantry regiment and five batteries of artillery were thrown straight across the road from Metz to Paris. The Germans not only did not advance one step farther along that road; they were immediately driven back by the Americans and their re-enforcements at Bourescnes, at Chateau-Thiegry, and the Bois de Belleau.—Detroit News.

Women in the Ranks.

Two women fighters are in the Serbian army, Sergeant-Major Flora Sandes, a Scottish woman, and Milka Savic, a Serbian girl. Miss Sandes was severely wounded some time since, being struck by more than 50 fragments from a Bulgarian hand grenade. She received a decoration. The Serbian girl has been wounded several times. She was awarded the gold medal for valor, and was made a Knight of the French Legion of Honor.

Naturally.

"Of course. It is their business to face the music."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Jimmie's Easter Prophecy

By F. A. MITCHEL

Markham is a fishing town on the New England coast. In the olden time all the men there were sailors, but when steam finally took the romance out of sailing the Markham men turned their attention to fishing, though in these days the place is given up to city people on their summer outings.

In those days when sailors loved to bound over the billows under full sail Ralph Husted was one of them. He loved the ocean, and he loved Marjorie Dixon as well. He won her with the understanding that he would as soon as he had accumulated a nest egg cease making long voyages and find some employment on shore. But children came as fast as the nest egg grew, and Husted became a captain before he set any time for spending the rest of his life with his family. Then he promised them that after one more voyage he would grant what they all so much desired.

One October day he started on what he intended should be his last voyage. He had paid for his home and had some money in the bank. On this last trip he expected to add enough to his possessions to be able to get on even if he had no vocation, but he was still a young man and counted on making an additional income that would enable him to educate his children and start them in life. But he started on this last voyage with misgivings. His wife suggested that he refrain from tempting fate again on the ocean, and his children clamored for papa "to stay at home and not go away so long any more." He tore himself away from them, assuring them that he would soon return, would bring the children many pretty things and would then remain with them.

In December a vessel came in to Markham and brought the supercargo of Captain Husted's vessel. He reported that it had collided with another ship in a fog and gone to the bottom. The boats were lowered, and some of the crew left the vessel in them. The supercargo had begged the captain to leave in the same boat with him, but he clung to the tradition that a master must go down with his ship. He charged the supercargo if he got safely to land to say goodby for him to his wife and children and tell them how well he loved them.

This was a great shock to Mrs. Husted and the older children. The youngest—Jimmie, a boy of six—knew nothing of death, and he could not understand what had happened to his father. They could only tell him that he would never see papa any more, and even this he could hardly grasp with his undeveloped mind.

One morning at Sunday school his teacher read to him accounts of those raisings from the dead mentioned in the Bible. Jimmie went home to his mother and, telling her what he had heard, asked why papa could not also be brought back to them from the dead.

His mother turned away from him to hide her tears and without reply.

When Easter drew near Jimmie was told the story of the resurrection of Christ; that Easter was celebrated in memory of that resurrection. He was much moved by the recital, for he said that if one could return to life on the earth why not one who had been lost on the ocean? Returning to his mother, he told her the story his teacher had given him, adding:

"Next Sunday is Easter, mamma, and I shouldn't wonder if papa would come back to us on that day."

The mother tried to explain to him that it would be impossible for his papa to return on Easter Sunday or at all, but his brain was too small to grasp her meaning. He had got it in his head that Easter was the day on which one who was dead would return to life, and the idea became associated with his father.

"Don't cry, mamma," he said. "Next Sunday is the day when dead persons come back, and I know that papa will come to us."

The mother took her boy in her arms and wished that she might have faith as a little child.

On that Easter morning the birds were breaking out in the sunshine. Jimmie was dressed in his best clothes for his Sunday school, but when it was time to go he was missing. He had caught sight of a sail out on the horizon and was sure that his papa was on the vessel and was coming home. No one knew where Jimmie had gone, so they went to Sunday school and to church without him.

When they returned the boy was still missing. His older brother said that a ship had come in and quite likely the child had gone to the dock. At that moment through a window all saw a man coming up from the shore with a boy in his arms.

"It's Jimmie!" said one.

Then there was a shout and a rush for the corners, for Captain Husted, who had come in on the ship, was carrying Jimmie. All clung to the father, covering him with kisses.

"I told you papa would come today," said Jimmie proudly.

Captain Husted had gone down with his ship, had come up, clung to wreckage and was picked up by a passing ship.

Jimmie's faith in his father's return on Easter Sunday was the talk of the village, and many a sermon was preached with it as its theme. Jimmie being held up as an illustration of a child's faith.

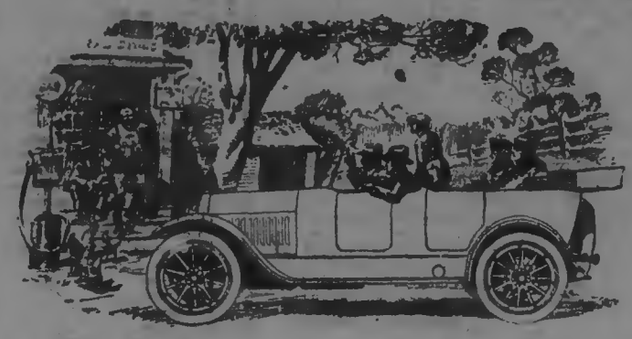
A HOT SPOT Chalmers Never Cries For Gas



A GALLON of gas goes a long ways in a Hot Spot Chalmers. For the great engine in this remarkable car wrings every last bit of power out of gas.

As soon as it leaves the carburetor the gas hits the Hot Spot (one of two magnificent devices common only to a Chalmers) and there it is "cracked up" into "dust."

So "dry" does this gas become that once it reaches the cylinders and the spark plugs touch it off there is translated immediately almost every single bit of power that nature put into gas.

But to get the "dry" gas to the cylinders from the Hot Spot is no easy matter.

The great Ram's-horn was designed to do this work and it does the task well.

See this device and you'll never forget it. You'll wonder why it wasn't done years ago. But the common every day thing known as a pin, remember, was one of the last things the human mind devised.

One look at this Chalmers car of today and you'll want to sit behind the wheel. One ride there—and you'll want one.

Six months later you, too, will say that the Chalmers is really one of the few great cars of the world.

Ireland's Flax Crop.

The flax crop is engaging the attention of agriculturists in the north of Ireland. Flax pulling is giving employment to every hand that can be engaged, and factory workers, clerks and business men are joining in this indispensable work. The cadet corps of the Royal Academical Institute of Belfast is also engaged in pulling flax. Before the war the price paid for flax ranged from $1.50 to $2.50 per stone. The highest price ever paid for flax was $3 per stone in 1864, during the Civil war. This year the flax supply committee has arranged to take over the whole crop at prices ranging from $7.50 to $10 per stone, according to quality. The flax will be divided into six grades.

AS AGE CREEPS ON

As age creeps on, vital forces gradually decrease, until, when a man or woman is around 50, the kidneys and bladder need assistance to keep them in perfect working order.

Rheumatism, neuralgia and backache are common complaints of those getting on in years. It seems to be the custom to expect these afflictions—conclude they are simply the inevitable results of old age, and that there is no remedy for them.

There is a remedy—Gin Pills—and there are hundreds of people who can prove that the remedy is good.

Mr. Frank Lalonde, a well-known farmer of St. Raphael, Ont., was enabled to return to work at the age of 61 by the help of Gin Pills. Mr. Lalonde writes that he had suffered for years with pains in his back and sides, until finally he was forced to quit work. Gin Pills relieved him to such an extent that he now states he feels as strong at 61 as he did at 30 years.

Mrs. Hugh McLeod, of Lewis Cove Road, had a similar experience with Gin Pills. In her letter to us she says:

"I am 51 years and the mother of 3 children. Five years ago I was troubled with backache and dull pains across the abdomen. I used a box of Gin Pills, and I felt so much better that I will continue to use Gin Pills."

Testimonials such as these cannot be disregarded, for the aged speak the truth.

It is foolish to suffer when you don't have to. Use Gin Pills and enjoy your latter years. 50c a box. Sold by all dealers. Sample free upon request to

The Man Who Banished Corns

Blue-jay was invented by a scientist of distinction. By a man whose lifetime has been spent in the study of surgical dressings.

This is a master's method—correct, complete and efficient. And the millions of people who know it, never think of enduring a corn.

All in One

The first step is to stop the pain. This is done by removing all pressure—by the soft protecting ring marked A.

The next step is to gently cause the corn to disappear.

This bit of wax—marked B—is centered on the corn. It cannot spread. So, unlike old-time methods, it acts on the corn alone.

C is rubber-coated adhesive. This snugly wraps the application, protecting everything.

You apply this Blue-jay in a jiffy. The corn pain stops at once. The wrapping is comfortable and you forget it.

In two days you remove it and the corn can be lifted out. Only rare corns need a second application.

This is the scientific way, the easy, sure and right way to end corns. You will never return to any wrong method when you try a Blue-jay once.

Try it tonight.

A JAPANESE NEWSPAPER LIST AMERICAN "CRIMES" AGAINST PEOPLE OF JAPAN

TOKIO,—A section of the daily Japanese press is filled with strikingly anti-American articles. One of the most bitter is contained in the Yorozu Choho an independent afternoon newspaper, here.

The Yorozu Choho enumerates six alleged American "Crimes" against Japan. The first, it declares, was in Major General William S. Graves' refusal to assist the Japanese in operations against the Bolsheviki. Second, it accuses American missionaries of inciting the Coreans to revolt and, third, it charges Americans have sold arms to the Chinese. The Yorozu Choho declares there is a limit to Japan's patience.

Six battalions of Japanese troops have been sent to Corea.

A FEATHER FAN.

The feather fan, always a decided addition to the evening gown, is quite as popular this season as it was last. Its decorative value has gained, it undisputed favour among women, for when in a brilliant shade of American beauty or emerald green it is worn with a jet black evening dress it affords a striking note of contrast.

These fans are, in most cases, extremely large and full, the ostrich feathers being either curled or straight, according to individual taste.

Isn't This True?

Don't you find out, afterwards, that your bowels were not acting freely and naturally?

Due, of course, to a liver gone on a strike.

Take two or three pills—once. After that, only one, until your're all right.

United States' Wooden Ships

Were Sold Recently—New York Firm Buys Fourteen of Them.

Special to the Examiner:

WASHINGTON, April 17. — The United States Shipping Board to-day began disposing of its war time fleet of wooden ships. Chairman Hurley announced the sale of fourteen wooden ships to the Nacirene Steamship Co. of New York. The price was $650,000 for each vessel, an average of $145 per ton.

Keep the Bowels Regular and You Won't Be Sick

If the bowels do not move regularly they will sooner or later become constipated, and constipation is productive of more ill-health than almost any other trouble.

The sole cause of constipation is an inactive liver, and unless the liver is kept active, you may be sure that headaches, piles, heartburn, biliousness, jaundice, floating specks before the eyes, and many other troubles will follow the wrong action of this one of the most important organs of the body.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the bowels so that you will have a free and easy motion every day, and one pill a night for thirty days will cure the worst cases of constipation.

They do this by acting directly on the liver and making the bile pass through the bowels instead of allowing it to get into the blood, thus causing many stomach and bowel troubles.

Mrs. Jos. Labrec, Louise Apts., Calgary, Alta., writes:—"I have been troubled with constipation for the last two years. I have tried numerous treatments, but have never been relieved by anything until I used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which are helping me wonderfully."

We do not claim that Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are a "cure-all," but we do claim that there is nothing better for a sluggish liver.

The General offered military mediation or other means of settlement. A squadron of British airplanes flew over the affected district to-day.

Lady's Watch Was Found

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, April 17.—There is little new to-day in connection with the escape of the condemned murderer, Frank McCullough, from Toronto jail yesterday morning, except theories. The main fact is that McCullough is still at large. This morning Mrs. Currell, wife of the night watch who was on duty when McCullough escaped, received through the mails Her husband's returned soldier buttons, with a letter in the same handwriting as those received by the newspapers yesterday. Last night a small boy found a lady's valuable watch and fob a few feet from the spot where McCullough jumped clear of the jail property. Some people incline to the opinion that McCullough is still in Toronto, while the police think that he is probably many miles away.

The authorities investigating the escape of Frank McCullough, the murderer, from Toronto jail, will endeavour to ascertain how McCullough managed to eat lunch with the guard, saw through the iron bars, and mail letters within one hour after the death watch Currell arrived in the cell. Currell relieved the other watch at 10 p.m. The letters that were sent to the newspapers were posted before 11 p.m. If the letters were posted by an accomplice, then the murderer must have been at liberty, as he was not likely to spoil the plans he had laid by having them exposed in the newspapers, had the death watch not partaken of the drugged coffee and the get away been thereby postponed.

Mr. F. O. Voight, Rapid City, Man., writes: "For several years I suffered from Indigestion, Nervous Debility, Insomnia, and Constipation. Had no appetite, and the doctors did not expect that I would live throughout the winter. Your book interested me. I got a 'J.B.L. Cascade,' and in a few days obtained remarkable results I now sleep and enjoy my meals better than for years before. I regard the 'J.B.L. Cascade' as a God-send to me."

The "J.B.L. Cascade" as a perfected appliance for Internal Bathing invented by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, and has been the means of restoring thousands to perfect health. It is shown and explained by the Warne Drug Co., who will be pleased to give you an interesting book called "The What, The Why, The Way of Internal Bathing," on request. Ask for it.

SEEK INDEPENDENCE FOR SOUTH AFRICANS

Delegation In New York on the Way to Plead With British Government and Peace Conference.

NEW YORK.—On their way to England and France to lay before the British Government and the Peace Conference the claims of the National Party of South Africa for self-determination and complete independence, a delegation headed by General U. B. M. Hertzog arrived here yesterday from Capetown on board the Dutch steamship Bawean.

The delegation carries with it resolutions declaring for national independence adopted by congresses of the "National Free Party" of Cape Colony, Orange Free State, Transvaal, and Natal. In addition, it has similar resolutions adopted by a joint congress of the four States held at Bloemfontein on Jan. 17 last, in which President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George are quoted on peace and "national aspirations."

Passage direct to England had been booked for the delegation on the British steamship Durham Castle, sailing on Feb. 15, but at the last moment, according to a statement issued here by the delegation, "the firemen and crew of the ship, instigated thereto by the enemies of the Independence movement," refused to work the ship if the commission should be carried. An offer of passage on the British warship Minerva then was accepted, but the acceptance was withdrawn later "on it appearing to the deputation that their presence on board would be unwelcomed.

Their next alternative was the Bawean, sailing for New York. They said yesterday that no arrangements had been made for continuing their voyage from this country, but they added that they would go on the first available steamship.

Mrs. G. S. Bangs Stewart, who owns and personally supervises a dozen farms in Illinois, is making a campaign for more gardens on the farms of America.

Not a Bit of Waste

FOOD SCARCE

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, April 17.—Reports of executions at Budapest of Count Michael Karolyi, Archduke Joseph and others are untrue. The city continues outwardly quiet, with progress being made toward nationalization of property. An effort will be made to send food to Hungary as there is little meat and few vegetables in hotels and there is no salt. Eggs are plentiful, while bread sold in Budapest is worse than that on market here.

THIN, NERVOUS FOLKS SHOULD TAKE BITRO-PHOSPHATE

Women Need it to Bring Pink Glow of Health to Pale Cheeks and Forestall Tell-Tale Lines of Age. Men Need it to Make Strong, Vigorous Bodies and Steady Nerves

Weak, thin people—men and women—are nearly always nervous wrecks; thus conclusively proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that the best known nerve food is an organic phosphate known among druggists as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and most delicate sufferer, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

Weak, tired people regain strength and vigor; thinness and angularity give way to plumpness and curves; sleep returns to the sleepless, confidence and cheerfulness replace debility and gloom; dull eyes become bright and pale, sunken cheeks regain the pink glow of health. Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so much so that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks.

It is sold in Peterboro by McDermid & Jury and by all good druggists.

CAUTION: — Although Bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Factories in China now employ women who toil for ten hours a day for a few coppers in pay.

Last Minute Despatches From The Examiner' Wires

Metal Workers Threaten Strike—Wheat Director for United States.

SIX PERSONS KILLED

Special to the Examiner:

WINNIPEG, April 19.—The Metal Trades Council in Winnipeg will call for a strike of all metal workers in the city next week unless the members of the union at Calgary, who were locked out on Tuesday, are reinstated. H. B. Russell, business agent, declared that the metal workers at Toronto will join the walkout. Winnipeg shopmen are now negotiating with the employers in connection with the seven-hour day demand. According to Russell, the new schedule of metal workers which has been presented to the employers, include the demands of 85 cents an hour for mechanics and 70 cents an hour for helpers.

WHEAT DIRECTOR.

Special to the Examiner:

NEW YORK, April 19.—Julius H. Barnes, president of the Federal Grain Corporation, has been appointed by President Wilson to be United States Wheat Director, upon the recommendation of Herbert Hoover, it was announced to-day. Barnes cabled the President his acceptance of the post.

In his new office Barnes will direct the distribution of the 1919 wheat crop and administer the funds of one billion dollars appropriated for maintaining the price of wheat at $2.26 a bushel. He will also retain the presidency of the Grain Corporation.

IMPLEMENT SALES.

Special to the Examiner:

WINNIPEG, April 19.—Implement sales in Western Canada have shown a decided increase since the first of the year. Last year was a big one, the dealers say, but this year promises to be even better. The fact that implement prices are high and must necessarily remain so until steel and labour come down, is not discouraging the farmers in buying the machinery required for the handling of increased acreages.

BASEBALL LEAGUE OPENS.

Canadian Press:

BOSTON, April 19. — Boston and Brooklyn opened the National League baseball season to-day with morning and afternoon games at Bravesfield. The weather was clear, but the sharp winds made the Patriots' Day crowd seek the protection of the sheltered stand. For the morning game Nahf was stated to occupy the box for Boston, with Rudolph in reserve. Manager Robinson, of Brooklyn, had Pfeffer, Cadore, Marquard and Grimes in readiness, with Pfeffer preferred for the opener.

FOREIGN INTERESTS.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, April 19.—The Press Bureau announces that during the visit of General Smuts to Budapest, he obtained from Belajun, the Soviet Foreign Minister, assurances regarding the protection of foreign interests in Hungary. Nevertheless, the Hungarian Government is still endeavouring to confiscate foreign property. The Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, British Foreign Minister, has addressed a note to Belajun, warning the Soviet Government it will be held responsible for the fulfilment of the undertaking.

NEW CREDITS.

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, April 19. — The United States Treasury yesterday announced new credits to the Allies as follows:

Great Britain, one hundred million dollars.

Roumania, five million dollars.

Serbia, two hundred and sixty-eight thousand dollars.

This raised the total loans of all the Allies to nine billion one hundred and thirty-eight million eight hundred and twenty-nine thousand, of which four billion two hundred and thirty-six million has gone to Great Britain.

NON-SECTARIAN.

Special to the Examiner:

SYDNEY, N. S., April 19. — Because it was held that the school premises should be absolutely non-sectarian, and that no possible cause of dissention should be allowed to establish itself there, the Sydney City Council refused permission to the Loyal Orange Association to erect a monument to the memory of the fallen soldiers in the grounds of the Central School. Cordial permission was, however, granted to the Orangemen to erect their monument in any city park they might select.

SIX KILLED.

Canadian Press:

LAPORTE, Ind., April 19.—Six children were killed and six were severely injured yesterday when the school waggon was struck by a Grand Trunk mail train at a grade crossing near the village of Kingsbury, seven miles south of here. Thirteen children were in the waggon on their way to their homes. The thirteenth was on the steps and jumped off in time to escape death or injury.

Aviators Are Still Delayed By Weather

Special to the Examiner:

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 19.—Owing to a renewed storm yesterday, with heavy sleet, which would make operations of airplanes impossible, both machines abandoned the idea of flying, and it is doubtful now if the conditions will sufficiently improve to warrant their making the attempt to-day. They are very despondent, and doubt now if they will be able to get away this month at all. They say that the only suitable day since the Sopwith people arrived was last Friday, but their machine was not ready, and they are dubious regarding the nearness of another such day.

Ford Holdings Change Hands

General Motors Corporation Destined to be a Big Factor.

Special to the Examiner.

NEW YORK, April 19.—The Henry Ford holdings in the Ford Motor Corporation have been acquired by or are about to pass to the General Motors Corporation, according to information to high financial circles here.

The amount of money involved was not known in Wall Street. It was said in well-informed circles that it will total many millions.

Control of the Ford Motor Corporation would make the General Motors Corporation the biggest factor in the automobile business in the world. This corporation already manufactures the Cadillac, the Oldsmobile, the Scripps-Booth, the Buick and many other well-known motor cars.

Strength was lent to the statement that the sale of the Ford holdings in the Ford Motor Corporation had passed to the General Motor Corporation when it became known that W. C. Durant, president of the latter corporation, was in Detroit.

Mr. F. Tattersall Will Give Recital In St. Paul's Church

May Be Secured as Permanent Organist for the Church to Succeed Mr. J. Allan.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the combined organ and piano recital which is to be given in St. Paul's Church on Monday evening, April 28th, by Mr. Frank Tattersall, formerly of Great Britain, but recently of St. Catharines, who is one of the applicants for the position of organist in St. Paul's Church, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. John Allan. Mr. Tattersall is undoubtedly one of the world's greatest pianists. He has been compared in standing and in ability with Paderwski. On a recent visit to Peterborough, Mr. Tattersall gave a private exhibition, which delighted and greatly impressed all who heard him. His playing was so remarkable that by special request he consented to return to the city and give the public recital, for which arrangements have now been completed. Mr. Tattersall will also preside at the organ in St. Paul's Church at both services on Sunday, April 27th.

War Experience.

Mr. Tattersall and his family were passengers on the steamer "Arabic," which was sunk by a German submarine while on the way from England to Canada some time after the outbreak of war. He was on the deck and saw the torpedo as it shot through the water to the ship. He managed to get life belts on his wife and three little girls before the ship sank. They were drawn down by the suction of the sinking of the ship before they were able to get into one of the life boats. On coming to the surface Mr. Tattersall managed to save one of his little girls, and other fellow-passengers saved a second, but the mother and third little girl were drowned. Mr. Tattersall is very highly spoken of by the congregation in St. Catharines, where he has been acting as organist in the absence of the regular organist, who was overseas. As the latter has returned to resume his position it is possible that arrangements may be made for Mr. Tattersall to accept the vacant position in St. Paul's Church. In any event, his appearance here on the 27th and the 28th is sure to be attended with great interest.

WILL RESIST INVASION

Lloyd George Makes a Significant Utterance at Westminster.

AN AGREEMENT

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, April 18. — Premier Lloyd George, speaking at Westminster, used these significant words:

"We have never, during the whole of this conference, forgotten the poignant sufferings and sacrifices in this war of the country in whose capital the conditions of peace are being determined. We have not forgotten that France has been rent and torn twice within living memory by the same savage brute. We have not forgotten she is entitled to feel a sense of security against it. And upon all the questions that have come before us we came to conclusions which were unanimous."

Important Developments.

To-day it is learned that very important developments are pending. There are indications that Britain, through Premier Lloyd George and the United States through President Wilson have given assurance to Premier Clemenceau of common action on the part of these two English-speaking powers to protect France against danger of future German aggression. The character of the undertaking is not yet known, but it is believed that both Britain and the United States have agreed to enter into an arrangement with France, whereby any overt action by Germany will be considered a casus belli calling for the employment of the land and naval forces of both powers to resist Teutonic invasion of French territory.

"The Better 'Ole" Coming to Grand

Mr. and Mrs. Coburn will present the Boston Company in "The Better 'Ole" at The Grand Opera House, Friday and Saturday next, matinee Saturday.

"The Better 'Ole" is different from any other show, having to do with the war and partly because it has a rough diamond of a hero in the person of Old Bill, otherwise fondly referred to as Walrus and Sea Lion—a big, slow, straightforward, sentimental Tommy who might have served in India with Kipling's Soldier Three.

"The Better 'Ole" which has a subtitle, "The Romance of Old Bill," is a series of battlefront sketches written by two Englishmen, Captain Bruce Bainsfather and Captain Arthur Elliot, with music by Herman Darewski and Percival Knight. The first three scenes are laid just behind the front, where the Tommies jollied the French girls; the next three are real battlefront episodes, chiefly concerning the daring exploit that wins for Old Bill the French war cross, and then we come to the "leave train" near Boulogne, and "The Better 'Ole" the little tavern in an English village. Old Bill has had many visions of this "pub" as he calls it, and all he can say when he arrives home and finds himself landlord of this favourite haunt is "Ello!" But that's the biggest word in his vocabulary.

With Old Bill go trooping around two pals known as Alf and Bert. Alf spends most of his time trying to make a cigarette lighter work. Bert tells every girl he meets that she is the queen of his 'eart, and Old Bill calls him Don Jonah. Brave and light-hearted, they illustrate the real humanity of war, its comedy, pathos and unvarnished heroism, more attractively, and perhaps more truthfully, than it was ever illustrated before, at least on the stage. Edmund Gurney's Old Bill is a captivating figure, a hero without pose, the personification of democracy in khaki — a really commanding figure, far more affecting than the war heroes strutting around the stage in smart uniforms and with nicely combed hair. Leo Gordon, the Don Jonah of the bunch, with Perry Jennings the victim of the patent lighter that finally starts a blaze in his pants pocket, also excite sympathy and enjoyment. There are many song hits and dance numbers. These numbers, accompanied by the excellent orchestra under the direction of Theodore Bendix, give "The Better 'Ole" a true musical comedy flavour.

FRANK JENNE SAYS:

"The chief aspiration of business is freedom—freedom from all restraint, from all emergency restrictions which were imposed by half-baked ideas during the war time and before.

"The experience of all people is that every attempt to control trade to control food and food prices only resulted in a wanton upheaval of existing conditions, a blocking of the channels of trade, and consequent higher prices, and speaking in rather a subdued tone, a disloyal lack of personal attention and service.

"With trade and commerce freed from Government interference; with a cessation of the insane policy of trying to establish wheat and other commodities at the fixed gold basis, we shall sooner reach the reasonable price levels of reconstruction. Semi-ready price-in-the-pocket has been a governing pendulum on men's clothing prices—that is a fact."

Heavy Sentence For Stealing a Sausage

Special to the Examiner:

COBOURG, April 19. — To be given forty-two days for stealing a saysage, to be spent in solitary confinement, was the lot of Pte. Loye, who has returned from overseas, and who was for two years a prisoner of war in Germany. He was captured by the enemy in October, 1916, and at that time had twenty shrapnel wounds in his body. Some of the shrapnel was removed, and he was twice given chloroform, so he met with more human treatment than some others experienced. Bandages as well as food were scarce, and paper was substituted for banadages.

MASSEY-HARRIS CO'Y FORMULATE A NEW POLICY

Many Revolutionary Changes for the Benefit of Employees—May Purchase Shares.

WORKS' COUNCIL

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 19. — Thomas Findlay, President, announced at a banquet tendered by the Massey-Harris Co., to the members of the executive sales and factory staffs, policies of a new character, which are advantageous to thousands of employees in the company's various Canadian factories and sales rooms. A sum will be set aside sufficient to establish a pension fund for all employees. Under the new plan an employee who has reached a certain age and who has been in the employ of the company for a certain length of time, may be retired with the knowledge that he is assured of a definite income for life. Unlike many similar plans, the proposal does not call for the payment of any sum by the employees, but is to be provided entirely by the company. The exact details have not yet been worked out but it is planned to be put into operation soon.

May Secure Shares.

President Findlay also announced that at the annual meeting of the company last Tuesday, the directors were authorized by the unanimous vote of the shareholders to make arrangements whereby employees in all departments of the Massey-Harris plant and affiliated employees who have been with the company for two years or more, and are earning more than $2,000 per annum, may secure shares at an attractive price and on very easy terms, terms similar to those under which so many became purchasers of Victory bonds, the payments being extended over a number of months.

The most revolutionary change announced is the decision to have in connection with each factory a "works' council," one half of the members to be elected by secret ballot by the employees (the foremen not to be eligible); the others to be appointed by the company.

The object of this council is to establish a more direct point of contact between employees and management. While the idea is only in its formative stage, a general plan was presented to those present and a committee of factory executives was appointed to meet with the management to carefully consider the innovation and formulate plans for making it efefctive.

Onions Packed In a Suitcase

Louis Valentine stepped off the six o'clock train from Montreal this morning, into the arms of P. C. Young. Louis was on his way to his home in Midland with twelve quarts of Imperial whiskey in three one-gallon paint cans in an old suit case. To disguise the "whiskey" odor Louis had packed the cans with onions which gave out an odor which left the whiskey smell in the shade.

Louis pleaded guilty and was asked for $200 and $4.10 costs but didn't have it. He will spend the next three months in the county jail.

ST JOHNS, Nfld., April 19. — Prospects for a start of the trans-Atlantic flight from Newfoundland were unfavourable to-day. There was a moderate easterly wind, however, which gave signs of driving away fog which is shrouding the sea. Pilot Hawker, of the Sopwith, and Pilot Raynham, of the Marinsyde, are ready to start when the weather expert here pronounces conditions favourable.

Havelock Business Section Was Wiped Out By Fire

Bank of Toronto and Bell Telephone Exchange Was Among the Buildings Destroyed.

ORIGIN UNKNOWN

HAVELOCK, April 19.—Early this morning fire totally destroyed the Knox building, occupied by the Bank of Toronto, the Edward Fennell shoe store, and the Bell Telephone Company's exchange. The origin is unknown, and the loss, which is partly covered by insurance, will be at least thirty thousand dollars. The fire was first discovered about two o'clock this morning, and when the volunteer fire department arrived on the scene, the first discovered about two o'clock this looked as though the entire business section of the village would be wiped out, but through the efforts of the firemen and the favourable condition of the weather, the fire was confined to the above named limits.

Mr. H. F. McNicholl is manager of the Havelock branch of the Bank of Toronto.

Shortly after the fire broke out the Peterborough office of the Bell Telephone Company was notified, and a wrecking crew sent from this city to the scene of the fire.

It has been taken over by the United Hotels Company, which owns a string of large hotels on this continent. The City Council has granted a fixed assessment of $100,000 on the property. Large tourist travel is expected by the two cities of Niagara Falls this summer, and they are getting ready for it.

Toronto Man Is Vindicated

Celebrated Case is Recalled by Conviction of Real Criminal.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 19. — The arrest and subsequent vindication of Mr. A. P. McAuley, the Toronto broker, is again brought to the public mind by a Chicago jury's verdict of guilty against Harry Harris, alias "Christmas Keough," on charges of operating a confidence game. The jury was out only five minutes. Harris refused to offer a defence.

It will be recalled that Mr. McAuley, while on a visit to St. Louis, was arrested on several charges of fraud and forgery and identified as "Christmas Keough" by the New York and St. Louis police and merchants who claimed to have been swindled by him. The subsequent arrest of the real "Keough," however, subsequently cleared Mr. McAuley.

It was the practice of Harris to forge travellers cheques for $200 on certain banks. It is estimated by the Chicago police that Harris obtained $50,000 by this method.

Letters From Frank McCullough

Escaped Murderer Still Writing to the Newspapers.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 19. — Frank McCullough, condemned murderer, who escaped from Toronto jail, continues his daily letters to the local newspapers. This morning the Daily Star received an Easter postcard dated Sudbury, April 17, with the following message: "Please give this card to Guard Currell." The message was signed Frank McCullough. The reverse side of the card bore Easter greetings and was decorated with lilacs and butterflies. The card was enclosed in an envelope which was postmarked Sudbury, and is probably the first clue that has been received that McCullough had not escaped to the United States. Mrs. Currell, wife of the prison guard, who is still held in jail, told of visits paid to her home by a young woman who introduced herself as Miss Vera D. Lavelle, who claimed she was of French extraction, but had lived in Canada most of her life. This young woman said she lived at 9 Trinity Square, Toronto, and was employed as a stenographer at $10 a week. She frequently brought presents of chocolates to the Currell children. Mrs. Currell also told of seeing two letters from her written to McCullough, which contained only "silly love talk."

Twilight Musical In Trinity Church

Excellent Performance Was Highly Appreciated—The Programme.

An interesting and unusual contribution to the regular Good Friday services was given by Mr. and Mrs. George King, assisted by one of Mr. King's pupils, Miss Edna Stewart in a twilight musicale in Trinity Methodist Church yesterday afternoon between four and five o'clock. While all items of the splendid programme were heartily appreciated and each displayed musical talent of the performers perhaps the second was the most appreciated. In this Mrs. King in two solos "Loves Coronation," and "For You Alone" was accompanied by Mr. Allan at the piano Mr. King at the organ and Miss Logan who played the violin. The splendid ensemble attained by the combined accompaniment merited the appreciation shown and Mrs. King's beautiful voice received the recognition it well merited.

Last Minute Despatches From The Examiner' Wires

Metal Workers Threaten Strike—Wheat Director for United States.

SIX PERSONS KILLED

Special to the Examiner:

WINNIPEG, April 19.—The Metal Trades Council in Winnipeg will call for a strike of all metal workers in the city next week unless the members of the union at Calgary, who were locked out on Tuesday, are reinstated. H. B. Russell, business agent, declared that the metal workers at Toronto will join the walkout. Winnipeg shopmen are now negotiating with the employers in connection with the seven-hour day demand. According to Russell, the new schedule of metal workers which has been presented to the employers, include the demands of 85 cents an hour for mechanics and 70 cents an hour for helpers.

WHEAT DIRECTOR.

Special to the Examiner:

NEW YORK, April 19.—Julius H. Barnes, president of the Federal Grain Corporation, has been appointed by President Wilson to be United States Wheat Director, upon the recommendation of Herbert Hoover, it was announced to-day. Barnes cabled the President his acceptance of the post.

In his new office Barnes will direct the distribution of the 1919 wheat crop and administer the funds of one billion dollars appropriated for maintaining the price of wheat at $2.26 a bushel. He will also retain the presidency of the Grain Corporation.

IMPLEMENT SALES.

Special to the Examiner:

WINNIPEG, April 19.—Implement sales in Western Canada have shown a decided increase since the first of the year. Last year was a big one, the dealers say, but this year promises to be even better. The fact that implement prices are high and must necessarily remain so until steel and labour come down, is not discouraging the farmers in buying the machinery required for the handling of increased acreages.

BASEBALL LEAGUE OPENS.

Canadian Press:

BOSTON, April 19. — Boston and Brooklyn opened the National League baseball season to-day with morning and afternoon games at Bravesfield. The weather was clear, but the sharp winds made the Patriots' Day crowd seek the protection of the sheltered stand. For the morning game Nahf was stated to occupy the box for Boston, with Rudolph in reserve. Manager Robinson, of Brooklyn, had Pfeffer, Cadore, Marquard and Grimes in readiness, with Pfeffer preferred for the opener.

FOREIGN INTERESTS.

Canadian Press:

LONDON, April 19—The Press Bureau announces that during the visit of General Smuts to Budapest, he obtained from Belajun, the Soviet Foreign Minister, assurances regarding the protection of foreign interests in Hungary. Nevertheless, the Hungarian Government is still endeavouring to confiscate foreign property. The Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, British Foreign Minister, has addressed a note to Belajun, warning the Soviet Government it will be held responsible for the fulfilment of the undertaking.

NEW CREDITS.

Canadian Press:

WASHINGTON, April 19. — The United States Treasury yesterday announced new credits to the Allies as follows:

Great Britain, one hundred million dollars.

Roumania, five million dollars.

Serbia, two hundred and sixty-eight thousand dollars.

This raised the total loans of all the Allies to nine billion one hundred and thirty-eight million eight hundred and twenty-nine thousand, of which four billion two hundred and thirty-six million has gone to Great Britain.

NON-SECTARIAN.

Special to the Examiner:

SYDNEY, N. S., April 19. — Because it was held that the school premises should be absolutely nonsectarian, and that no possible cause of dissention should be allowed to establish itself there, the Sydney City Council refused permission to the Loyal Orange Association to erect a monument to the memory of the fallen soldiers in the grounds of the Central School. Cordial permission was, however, granted to the Orangemen to erect their monument in any city park they might select.

SIX KILLED.

Canadian Press:

LAPORTE, Ind., April 19.—Six children were killed and six were severely injured yesterday when the school waggon was struck by a Grand Trunk mail train at a grade crossing near the village of Kingsbury, seven miles south of here. Thirteen children were in the waggon on their way to their homes. The thirteenth was on the steps and jumped off in time to escape death or injury.

Aviators Are Still Delayed By Weather

Special to the Examiner:

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., April 19.—Owing to a renewed storm yesterday, with heavy sleet, which would make operations of airplanes impossible, both machines abandoned the idea of flying, and it is doubtful now if the conditions will sufficiently improve to warrant their making the attempt to-day. They are very despondent, and doubt now if they will be able to get away this month at all. They say that the only suitable day since the Sopwith people arrived was last Friday, but their machine was not ready, and they are dubious regarding the nearness of another such day.

Ford Holdings Change Hands

General Motors Corporation Destined to be a Big Factor.

Special to the Examiner:

NEW YORK, April 19.—The Henry Ford holdings in the Ford Motor Corporation have been acquired by or are about to pass to the General Motors Corporation, according to information to high financial circles here.

The amount of money involved was not known in Wall Street. It was said in well-informed circles that it will total many millions.

Control of the Ford Motor Corporation would make the General Motors Corporation the biggest factor in the automobile business in the world. This corporation already manufactures the Cadillac, the Oldsmobile, the Scripps-Booth, the Buick and many other well-known motor cars.

Strength was lent to the statement that the sale of the Ford holdings in the Ford Motor Corporation has passed to the General Motor Corporation when it became known that W. C. Durant, president of the latter corporation, was in Detroit.

Mr. F. Tattersall Will Give Recital In St. Paul's Church

May Be Secured as Permanent Organist for the Church to Succeed Mr. J. Allan.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the combined organ and piano recital which is to be given in St. Paul's Church on Monday evening, April 28th, by Mr. Frank Tattersall, formerly of Great Britain, but recently of St. Catharines, who is one of the applicants for the position of organist in St. Paul's Church, made vacant by the resignation of Mr. John Allan. Mr. Tattersall is undoubtedly one of the world's greatest pianists. He has been compared in standing and in ability with Paderwski. In a recent visit to Peterborough, Mr. Tattersall gave a private exhibition, which delighted and greatly impressed all who heard him. His playing was so remarkable that by special request he consented to return to the city and give the public recital, for which arrangements have now been completed. Mr. Tattersall will also preside at the organ in St. Paul's Church at both services on Sunday, April 27th.

War Experience.

Mr. Tattersall and his family were passengers on the steamer "Arabic," which was sunk by a German submarine while on the way from England to Canada some time after the outbreak of war. He was on the deck and saw the torpedo as it shot through the water to the ship. He managed to get life belts on his wife and three little girls before the ship sank. They were drawn down by the suction of the sinking of the ship before they were able to get into one of the life boats. On coming to the surface Mr. Tattersall managed to save one of his little girls, and other fellow-passengers saved a second, but the mother and third little girl were drowned. Mr. Tattersall is very highly spoken of by the congregation in St. Catharines, where he has been acting as organist in the absence of the regular organist, who was overseas. As the latter has returned to resume his position it is possible that arrangements may be made for Mr. Tattersall to accept the vacant position in St. Paul's Church. In any event, his appearance here on the 27th and the 28th is sure to be attended with great interest.

WILL RESIST INVASION

Lloyd George Makes a Significant Utterance at Westminster.

AN AGREEMENT

(Special to The Examiner.)

PARIS, April 18. — Premier Lloyd George, speaking at Westminster, used these significant words:

"We have never, during the whole of this conference, forgotten the poignant sufferings and sacrifices in this war of the country in whose capital the conditions of peace are being determined. We have not forgotten that France has been rent and torn twice within living memory by the same savage brute. We have not forgotten she is entitled to feel a sense of security against it. And upon all the questions that have come before us we came to conclusions which were unanimous."

Important Developments.

To-day it is learned that very important developments are pending. There are indications that Britain, through Premier Lloyd George and the United States through President Wilson have given assurance to Premier Clemenceau of common action on the part of these two English-speaking powers to protect France against danger of future German aggression. The character of the undertaking is not yet known, but it is believed that both Britain and the United States have agreed to enter into an arrangement with France, whereby any overt action by Germany will be considered a casus belli calling for the employment of the land and naval forces of both powers to resist Teutonic invasion of French territory.

"The Better 'Ole" Coming to Grand

Mr. and Mrs. Coburn will present the Boston Company in "The Better 'Ole" at The Grand Opera House, Friday and Saturday next, matinee Saturday.

"The Better 'Ole" is different from any other show, having to do with the war and partly because it has a rough diamond of a hero in the person of Old Bill, otherwise fondly referred to as Walrus and Sea Lion—a big, slow, straightforward, sentimental Tommy who might have served in India with Kipling's Soldier Three.

"The Better 'Ole" which has a subtile, "The Romance of Old Bill," is a series of battlefront sketches written by two Englishmen, Captain Bruce Bairnsfather and Captain Arthur Elliot, with music by Herman Darewski and Percival Knight. The first three scenes are laid just behind the front, where the Tommies jollied the French girls; the next three are real battlefront episodes, chiefly concerning the daring exploit that wins for Old Bill the French war cross, and then we come to the "leave train" near Boulogne, and "The Better 'Ole" the little tavern in an English village. Old Bill has had many visions of this "pub" as he calls it, and all he can say when he arrives home and finds himself landlord of this favourite haunt is "Ello!" But that's the biggest word in his vocabulary.

With Old Bill go trooping around two pals known as Alf and Bert. Alf spends most of his time trying to make a cigarette lighter work. Bert tells every girl he meets that she is the queen of his 'eart, and Old Bill calls him Don Jonah, Brave and light-hearted, they illustrate the real humanity of war, its comedy, pathos and unvarnished heroism, more attractively, and perhaps more truthfully, than it was ever illustrated before, at least on the stage. Edmund Gurney's Old Bill is a captivating figure, a hero without pose, the personification of democracy in khaki — a really commanding figure, far more affecting than the war heroes strutting around the stage in smart uniforms and with nicely combed hair. Leo Gordon, the Don Jonah of the bunch, with Perry Jennings the victim of the patent lighter that finally starts a blaze in his pants pocket, also excite sympathy and enjoyment. There are many song hits and dance numbers. These numbers, accompanied by the excellent orchestra under the direction of Theodore Bendix, give "The Better 'Ole" a true musical comedy flavour.

Seats on sale Wednesday. Mail orders now.

FRANK JENNE SAYS:

"The chief aspiration of business is freedom—freedom from all restraint, from all emergency restrictions which were imposed by half-baked ideas during the war time and before.

"The experience of all people is that every attempt to control trade to control food and food prices only resulted in a wanton upheaval of existing conditions, a blocking of the channels of trade, and consequent higher prices, and speaking in rather a subdued tone, a disloyal lack of personal attention and service.

"With trade and commerce freed from Government interference; with a cessation of the insane policy of trying to establish wheat and other commodities at the fixed gold basis, we shall sooner reach the reasonable price levels of reconstruction. Semi-ready price-in-the-pocket has been a governing pendulum on men's clothing prices—that is a fact."

Heavy Sentence For Stealing a Sausage

Special to the Examiner:

COBOURG, April 19. — To be given forty-two days for stealing a saysage, to be spent in solitary confinement, was the lot of Pte. Loye, who has returned from overseas, and who was for two years a prisoner of war in Germany. He was captured by the enemy in October, 1916, and at that time had twenty shrapnel wounds in his body. Some of the shrapnel was removed, and he was twice given chloroform, so he met with more human treatment than some others experienced. Bandages as well as food were scarce, and paper was substituted for banadages.

MASSEY-HARRIS CO'Y FORMULATE A NEW POLICY

Many Revolutionary Changes for the Benefit of Employees—May Purchase Shares.

WORKS' COUNCIL

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 19. — Thomas Findlay, President, announced at a banquet tendered by the Massey-Harris Co., to the members of the executive sales and factory staffs, policies of a new character, which are advantageous to thousands of employees in the company's various Canadian factories and sales rooms. A sum will be set aside sufficient to establish a pension fund for all employees. Under the new plan an employee who has reached a certain age and who has been in the employ of the company for a certain length of time, may be retired with the knowledge that he is assured of a definite income for life. Unlike many similar plans, the proposal does not call for the payment of any sum by the employees, but is to be provided entirely by the company. The exact details have not yet been worked out but it is planned to be put into operation soon.

May Secure Shares.

President Findlay also announced that at the annual meeting of the company last Tuesday, the directors were authorized by the unanimous vote of the shareholders to make arrangements whereby employees in all departments of the Massey-Harris plant and affiliated employees who have been with the company for two years or more, and are earning more than $2,000 per annum, may secure shares at an attractive price and on very easy terms, terms similar to those under which so many became purchasers of Victory bonds, the payments being extended over a number of months.

The most revolutionary change announced is the decision to have in connection with each factory a "works' council," one half of the members to be elected by secret ballot by the employees (the foremen not to be eligible); the others to be appointed by the company.

The object of this council is to establish a more direct point of contact between employees and management. While the idea is only in its formative stage, a general plan was presented to those present and a committee of factory executives was appointed to meet with the management to carefully consider the innovation and formulate plans for making it efefctive.

Onions Packed In a Suitcase

Louis Valentine stepped off the six o'clock train from Montreal this morning, into the arms of P. C. Young. Louis was on his way to his home in Midland with twelve quarts of Imperial whiskey in three one-gallon paint cans in an old suit case. To disguise the "whiskey" odor Louis had packed the cans with onions which gave out an odor which left the whiskey smell in the shade.

Louis pleaded guilty and was asked for $200 and $4.10 costs but didn't have it. He will spend the next three months in the county jail.

First Attempt to Cross the Atlantic Meets With Failure.

AVIATORS UNHURT

(United Press.)

LONDON, April 19.—Major J. C. P. Wood, flying to Ireland on the first leg of a trans-Atlantic attempt late yesterday, fell in the Irish sea off the coast of Anglesey, it was learned to-day. He and his navigator, Captain C. C. Wylie, were unhurt. Their machine is being towed to Holyhead.

Wood's plant, the "Shamrock," escorted by another machine, piloted by L. Parker, left East Church, England, for Limerick, at 3.15 yesterday afternoon. Wood expected to arrive in Limerick, which was to be the starting place for the big "hop" at six p.m. No details of the accident have been received early to-day.

The ninth entry in the Daily Mail's $50,000 trans-Atlantic flight contest is an Alliance biplane, fitted with a 450 horse-power Napier Lian motor. J. A. Peters is the navigator and Capt. W. R. Curtis, R.A.F., the pilot.

ST JOHNS, Nfld., April 19. — Prospects for a start of the trans-Atlantic flight from Newfoundland were unfavourable to-day. There was a moderate easterly wind, however, which gave signs of driving away fog which is shrouding the sea. Pilot Hawker, of the Sopwith, and Pilot Raynham, of the Marinsyde, are ready to start when the weather expert here pronounces conditions favourable

Havelock Business Section Was Wiped Out By Fire

ORIGIN UNKNOWN

HAVELOCK, April 19.—Early this morning fire totally destroyed the Knox building, occupied by the Bank of Toronto, the Edward Fennell shoe store, and the Bell Telephone Company's exchange. The origin is unknown, and the loss, which is partly covered by insurance, will be at least thirty thousand dollars. The fire was firs tdiscovered about two o'clock this morning, and when the volunteer fire department arrived on the scene, the first discovered about two o'clock this looked as though the entire business section of the village would be wiped out, but through the efforts of the firemen and the favourable condition of the weather, the fire was confined to the above named limits.

Mr. H. F. McNicholl is manager of the Havelock branch of the Bank of Toronto.

Shortly after the fire broke out the Peterborough office of the Bell Telephone Company was notified, and a wrecking crew sent from this city to the scene of the fire.

Clifton Hotel Will Be Re-opened Shortly

Special to the Examiner:

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 19. — The Clifton Hotel here, which has been closed since the war started, is to be re-opened shortly. It has been taken over by the United Hotels Company, which owns a string of large hotels on this continent. The City Council has granted a fixed assessment of $100,000 on the property. Large tourist travel is expected by the two cities of Niagara Falls this summer, and they are getting ready for it.

Toronto Man Is Vindicated

Celebrated Case is Recalled by Conviction of Real Criminal.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 19. — The arrest and subsequent vindication of Mr. A. P. McAuley, the Toronto broker, is again brought to the public mind by a Chicago jury's verdict of guilty against Harry Harris, alias "Christmas Keough," on charges of operating a confidence game. The jury was out only five minutes. Harris refused to offer a defence.

It will be recalled that Mr. McAuley, while on a visit to St. Louis, was arrested on several charges of fraud and forgery and, identified as "Christmas Keough" by the New York and St. Louis police and merchants who claimed to have been swindled by him. The subsequent arrest of the real "Keough," however, subsequently cleared Mr. McAuley.

It was the practice of Harris to forge travellers cheques for $200 on certain banks. It is estimated by the Chicago police that Harris obtained $50,000 by this method.

Letters From Frank McCullough

Escaped Murderer Still Writing to the Newspapers.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 19. — Frank McCullough, condemned murdered, who escaped from Toronto jail, continues his daily letters to the local newspapers. This morning the Daily Star received an Easter postcard dated Sudbury, April 17, with the following message: "Please give this card to Guard Currell." The message was signed Frank McCullough. The reverse ide of the card bore Eater greetings and was decorated with lilacs and butterflies. The card was enclosed in an envelope which was postmarked Sudbury, and is probably the first clue that has been received that McCullough had not escaped to the United States. Mrs. Currell, wife of the prison guard, who is still held in jail, told of visits paid to her house by a young woman who introduced herself as Miss Vera D. Lavelle, who claimed she was of French extraction, but had lived in Canada most of her life. This young woman said she lived at 9 Trinity Square, Toronto, and was employed as a stenographer at $10 a week. She frequently brought presents of chocolates to the Currell children. Mrs. Currell also told of seeing two letters from her written to McCullough, which contained only "silly love talk."

Twilight Musical In Trinity Church

Excellent Performance Was Highly Appreciated—The Programme.

An interesting and unusual contribution to the regular Good Friday services was given by Mr. and Mrs. George King, assisted by one of Mr. King's pupils, Miss Edna Stewart in a twilight musicale in Trinity Methodist Church yesterday afternoon between four and five o'clock. While all items of the splendid programme were heartily appreciated and each displayed musical talent of the performers perhaps the second was the most appreciated. In this Mrs. King in two solos "Loves Coronation," and "For You Alone" was accompanied by Mr. Allan at the piano Mr. King at the organ and Miss Logan who played the violin. The splendid ensemble attained by the combined accompaniment merited the appreciation shown and Mrs. King's beautiful voice received the recognition it well merited.

SATURDAY, APRIL 19TH, 1919.

EASTER

Easter which is the completion of the cycle of festivities of the christian year, should this year, if possible be more joyously and devoutly observed than for some years past. The prospect of an early signing of the Peace Treaty distinguishes this Eastertide as compared with last year's observance of the festival, when the terrible menace of Prussian Militarism hung over our people and when the Hun hordes were beating back our armies in France. We can thank God that the danger has been lifted and that the joyous spirit of Easter can be participated in unfettered by thoughts of national disaster and defeat.

To those who have been bereaved, to the relatives of the very gallant men who laid down their lives overseas, Easter with the splendid hope of immortality it brings, should come as a solace and a comfort. It gives hope for the life beyond the grave and roll away the doubt from the sepulchre of our belief.

REMEMBER THE FOURTH

In making preparations for the reception to the Peterboro members of the 2nd Battalion when they return home next week, it should not be forgotton not only that there are local boys with several other units that are coming back at the same time, but that the 4th Battery Canadian Field Artillery, the Battery with which the majority of the Peterboro artillerymen with the 1st Contingent served is also returning on the Olympic, and like the 2nd Battalion will go to Kingston for demobilization. An effort should be made to have all the Peterboro boys arriving at Kingston at the begining of next week, not only those of the 2nd Battalion, but also the local members of the 4th Battery come to Peterboro in a body so that a proper reception can be tendered them. If, however this proves impossible then each quota should receive a similar welcome, for it it is time that the hearts of the people of this city go out to the boys of 2nd Battalion because they were the first of our Infantrymen to get on the firing line, there is undoubtedly an equally strong attachment to the 4th Battery. The Peterboro men who enlisted through the 21st Field Battery in the 1st Contingent were the first volunteers from this city to leave the city. Their departure to Cobourg preceded the leaving of the infantry quota by nearly a week and the very first troops to leave Peterboro for overseas, not even excepting the reservists, were the first draft from the 24th Field Battery. The majority of these men served in France with the 4th Battery and by their gallantry in action they helped their unit to win an enviable name for itself. Only a few men of the originals are left to come home with the 4th Battery, but in welcoming them the people of Peterboro will be doing honour to all the gallant officers and men who were members of the 4th. All honour to the 2nd Battalion, but in attending a reception to them, let us not forget the lads of the 4th Battery—heroes all!

THE NAVY LEAGUE

Victor Wright's address the other night should prove a stimulus to the development of the Peterborough branch of the Navy League of Canada. While a number of citizens had already enrolled themselves as members of the splendid organization, the message so vigorously delivered by the chairman of the British Seamen's Union should inspire a fresh interest in the Navy League and will, it is hoped, be followed by an influx of new members. The subjects of the League as officially set forth are as follows:—

The Navy League of Canada is in affiliation with the Navy League of the British Empire, and is an association of voluntary members formed for the purpose of carrying out the objects of the Navy League of the Empire, and in particular the following:—

1—A thoroughly educational campaign in matters pertaining to the Navy and Mercantile Marine.

(a) By lectures.

(b) By circulation of literature.

(c) By placing readers in public schools.

2—To raise funds for the relief of British and Canadian sailors and their dependents, for Sailors' Homes, Institutions and Hospitals in Canada and throughout the Empire.

3—To encourage volunteer Naval Brigades for boys and young men in which they can receive practical and theoretical instruction in seamanship to prepare them for service in our Mercantil Marine.

It shall be a fundamental principle of the League that its objects, membership, management and conduct shall be absolutely unconnected with and free from all party politics and from every organization connected with party politics.

Judge Huycke is the Chairman of the local branch of the Navy League and he and the other officers will heartily welcome all citizens who endorse the objects of the organization, and are anxious to help in carrying them out as far as this city is concerned. The Navy League in the Old Country proved to be one of the most powerful factors in the salvation of the Empire. There is a great mission for the League in Canada and Peterboro should have a part in the work.

THE NEW SPEED LIMITS

The general public would have little comment about the new automobile speed limits authorized by the Legislature, if they are assured that motorists will abide by these regulations. The new limit is twenty miles an hour in urban centres and twenty-five miles an hour in the country; an increase in each case of five miles an hour. In support of the change, the advocates of greater speed argued that the old limits were openly violated and that it would be better to authorize a higher limit and enforce it than to continue under a system that was not carried out. However, the public would welcome some guarantee that the motorists who travelled at twenty miles an hour when fifteen was the limit will not want to go twenty-five miles when twenty is the legal rate of speed If the change in the act has this tendency, then the authorities will have to see that the limit is strictly adhered to. Twenty miles an hour should be sufficiently fast for drivers who have to pilot their cars through the traffic of a city, and although it is true that skillful drivers can handle their cars as safely at that speed as others can at ten miles, yet it is often the case that it is the poor chauffeur that wants to speed and if the new speed limit is to be violated as often as was the old, there will be danger of accidents. With an increase in the limit authorized, the penalties against speeding might well be increased.

TURN ON THE LIGHT

The charges made against Argyll House, Canada's war office overseas by Brigadier General Smart and Colonel Price and Pratt are beginning to have their effect even on the hardened members of the Government at Ottawa, and it is announced that Sir Edward Kemp, overseas minister of militia, is returning to Canada to give in Parliament an account of his stewardship. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux used the accusations of the three officers with telling effect in a slashing arraignment of the administration of Canada's Military affairs overseas and succeeded in drawing from the minister of militia an announcement of the speedy return of Sir Edward Kemp. When the charges were first made the leaders of the Government attempted to dismiss them with a few words of commendation for those accused but by this time the demand of the press in all parts of Canada that this grave indictment of the manner in which the militia business of the Dominion was managed should be properly investigated has caused it to dawn upon the ministers that the people of the country want to know the truth. They want to know as Hon. Mr. Lemieux put it, "if it is true that Canadian soldiers were murdered at Rhyl camp that Canadians who had fought in the air force are penniless in London and unable to get home, and that the men at Kinmel Park were 'fleeced by grafters and profiteers'. They want to know why the report of Col. Herbert Bruce, on the Canadian Army Medical Service has not been made public and they want changes of the serious character of those made by returning officers ventilated properly.

The return of Sir Edward Kemp is not sufficient unless that official is prepared to make public Col. Bruce's report, that of the Baptie commission which investigated Bruce's findings, Col. Bruce's reply and the report of Lieut. Col. J. S. Jenkins which was sent to the overseas minister in November of last year. These are most important reports which should be available not only to the members of the House of Commons but to the people generally. And yet they have been suppressed. Even General Mewburn, minister of militia, had to admit that he had never read either the Bruce or Baptie reports and had never heard of the Jenkins' report until he was asked about it in the House. It is a queer state of affairs that the man at the head of Canada's Department of Militia and Defence should be absolutely ignorant of the contents of such important documents as these reports and General Mewburn's admission is a confirmation in itself of the charge that the overseas ministry and the Department at Ottawa have failed to work together in handling Canada's military affairs.

The sooner the light is let in on these matters the better pleased will be the people of Canada. They have been stirred by the charges that have been made and want to know the facts. Blanket denials by ministers who confess they know nothing of the reports that the accusers ask for, are not sufficient to meet the situation.

Ald. Edgar has received the following letter from the Peterboro Utilities Commission providing a refutation of a statement made at the Trades and Labour council.

PRIMROSE DAY

(Special to The Examiner.)

LONDON, April 19.—Primrose Day, the anniversary of the death of Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield, is being observed to-day by patriotic Englishmen, and the little pale flower beloved of "England's greatest Imperialist" is being worn in nearly every buttonrole. The Primrose Leagues will hold its customary banquets after four years of war abstinence, in different parts of England to-night.

Beaconsfield died April 19, 1881, but his memory is kept green, or rather primrose, in conservative political circles. The wearing of the primrose, however, is universal rather than political.

Small Fruits In Peterboro Are Still High

Fruit Dealers Look for Lower Prices in Near Future.

Judging by present indications the fruit merchants are inclined to the opinion that prices for small fruits will ease up presently. Strawberries have gone down in price in two weeks from forty cents to thirty and are a very good variety, pineapples remain high and are at present fifty cents each. Tomatoes are selling at about the same price as the same time last year, forty cents a pound. Rhubarb selling at fifteen cents a bunch is higher by five cents than at the same time a year ago. All the fruit mentioned is coming in from Florida.

Germany Will Ask Idemnity From Allies

A German Newspaper is the Authority. The Reasons.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, April 17.—Germany intends to claim indemnities from the Allies, according to the Frankfort Gazette. It says German negotiation at Versailles will ask payment for damages sustained from aerial attacks, from occupation of German territory by Allied troops, and for delay in concluding peace, causing prolongation of Bolshevi kand Spartacan trouble.

THE QUESTION OF FARMER CANDIDATES

The report in the Examiner of the meeting of the organized farmers of East Peterboro held in Norwood recently to make plans for the running in that constituency of a candidate sympathetic to the farmers' movement, in the next provincial election, naturally draws attention to the farmers' organization. Already there are eight farmers' clubs all affiliated with the United Farmers of Ontario with the headquarters at Toronto in this county. These are at Warsaw, Douro, Lakefield, Indian River, Sixth Line of Otonabee, Mather's Corners, South Dummer and a large one in Peterboro itself. These clubs have affiliated into a county it will become which looks as though it will become one of the most powerful factors in both East and West Peterboro in the election of candidates to either the Provincial or Federal Houses.

The question naturally arises: What are the feelings of the farmers as regards Mr. J. A. Sexsmith and Mr. J. W. Burnham?

Mr. Sexsmith should remember that the farmers have not yet forgotten the election in North Ontario, where a merchant the government candidate opposed a farmer, the U. F. O's choice. Mr. Sexsmith, the farmers still vividly recall, spent some time campaigning for the government in North Ontario, and incidently attacked the farmers nominee.

Shakespeare in King Henry VIII says "and something to remember me by." The farmers of East Peterboro certainly have something by which to remember Mr. Sexsmith.

As for Mr. Burnham's little scheme the farmers of West Peterboro see through it. The reason he opposed daylight saving was not because it would benefit the farmers especially, but by that means, perhaps he might get the support of the West Peterboro farmers in the next election. Also the farmers want a man with back bone, a man who will act for the good of the country and not put party before the country's needs. Mr. Burnham supports the abolition of titles, which is one of the planks in the U.F.O's platform, but he favored the Government amendment and in this way showed that he places party before country.

Another plank in the farmer's platform is prohibition, but Mr. Burnham does not want a plank to stand on, he wants a rail to sit on, judging by certain letters which appeared under his signature recently.

On the whole prospects are not very bright for Mr. Burnham as far as getting the support of the organized farmers of West Peterboro at the next election goes.

Thinking over the case of the member of the Provincial House for West Peterboro, the farmers of this constituency see that they have the man for the job in that position already. For West Peterboro the votes of the City outnumber those of the country and therefore the farmers are not as strong here as in East Peterboro. The farmers know that in Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., they have the only candidate who will also get the votes of the City people. Mr. Gillespie was a farmer and is yet actively associated with them. He is a member of the executive of an influential Canadian farm paper which supports the U.F.O. movement and in every way satisfies the demands of the farmers of West Peterboro as a farmers' representative.

Thus it is seen that in East Peterboro the elections of the members for that constituency will depend upon the support of the organized farmers of East Peterboro, while in the elections in West Peterboro the balance of power."—Argosy.

CANADA'S MUSIC WEEK
APRIL 21 TO 26

MUSIC

Inseparably Associated with

EASTER

Music is the means that has been adopted throughout the ages for communicating the joy of the Easter message.

The spirit of the festival is more inspiringly expressed by the music that has always accompanied it than by any other single medium.

The Easter message is conveyed to man's mind by the spoken word of the pulpit and the printed word of the Book but is impressed on his heart by the wordless voice of music.

For music reaches our innermost selves, taps a channel leading to our higher nature and brings us in tune with the Infinite.

Millions go to church on Easter simply to hear the Easter music. They are reached through music as they are not reached in any other way.

Music speaks the language of the soul, but it likewise speaks the language of life—the language of the heart.

When we speak from the depths of our religious nature, we have recourse to music and we sing our praises to God.

When we are stirred by any emotion in secular life, we likewise resort to music for its expression. We sing love songs and patriotic songs. We sing songs of sadness and songs of gladness—songs of home and songs of childhood, and our nature responds and vibrates with the magic of the message brought to us.

Music transforms joy and softens sorrow.

It should shed its blessings in every home.

Buy a piano, a player piano or a phonograph and celebrate this Easter with music in your own home and provide the means whereby music may be an ever available friend and companion.

Union Services in George Street Well Attended

Four Methodist Churches Took Part—The Addresses.

The local Methodist Churches held their second annual Good Friday union services yesterday in George Street Methodist Church. Each of the four Methodist Churches — St. James', Mark Street, Trinity, and George Street—had a good representation out, which nearly filled the auditorium. The service took the form of a Methodist Love Feast. The pastors of the four churches, together with the Rev. S. Crookshanks and the Rev. C. E. Manning, had charge of the service.

The service opened with the singing of a hymn. The Rev. F. E. Malott then read a number of verses from the Bible on Christ's resurrection, and followed with prayer. This was followed by a solo by Miss E. Kempt.

Testimonial Service.

The Rev. R. A. Whattam took charge of the "Testimonial service." The speaker expressed his appreciation of the gathering which had come to express their thanks for God's blessings and his appreciation for the respect paid to God. Mr. Whattam invited as many who thought it to be their duty, to express in a few words what God's love and God's guidance meant to them. A great many testified as to their faith in God and their realization of God's love and guidance. Several times throughout the rendering of the Testimonials, familiar hymns were sung, and all joined in to praise God. This part of the service was very inspiring, especially to see so many men and women, both young and old, ready to express to others their faith in God. Mr. Whattam impressed the audience with the value of singing praises to God, remarking that it was one of the best portions of the service. The Rev. B. Greatrix, who followed, referred to the sacrifices made by Jesus Christ, His Crucifixion and Resurrection. He then led in prayer, after which the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was served by the ministers present. The Rev. C. E. Manning gave another prayer, and the service closed with the singing of a hymn.

Will Preach In St. Paul's Church

Church Had Its Inception 86 Years Ago.

This year St. Paul's Presbyterian church is fortunate in securing as its anniversary preacher the Rev. Capt. T. J. Thompson, M.A., minister of the Glebe Presbyterian church, Ottawa. Mr. Thompson served as chaplain with the overseas forces at Gallipoli, and in Egypt. He will preach at both services on May 4th, and will lecture the following Monday night on "The White Man's Burden in Egypt."

Mr. Thompson is a keen student of modern conditions, both in the church and in the world, and his services are sure to be of a high intellectual order. Possibly less is known of the British possessions in Egypt and the work which the British government has been doing there, than of any other of her possessions. His lecture, therefore, promises to be one of great interest.

St. Paul's church has had but three ministers during its long history of 86 years. It was in the year 1833 that the Rev. John Morris Roger, a minister of the Church of Scotland, came out from Aberdeen and gathered together a small congregation from Peterborough and surrounding district.

The first building was on lot seven, north of King street, but there was no formal organization until October 12 1834. The first elders were ordained November 2nd that same year. Their names were Andrew Tully, John Hutchison, M.D., John Edmundson and David Hamilton. Mr. Roger continued to serve the congregation until 1875, when he became pastor emeritus He died in 1878. The second pastor, Rev. E. F. Torrence, D.D., served the congregation from 1876 to 1907, when he retired and went to reside in Kingston.

Farmers Move to Peterboro' In Large Numbers, Declare Realty Men and Lawyers

During the past few months the farmers, according to the real estate dealers and lawyers, have been moving to the city at a rapid rate. From two offices alone it was learned that at the least seventeen families moved in since last fall. One real estate man said this morning that he had never experienced such a steady demand for houses from the farming community as there has been recently, "and they buy good houses too," he said. "Most of them leave farms worth about five or six thousand dollars and come to the city wanting a house worth about twenty-five hundred or three thousand dollars." The farmer, all the real estate men agree, is a hard man to please. He wants the full value of his money, and will not part with the "iron men" until he gets it. One farmer deliberated the entire winter before he saw anything which suited him, and then took a house several hundred dollars in advance of the price he originally contemplated paying. One feature about a house the farmer wants is a garden of some size, and with preference for one in which he can retain memories of the home he has left in the shape of a few hens.

Why They Leave.

In conversation with men familiar with the farming community, it was learned that to a certain extent lack of help on the farm is responsible for the man comparatively young leaving the farm. His sons, attracted by the high wages and possibilities a business life offers, leave the homestead, and they cannot be replaced at a reasonable cost. Daylight saving is what is ruining the farm to-day another man remarked. When the country employee sees his city chum getting through his work at four o'clock in the afternoon and working on the eight-hour system, it is natural that he becomes restless and heads citywards. Even the girls are leaving the homes in large numbers to take college courses, and are never satisfied to return to the farm.

The High Prices.

High prices, in the opinion of most of the men interviewed, had little to do with the farmer's ability to retire. The farmer in his turn had high prices to pay for anything, and the only one who made any out of the war prices were those who, after paying their debts, had still a few bushels of wheat and oats left to sell at the prices paid at the time. This seldom happened, according to the man, as the shortage of help meant a shortage of crop.

The Responsible Party.

The very man who kicks at the high prices is the one who is responsible for them. When the hours were cut to an eigh-hour system and the daylight saving was brought in, the help on the farm refused to stay, and such crops as corn and beet, which are the real milk-producing foods for the cattle, had to be neglected. In consequence, up went the price of milk, butter and cream.

Presentation at the Bonner-Worth

The girls of the Drawing and Winding Departments met together at noon on Thursday to wish Gol speed and a pleasant voyage to Miss Mabel Maynard, who leaves for England on Sunday, April 20th.

Mr. A. Pilling, the foreman of the drawing room, spoke a few words and presented to her on behalf of the girls a handsome gold bracelet and the following address.

Peterborough, Ont., Can., April 17.

Miss Mabel Maynard—

Dear Mabel,—We the girls of the Drawing and Winding Depts of the Bonner-Worth factory, knowing that you are leaving for England, wish you to accept this little token of esteem in remembrance of the time when you worked with us, and we sincerely wish you every success in the future.

FULL DAY AT MURRAY STREET

Busy hands have been at work on the Murray Street edifice since the union service with the Presbyterians held there yesterday. The joyous atmosphere of the Resurrection Day has been created by the wise use of flags, plants and flowers. At the morning service to-morrow there will be a number received into new membership with the Church by the ordinance of believer's baptism. On this Easter occasion each member of the congregation will make his half-yearly offering toward the retiring of the building debt.

In the evening a service of solemn and grateful joy will be held as the the doctrine of resurrection is applied in a memorial service in honor of the memory of the following additional soldiers who have laid down their lives for their country: Fred Stanley, Joseph Horton, John Ellam, Arthur Lewis, George Collins. A printed order service with the evening hymns has been prepared. The Pastor of the church, Rev. J. R. Webb, will preach both morning and evening. The musical arrangements for the day are announced in the Church Notice column and are specially attractive. The worship will be led by a full choir.

WAS A FORMER RESIDENT OF CITY

Officials of the Immigration Department of Quebec, have been at St. John, N.B., recently examining into the organization for arrangements for the reception of returning soldiers and their families. They were so well pleased with the organization which they described as "perfect" that they have asked Miss Perry, national secretary of the Travellers' Aid of the Y.W.C.A., who has been at the head of the work in St John, to come to Quebec and organize here exactly in the same way. Miss Perry has already visited Quebec, and it is expected that everything will be in readiness when the first lot of soldiers arrive in this city. There are 15 other societies co-operating with the Y.M.C.A. at St John, N.B.—Quebec Chronicle.

Miss Perry is a former resident of Peterboro and her many friends will be pleased to hear of the splendid success she has achieved in this most important work. As the National Service Secretary of the Dominion Council of the Y.W.C.A., she also carried through most successfully a very responsible piece of work in British Columbia las year.

"THE ROSARY"

Like a fresh breeze blowing into a hot and feverish sick room is the coming of "The Rosary" to the Grand Opera House on Thursday Evening, after the long list of unclean and questionable plays that have been offered in recent months. This play is as pure as the emblem that gives it its name, and is as wholesome as life in its best aspects. The story is a tense one, dealing with the domestic happiness of a man and woman, and the wreck that is caused by irreligion and unfaith. When the home is on the verge of ruin and when all happiness seems to be about to depart from the husband and wife, then comes a priest, Father Kelly, who sets things to rights.

The play is not sectarian in any way, but simply tells a story of life in America, in which the priest comes like a ray of sunshine to dispel the dark clouds of tragedy. Messrs. Rowland and Clifford have revived this Edward E. Rose play, provided a big company and an expensive production, with Oscar O'Shea as Father Brian Kelly.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

Look at tongue! Then give fruit laxative for stomach, liver, bowels.

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm children and they love it.

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Lieut. Stuart's Insurance Must Be Paid by Executors to Widow

CITY'S CASE ARGUED TO-DAY

Mr. George Lenton's claim of $5,173.20 against the Peterborough Lumber Company was dismissed without costs by Judge Lennox, who also dismissed the defendants' counterclaim without costs.

Mr. John McIntosh, K.C., of Toronto, with Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill, were the solicitors for the Peterborough Lumber Company, and Mr. J. G. Guise-Bagley appeared for the plaintiff.

The Hatton vs. Peterborough case will be argued at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, this afternoon by Mr. R. R. Hall and Mr. Daniel O'Connel, solicitors respectively for the parties. This action was brought to quash the city's by-law authorizing the extension of the McDonnel Street sewer from Cambridge Street to the Monaghan Road.

Stuart Case Settled.

The last case on the docket, that of Stuart vs. Stuart, was settled at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, after the plaintiff's evidence had been taken. Settlement was reached by counsel, and a declaration was made by the Court in which certain debts owing the defendant, R. J. Stuart, and which had been paid, were allowed. The Court also declared that the executors had no right to take any other monies, but that insurance should be paid in full to the beneficiaries.

The plaintiff in this case was Mrs. Grace M. Stuart, of Lakefield, widow of Herbert J. Stuart, of Toronto, who was killed in action on October 2nd, 1916. The defendants were Robert J. Stuart and George S. Harding, of Toronto, executors of the estate of the deceased. The defendant, R. J. Stuart, is also father of the late Lieut. Herbert J. Stuart. Prior to his enlistment, Lieut. Stuart took out an insurance policy with the Sun Life Insurance Company, providing for the payment of $10,000 to his wife in twenty annual instalments. The plaintiff claimed that several of these payments had been made to the executors, who used the money to wipe out certain debts that had been owing by the deceased to several parties, including the defendant, R. J. Stuart. There was also $2,000 insurance from the Metropolitan Insurance Company involved in the action.

Mr. O. A. Langley represented the plaintiff and Mr. E. D. Armour, K.C., of Toronto, appeared for the defendants.

Local Council of Women Held a Lively Discussion

Campaign in Favour of Canadian Made Goods—Slum Conditions Exist in Peterboro—The Treasurer's Report.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women held on Thursday afternoon, a lively discussion of a possible campaign against imported goods where Canadian goods may be used followed the reading of a letter from the Canadian Trades Commission, urging such a procedure, and as a result the following resolution was framed and will be sent to the Toronto Local Council asking them to second it.

"Resolved, that this Council endorse the principle of using made in Canada articles. This Council suggests that a committee be appointed at the annual meeting in June, of the National Council to meet the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the earliest possible moment in order to secure a better understanding between the consumer and manufacturer as to quality and price of the manufactured article. It was stated by one of the members that English wools wear better than Canadian and do not shrink and that if the manufacturer wants Canadian goods bought he should bring his goods up to the standard of the imported goods."

The Letter.

The Canadian Trade Commission is undertaking an extensive inquiry into conditions in the Dominion for the purpose of promoting an expansion of "after-war" trade. It is felt, for reasons which will be easily understood by all women, that a return to pre-war standards in trade, as in all other nations laims and aspirtions, even if it were possible, would not meet the new need, as the huge financial burdens of the war and its consequences will have to be borne for many years to come.

The women of Canada, singly and through their organizations, have shown by whole-hearted support given to national effort in food, how great their collective influence may be in other directions. In every national undertaking during the war, the sympathy, understanding and active co-operation of women were proved to be essential. For the present and the immediate future, there is on women especially the obligation to see that purchases for the homes are made in such a way that the effect will be to stabilize Canadian trade. Wherever possible, they should buy only Canadian produce and Canadian lines, because this will give employment in additional lines of production to returned soldiers and to those, many thousands in number, who were formerly occupied in war work. In this way, they will not only insure employment for our workers, but they will help also to lessen the financial pressure which is likely to be so increasingly felt.

Will Quickly Realize.

Without entering exhaustively into the field of national economics, women will quickly realize that every dollar sent out of the country for commodities which can be produced at home will affect the financial situation adversely and at once. As the women of Canada purchase about 90 p.c. of the commodities used in our domestic life, a realization by them of their power to re-make and vitalize Canadian trade and finance is a first step towards relieving the situation and safeguarding the national future.

For every million dollars retained in Canada by a refusal to buy other than Canadian goods, a year's continuous employment can be given to at least 1,000 people.

The Canadian Trade Commission is endeavouring by other means to encourage and develop our domestic manufactures and to utilize every reserve of resource in the Dominion. To do this it will be their aim to turn to the best account the work of Canadians in th factory as well as in the field—to induce our people as far as practicable to make at home the things we need at home.

The figures given on an attached list, taken from the Trade Report of the Department of Customs, show the large quantities of goods, which are of special interest to women, imported into Canada from outside sources in 1918. The Canadian Trade Commission believes that if the majority of Canadian women would study the items of expenditure on this list, the effect would be highly beneficial to the finance and trade of Canada and to the employment of our workers. The same spirit of patriotic support shown from day to day in the purchase of things made at home as was shown during the food campaign and in all national efforts for war, would remedy much of the great adverse trade balance without further machinery. An adverse balance means a lessening of our power to reconstruct Canadian trade, and to maintain and promote good wages and favourable living conditions. It is therefore an immediate and imoprtant duty for Canadian women wherever and whenever possible to insist on getting Canadian-made goods, and to help in making the national trade-mark, "Made in Canada," one of a high standard of excellence in our domestic as well as in foreign markets.

Yours faithfully,
The Canadian Trade Commission.

Filthy Homes.

A letter similar to the above was received from Mr. J. W. Worth, also urging the use of made-in-Canada goods.

Mrs. Morris stated that Dr. C. H. Amys had confirmed the reports in the local papers regarding the filthy conditions of some of the homes in the city and that the Medical Officer of Health would gladly welcome the co-operation of the Local Council in getting at conditions. One case in particular involved a home in which the old man of the house was literally reeking of tuberculosis. In this home an adopted child was forced to form its ideas and ideals and in this case and many others it was practically impossible for the authorities to get at the root of the matter and have the child removed. In many cases in which children should be removed from their filthy surroundings it was impossible to prove immorality or that the children had been beaten. The matter of overcoming the seeming helplessness of the proper authorities in dealing with such conditions was referred to the Public Health committee.

Treasurer's Report.

The treasurer reported a balance of $137.25 in the bank.

The chair was occupied by Mrs. Stevenson in the absence of Mrs. Harstone.

Mrs. Cummings Nominated.

Mrs. Willoughby Cummings was nominated by the Local Council to the committee to draft the woman's platform.

Cleanses the Blood, Builds Up Strength, Improves Complexion

As a result of debility, sickness or improper diet, the blood often becomes weak and unable to free itself of poisons.

Morbid, unhealthy matter accumulates and breaks out in sores that discharge and will not heal.

Washes, salves and ointments are useless because they have no action on the poisoned blood.

Ulcers, boils and sores heal up.

Likewise all weakness due to impoverished blood is cured by these famous pills, and anaemia, erysipelas and rheumatism go before it as chaff before fire.

The skin grows smooth, complexion clears, health, vigor and strength are evident on all sides.

A blood remedy for blood diseases, the formula of a famous physician—no improvement can be made on Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Their use extends to the people of many nations and thousands have proved that they do cure when all else fails.

No matter what your ailment may be, if it has its origin in the blood it is curable with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold everywhere, 25c a box.

Vaudeville and Pictures at the Grand Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday

Rather than a series of laughable incidents with the semblance of a plot somewhere between them, "Sis Hopkins," the new Goldwin Picture in which Mabel Normand stars at the Grand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, matinee daily, tells a consistent story in which are suspense and even thrills.

Sissetetta Hopkins—called "Sis" for short—has an old rheumatic father to whom she is devoted. They live on a run-down farm in the town of New Harmony and barely make both ends meet. As everyone knows, Sis is a gawky, hoyden, up to all kinds of mischief; but she is lovable as well.

Through an accident Vibert, the town's richest man, thinks there is oil on the Hopkins land and he sets about to so ingratiate himself with Sis and her pa that they will sell it him for a song. He sends her to the local seminary to be "edjicated" and of course the girl's exploits there are amusing beyond description. Vibert's patronage arouses the ire of Ridy Scarboro, who really cares for Sis. How it all untangles itself and how the shrewdness of Sis enables her to sell the worthless lands to Vibert and bring back Ridy to her—all this is told in Mabel Normand's inimitable manner.

The vaudiville bill will comprise of the Famous Amble Bros., presenting an act under the caption of "The Act Sensational." From start to finish they display an ease of grace in the execution of their extraordinary feats that seem miraculous. Ambler Bros. cause an audience to actually gasp for breath on their stupendous work. The Caison Trio entertainers de luxe, consisting of solos, duets and trios, performed on the banjo, piano and piano-accordion. Their repertoire is extensive and comprises of the best standard numbers of the classics and the latest pop ular songs and ballads.

An added attraction to the program will be the Melroy Sisters, undoubtedly one of the daintiest and most delightful entertaining offerings seen here this season. The Melroy Sisters, though still in their teens, have played all the big circuits and are therefore considered finished artists, and lovers of singing and graceful dancing will find the Melroy Sisters all that their hearts could desire.

RECEPTION TO SIX SOLDIERS

How Villiers Welcomes the Boys Home.

Last evening the members of the Villiers Patriotic Society etxended a hearty reception to six of the heroes who have recently returned to Villiers from overseas: Ptes. Peter Wood, and George Edwards, old Villiers boys, and Driver Frank Godfrey, Ptes. Harry Carter, James Halliday and Robert Lovell, who had resided in the village. The Villiers school house, in which the reception was held, was crowded. Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P., an old Villiers boy, who is always interested in any happening in his home town, occupied the chair and gave a stirring address. Speeches were made by Rev. Mr. McEachern, of Keene, and Lt.-Col. T. J. Johnston. After the presentation of a gold watch to each of the boys, a splendid programme was given and dainty refreshments served.

A recent exhibition in Buenos Aires proved that cotton growing in northern Argentina has passed the experimental stage.

A Subscription For Murderer's Guard

Pte. Currell is Bailed at $2,000. G. W.V.A. Play Good Samaritan and Raise Money—Who in Financial Difficulties.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 19. — The Earlscourt Great War Veterans at a meeting in the Belmont Assembly Hall decided to assist the famil yof Pte. Ernest Currell, the guard of Frank McCullough, the murderer who escaped from Toronto jail, now being held in custody. A subscription was opened. It was stated that the prisoner's bail had been fixed at $2,000, and when asked if anyone would help to raise the ball, one comrade immediately volunteered $1,000 and it is expected that the other $1,000 will be raised for that purpose. Pte. Currell is a member of the Earlscourt branch.

Mrs. Stockley, President of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Earlscourt Veterans, in a brief address told of the dire circumstances of Currel's family and the immediate need of relief. She had visited the home and found Mrs. Currell without money, coal or other necessaries of life. Other members of the Association spoke of the struggle Pte. Currell had since returning from overseas.

"He has had a hard time," said the former secretary, C. T. Lacey. "He has had no money to buy medicine for the family. At the Christmas festival he said to me: "Lacey, I've got to leave you, as I have to guard McCullough." Reference was also made to the bailiff entering Pte. Currell's house some time ago.

OLIVET TO CALVARY

The Good Friday services at St. John's church were well attended. As usual a choral work was given in the evening at 8 and a large congregation assembled to listen to a very fine presentation of "Olivet to Calvary."

Shortly before 8, lantern slides were shown of the Stations of the Cross, and at 8 p.m. Canon Davidson conducted the opening devotions. The soloists were Mrs. Amys soprano, Miss Rathbone, contralto,, Mr. Harold Lee, tenor, and Mr. Ward, baritone, and all acquitted themselves splendidly. The choristers thoroughly maintained the high standard of choral singing which is so pleasingly associated with St. John's services, and last night's work was of a remarkably high order, especially when it is remembered that St. John's choir is altogether a voluntary organiaztion.

Mr. Cyril H. Devey officiated at the organ, and his work deserves great credit.

Mr. R. J. Devey conducted the work with his usual skill, as is well known, and is to be congratulated on the work of the evening, which showed unmistakeable signs of arduous rehearsal.

The Crucifiction at All Saints'

In their rendition of Sir John Stainer's world-famous oratorio, "The Crucifixion," the members of All Saints' choir last night reached a higher standard of accomplishment than ever before. Their work showed the results of the careful instruction the choir has received during the past seven years by a choirmaster, Mr. Geo. E. Chandler, all the soloists having received their training under him as well as the members of the chorus parts. The choir was ably assisted by Miss Ida Sanderson, whose rendition of "He Was Despised" from Handel's Messiah, with contralto air and violin and organ accompaniment, was a distinct feature of the evening.

Miss Laura Logan also gave much appreciated assistance on the violin, her violin solo, "Andante Religioso," by Ernest Gillet, showing rare sympathy and fine technique.

The tenor solo, "King Ever Glorious," always watched for in this work, was finely rendered by Mr. Chandler. The modulation through the various keys in this solo requires more than ordinary ability and was handled by Mr. Chandler with markedability.

The bass solos were taken by Mr. T H. Body, who showed an appreciation of the various parts that aided to their effectiveness. Mr. Body's enunciation was distinct and his voice full and round, the higher notes being particularly fine. A duet by Mr. Chandler and Mr. Boddy was an exceptionally fine number. Both voices blended perfectly making this number one of the best of the evening. The minor solos were taked by Mr. W. Gatfield and Mr. Geo. Rose, baritones, and Mr. Jas. Rayboul, tenor and were sung with finished effect.

A double quartette, "God so loved the world," was finely rendered by Miss Mabel Williams and Miss Helen Rush, soprano, Miss Ida Sanderson and Miss Hinchcliffe, contralto and Mr. F. Heafield and Mr. Jas. Raybould, tenor and Mr. Boddy and Mr. R. Hirst, bass. This was sung unaccompanied in perfect pitch and was an excellent rendition of the number. Miss M. Flowers presided at the organ throughout and added greatly to the effectiveness of the presentation of this great oratorio.

This was the second occasion on which this choir has sung "The Crucifixion." Last evening's effort showed a distinct advance in the manner in which thevarious parts were in which the various parts were 40 voices.

The City Will Buy Another Car of Coal

Each Month the Price of Coal Is Due to Advance.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee decided on Thursday evening to purchase a car of stove coal to be mixed with the small grades of coal now in the Municipal yard. This will make the fuel more saleable. The committee have information showing that each month coal will advance beyond the present price and each member was of the opinion that it would be good business to purchase a car of coal at once.

Fire Chief Grange was before the Committee and informed the members that he was unaware of the resolution passed by council which gave firemen who enlisted their positions when they returned from overseas. Chief Grange did not at that time hold the position of Fire Chief. He thought that Fireman Clancy who went overseas, and who asked for reinstatement, was an excellent fire fighter, but thought that he had no authority to place any more men on the brigade without authority from the Fire, Water and Light Committee. At present there were eight returned soldiers on the brigade.

Ald. Turner moved that Fireman Clancy be reinstated on the Fire Department on May 1st next, which was unanimously carried.

Underwriters' Report.

The report of the Inspector of the Underwriters' Association was read, which recommended to the committee that the fire engine should be overhauled and a generator installed at the fire hall.

On motion of Ald. Taylor, seconded by Ald. Turner, the City Clerk was instructed to write to the Underwriters' Association, informing them that the fire engine will be thoroughly overhauled, that the Utilities Commission are now wiring the west side of George street, and that a generator set is being installed at the fire hall. The other matters mentioned in the report will also be looked into.

The committee officially authorized a "clean-up week," which was inaugurated last year by the Fire Chief's Association. A letter was read from the same Association this year, and on motion of Ald. Taylor and Turner the "clean-up week" will commence on May 5th. All citizens are asked to observe it.

A communication was received from the Peterboro Canoe Company asking that a hydrant be placed on the corner of King and Water streets. They will be informed that the need of hydrants will be looked into when the paving of Water street from Charlotte street to King street is proceeded with.

Some people spend so much time handing out advice that they have no time to accomplish anything.

Found Body Lying in Field

Woman Had Been Missing Since Last October.

On Monday, the 14th, while searching for some cows three miles south of Apsley, about three miles from the main road, Mr. Charles Harris was attracted by a swarm of flies hovering about a dark object lying in the field, and upon investigation found it to be the body of a woman terribly decomposed, and from which the crows had eaten the leg and arm. The body was later identified as that of Mrs. James Onley, who disappeared from her home in Burleigh on October the 14th, and had apparently lain in the field since then. Mr. Andrew Wilson and Mr. Harris carried the body to Apsley, where interment took place, the funeral being conducted by Rev. Mr Beck. It is thought that the woman wandered away in a state of temporary insanity and dropped through fatigue in the place where she was found.

"BERZAC'S CIRCUS"

"Berzac's Mammoth Indoor Circus" was all that it was represented to be. Yesterday afternoon and evening it was shown at the Grand to capacity audiences and its promise to return next season in a brand new 1919 edition will be looked forward to with interest. As the name implies the show is a real live indoor circus with all the features that contribute so largely to the success of the pre-war circus held under "The Big Top."

A few of the features include: daring aerialism, clown frolics, Australian novelty, defying gravity, fun on the bounding wire, the unusual Angora goat, the frivolous clown, fast pony groupe, Berzac's ponies and donkeys and many other entertaining turns that are successfully reproduced on the stage. The performance will be repeated this afternoon and evening.

This he states is worse than useless as they will be unable to cross the border unless provided with the proper credentials, including military service papers.

GOOD SCORES AT GUN CLUB'S FIRST MEET

Stan Coon, Roy Hutchison and Peter Gettas Among the Winners.

The Peterborough Gun Club held their opening shoot yesterday afternoon at the grounds, and it was a decided success, both from the points of number attending and the marksmanship. The weather was windy, and under the circumstances the scores were very good. Mr. Stan. Coon won the opening event of twenty birds, taking eighteen, and Jack Loucks won the second money in this event. The handicap event of twenty birds produced some good shooting, and the winner, Mr. Roy Hutchison, won with a handicap of three, making his score a possible twenty. Chris. Wood and Bruce Gillespie were tied for second money, and in the shoot off Mr. Wood won by one bird. The sweepstake event was won by Peter Gettas, who had a handicap of three, and the second money was won by Jack Loucks in the shoot off, when three of them were tied with nine birds. Several new shooters joined the Gun Club on Friday, and it looks like a very successful season for the shooters. In the quail event of five birds, Mr. Roberts, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., was tied with Stan. Coon after an exciting shoot.

CHIEF THOMPSON RETURNS TO OFFICE

Chief of Police Thompson was at his office in the police station this morning after several weeks' sojourn in the isloation hospital with diphtheria. His period of isolation ended on Thursday and the Chief was first seen on Good Friday, which he accepts as a good augury. The Chief is loud in his praise of the nurses in the Isolation Hospital under the superintendency of Miss Price, a wise choice of Dr. C. H. Amys, M.O.H., and the Board of Health. He states that some of the younger patients, after convalescence, did not wish to go home, so kind and considerate was the treatment accorded them.

WANTS THE "Y" AT HOME

The future of the "Y" in the estimation of many of the soldiers is proven by many incidents. An officer declared that he had been to the Y.M.C.A. only once before the war; from now on he was a strong supporter. His first real touch of it came at Vimy Ridge.

In a Belgian town the other day a Canadian came to a "Y" officer and put into words the thing that is troubling many a soldier about to return to Canada.

"My country home," he said "is as dead as this place. Why can't you come and build a hut like this, with a Y.M.C.A. programme, and make life worth living for us? I don't believe I can stick it in that quiet place in old Canada again."

It is precisely such a programme in the quiet places beyond the cities that is the ambition, the hope, of the Y.M.C.A. unit's coming campaign for funds. If a million dollars will make these places "worth living in" it is the best investment Canada ever made.

RESTORE THE NATURAL SIGHT

This Skin Peeler All the Rage in Society

There is a growing tendency among the women of culture and fashion to pay more attention to hygenic means of preserving their charms. The advent of mercolized wax doubtless has been largely responsible for this. This remarkable substance produces complexions so natural in appearance, so magnetically beautiful, artificial complexions are no longer desired. Instead of "doctoring" an offensive skin, the skin is peeled off. The wax peels the skin so gradually in such fine particles, no discomfort is experienced. The fresher, younger skin beneath, wholly in evidence, within a week or two is lily white satiny soft and smooth. It's not a patched-over complexion, but a brand new one. That's why mercolized wax has become such a rage among society folk. The wax is put on nights like cold cream and off mornings. All druggists have it; one ounce will do.

Stickney Motors Limited Capitalized at $1,500,000 New Peterboro Industry

In a Suggested Agreement They Ask for a Fixed Assessment of $10,000 for Ten Years—Hold an Option on the Cordage Building —The Stickney Gasoline Engine is Well Known.

WILL EMPLOY SKILLED MEN

The incorporation of Stickney Motors Limited, Peterboro, with a capitalization of $1,500,000, is announced in this week's issue of the Ontario Gazette. The publication of the negotiations between Mr. Chas. A. Stickney, of St. Paul, Minn., and the Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council, has been withheld by the local press at the request of the committee and Industrial Commissioner Armstrong, but the official announcement of incorporation has broken the silence and removes the reasons for the request. It is in fact customary ti withhold information of new companies coming to the city until the preliminary stage of making a tentative agreement with the Council is passed.

Mr. Stickney stated to the Manufacturers' Committee a short time ago that his company proposed to manufacture motor trucks, tractors and gasoline engines. He has secured an option on the Renfrew Manufacturing Company's buildings at the corner of Lake and Aylmer streets, formerly the factory of the Canadian Cordage Company, from Mr. Thos. A. Low, and is prepared to begin the installation of machinery and manufacturing operations as soon as possible.

Ask Fixed Assessment

Mr. G. N. Gordon, who is solicitor for the company, said that the only concession they asked from the city was a fixed assessment of $10,000 for ten years, except school taxes and local improvements. The company did not seek a free site, a consideration that had been granted to some other companies who had located here, but would be satisfied with the fixed assessment.

To Employ Fifty Men

At the conference with the Manufacturers' Committee, at which Ald. McIntyre presided, Mr. Stickney said he would agree to employ fifty hands for ten years, nine months each year. They would be nearly all skilled and highly paid mechanics. The numbers thus quoted are for the purposes of the agreement, but it was intimated that the company hoped to exceed this staff early in their operations.

Because of the uncertainties of the Canadian tariff and the possibilities that the free list may be extended to include small tractors and motor trucks, and for other market contingencies, the company will ask for the right to cease operations for one year to enable them to adjust their industry to any changes that may upset their plans.

In consideration of this clause they bind themselves to employ double the number of men in the following year.

Begin As Soon As Possible

Mr. Stickney told the Committee that he hoped and desired to begin work as soon as possible. He would not guarantee what pay list or departments he could show this year, but he left the impression that there would be considerable activity at the factory this summer if the agreement

Special Holiday Show at the Grand To-day, Tuesday & Wednesday

The special holiday bill of Vaudeville at the Grand today, Tuesday and Wednesday with a matinee, will comprise of the Famous Amble Bros., presenting an act under the caption of "The Act Sensational." From start to finish they display an ease of grace in the execution of their extraordinary feats that seem miraculous. Ambler Bros. cause an audience to actually gasp for breath on their stupdendous work. The Carson Trio entertainers de luxe, consisting of solos, ducts and trios, performed on the banjo, piano and piano-accordion. Their repertoire is extensive and comprises of the best standard numbers of the classics and the latest popular songs and ballads.

An added attraction to the program will be the Melroy Sisters, undoubtedly one of the daintiest and most delightful entertaining offerings seen here this season. The Melroy Sisters, though still in their teens, have played all the big circuits and are therefore considered finished artists, and lovers of singing and graceful dancing will find the Melroy Sisters all that their hearts could desire. The special feature will be, "Sis Hopkins," with Mabel Normand, seen here a few weeks ago in "Mickey," will no doubt assure the patrons of the Grand that the management intend to keep faith with the public and present nothing but the best in pictures and vaudeville.

Present Leader Defeats Bolshevists

Canadian Press:

VIENNA, April 21.—The forces under Petlura, the Ukrainian peasant leader, have retaken Zhitomir and Proskuroy, and also secured the adhesion of 10,000 Bolshevik troops, particularly those originating in East Ukraine, according to a wireless despatch from Tarnopol. It would appear that Petlura's plan, of cutting behind the Bolsheviki advancing into Bessarabia and toward Odessa, is succeeding.

Hun Peace Propaganda

German Delegates Plan to Wreck the Allied Peace Machine.

WILSON'S POINTS

By Frank J. Taylor,
(United Press.)

BERLIN, April 20. — (Via Paris, April 21.—The German peace delegation is going to Paris, confidently expecting to wreck the Allied peace machine. This is plainly evident to-day from statements in the Berlin press, as well as the attitude of the Foreign Office.

The delegation is expected to leave for Paris on Thursday. Some reports have been circulated that the government may hold a plebiscite to decide whether the Allied terms will be accepted.

Oddly enough the Germans plans to employ the same tactics which brought America into the war two years ago. The Foreign Office theory is that the Allies will not call Germany's bluff if the delegates announce their determination to refuse to sign the terms. The diplomatists here figure the Allies will not and cannot retaliate effectively if the German representatives balk—the same as Count Von Bernstorff and other members of the Foreign Office crowd calculated in the spring of 1917.

New Republic.

The new Republic has entrusted its destinies to a group of diplomatists who have not changed in any way from those who directed Germany's policies before the revolution. "We believe the terms reported from Paris are just Entente propaganda to prepare the people for the hardest possible peace so they will appreciate the terms actually official, which undoubtedly will be much easier," a member of the Foreign Office told the United Press. "It is clever peace propaganda, but fortunately we see through it."

Foreign Minister Brockdorff Rantzau is prepared to interpret President Wilson's fourteen points in an entirely different light from that of the Allies and Wilson's viewpoint regarding Alsace-Lorraine, Posen, the German colonies and other disputable questions.

It is stated that the Germans plan to tear up the peace terms, refuse to sign them, then make counter peace proposals according to German ideas, threatening to turn Germany over to the Bolsheviki if the Allies still stand pat. The Foreign Office is expected to frighten the Allies to believing Germany will pay no indemnities if the Bolshevik get control of the country.

This is purely bluff, because it is safe to estimate that the majority of Germans favour accepting any peace, but the Foreign Office is willing to endanger the entire peace plan for the sake of reviving Germany's "independence," militaristically and capitalistically.

Ready to Sign.

The Radicals, who probably would overthrow the government in case of a refusal to accept the peace terms, are ready to sign any peace and then make the capitalists pay the war bill. They have already developed plans to put this into effect. They are enthusiastically looking forward to early May, anticipating events will enable them to win control and carry out a real revolution. (The Radicals say Germany has not yet undergone an actual political and social overturn.) Beginning a "spring house cleaning" with socialistaion for a broom and Bolshevism for the cleanser.

THE WEATHER

The temperature for Easter Sunday ranged from 40 to 60 degrees. While rain fell in the morning, it was a more agreeable day than Easter of last year, when heavy rain fell in the afternoon. Easter of 1917, was fine but quite cool. Good Friday of last year was a particularly fine day, while that of the preceding year was wet. The first swallows noticed this spring were seen last evening. Last year they made their appearance the first of May.—W.P.

In Sympathy With Movement

Machinery of the Appeal Board is Unwieldy.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, April 21. — Mr. John Bruce, one of the Labour representatives on the Labour Appeal Board, informed a reporter that he was in sympathy with the movement among the ranks of organized Labour to abolish the Labour Appeal Board. Mr. Bruce's attention was drawn to an exception taken by another member of the Appeal Board, Mr. S. R. Parsons, to a statement published in a paper to the effect that the Labour men on that Board found themselves continuously in a minority. "It is true that in some cases the decisions were unanimous," said Mr. Bruce, "but this was because the Labour representatives tried to carry out the function of the Appeal Board, which was to harmonize disputes in industries as much as possible during a period of stress. The machinery of the Appeal Board is unwieldy. It has no facility for gathering or obtaining evidence such as a board of conciliation has. This makes the verdicts snap decisions. I am in sympathy with the movement for its abolition, such my experiences of it justify this attitude."

Lindsay's Fire Alarm System Said to Be Inadequate

Inspector R. N. Wilson Shoots a Few Holes in the Department.

Lindsay's fire alarm system is wholly inadequate, according to Inspector R. N. Wilson of the Dominion Fire Underwriters' Association, who visited the town on the Scugog last Thursday. Inspector Wilson visited the Peterborough fire brigade some time ago and his report is now in the hands of the City Fathers. In Lindsay the inspector, as usual, rang in an alarm, but instead of the gong sounding six times, only one peal was heard. Chief Beadle started on a jaunt down town to find where the broken wire was located and unexpectedly met the amiable inspector. Voluminous explanations were forthcoming. The trick was tried again and this time the strike pealed out the correct number. The Inspector "discovered" that the bell could not be heard on the outskirts of the town, that is, if you were more than two or three blocks from Kent street. The Inspector has recommended that the present clock in the fire hall tower be removed and a proper automatic fire alarm be attached to the bell to be a warning to citizens, particularly to volunteer firemen.

Mayor McLean has asked the Bell Telephone Company, which is supposed to inspect the fire alarm system, to make a thorough inspection and report at once.

The replacing of the pneumatic tires on the fire truck by solid rubber tires is also recommended as a safeguard to the firemen.

It is also recommended that two 20 gallon chemical tanks be carried on the fire truck. These can be placed behind the seat and will take the place of some 200 or more feet of hose.

In the matter of hose it was pointed out that the brigade should have at least 3,500 feet, which means the purchase of 800 feet of additional hose.

Other important recommendations relative to the hall were also made. These will be dealt with at a special meeting of the Lindsay Council to be held shortly.

Union Service Was Unique

Protestants and Roman Catholics Took Part.

(Special to The Examiner.)

PENETANGUISHENE, Ont., April 21.—Protestants and Roman Catholics of this French-Canadian town united here Sunday afternoon in an open service of praise and prayer in which the Roman Catholic priest and the Protestant ministers took part in celebrating the third anniversary of the Battle of St. Julien. The celebration was held on the field at the back of the Jesuit Catholic memorial church overlooking the bay, where a cairn marks the landing of the Recollect Fathers three hundred years ago. The service in English and French was a simple one of song and praise, in which Rev. Father Philip Brunelle, rector of the Jesuit church, Rev. F. W. Gilmour, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Rev. M. A. F. Bourne, rector of the Anglican church, and Rev. E. T. Douglas, of the Methodist church, took part. Mayor Charles Wright acted as chairman. This unique event was attended by hundreds of citizens of the town who entered into the spirit of the service with complete unanimity and good feeling. Rev. Father Brunelle spoke in French and English. In speaking to the gathering Rev. Mr. Gilmour stated it was to commemorate the sacred memory of the Canadian soldiers who had fallen in action last year. He stated at this time there was the greatest anxiety for the future of the Allied arms since the civilization had been saved and it was fitting that the citizens should thank the Almighty for the defeat of the Hun. He said that millions of indemnity would never pay for the loss of the men who had fallen.

McCullough Still at Large

Question as to Whether He Will Be Legally Dead After May 2nd.

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 21. — If McCullough, the escaped murderer, should still be missing when May 2nd, his execution day comes and passes, will he be legally dead? One legal view is: There needn't be any trouble on that score. The Minister of Justice has power to postpone the hanging, and a postponement would keep him alive even in the eyes of the law. Ottawa grants reprieves, so postponements are in order.

But is a man convicted of murder legally dead immediately after serving his sentence. Can the Canadian police authorities demand the extradition of a convicted murderer, and if he cannot be extradited on a murder charge, as he is presumed dead, on what charge can he be brought back? These charges form the latest developments in the McCullough escape over the week end.

Police Opinion.

According to several police officials, McCullough was legally dead immediately after receiving sentence. Further, that as an American citizen, if he were arersted in the United States, he could not be deported as an undesirable from his native country. Therefore, the only charge on which the escaped man could be brought back would be on the minor charge of jail breaking, which in itself is not an extraditable offence. This expression of opinion among a number of police officials has led to some interesting details of the ramifications of the Extradition Act. T. C. Robinette, who defended McCullough, stated that a man was not legally dead until a certificate of death was received by the authorities from the sheriff of the county stating that the sentence of the law had been duly carried out, thus nullifying the opinion of the police that the condemned man was legally dead immediately after receiving sentence. Further, McCullough could be extradited on the murder charge from anywhere, except China or Germany. Asked if the United States could deport him from his native land, Mr. Robinette stated that they could deport him even if he were a citizen.

Could Be Extradited.

Peter White, K.C., who prosecuted McCullough, confined his opinion only to the eventuality of the escaped prisoner being recaptured after May 2, the date set by Justice Rose last January as the date of the execution. Comes then the question whether or not McCullough would be legally dead after that date or not. Mr. White stated that he did not think McCullough would be "legally dead." "They would have to produce a certificate to show that the man had been executed," said Mr. White. Asked if the murderer could be brought back at all, Mr. White ventured the opinion that if the Act provided for the apprehension of a man only suspected of a criminal act, surely there would be some clause provided whereby a man who had been found guilty of a criminal one, could be extradited.

Veterans and Housing Problem

Toronto Branches Will Take Strong Stand at Provincial Convention in Windsor.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, April 21.—The housing problem and what the War Veterans claim has been a sad failure to give any relief in connection with it, will be one of the main issues for discussion at the Provincial Convention in Windsor next month. The matter will be brought before the Convention by the Toronto Central Branch of the G. W. V.A., who are taking a most determined stand on the matter, and who intend to present Toronto's case to the assembled delegates in a forcible manner.

"There is nothing that will tend more to promote a feeling very much akin to Bolshevism," stated Secretary B. P. Brockbank to your representative to-day, "than men coming home from overseas and finding that they cannot get homes for themselves and their families. In my opinion, it is the most serious problem now facing the repatriation situation and authorities of the country."

Several Peterboro Soldiers Have Arrived at Halifax

SAPPER LEN DOBSON, who has arrived at Halifax on the troopship Adriatic.

Olympic Docked This Morning With Over Five Thousand Men on Board.

THE LOCAL LIST

(Special to Examiner.)

HALIFAX, April 21. — Sir William Hearst, the Premier of Ontario, was at the gang plank, when the steamer Adriatic docked yesterday afternoon, to greet his son, Lieut. W. I. Hearst, who returned with the 1st Division men. As Lieut. Hearst came ashore he was joyfully welcomed by his father.

Lieut. Hearst went overseas with the 5th C.M.R., and crossed to France with the 7th Battalion.

The following Peterboro men were on the Adriatic

Corp. A. R. McNab.
Gnr. J. F. Malane.
Spr. L. Mather.
Pte. W. Scott.
Spr. L. Dobson.

Lieut. Douglas Loomis, Peterboro, arrived on the Olympic this morning.

E. M. Wilson, also of Peterboro, arrived at St. John's, off the steamer Grampian.

OLYMPIC DOCKED TO-DAY.

The Olympic, with 5,500 troops, including the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th battalions of the First Brigade, First Division, entered the harbor at 11 o'clock this morning, docking an hour later.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 21.—Ontario units arriving on the Olympic were debarked and entrained in the following order: Third Battalion, Toronto; Fourth Battalion, Toronto; Third Tunnelling Company, Toronto; First Battalion, London; Second Battalion, Kingston; Third and Fourth Field Batteries and First Field Ambulance, Kingston.

Brigadier-General McCuaig, C.M.G., D.S.O. and bar, was senior officer aboard. He stated that the troops had a pleasant trip across, although a great deal of fog was encountered. The conduct of the men was exemplary. He said it was hoped to complete the embarkation of the First Division this week. The Second Division will be in England and the Fourth on the way to Bramshott.

The Rhyl Riot Investigation

Provost Sergeant Tells of Attempt to Head Off Attacks.

LIVERPOOL, April 21.—The court-martial inquiry into the Kinmel Camp riots was resumed Saturday, Private John Patrick Brennan, 6th Canadian Reserve Battalion, was charged with joining in the mutiny and with guilty conduct prejudicial to military discipline.

It was stated by Provost Sergeant Scott that on the night of March 5 the accused was the leader of a large crowd who entered the wet canteen of Camp 7 and directed the taking down of the counter and the rolling out of barrels of beer.

Cross-examined by Capt. Black, he said that the news of the intended raid reached the Sergeants' Mess in the afternoon. He went with four military police to protect the place. They had twenty other men ready to help, but they were under no orders. They were merely casual customers whom he had asked to help them out.

No Force Used.

Capt. Black— There were just an impromptu force?

"Yes."

Capt. Black—Just twenty men out of a camp of ten thousand?

"Yes."

"And how were they armed?"

"They were not armed at all."

"Was any force employed by you or other defenders to stop the mob?"

"We tried to hold the door."

"Did you apply any force to the men themselves?"

"No. It would have been of no use. They were too strong.

The witness added that there were two ladies serving at the counter. He had them removed into the dry canteen so as to be out of harm's way.

Dr. Percy Charlton, Canadian Field Artillery, said that when the canteen door was broken open Brennan, who was one of the first to enter, threw missiles inside.

Pte. Georg Murray also spoke of the accused as one of the leaders of the canteen raid. Accused read a statement denying taking part in the raid or meeting others.

One Case Dismissed.

The next case taken was that of Pte. Raymond Anselm Ingalls, 12th Reserve Battalion, charged with endeavouring to persuade Pte. Joseph H. Salesky, 3rd Reserve Battalion, to combine with others to resist lawful authority and to release him from the guard room.

Pte. Smith of the Canadian Reserve Cavalry Regiment, described how he was on duty at the guard-room when the accused was confined there and was asked by him to carry a note to one of his friends. The note was addressed to Joe Salesky. Witness took the letter and in his own hut read it. Then he showed it to friends, and on their advice it was burned in the stove.

On the prisoner's behalf objection was taken to this evidence, and it was urged that there was no evidence that the note was in the prisoner's handwriting or that it reached the men to whom it was to be addressed. This was upheld by the court and the case was dismissed.

The court-martial was adjourned until to-morrow.

FRANK JENNE Says:

"A Merchant in an Eastern city recently told a world of truth in an announcement he made regarding his valet service to gentlemen:

"I call for, press and deliver a Semi-ready suit for 50 cents. Other suits, not being as well tailored, require more careful pressing, and cost 25 cents extra," said he.

"That was his practical way of telling of the hidden or inside tailoring in a suit, which work is fully important as the foundation of a building. Semi-ready coats have from $2 to $5 more work inside—hidden behind the linings; shape-staying and strengthening that was never thought of by the ready-made clothing factories."

Best Wood Value in City

Wood Prices Will Likely Go Higher —Get Your Supply Now.

Provincial Assistant Fuel Administrator E. L. Cousins has expressed the opinion that anthracite coal will cost $2.50 a ton more this year than it did last. This is likely to produce higher prices for wood and will make wood all the more desirable as a spring and summer fuel. We have taken over the entire stock of wood in Wolstenholm's yard and will open an office there. At present we are bringing in wood by rail and later will use the water route. For the present we quote the following prices

Slabs, $4 per load.
Mixed wood, $10 a cord.
Hardwood, $11.50 a cord.

Wood is all of good quality, and cut in stove lengths. No better value anywhere. Telephone 86, Peterboro Planing Mill. 2d93

TIRED OF WORDS.

The local Government organ, while endeavouring to explain the conduct of Capt. J. H. Burnham in regard to titles, succeeds rather in making out a very bad case for the Government of which he is a member. The manner in which the heads of the Union Administration have dealt with this question of titles has been inexplicable to the country at large, and undoubtedly to its own private members. Last year Sir Robert Borden succeeded in averting action on a resolution condemning titles, although the feeling of the House on the matter had been thoroughly established, and in the present session the Acting Premier, Sir Thomas White, following similar tactics, has shelved the matter for the present and forced Government members to swallow their convictions and vote with the Government, as did Messrs. Nickle and Richardson, or else dodge the issue completely, as did Capt. Burnham. It is clear that the people of Canada are opposed to the whole system of titles, and they are heartily sick of the pussy-footed attitude of the Government towards the question. They are asking why, if Mr. Nickle and Mr. Burnham and the other members of the Government are so thoroughly opposed to titles, they cannot force the leaders of the Government to take action, instead of being content, session after session, to move resolutions that they know they will have to abandon when the voting stage is reached. Until they are prepared to do their manifest duty and vote according to their convictions, these members might just as well be silent. The electors are no longer to be deluded by words; and so far that is all these title-hating Unionists have been able to deliver.

THE RETURNING HEROES.

In answer to a complaint of a returned soldier who in commenting upon the reception to be given the men of the 2nd Battalion and other units when they return to Peterborough this week, remarked that there was nobody at the station to welcome him home but "a policeman, the station officials and two taxi-drivers," it may be pointed out that there are two special reasons why the people of Peterborough should do honour to the soldiers who are coming home during the next few days. In the first place some of these men were the first to leave Peterborough for overseas service, and their absence from home of four years and nine months entitles them to the heartiest of welcomes. And secondly, in attending to them a royal reception Peterborough will be doing honour to the gallant Ontario brigade of the 1st Division. The demobilization scheme does not give this city a chance to welcome a complete unit of the brigade, and so the return of the Peterborough detachment represents the only chance that the people of Peterborough have to express their admiration for the magnificent record of the Ontario fighting units in the first division—a record that includes practically all the fighting in which the Canadian corps has been engaged. In welcoming our own boys who were members of the 1st Brigade we will also be doing honour to the historic units with which they fought.

Incidentally it may be pointed out that no quota among the returning soldiers has a better record than the 133rd group of Peterborough men who are coming back with the 4th Battalion. No reception arrangements will be complete that do not include a public welcome for these soldiers who will go to Toronto for the demobilization of their unit before coming to Peterborough. As evidence of their fine work at the front, the fact that not one of these men is returning as a private may be given, although all enlisted as privates. Included in this fine detachment are such men as Capt. Alvin Morrow, M.C., who enlisted in the 15th Battalion, and who rose from the ranks, winning his commission as a lieutenant in France, and later earning promotion to the rank of captain and winning the Military Cross. For some time Capt. Morrow has commanded a company in the Mad Fourth. Then there is Sergt.-Major Ernie Abrahams, so far as is known the only Peterborough soldier to win three decorations in the war. Sergt.-Major Abrahams went overseas as a sergeant with the 93rd Battalion, was among the first to discard his stripes and went to France as a private in the 4th. Subsequently he climbed the ladder of promotion to his present rank and won the D.C.M. and the Military Medal and Bar—a grand record. Another is Lieutenant Douglas Loomis, M.C., another Peterborough boy who won his commission on the field and rose from the ranks, after reverting from the grade of sergeant to go to France. These men and their gallant comrades of the 4th should be tendered an enthusiastic welcome that will show them that the people of Peterborough are proudly aware of the record they have made.

TAG DAY REVELATIONS.

A tag day campaign such as that conducted by the Great War Veterans' Association on Saturday furnishes rich food for the student of human nature, and the revelations incidental to an appeal of this kind are not always of a kind to compel admiration. The experiences of some of the canvassers on Saturday show that Peterborough, however much we hate to admit the fact, has some very mean and some very impolite people, although, thank goodness, their number is buried in the great mass of citizens who gave cheerfully and liberally, recognizing the merit of the cause and anxious to help. Of the first class a few examples show just what sort of a place this would be if such people were in the majority. One well-dressed man pulled a handful of silver out of his pocket, turned it over carefully in search of a five-cent piece, failed to find one, and, shaking his head, put the coins carefully back into his pocket. Five cents was the limit of his appreciation of the services of men who had fought for years to keep this country safe from the Hun, and not having the amount in change, he declined to make a contribution. That was one sample.

Here is another:

A woman leading a little girl by the hand approached one of the canvassers and asked if she might have two tags. They were turned over to her, and she said to the child: "Put the money in the box, dearie." The youngster carefully deposited in the collection box — one Canadian cent. Her contribution would not pay for the two tags she took.

Those were two of the mean kind. There were others who were not only mean but discourteous, snapping their refusal in a manner that was far from pleasant to the canvasser, whether a war veteran or one of the ladies who were helping in the campaign. Politeness costs nothing, and the attitude of some of our people on Saturday was something of which we cannot feel proud. It was not anticipated that every one should be able or anxious to contribute, but it was surely not too much to expect that the men who had done their bit overseas and the women who were assisting them in their drive would be treated with ordinary courtesy by every one. It is unfortunate that such was not the case, and that Saturday's campaign showed that there are residents of Peterborough whose manners are distinctly in need of repair.

The people as a whole, we are glad to say, splendidly endorsed the campaign, and the total of nearly $1,300 raised will place the relief fund of the Great War Veterans' Association in good condition to meet the demands that the present unemployment situation are sure to cause to be made upon it during the coming months.

WAGES OF TRAIN MEN.

Within a few hours there will come an announcement that new wage increases for railroad train men amounting to $65,000,000 annually, have been granted by the Railroad Administration. These new increases will bring the total annual payroll of the railroads to the stupendous figure figure of $3,000,000,000. Wage increases granted by the Government amount to $910,000,000. Adding the increases under private ownership, the total wage addition amounts to $1,260,000,000. Increased revenues have yielded only $1,100,000,000.

If, as Washington asserts, there will be no increase in passenger or freight rates, then the money needed by the railroads will have to be extracted from the elastic "operating expenses" fund, which will obtain the necessary money from the revolving fund of $500,000,000 provided by Congress a year ago, and the additional $750,000,000 which the Railroad Administration hopes to obtain from Congress when it meets in special session.

The newest wage increase in made in the face of grave deficits in railroad earnings, and vastly augmented operating expenses. The railroad coal bill now totals $470,000,000 annually as against $220,000,000 before the war. The increase in the cost of steel products is more than $200,000,000. The aggregate increase in the cost of materials total $500,000,000 a year.

Wages to railroad employees have more than doubled in the last nine years. In 1917 the payroll was $1,750,000,000; to-day it is $910,000,000 greater. The total wage increases during the last three years amount to about $600 a man. The total war advance in wages on English railways has been $460,000,000, an average of $570 for 700,000 employees. The advances granted to the 400,000 memgers of the four brotherhoods amount to $295,000,000; or $725 a man. The advance to employees outside of the brotherhood, numbering 1,700,000, has been $965,000,000, or $570 a man.

Annual earnings of all employees have risen from $673 per man in 1910 to $1,460 this year. Train crews' pay advanced from $993 a man in 1910 to $2,020 this year. Wages of other than train service men advanced from $599 in 1910 to $1,325 this year.

This paper is ever anxious to help the wage earner. Every thinking employer coincides with the view that the better the pay the better the service. The safety of millions of human beings depends upon railroad employees. They should receive the maximum rate of wages. They should receive the best treatment ,that their work may be of maximum quality.

BUT—where and when is to be the end of the wage increase? What is to be the limit? How heavily can the Government assess the ultimate consumer with safety?

BUT—how are the railroads to stand the financial strain after Government control ends? And who will pay the deficit?

BUT—what is to prevent organized labor in other industries from following the example of the railroad men? And what is to be the end of it all?

Sooner or later a halt must be called somewhere, and the sooner that halt comes the better for the country at large, for owners of railroad securities, for labor itself, which must realize that it cannot eat the pudding and still retain possession. —New York Comercial.

MR. BRADLEY MOWRY HOME FROM MEXICO.

After visiting friends in Brantford, he expects to return to Mexico.

PEACE TREATY NOT READY NEXT FRIDAY.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, April 21.—Grave doubts were expressed to-day whether the perfected Peace Treaty would be presented, to the German representatives on Friday. While the treaty will be communicated to them in substance, it was said in well-informed quarters that it would be physically impossible to prepare the document in its complete, final form in the four days remaining.

Educational training carried on in many of the stores throughout the country has been the means of raising the saleswoman's salary from $3 a week to as high as $15 in some instances.

CANADA'S Music Week

APRIL 27 TO 29

Canada to Commemorate Peace With a Music Week

Music this Year as never before means Joy and Gladness

Music is the art that is close to the life of every citizen. Music is the language that everybody can understand. Music is the force that charms and inspires, that soothes and entertains as nothing else on the earth can do.

It was music, more than anything else (except perhaps religion), that helped us to bear the burden of those anxious times now happily past, when the horrors of war beset the nation.

Now comes Canada's National Music Week to celebrate the triumph of music, and to impress upon all people the great value of music as an intimate part of life every day in the year.

Is there enough music in your home? Are your evening hours filled with the enjoyment that music brings? Are your children being educated in music—taught to appreciate the finer things in music and to endow themselves with the refinement that always comes from the study of good music.

Celebrate your Easter by bringing music into your home. Let music increase your joy of living. Make Easter week truly a "music week" in your household

Edgar D. Pouch Tells of Surprising Cheapness of German Labour.

NEW YORK.—The startling cheapness of German labor as compared with labor in America and France impressed Edgar D. Pounch of E. D. Pouch & Co., bond brokers, 14 Wall Street, who has returned to New York after four months abroad as a Y.M.C.A. worker. In February and March he was assisting regional director of the "Y" in the territory held by the American Army of Occupation.

Mr. Pounch said that as his organization was building huts his work brought him into close touch with labor conditions. The common rate for even a skilled mechanic was 1 mark an hour, 9 cents in good money, according to present values. Garage mechanics, keeping flocks of trucks in repair, worked eagerly for 9 cents an hour, and would keep it up for eight or ten more hours—whatever the employer asked.

"This was the more surprising to me," said Mr. Pouch, "because of the scarcity of German men, although returned soldiers were drifting into the Coblenz district every day. It brought home to me the fact that the Germans are accustomed to living on very little, and I couldn't help but think that American labor would have its breath taken away if after peace was signed the Germans got hold of all the raw material they need for their manufactures.

"The building contracts we made were carried out swiftly. The price at which we bought partly finished portable huts in Deusseldorf made me suspect that labor costs nearly nothing in that city. The labor market was so full that our buildings were always finished in the stipulated time, which was in marked contrast with our experiences in France.

"A German contractor who put up a large hut for us in Coblenz agreed to a big penalty for failure to finish it on a specified day and a small bonus if he finished it before that day. He received a two days' bonus. This hut by the way, stands on the lawn right in front of the Kaiser's palace at Coblenz; the restaurant seats 500 soldiers at once.

"The American army has fixed prices for anything it requires, and to them the Y.M.C.A., Red Cross and other organizations conform, so everybody is happy.

"I passed a month with the Rainbow Division (Forty-second' north of Coblenz and found that the soldiers are not interested in politics or anything else except "When do we go home?' The army shedule of the order in which the divisions will leave has been published everywhere and is being adhered to. So the boys are able to write home and tell the folks about when to expect them.

"Every soldier is billeted under a roof. I think the Rainbows had the best luck, for the larger cities and summer hotels are in teterritory. Each soldier has a whole bed to himself, and in many cases a whole room.

Temple Songsters Gave a Concert

Interesting Programme Was Provided—Large Attendance

The Temple Songster Concert Friday night was a great success, every item on the programme receiving applause. Their singing was very well balanced, reflecting great credit on their leader. Among the pieces that were interesting was the recitation given by Songster L. White, "Are All the Children In," depicting a fireside scene. The part of the old man was taken by H. Parnel, the old lady by Miss L. White, who certainly was effective in her talk. At finish Miss Elsie Northcott entered as an angel singing "No Burdens Yonder." The finale piece entitled, "Challenge of the Cross," was very impressive and called forth a great deal of applause in which Miss Mary Yost excelled herself as the leading character. On the whole the Temple Songsters proved themselves beyond doubt able to put on good and talented concerts, instrumental and otherwise.

Increasing Use of Motor Truck

The motor truck has not only shown its ability to cut transportation costs when used on reasonably good roads, but is demonstrating its ability to cut down the cost of building the good roads which are a vital necessity, if the public is to get the full benefit of the transportation savings which the truck makes possible, says the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.

Reports from almost every section of the United States tell of the increasing use of the truck in highway construction. It is universally found that the motor truck is wellnigh indispensible. Not only has the truck proved more economical in the hauling of heavy road building materials, but it has strikingly shown its ability to speed up the work to a point that would be impossible without it. Canada's road building program has been practically at a standstill during the war and realizing this, provincial and county highway builders should use every labor and time saving device known to make-up for lost time.

275,000 U. S. TROOPS RETURN THIS MONTH.

200,000 Rate After May, Says Baker.

PARIS.—American troops to the number of 275,000 are returning to the United States from Europe during the month, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, said on his arrival in Paris from Brest. In May, he added, the number will fall to 250,000 because of lack of transports, but in June the number probably will rise to 300,000, which will be maintained as the monthly rate until all of the 1,400,000 men still here are returned.

Woman Occupies Mayor's Chair

Establishes a Precedent in Canadian Municipal History.

Special to the Examiner:

CALGARY, April 21.—For the first time in the history of Canadian municipalities, a woman has occupied the Mayor's chair. Ald. Mrs. Gale, in the brief absence of Mayor Marshall from the Council Chamber, accepted the duties of the office of acting Mayor. Ald. Gale is the first woman in Canada to be elected to the office of alderman as member of a municipal body, and has served for a year and a half. She was, at a recent meeting of the City Council, appointed acting Mayor for the ensuing three months, which, according to custom governing acting mayors, will place on her the responsibility of taking over the duties of Mayor in any absence of the chief magistrate from the city.

EASTER IN THE CHURCHES

Memorial Windows Unveiled in St. George's Church—Murray Street Baptist Church Honours Memory of Fallen Heroes.

Easter Sunday was fittingly observed in the churches in the city by the customary special services and special music.

The second battle of Ypres was commemorated by the attendance of the Great War Veterans at St. Peter's Cathedral at the 10.30 service. Pontifical mass was sung by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien. In his sermon the Bishop referred to the festival of the day, and later welcomed the Veterans to the church. His Lordship dwelt upon the sacrifices the men had made in going overseas, many never to return.

AT GEORGE STREET.

The Easter services at George Street Methodist Church yesterday will long be remembered by both the members of the church and the large number of visitors who were present. The music rendered by the choir throughout the day was excellent. There is perhaps no music so full of praise, thanksgiving and joy as that of Easter, and when it is presented as it was by the George Street choir yesterday, it enthuses its auditors with a deep and reverent feeling.

At the evening service Rev. A. J. Thomas gave a brief address on "Three Gardens of the Bible."

The first garden mentioned in the Bible is the Garden of Eden. Here it was that the Lord planted the garden and put man there. It is a garden of Babylonia, the most beautiful part of the old world. In this garden was the first appearance of sin. It was here that man, for the first time, came face to face with the divine law, and it was here that man, for the first time, broke the commandments of God. Since that incident in the Garden of Eden sin, with serpentile power, has robbed men of his best and purest.

The Second Garden.

The second garden which the speaker referred to was the Garden of Gethsemane, in the valley of the river Hebron. Here beneath the olives and amid the fragrance of the flowers, Jesus sought communion with God. He left His disciples behind and went forward to talk with His Father alone. Three times He went and prayed for strength to uphold Him through the agonies He was feeling. So deeply did He taste of the cup of bitterness that huge drops stood on His brow like drops of blood. But Jesus' prayer was, "Not as I will but as Thou wilt, O Father." And God gave Jesus the strength which He sought. The Garden of Gethsemane declares unto the world the awfulness of sin. It was because of the sin of the world that Jesus suffered. The Garden of Gethsemane declares unto us the love that God bears to men, for He gave His only Son, a sacrifice for sin, from the Garden of Gethsemane.

The Third Garden.

The third garden was that of Joseph of Arimathea. This was a beautiful garden, blessed with all the beauties of nature. In the midst of the beautiful trees and flowers was a tomb where Joseph wished to be buried. But Joseph was a secret disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ, and, receiving the body of his Lord from the cross, took it and, wrapping it in fine linen, placed it on one of the shelves of his own tomb, and a huge stone was rolled against the mouth of the tomb. But even after His death the enemies of Jesus were afraid of His influence, and placed the Roman seal on the rock at the door of the tomb and stationed a Roman guardian in front of it. But in spite of their efforts the enemies of Jesus could not prevent Him from rising from the tomb. An angel from heaven rolled the stone away, and Jesus came out with all His glory. This is the sublime fact which we commemorate at Easter, and if is this vision that fills our souls with glorious praise. The resurrection is a symbol of immortality.

Concluding Remarks.

The truth of the Garden of Eden fills us with despair. That of Gethsemane with doubts as to the willingness and power of God to save. But the truth of the Garden of Joseph of Arimethea fills us with faith and hope and joy. Let us all resist evil and do good to hasten the glorious day when the world is one great garden filled with the fragrance of the flowers of truth and righteousness.

Special Services.

In St. John's church yesterday, the Rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, was assisted at the services by Rev. A. W. MacKenzie of Lakefield.

At Murray Street.

At the Murray street Baptist church, a number of candidates were baptized in the morning and at the evening service a special memorial service honoring the memory of Fred Stanley, Joseph Horton, John Ellam, Arthur Lewis and George Collins was conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb.

Unveiled Window.

At St. George's church during the evening service the memorial window presented by the G.W.V.A. was unveiled. The first lesson was read by Lt.-Col. J. Mills and the second by Mr. S. Whatley, secretary of the Great War Veterans.

"Value of Health."

At Trinity Methodist church during the morning service a large class was received into membership. At a meeting for men, Dr. F. C. Neal gave an address on "The Value of Health," to a large assembly at 3 o'clock.

MURRAY STREET CHURCH.

The special half-yearly offering for the building fund of Murray Street Baptist Church was taken yesterday, and the sum of $1,039.00 was offered besides the regular offering.

Thirteen candidates were baptized at the morning service, among whom were several young men and women from the senior classes of the Sunday School.

Memorial Service.

A memorial service was held in the evening in memory of those from the church who have fallen on the field of battle since the last memorial service, and friends and relatives of the honoured soldiers were present in large numbers. They are: Fred. Stanley, Joseph Horton, John Ellam, Arthur Lewis, George Collins.

The text was taken from the eighth verse of the 14th chapter of Romans: "Whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's."

Dr. Edward Wood, vice-president of the Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, gave a brief address in honour of the heroic dead.

Musical Programme.

Solo—"Her Son" (Bond), Miss Florence Scott.

Duett—"He did not die in vain," Miss Ida Lynn and Mr. O. Steer.

The anthem by the choir, "He is Risen," was beautifully rendered and was most suitable to the occasion.

St. George's Day National Service

Bishop of Ottawa Will Visit Peterboro.

The arrangements for the National Service on St. George's Day, the 23rd inst., are now almost complete. The service will be held in St. John's Church at 8 p.m. The preacher will be the Bishop of Ottawa. Peterboro is lucky in having such a prelate, for he is one of the busiest bishopps in Canada. He is chairman of the War Service Commission of the English Church in Canada. He is also Chairman of the Federal War Service Commission of the Anglican, Presbyterian, Methodist and Bapsists of Canada. He is also a member of several other war commissions. Yet, notwithstanding all this, he finds time to come and preach the National Sermon on St. George's Day in Peterboro.

The musical part of the service will be under the direction of Mr. Devey. He has organized a special choir of 120 voices for this great service.

It may be mentioned that the red roses will be sold in the streets of the city on Tuesday and Wednesday as on former St. George's Days, the proceeds will be given in aid of St. George's Mission in the South end, as on former such occasions.

London is to have a clubhouse for Canadian soldiers that will be under the direction of the Catholic Women's League of England.

Tells of Japanese Atrocities in Corea

Missionary Writes of Seeing Soldiers Beat Women.

SAN FRANCISCO,— Incidents of the Corean revolution are described by Dr. George S. McCune, a Presbyterian missionary at Sen Sen, Corea, in a letter printed in the current issue of The Continent, a Presbyterian weekly.

The latter was entrusted to a returning traveller, to be mailed to Chicago from Canada, "if it was not taken from her as she left Corea," Dr. McCune wrote. Dr. McCune described scenes he said he and other missionaries witnessed at Sen Sen between March 8 and 10.

Dr. McCune told of seeing three Japanese soldiers seize a woman, "throw her down, kick her and strike her on the head with their guns. With a final kick they leave this woman of culture and refined on the street, bleeding, attacked as she was going about her own business quietly.

"Five soldiers came up to the North church and opened the keeper's house. They went in and knocked things about with their guns, broke a lamp and several dishes, threw down the chests and scattered their clothes. They demanded that the door of the church gate be opened. The police had ordered it to be closed just a little before. When the young man ventured to say so they struck him with a gun, the third stroke knocking him to the ground.

"His mother went over to see him and she was thrown back and struck to the ground with the bayoneted gun. The blood spurted out of her body, and with a final kick they turned to the husband and father. They slit one of his ears up with the bayonet and left him bruised from head to foot. All of these had care in our hospital near by.

"Resistance means sure death and nothing gained. Why die? 'Better live and await God's day of venegance,' was the comment I heard when asked how they could endure it without resisting.

"Among many others who have been seized, their clothes torn and their bodies beaten, one was an old man walking along the side of the stream that flows through Sen Sen. Three soldiers grabbed him, threw him about and knocked him over the ten foot high embankment down into the stream."

STICKNEY MOTORS LIMITED

is indorsed by the citizens. However, he stipulates that the plant will be in complete operation by July 1st, 1920.

"I am very anxious to go to work," was Mr. Stickney's expression, and members of the committee remarked that there should be no difficulty in effecting an agreement on the terms suggested.

Has Good Reputation

Ald. Hamilton stated that he had known the Stickney engine for years. The American company had made first class goods and from what he knew of the firm it was in good shape. This gasoline engine has had a wide sale in western Canada, where it attained popularity because it did not freeze up like many others.

"It is a good cold weather engine," Mr. Stickney explained, "and that is a special advantage for use west of the Great Lakes where it is better known than in the east. The engine was made at St. Paul, Minnesota, but the factory closed down during the war and is now preparing to step inti line with the reconstruction movement, and are coming into Canada.

Mr. Gordon stated today that Mr. Stickney has been in Detroit recently, arranging certain details of his local prospect. "You can say that we are prepared to go ahead if the city accepts the agreement we discussed with them," Mr. Gordon commented today.

It may be added that all three branches of the Stickney Motors Limited are exceptionally desirable manufacturies. Motor trucks, small tractors and gasoline engines are branches of the great motor industry that is discovering new possibilities and making new growths almost every day. By these accretions it has become one of the foremost industries of the present day. If Mr. Stickney's plans materialize, the new company should be potentially worthy of a first rank here, and in its actuality a fine addition to the city's manufacturing group.

Hold Tailor Made "Adonis" of Nineteen as Daring Burglar

Gorgeously Garbed Youth Identified as Bandit by Alleged Victims in Court.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Whether all robberies by the "tailor made highwayman" were halted with the arrest of George Eckert, nineteen years old, of No. 323 East Twenty-ninth street, is the matter for the police and five reputable witnesses to decide. They are the only ones thus far found who have seen the thieving Adonis in operation, and in the West Side Court they were of the opinion that the $10,000 bail in which Eckert was held would halt the most remarkable and best dressed campaign of brigandry New York has known in recent years.

Eckert who is built on the lines now affected by magazine clothing advertisements, was attired in a Prince Albert coat, white silk shirt, afternoon make up, from spats to wite puff cravat. It could be seen that he detested the police with their rough city ways, and more than any other Detective Sergeant Thomas Brady who had brought this satorial vision to the West Fifty-seventh street station in a manner which might be termed feet up.

The detective said that Eckert is the most successful man in his line New York has known in years, and that his technique is a cross between the "gentleman burglar" and the "slusher." The former type "burgle" painlessly, and the latter contingent draw their salaries from the pockets of persons who are dizzy with stimulants.

Detective Brady said that he had seen Eckert in his glorious make-up at the corner of Eight avenue and Forty-second street, and had after entering a saloon came forth listing heavily to port and mumbling incoherently. He said that Eckert was after him on the high speed, and that as soon as he felt hands going through his clothing he drew a revolver and told Eckert a lot of things he had not suspected.

Among the witnesses who identified Eckert as the "tailor made" burglar was Emil Model, clerk of the United Cigar store which was robbed three weeks ago. He told the court that Eckert undoubtedly exercised hypnotic powers, for when the store was robbed three men took part in the robbery and did Eckert's bidding in a sort of dazed silence.

"The three men came in first and stood directly in front of the counter," said Model, "and when Eckert came to the door and said 'Gentlemen do your duty,' they all reached into hip pockets and brought forth revolvers. They looked as if they were dead, except for their movements."

Model said that Eckert took forty dollars from the cash drawer at No. 790 Ninth avenue, and after getting about fifty dollars worth of coupons ordered the men to put the guns away and then to "Forward March," and they all fied up stupidly with him behind.

"They were the queerest lot I ever saw," said Model.

Among the witnesses in court who identified Eckert as the man who had held them up at various points about the city, were Cyril Modonira, of Yonkers; Francis Stair, of No. 540 West 148th street; Henry Hamilton, of No. 836 Seventh avenue, and Frederick Morrison, of No. 695 Tenth avenue.

NEW YORK MUSIC TEACHER

Says "Vinol Cures Chronic Coughs"

New York City, 121 Nicholas Ave., "I teach piano and singing and when suffering from chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, I use Vinol as I find it cures when other remedies fail."—Henry Albers.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such conditions is because it is a constitutional remedy containing beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates. It strengthens and revitalizes the whole system and assists nature to expel the disease.

We know of many such cases.

MARY PICKFORD HERE AGAIN

"Amarilly of Clothesline Alley" at the Empire To-day and To-morrow.

Amarilly lives in Clothes Line Alley, in a typical tenement home with her jolly, tender-hearted Irish mother and her small brothers, who are messenger and newsboys. Amarilly is a girl "who makes 'em stand around," as her mother expresses it. She takes matters in her own hands and manages them so successfully that everything comes out as it should.

Amarilly is a scrub girl at a theatre and her fiance Terry McGowan, is the pride of the alley and the bartender at the Midway saloon, though he never took a drink.

Gordon Phillips, a wealthy young dilettante on a slumming party, is injured in a brawl and Amarilly takes him home and nurses him, which brings on a quarrel with the jealous Terry. After Gordon's recovery Amarilly is given steady employment cleaning up his studio, and when scarlet fever invades Amarilly's little household she is given a temporary home with Mrs. Phillips.

After the quarantine is lifhted Mrs. Phillips pompously receives Amarilly's mother, and the attempt to mix oil and water, while resulting in extremely humorous scenes, proves conclusively to wise little Amarilly that Clothes Line Alley and the Upper Crust will never get along together. Terry, meanwhile, is shot during a Tong War in Chinatown and is near death, which brings to Amarilly a realization of her love for him, and when Gordon proposes marriage his offer is declined. Terry recovers to marry Amarilly, and Gordon quite properly finds happiness with a little butterfly of his own set. See Mary Pickford at the Empire today and tomorrow.

Our Training Increases Your Earning Capacity

It is the purpose of this school to train young men and women for positions of trust and responsibility in the world of business. Our courses in practical business methods are short cuts to good positions for our students.

For young women, there has developed in recent years a new field of opportunity in business life. The demand for women trained as calculator operators greatly exceeds the supply. This influenced us to add to our teaching equipment a battery of

Burrough's Calculators

With these machines, we are able to prepare young women for important work in business offices of the country, where thousands of Burroughs are in use for figuring interest, making extensions on invoices, checking invoices, figuring inventories and making the thousands of computations necessary in the average office.

This work is especially adaptable to women because the machine has taken much of the drudgery from figure work. From six to eight weeks of training is required to fit the average woman for this work.

Probably in no other line of endeavor is the earning capacity of women graduates so large in comparison to the length of training.

Investigate the possibilitels of our courses today.

MEDICINE HAT HAS BIG PROGRAMME FOR PLANTING OF TREES

Peterboro Could Profit by Taking a Leaf From Western City's Scheme —Will Distribute 20,000 Trees in Five Years.

The Horticultural Society of Medicine Hat co-operating with the city's Parks department has prepared a programme for the distribution of 20,000 shade trees during the next five years. It is an ambitious scheme, undertaken for the purpose of making Medicine Hat the garden city of the west. It is also planned to encourage the planting of hedges for which 500 caragana bushes have already been secured for distribution to citizens.

"The idea is," said Mayor Brown, in making the announcement of the city's programme "to encourage the growth of flowers, shrubs, hedges and trees in the city. To add to this the citizens are asked to submit suggestions as to what is the most suitable flower that could be adopted as Medicine Hat's flower. When a flower is decided upon, the Horticultural Society will procure quantities of the seed, which will be distributed amongst the citizens. The whole programme, although it will have a large effect in beautifying the city, will not lead to any great expense. The various flowers shrubs etc, with will first be tested by the parks department and by that means only those that experience has shown will thrive here will be distributed."

Local Need

Medicine Hat's scheme should be of interest to Peterboro. For several years the Council has permitted the removal of trees without any compensating policy of replacement. Some of them were dead and decaying, others had been planted too closely and doubtless required thinning out to allow adjacent trees to reach full growth. If for every tree thus removed there had been another planted on streets that are bare of shade the city would be actually improving or at least increasing its natural beauty, but it may be plainly stated that Peterboro is being despoiled of its shade trees. Many of them have been seriously injured by electric wires and electric linemen. The wires were strung through tops branches and in weather particularly were electrocuted by the currents they intercepted. Linemen have cut away branches, deforming the trees and in some cases destroying them. It seems hopeless to refer to this lamentable condition which seems no person's business, for this phase of beautifying the city and of protecting its trees was long advocated by the late F. R. Yokome, editor of the Examiner, who protested time and again against the city's indifference to the trees that had been planted by a former generation and had become a valuable inherjatnce.

It is well to consider the splendid programme to which Medicine Hat has given its approval as a reminder of the laxity that prevails in Peterboro, not only on the part of the Council but of the citizens as a whole. It might be suggested to the Horticultural Socley that this is an opportunity and a duty they should accept. The City Council by retaining the control of the planting of the parks this year has practically committed itself to a policy that may be easily broadened and developed into management by a Parks Commission, which without undue expense could render a great service to the city and its people.

Apartment Houses in Peterboro Fill a Very Necessary Place in City

It is Estimated That at Least One Hundred Homes Have Sought Refuge in Apartment Houses—Duplex Houses Find Favour Among a Few.

One element which has gone far towards easing the housing proposition in the city, which problem is admitted to be acute, is the rapid strides that have been made in building apartments and in reconstructing old buildings into modern apartments. Through this medium about one hundred families have escaped the horrors of house hunting and the probability of being homeless. Perhaps the largest apartment yet constructed is the Charlbond Apartment, the old Snowden House, at 190 Charlotte Street, which the Braund brothers have rebuilt into twenty-four apartments, varying in size from one suitable for a family of four to those constructed for bachelor apartments. The tenants in this include Mr. Wm. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Morphet, Mrs. H. F. Wood, Mr. Paul Sarlotis, Mrs. H. Batten, and Mrs. Percy Betrand, who have an apartment together, Mr. Oxley, Miss Mary Smith, Mr. W. J. Braund, Mr. H. Simmons, Mr D. B. MacLean, Mr. and Mrs. John Birnie, Mrs. Van Every, Mr. A. E. Lucas, Mr. Bell, Mr. J. A. O'Brien, Mr. Frank O'Connor and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grahame.

The Crown Building.

The Crown Apartments owned by Mr. W. H. Hill, and situated on the corner of Hunter and Water Streets, house eight families at present, and will in the near future be enlarged. The tenants in these include Mr. C. R. Widdifield, Miss Mary Stratton and Mr. D. B. Nichols.

Parkview Apartments, facing the Armouries and Central Park, are said to be the only ones which have all the separate house conveniences, including separate front and back gardens, separate entrances and halls, house four families, namely, the owner, Mrs. Retta Reid, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stewart and Mr. R. Hutchison.

By reconstructing three houses on Simcoe Street, just east of Park, Mr. R. Sheehy has made six modern apartments, in which the tenants at present are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Park, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Johns, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Allison, Mrs. Herbison, and Miss M. Rogers.

The Goodwill Building.

The Goodwill Apartments provide homes for seven families at 375 Water Street, including Mr. W. S. Howson, Miss Mary Davidson, Mrs. R. F. Storey, Mr. H. M. Spofford, Mr. G. C. Taylor, Mr. James Bick, and Miss Jean Buck, Miss Stella Bennet and Miss Maud Runnings, the latter three who share an apartment.

The Meldrum Apartments, also on Water Street, accommodate four families, including Mr. R. P. Watt, Mr. Middleton and Mr. MacKay.

In addition to these apartments, the Nova Scotia Bank Building upstairs has been transformed into a number of apartments, in which Mr. J. E. H. Vanstone and Mr. Johnson reside.

Mr. Stevens some time ago remodelled his home on George Street into several apartments.

Duplex Houses.

Another feature contributory to supplying extra housing accommodation is the turning of houses into duplex houses. Perhaps the first in the city to fall into the idea was Mr. W. H. Meldrum, who turned his home at 59 McDonnel Street into two parts, and shares it at present with Mr. W. J. Kent, druggist. The late Mr. J. C. Shook followed in line and remodelled his home, 176 McDonnel Street, into two homes, occupying one himself and the other is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Gilman. Mr. Albert Stratton remodelled his home into two splendid apartments, one of which is occupied by himself, the other by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson.

No Big Buildings.

Outside of all the buildings mentioned, there are several splendidly constructed apartments and duplex homes, but as yet no builder has launched upon an apartment house similar to those being built in the bigger cities, built on the "L" shaped plan, and having a courtyard in the centre. The chief drawback to the local apartment houses, especially buildings that have been reconstructed, is the number of "blind" or dark rooms they contain.

Positions For Returned Men

A Few Vacancies on the Trent Canal.

The local branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission has received a list of men required as employees in the outside civil service on canals throughout the Dominion.

The list includes as many as 175 positions, in all branches of the outside service, now opening up. The list, which is too long to insert in the papers, can be consulted at the office of the local branch, City Building.

On the Trent Canals, and at and about Peterborough, are required two assistant lockmasters, one doreman of repairs, and one cook, on dredge. Applicants can see Mr. Killaly, at the Canal Office, Bank of Commerce Building, city.

In connection with the above, it may be noted, that as the positions are in the civil service, men must fill in the application for that service.

"The Better 'Ole" at the Grand Friday and Saturday

It is an accepted truism in the theatre that character actresses are recruited from the ranks of feminine players who have found the road to the playing of heroines beset with obstacles, and have turned aside to the less profitable branch of acting. Why a character player should receive less than players of straight parts is not clarified by reasoning, yet it is true though quite beside the article. The fact is that nearly every young actress sets her ambition for other roles than character parts, and because of this it is rather singular to encounter a pretty young woman who is so set upon playing them that it is her main ambition, which aim she stands good opportunity to gain if her enthusiasm and energy is worth what such qualities are appraised. The young lady in question is Ethel Steel, who so capably plays the French girl in the "billets scene" of "The Better 'Ole," at the Grand Opera House Friday and Saturday, Matine Saturday.

Miss Steel's earliest memories of the theatre date back to the time when in Pittsburg she saw Maude Adams playing the laundry slavey in the one act piece, "'Op O' Me Thumb," as intrusive a characterization as Miss Adams ever played. And the young enthusiast who had come to Alleghany College from her native town of Punzsutawney, decided then and there that she would be a character actress. After finishing her course at the Alleghany, she visited her brother in Denver, and while there she met Ruby De Remer, now a star of the screen, to whom she confided her ambitions, and in whose company she went to New York to seek her career on the stage.

Reasoning that she as a neophyte needed first to gain stage poise, she sought to gain the most perfect means by going into the chorus, and as the best was none too good for her, she braved the manager of the next chorus in the world, Florenz Ziegfeld, who yielded to her enthusiastic importunings and gave her a place in the Follies. A year with that organization, and she obtained a role with "The Grass Widow," and a character role with "The Red Clock," which gave her her real opportunity. Her present role gives her few chances for real characterization, but some day this Punzsutawney maid will find such a perfect one as is Maude Fulton's "The Brat," which is the zenith of Miss Steel's ambitions.

"THE ROSARY"

Many homes are being wrecked in this city because the husband does not appreciate the sincere love of a good wife. The divorce courts tell this tale every day. This state of affairs is vividly and graphically shown in "The Rosary," which will be the attraction at The Grand Opera House on Thursday, April 24. This modern play is true to life in every particular. It is a drama showing the influence of thought on the men and women of the time. The theme is one that has commanded the thoughts of the best thinkers of the time, and is one that compels the interest of all thinking people. But while it is one to compel thought, it is also one that fascinates and interests. It is redolent of unctuous humor and offers comedy of the best type.

The story deals with a man who tries to wreck the home and happiness of the woman he failed to win. His rival is made to look with suspicion upon the wife, and the home is near to wreck when Father Kelly, a lovable priest with good, common sense and a high sense of humour enters the story and brings order out of chaos, and happiness to take the place of desolation. Messrs. Rowland & Clifford, who present this human and intensely interesting phase of modern life have provided a select company of trained players, including Oscar O'Shea, as Father Kelly, and a most beautiful production.

CALLS FOR ABOLITION OF ALL PEW RENTS.

Rev. Dr. Chown's Proposal to Mark the Peace Celebration.

"Pew rent in a house of fellowship is out of place. If they were once timely, they are now anachronism. They are not democratic. They are a barrier to the returning soldier.

"Is it not true that the state of mind which resensts the inconvenience of permitting strangers to occupy pews or seats in common with us is a proof that we are unfitted for the service of the people?"

So runs the appeal printed in the Methodist Church organs by Rev. Dr. Chown, general superintendent, who asks that the world peace be marked by Canadian Methodists by the abolition of all pew rents.

Big Boom In Windsor

Great Factory Building Prospect in Border Towns.

WINDSOR, April 21.— More than $12,000,000 will be spent this year in building factories and residential property in Windsor and the neighbouring border municipalities, it is estimated by local contractors.

The General Motors Corporation is ready to invest $6,000,000 in a plant to be built at Walkerville; Maxwell Motors Co., $1,000,000; Champion Spark Plug Co., $500,000, and the Auto [illegible] Co., $200,000, while the Canadian Steel Corporation is progressing steadily with its $40,000,000 plant at Ojibway. More than fifty other American companies are negotiating with the Border Chamber of Commerce for factory sites here and in Walkerville.

Windsor and adjacent municipalities are finding no difficulty in inducing new industries to locate on the Canadian banks of the Detroit river. The six and one-half per cent. preferential tariff which Great Britain has put into effect to assist her Dominions in expanding their overseas business, is the big bait that is drawing American manufacturers to the border cities of Ontario.

Council Fail to Reach a Solution

The Situation Involving Italy Has Reached a Critical Phase.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, April 21. — The Italian Parliament, which was to have met on Wednesday, will not convene until May 6th, according to the despatches from Rome. The postponement has evidently been caused by the failure of the council of four to reach any solution of the problem raised by Italy's claim to Fiume and the Dalmation coast.

Despatches from Paris indicate that the situation caused by Italy's unyielding attitude has reached a critical stage. The news from the Peace Conference on Sunday showed that the representatives of Great Britain and France and Italy, three nations signatory to the Treaty of London, framed in 1915, before the entry of Italy into the war on the side of the entente, were in conference, and that President Wilson was not present.

It is also announced that he would not be present when the conference was re-opened to-day.

Widow Receives Pension Notice

From Imperial Authorities — Matter Will Be Taken Up.

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, April 21.—After being notified by the British War Office on November 9th, 1917, that her husband, Reg. No. 1818, Private E. Muff, had been killed in France on September 14th, 1917, Mrs. C. Muff has waited until now before receiving any advice concerning an Imperial widow pension. Since her husband's death she only received his back pay, $11.25. "This matter has been waiting far too long already," said Secretary Gustar to-day, "but I am satisfied that Mrs. Muff will soon be receiving the widow's pension, which she most certainly is entitled to."

PLAN RECEPTION FOR 2ND BATTALION RETURNING SOON

The Reception Committee of the Council will discuss to-night what share they will take in the reception of the 2nd Battalion, which is expected home this week. It will be mustered out at Kingston, but according to the information now available, about twenty Peterborough men will be sent home in a special coach. A deep and abiding sentiment attaches to the old 2nd Battalion which received Peterborough's first company of volunteers. Its homecoming is therefore the closing incident of the long eventful chapter of the battalion's exploits. Many boys have come home since January, welcomed only by their relatives and immediate friends. They deserved the warmest greeting the city could have given them, but there seems to be an understanding that the official welcome is being deferred until one of the big holidays of the summer. Whatever may be the intentions, there is something more than the element of personnel to the 2nd Battalion which went away with the Peterborough boys who sprang first to the call of the Motherland, and were sorely decimated in Canada's first test of courage, the second battle of Ypres. In a sense it was this city's first born unit, and to many it holds a first and lasting place in their affections, without in the least touching upon the other units who suffered equally heavy losses, perhaps, and gave all they could in the checking and final routing of the enemy.

PERRY BUTLER WAS REMANDED.

Perry Butler, who is not exactly a debutante in the Police Court records, appeared before the Magistrate this morning on two charges, one with being drunk on Saturday, and the other with being in charge of a motor car while under the influence of liquor. Perry was remanded and relegated to the police cells until to-morrow morning.

Magistrate Dumble's Judgment In Recent Police Court Case

The following is Magistrate Dumble's written judgment in the case of the King vs. Kosma Trishelnikow, uttering seditious words:

In this case I found that defendant did utter seditious words on one occasion in his own house in the presence of his wife and family, and in the presence and hearing of W. Yanasky, a Russian. Both defendant and Yanasky are Russians. Defendant's wife and little children are Russians. According to the evidence of Yanasky, the words spoken were, or might be, construed as seditious.

There was no evidence to support or confirm the evidence of Yanasky, and it appears that the words were never spoken before while the witness boarded and lodged with the accused.

Difficulties arose in the house, prisoner charging this witness with improper conduct, in consequence of which Yanasky left the house of the prisoner and got board elsewhere.

I do not feel justified, under these circumstances, and in the absence of corroborative evidence, in finding prisoner guilty.

It was suggested that the statement made by prisoner not having been made in the presence and hearing of British subjects, the charge would not lie, but I do not find that the law sustains this objection.

In fact, in my opinion, the expression of seditious language in the hearing of aliens dwelling under the British flag is much more reprehensible than when spoken in the hearing of British subjects, who are better educated and more enlightened than foreigners.

I discharge the information.

D. W. Dumble,
Police Magistrate.

Waiting For German Reply to the Ultimatum of "Big Four."

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, April 21.—The German reply to the ultimatum of the Council of Four that it will not receive any German delegation not fully empowered to conduct and negotiate peace, is awaited anxiously in Peace Conference circles. The next steps toward peace depend on the German reply. Fears are felt in some quarters that this unexpected development may affect the programme for the meeting planned for Friday at Versailles. If the German government in reply to the ultimatum of the Council raises a controversy regarding the status of their delegates and procedure to be followed, it is conceivable that the arrival of their delegates at Versailles may be postponed.

Every Two Years

At least every two years a person's eyes should be examined. If the Glasses you now wear do not give complete comfort you need new glasses. The longer you let it go the more trouble you will have.

It costs very little money to keep the vision in perfect order, whereas if neglected it may be a very hard matter and cost a great deal of money.

Mr. G. N. Gordon Met the Travellers

Meeting Was Slimly Attended and Decision Was Deferred.

At a slimly-attended meeting of the Commercial Travellers' Association, held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Board of Trade Rooms, Mr. G. N. Gordon outlined the objects of the Board of Trade to the members. The meeting was called to discuss affiliation with the Board of Trade, but the meeting was so small that it was decided to leave the question over until some future date, when a more representative gathering of the association could be present.

PLAINTIFFS' CLAIM IN DREDGING CASE WAS NOT ALLOWED

The action of Messrs. Brown and Aylmer, claiming $3,658.21 from Messrs Dennon and Rogers, was dismissed by Mr. Justice Lennox in a judgment given on Saturday as follows:

Brown vs. Dennon—J. Wearing and J. A. O'Brien (Peterboro) for plaintiffs. E. G. Porter, K. C. for defendants. Action to recover alleged balance of rental of dredging plant, $1,212.21, and for $2,446 damages. Judgment:—From the evidence I am satisfied that the plaintiffs have paid the full rental to which they were entitled under the agreement, namely the sum of $4,421.79, credieed in the statement of claim, and that they were not entitled to recover the additional rental claimed or any part of it, nor are they entitled to recover anything by way of damages, either as the claim was framed or under the proposed amendments. Judgment for defendants dismissing the action with costs, including all fees paid witnesses for defendants called at the trial, and dismissing defendant's counter-claim without costs. Say for fifteen days.

The Revival of Horse Racing

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, April 21. — It is likely that one of the matters to be discussed at the next Unionist caucus, which will probably be held on Wednesday or Thursday, is the question of a revival of track racing in Canada, suspended during the war. Many representations have been made to the government in regard to the matter and before action is taken by the Cabinet in respect to the order-in-council prohibitting betting, now in force, Ministers will ascertain views of government supporters in the Commons. It is suggested that when racing is revived arrangement should be made whereby a portion of the receipts should be taken by the government and devoted to the encouragement of horse breeding.

Germans Refuse to Sign Peace Treaty?

Will not go beyond Wilson's Fourteen Points—A Bluff throughout Say the Allies.

(Special to Examiner.)

BERLIN, April 21. — The Berlin newspapers, discussing the allied invitation to Paris, appreciate the necessity for real "negotiations," pointing out that otherwise it will be impossible for the Germans to sign the treaty.

"It will be impossible to sign any agreement beyond the 14 points," the "Tage Zeitung" and the "Kruez Zeitung" both declare.

A Bluffing Game.

The allies regard the above propaganda as purely bluff because the foreign office has absolutely nothing to do with Bolshevism in Germany. Neither can the allies be blamed for the present conditions in Germany, since the present government is deliberately ignoring the unrest, saying that it will disappear as soon as the allies grant a favorable peace.

The fact is, Germany's internal troubles will no more disappear as the result of peace than they faded when it was announced that allied food had arrived.

Most of the German people say the present government will not last anyway, hence if it threatens to quit, if peace is not made in accordance with German ideas, it will be an excuse, and nothing more."

Run over the list of your friends and you will be surprised at the number you could dispense with.

Allies Form Triple Alliance

German Hostility to Peace Terms is the Reason.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, April 21.—An announcement by Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the German Foreign Minister, that his Government would send delegates without full powers to receive the peace terms and transmit them to the Government has contributed greatly, the newspapers say, toward an alliance between Great Britain, France and America. The French press insists that negotiations looking toward such an alliance are still in progress.

JOCKEY FRANK ROBINSON KILLED IN BIG SPILL

BALTIMORE, April — Frankie Robinson, America's premier jockey, is dead at the University hospital here, Johnny McTaggart has two fractured ribs and Mooney and Sneideman are suffering from bruises and a sever, shaking up as the result of a spill in the sixth race at Bowie Robinson, under contract to Harry Payne Whitney, the New York millionaire, and the highest salaried rider in the United States, had a gaping hole torn in his skull at the base.

The accident occurred when a field of eight horses dashed to the first turn in a race of a mile and twenty yards for four-year-olds and a mix-up followed at the sharp turn.

Willie Doyle was held responsible by the track officials. They claim that Doyle, riding Garbage, swerved over to the inside rail when his mount was not clear of the field, causing Ted Rice, who rode Harwood, which was on the rail, to pull up sharply. A tangle followed. Robinson, riding Roederer, was the second to go down. Observers say the jockey was thrown over his mount's head and then kicked by the animal. McTaggart was on Dr. Charcot.

Mooney and Sneideman were riding Manico and Mariano, respectively. Doyle, with Garbage, finished the race in the lead, but the stewards disqualified the horse.

Jockey Frankie Robinson was one of the most popular riders that ever donned the silks. He was a clean-cut boy and a natural horseman, while few were his superiors when he came to handridin in a tight finish.

He was brought up to the Canadian circuit by Ed. Trotter in 1916, and that year led the American jockeys. The next year he was second to Willie Crump, while last year by a grand finish in the last two weeks at New Orleans again had the honour of leading the American jockeys. During the Fair grounds meeting he developed influenza and gave up riding until the present Bowie meeting, but in the interval of a month ago, he married a young lady from Louisville. His home is in Cleveland, while his younger brother, Willie, is also a jockey.

During his short career on the Canadian circuit he was a prime favourite with the racing enthusiasts Statistics are not available, but Robinson was rarely, if ever, reprimanded by the racing officials for his riding. He first gained fame by riding four winners in one day on the Hamilton track.

BOAT OWES A TAX BILL

WAR MINISTER MURDERED.

(Special to Examiner.)

COPENHAGEN, April 4 — Bitter fighting has broken out in Dresden, following the murder of War Minister Neuring, according to despatches received here to-day. Government troops are being rushed from Berlin to suppress the Radicals, who are fighting under Communist leadership.

THE OBSEQUIES

A clergyman who was not disinclined toward an occasional glass, says London Tit-Bits, hired an Irishman to clean out his cellar. He brought out a number of empty whiskey bottles, and as he lifted each one looked to see if there was anything in it. The clergyman, who was walking on the lawn, noticed him, and said: "They are all dead ones, Mike."

"They are," answered Mike. "But there is one good thing about it, they all had the minister with them when they passed away."

TRIBUTE TO ORGANIST OF SACRED HEART CHURCH

Of the special music at the Church of the Sacred Heart yesterday, all of which was well delivered by the choir, the recessional played by Mr. John Armstrong was particularly deserving of mention. It was the Gloria from Mozart's Twelfth Mass, and in its rendition the resources of the organ were called into action with splendid effect. It was an eloquent evocation of the spirit of Easter, the redemption and the resurrection, and was interpreted with an outpouring of spirit and expressed by a sonority of tone that were features of Mr. Armstrong's readin..

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

REMORSE IS SURE TO COME

Remorse is really a sour memory. Care for your eyes in youth if you would avoid it, and your old age will produce sweet recollections. Age is not the only reason for failing eyes. Children have weak eyes which often is not known, but should be attended to. If they have trouble with their studies it may be from weak, tired eyes. Bring them to Dr. Fowler for examination.

IN MEMORIAM.

SHAMBO. — In loving memory of my dear niece, Frances Shambo, who died April 20, 1918.
Gone one year, our hearts are sore,
From day to day we miss her more,
Her cheerful smile, her loving face,
No one on earth can fill her place.
We loved her, yes, no tongue can tell,
How much we loved her and how well.
God loved her too, and thought it best
To take her to her home of rest.
The blow was bitter, the loss severe,
To part with one we loved so dear;
Our loss is great, we'll not complain,
But hope in heaven to meet again.
—Aunt Minnie.

Wolves Beat This

Yonkers Statesman:— "I've just been reading," said the Georgia man at breakfast in the diner of a Southern railroad train, "that wolves travel as much as sixty miles in a single night."

"Well, there's one thing certain," replied his vis-a-vis, a Northern commercial traveler, "if they do, they never travel on this road."

MRS. CAIRNS WAS ALMOST IN DESPAIR

Nothing She Did For Her Troubles Helped Her Till She Took Tanlac.

"I had suffered so long without being able to get anything to help me, that I was almost in despair," said Mrs. Bessie Cairns, of 81 Sherbourne street, Toronto, Ont., recently:

"For five years," she continued, "my stomach was out of order and I couldn't digest my food properly. I had such a tight feeling in my chest that I could scarcely breathe and at times the gas would press so on my heart that I felt as if I were smothering. I had attacks of acute indigestion so often that I was afraid to leave the house for fear one of those awful spells might come on me and I felt miserable and worn out all the time.

"My first bottle of Tanlac helped me so much that I kept it up and now I can eat anything that I want without having those terrible smothering spells afterwards. Every sign of indigestion has gone; my nerves are calm, and I sleep like a baby. Tanlac has done so much for me that I feel I am only doing right in telling others about it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by the W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert, by A. J. Scott; in Westwood, by G. Pringle & Son.

The Presentation.

Villiers, April 18th, 1919.

Dear Sirs,— The people of Villiers have assembled to-night to extend to you our congratulations on your safe return to our community.

Unexpectedly the Empire was called to arms a little over four and a half years ago. Before the mother called, the daughter's sons were on the way to join that might throng of heroic, chivalrous crusaders bent on rescuing the world from the hand of the autocrat.

It was no selfish ideal nor glory of conquest that called you to exchange comforts of civil life for the sufferings of war and risk of death. The fires of patriotism had been smouldering in your spirit and early burst into flames.

We feel proud of the part you have played in the terrible tragedy. You faced new, horrible and terrifying instruments of war with such courage, resourcefulness and tenacity that Canada has been placed in a new and more honourable place in the British Empire. The pages of history can never fully record the achievements of soldiers in the great war, but the gallantry with which Canadian soldiers faced unparalleled difficulties and showed the world an example of courage, steadiness and discipline will find fitting page in that record of sacrificial service.

To-night we welcome you home. We know there are no gifts nor testimonials that can fully commemorate the glorious deeds of our heroic men, but we wish you to accept our gifts as a slight token of our "welcome home," and trust that you may be spared for many years to use them.

Signed on behalf of the people of Villiers S. S., Ontario

ALEXANDER WOOD.

WAR PLANTS SOON TO MAKE TYPEWRITERS.

Second-Hand Dealers in England Are Thriving.

LONDON:—The shortage of typewriters in England, especially London, is becoming rather serious and has resulted in exorbitant prices being placed upon old, battered, second-hand machines. The few British firms who manufactured typewriters before the war now are making big efforts to produce sufficient machines for the home demand, but they are not making rapid progress.

Before the war about 95 per cent. of the typewriters came from the United States, but this supply is now almost wholly cut off. British firms, which during the war turned their attention to manufacturing machine guns and parts, have taken up the manufacture of typewriters. They have transformed their plants, and all during the war kept in view the fact that during the period of reconstruction they could go back to manufacturing on peace time basis, but even with all their preparations it will require months before they are in a position to turn out typewriters on a large scale. Meantime, the second-hand dealers are doing a thriving business.

MME. GALLI CURCI, TOLD SHE SINGS FLAT, SEEKS DIVORCE

CHICAGO, Ill.—A desposition in the divorce action of Mme. Galli Curci, the opera singer, was filed here. It was by Cleofonte Campanini, general director of the Chicago Opera Association, in which she sang. Mr. Campanini said that twice, while Mme. Galli Curci was singing, he saw Luigi, her husband, escort young women to his wife's apartment. The director said he did not remember the names of the towns or the hotels where these things happened.

Mme. Galli Curci's action alleged that her husband made her life unbearable. Mr. Campanini said one of these acts was when Luigi repeatedly said to his wife:—

"You sing flat!"

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"That's the real thing, I guess." She patted his hand approvingly. "I'll do what I can to help you. She's not a bit in love with you yet, but that's because she's the purest creature on earth and never would let herself even dream of a man she couldn't marry. She's one of the last grand representatives of the old Puritan stock—and when you see as much mean and secret infidelity, dose as many morbid mysterical women, as I do—Oh, Lord! No wonder I see Enid Balfame shining with cold radiance in the high heavens. I may idealize her a bit, but I don't care. It would be a sad old world if you couldn't exalt at least one human above the muck-ruck. Well, she likes you, and you have interested her. Just be on hand when she wants you, needs you. When this excitement is over and she is tired of female gabble, she'll turn to you naturally, if you manage her properly and don't butt in too soon. Quiet persistence and tact; that's your game. I'll put in a good word."

"By George, you are a good fellow." He leaned over and kissed her impulsively. As Dr. Anna felt the pressure of those warm firm lips on her faded cheek, she astonished herself by bursting into tears. In an instant, however, she dashed them away and gave an odd gurgling laugh.

"Don't mind a silly old maid—who loves Enid Balfame more than life, I guess. And I'm a country doctor, Dwight, who's had a hard night bringing one more unfortunate female into the world. I feel better since I cried—first time since you boys used to tease me at school because I had cheeks like red pippins—you don't remember me over at school in your village, Rensselerville. I lived there for a spell, and I remember you. But this isn't the time for reminiscences. Where do you live? We'll be in the outskirts in three minutes."

"I have rooms at The Brabant."

"Any night clerk?"

"No; it's an apartment house."

"Good. We're somewhere in the small hours all right."

She drove swiftly through the sleeping town, slowing down on the corner of Main street and Atlantic avenue. Rush sprang out with a word of thanks and walked up the avenue to The Brabant. The trees here were neither old nor close, for this was the quarter of the wealthy newcomers and of the older residents that had prospered and rebuilt. But not a soul was abroad, and he let himself into the bachelor apartment house and mounted to his rooms unseen.

CHAPTER IX.

As Rush closed his own door behind him, his troubled spirit shifted its load. Indubitably if Dr. Anna had not met him he should have walked until exhausted, and then boarded a train somewhere down the line and arrived in Elsinore dishevelled, haggard, altogether an object of suspicion. None knew better than he that in a small community the lightning of suspicion plays incessantly, throwing the faces of innocent and guilty alike in distorted relief. And he had expected to find a newspaper man awaiting him in the hall below.

Before turning on his lights he felt his way to the windows and drew the curtains close. For all he knew there might be a detective or a reporter sitting on the opposite fence. His legal mind, deeply versed in criminal law, fully appreciated his danger and warned him to arm at every point.

The district attorney, one of Balfame's men, clever, ambitious, but too ill-educated to hope to graduate from Brabant County, or even, political influence lacking, to climb into the first rank at home, hated the brilliant newcomer who had beaten him twice during his brief term of office. That Rush "hailed" originally from the county only added to the grievance. If Brabant wasn't good enough for him in the first place, why hadn't he stayed where he was wanted?

But Ruth dismissed him from his mind as he remembered uneasily that Alys Crumley had been sketching out there at the Club while he had been wrestling with David Balfame. He knew her ambition to get a position on a New York newspaper as a sketch artist; but the possibility that she might have guessed the secret of his interest in putting an end to the scene, or intended to sell her drawing to one of the reporters, would have given him little uneasiness had the artist not been a young woman upon whom he had ceased to call some two months since.

He had met Alys Crumley about eighteen months after he had returned to Brabant County and some three months after he had moved from Dobton to Elsinore, and at once had been attracted by her bright ambitious mind, combined with a real personality and an appearance both smart and artistic.

Miss Crumley prided herself upon being unique in Elsinore, at least and although her thick well-groomed hair was dressed with classic severity, and she wore soft gowns of an indescribable cut in the house, and at the evening parties of her friends, she was far too astute to depart from the fashion of the moment in the crucial test of street dress and hat. In Park Row during her brief sojourn in the newspaper world, she had commanded attention among the critical press women as a girl who knew how to dress smartly and yet add that personal touch which, when attempted by those lacking genius in dress, ruins the effect of the most extravagant tailor. Miss Crumley by no means patronized these autocrats of Fifth Avenue; she bought her tailored suits at the ready-made establishments, but like many another American girl, she knew how to buy, and above all, how to wear her clothes.

She had taught for several years after graduating from the High School; then, her nerves rebelling, had abandoned this most monotonous of careers for newspaper work. To reporting her physique had not proved equal, and although she would have made an admirable fashion editor these enviable positions were adequately filled. On the advice of the star reporter of her paper, Mr. James Broderick, who, with other newspaper men had been entertained occasionally at tea of a Sunday afternoon in her charming little home in Elsinore, she had developed her talent for drawing during the past year; Mr. Broderick promising to "find her a job" as staff artist when she had improved her technique.

Then Dwight Rush appeared.

Miss Crumley lived with her mother in the family cottage next door to Dr. Anna's in Elsinore Avenue. Mrs. Crumley, who was the relict of a G. A. R. had eked out her pension during the schooldays of her daughter with fine sewing, finding most of her patrons among the newcomers. She also had cooked for the Woman's Exchange of Brooklyn, besides catering for public dinners and evening parties. For several years she enjoyed a complete rest; therefore, when Alys retired temporarily from the office of provider in order to study art, Mrs. Crumley willingly re-entered the industrial field. As both the practical mother and the clever daughter were amiable women it was a harmonious little household that Dwight Rush found himself drifting toward intimacy with soon after he met the young lady at a clubhouse dance.

The living-room—Alys long since had abolished the word parlour from her vocabulary—was furnished in various shades of green as harmonious as the family temper; there was a low bookcase filled with fashionable literature, English and American; the magazines and reviews on the table were almost blatantly "high-brow," and the cool green walls were further embellished with a few delicate water colours conceived in the back-yard atelier by an individual mind if executed by a still somewhat halting brush.

For four months Rush had been a constant visitor at the cottage. Miss Crumley, who was as progressively modern as an automobile factory, was full of enthusiasm at the moment for the cult of sexless friendship between a man and a maid. She had considered James Broderick at one time as a likely partner for a philosophic romance (the adjective Platonic was out of date; moreover, it implied that the cult was not as modern as its devotees would wish it to appear); but the brilliant (and handsome) young reporter not only was very busy but of a mercurial and uncertain temperament. Nor did he appear to be a youth of lofty ideals; from certain remarks, uttered casually, to make matters worse, Alys was forced to conclude that he despised the man who "wasted his time" only less than he despised the "cheser." If pretty, interesting, and unnotional girls came his way and liked him enough, that was "all to the good"; a busy newspaperman at the beck and call of a city editor had no time for studying over the map of a girl's soul, the lord knew; but if a girl wasn't a "dead game sport," then the sooner a man left the field to some one with more time, or a yearning for matrimony, the better. These remarks had been deliberately thrown out by the canny Mr. Broderick, who liked "the kid" and didn't want her to "get in wrong" (particularly with himself as he enjoyed both her society and the artistic living-room—and Mrs. Crumley's confections) but who saw straight through Aly's shifting mcdernites to the making of a fine primitive female.

But Rush was no student in sex psychology. He took Miss Crumley on her face value; delighted in finding a comfortable friend of the counter sex, and was more than amenable to her desire to cultivate in him a taste for modern literature; since his graduation he had hardly opened anything but law books, legal reviews and the daily newspaper. She read aloud admirably—particularly plays— and he liked to listen; and as she convinced him that he was missing a good part of life, it was not long before he was buying for leisurely midnight consumption such work of the fashionable writers as was stimulating and intellectual, and at the same time sincere.

She also took him over to several symphony concerts, and often played classic selections to him in the twilight. He had no objection to music, as it either spurred his mind into fresh activity upon problems besetting it, or soothed him into slumber. He loved the little room with the soft green shadows; it reminded him of the woods, of which he still was passionately fond; and he found it both homelike and safe. Other houses in Elsinore, larger and more luxurious, were homelike enough, but too often were graced by marriageable daughters, who "showed their hand." Rush was as little vain and conceited as a man may be, but he was well aware that eligible men in Elsinore were few, and that everybody must know that his intake, already large, must increase with the years.

Was Troubled With BOILS FOR SIX MONTHS

From the days of Job to the present time, boils have been one of the greatest afflictions of the human race.

Very few people escape from having them at some time.

All the poulticing and lancing you may do won't cure them and stop more coming.

Boils are caused by bad blood bursting out, and the bad blood must be made pure before the boils will disappear.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the greatest blood purifier known. It cleanses the system, and purifies the blood by removing every particle of foul material from the system, and when this is done, never another boil comes and health and strength are permanently restored.

Mr. C. H. Bridges, 470 Barton St. E., Hamilton, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with boils for about six months and tried several remedies without any relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and the effect has been wonderful. After using two bottles, I was rid of them all. I feel like a new man; my appetite is better, and I sleep better than I have for years. I can highly recommend B. B. B. to all who are troubled as I was."

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for the past 40 years, and manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MRS. DOOLEY'S ADVICE TO WORKING GIRLS

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I wish all girls who work and suffer from functional disorders would profit by my advice and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I was married, when I came home from work at night, I would be just worn out with pains which dragged me down. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel like a new woman. I can work from morning until night and it does not bother me; and I wish all girls who suffer as I did would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. H. DOOLEY, 1135 25th Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Working girls everywhere should profit by Mrs. Dooley's experience, and instead of dragging along from day to day with life a burden, give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It has overcome just such conditions for thousands of others, and why not for you? For special advice, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years experience is at your service.

A Seventeenth Century Organ.

Made in 1625 by the master artisan, Nicolaus Mandescheit, and described as the finest instrument of the kind in the world, an organ has been purchased abroad by an American dealer, who is said to have paid $100,000 for it. The purchase is linked with the name of Henry C. Frick. The instrument is of large cabinet size, with a keyboard about three feet long. The case is richly carved, and inside are the maker's portrait and inscription giving his age and the honors accorded him. The organ was found in an old chateau in the Ardennes region of France, where it is said to have rested for 200 years. Saint-Saens played on it some years ago and pronounced it the finest he had ever touched.—Argonaut.

A Swinging Railway.

One of the most remarkable railroads in the world is to be built in France, to run up the Aiguille du Midi, which rises abruptly to a height of 12,606 feet. The object of the undertaking will be to show the unmatched glories of Mont Blanc and its chain of peaks and glaciers. Instead of running on solid ground, however, like most of the Swiss mountain railroads, it is to go through the air on pylons and cables, swinging from peak to peak, far above the eternal snows and glaciers. The starting station of the line is situated down in the valley of Chamonix.

World's Highest Death Rate.

What is probably the highest death rate of any city in the world belongs to Cochabamba, Bolivia, where there was a mortality of 75 per 1,000 last year. This extreme mortality is said to be due not so much to climatic or other natural causes as to the lack of knowledge among the lower classes of the most elementary rules of hygiene, a fact which is corroborated by the percentage of infant mortality, about 40 per cent of the deaths being children under five years of age.

How Dominion Friction Surface Belting Helps to Increase Production

The greatest single factor in increasing and maintaining your production at the maximum is efficient equipment—this depends not only on your machinery, but to a greater extent than you realize on your power transmission equipment.

We are ready to demonstrate to you that Dominion Friction Surface Belting is the most economical and efficient transmission equipment made.

It is more than water-proofed fabric—the rubber used is a special friction compound that practically eliminates slipping and transmits all the power that any belt can transmit.

Its uniformity and dependability insure long and continuous service which saves time wasted in making replacements and repairs and prevents idle employees and machines.

Our special free advisory service, in charge of belting experts, is maintained to help manufacturers increase production through efficient equipment.

Phone, wire or write our nearest Service Branch when you are ready to have one of our experts help you "speed up" production just as they have helped many others.

A Sioux Indian Custom.

Among the Sioux Indians a common custom exists. When one family borrows a kettle from another, it is expected when the kettle is returned a small portion of the food that has been cooked in it will be left in the bottom. Should this custom be disregarded by any one, that person would never be able to borrow again, as the owner must always know what has been cooked in her kettle. A white woman on one occasion returned a scoured kettle, intending to teach a lesson in cleanliness, but her act became the talk of the camp as a fresh example of the meanness of the whites.

A Piece For His Dog.

Rossini lived before the day of special pleas for the dog, but he was sufficiently in advance of his time to recognize the equality if not the superiority of his own favorite beast. The Gentleman's Magazine says that the late Sir Arthur Sullivan made Rossini's acquaintance in Paris. One morning, when Sullivan called to see him, he found the composer trying over a piece of music.

"What is that?" asked Sullivan.

"It's my dog's birthday," Rossini replied gravely, "and I write a little piece for him every year."

High Notes.

It is said that Caruso could retire from the operatic stage, safe in the knowledge that his income from the phonograph will be forthcoming as long as he lives, with every indication that the total will increase rather than decrease. In this respect it can be said that a phonograph company had to pay Linda Tetrazzini a bonus of $50,000 for her consent, while her annual royalties are said to reach between $50,000 and $60,000.

Royal Cord

The Master Creation of Canada's Leading Tire Builders

WERE ease and comfort their only superior qualities, they would still be the choice of every car-owner who could afford them.

But they are more than a luxury, they are a delightful economy.

Their marvellous construction of tens of thousands of cords, each imbedded in pure rubber, makes a tire that is practically proof against blow-outs. Yet so yielding and resilient is the tire-structure and tire-wall that the shock of most road obstructions is absorbed. It also relieves the non-skid tread of a portion of its strain, and reduces side-slipping without impairing the ease in steering.

Careful tests show that a car equipped with "ROYAL CORD" TIRES makes more miles per gallon of gasoline than the same car can make on fabric tires. This saving alone pays the difference in cost.

With blow-outs reduced to a minimum; and a practical saving in gasoline; there is ample proof of the sound economy of "ROYAL CORD" Tires.

Then, too, there is the luxury of easy riding, and the assurance of having the finest tires that can be made.

"DOMINION" INNER TUBES

are made expressly to fit "Royal Cord" Tires, as well as the other five treads of "Dominion" Tires. Be sure to have your tires fitted right—with "Dominion" Inner Tubes.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE SHERIFF'S STRATAGEM

By M. QUAD

Copyright, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

As I was resting at the top of a long hill I was overtaken by a man on horseback, and after salutations had been exchanged he observed that he was in no hurry and would get down to smoke a pipe with me. After awhile he announced that he was the county sheriff and was then on his way to recapture a prisoner who had broken out of jail at Smithville the night before. The prisoner lived in a cabin a short distance down the road, and as we finished our pipes and jogged along the officer suggested that I call with him and witness the performance.

"But is the fugitive a dangerous man?" I asked.

"That's according to how you take him," was the answer.

"And how do you mean to take him?"

"Oh, I'll be sort of soft and gentle with him, and if there is going to be any shooting you'll have warning in time to get out."

It was summer time, and when we reached the cabin the escaped prisoner sat on the doorstep with a shotgun across his knees and a pipe between his teeth. His wife, who was also smoking, sat on a log near by having the family as close at hand, and the pair never even looked up while the sheriff was dismounting and hitching his horse to a tree. I got the wink to await developments, and we took seats on a stump within twenty feet of the door and filled our pipes for another smoke. Neither the man nor his wife said the slightest attention to us or we to them, and thus stood the situation for a quarter of an hour. Then the fugitive began to grow uneasy, and after a bit he said:

"Tom, I reckon ye' hev come for me?"

"Skasmly, Bill, skasmly," replied the sheriff as he looked up in seeming surprise.

"If yo' hev I'll never be tooken back to that jail alive!" growled the fugitive.

I glanced at the wife, and the look on her face and the way she fingered the ax told plainly that she was ready to stand by her husband in case he needed help.

"Don't git oneasy," advised the sheriff. Then he began to tell me about the county jail. It wasn't so much to look at from the outside and lots of people thereby got a wrong impression of it. One must become a prisoner to appreciate that jail.

The beds were of the best.

The fare was that of a hotel.

Once a day the sheriff came in and related all the outside news.

Euchre decks and cigars and plug tobacco furnished free of charge.

Visitors admitted any time of the day or night, and they could stay as long as they desired.

Once every week there is a big entertainment, either a vaudeville show or a mighty fine concert.

"Why, Bill," we heard the jail breaker's wife say to him, "you never dun tole me that the jail was like this."

"Dog my cats, but I didn't know it myself," he growled.

And then the sheriff went on to say that when holidays came the prisoners got such a feast as few men outside ever got. Besides mince pie and fried oysters, there were ten cent cigars to smoke and champagne to drink.

"But Bill must have mistook about it," said the wife.

"Mrs. Baker, I hate to say anything to a wife about her husband," answered the officer, "but I must tell you that I never had any one in my jail so ornery as your Bill. He was kicking like a mewl all the time."

"But I wanted to git outer jail," said Bill.

"Of co'se you did—of co'se, and why? You found the other prisoners so far above you in education and manners that it was uncomfortable fur you."

"Bill can read and write his name," boasted his wife.

"Yes?"

"And what's the matter with his manners?"

"I will tell you after you first tell me why every one was glad when he broke jail and vanished. They made me promise when I came away this morning not to bring him back. They are mighty sorry fur you, Mrs. Baker, but they hain't got no use for any sich critter as your Bill."

"And you wasn't lookin' fur me?" anxiously asked Bill.

"I was, but it was to tell you that you can't come back to my jail no mo'. No, sah, you can't. If I catch you around there'll be a big row."

"Bill, you are gwine right back to that jail," said his wife.

"Sorry, Mrs. Baker, but I can't take him."

"But I say he's got to go! I hain't gwine to stand for folks sayin' we are low down."

"Yes, I'm gwine right back," growled the husband.

"You are out, and you'd better stay out."

"I'll be hanged if I will!"

"Please let him go back with you!" pleaded the wife.

The sheriff seemed to be pondering for full five minutes before he answered:

"Well, it's on your account, Mrs. Baker, fur I do feel sorry fur you. He can tag along behind, and I'll never try to do him a favor ag'in."

And an hour later Bill Baker was in the county jail.

THE ANGRY TREE.

Peculiar Antics of This Curiosity of Plant Life.

There is in the wilds of northwestern Idaho a species of the acacia tree which is entitled to be classed as one of the wonders of plant life. It grows to a height of about eight feet and when full grown closes its leaves together in coils each day at sunset and curls its twigs to the shape of pigtails. After the tree has settled itself thus for a night's sleep, if touched the whole thing will flutter as if agitated or impatient at being disturbed. The oftener the foliage is molested the more violent becomes the shaking of the branches, and at length the tree emits a nauseating oder, which if inhaled for a few moments causes a violent, dizzy headache.

The angry tree, as it has been named, was discovered by travelers, who upon making camp for the night placed one end of a canvas covering over one of the sensitive branches, using it for a support. Immediately the tree began to sharply jerk its branches. The motion continued, growing more nervous, until at last the sickening odor which it gave out drove the tired campers to a more friendly location. Curiosity of course prompted an investigation. One of the angry trees was dug up and thrown to one side. Immediately upon being removed from the ground the tree opened its leaves, its twigs lost their pigtails, and for something over an hour and a half the outraged branches showed their indignation by all series of quakings, which grew weaker as time passed, finally ceasing altogether, when the foliage hung limp and withered. The next morning the tree was placed upright in the ground again, a little water was applied to the roots, and very soon it resumed its normal condition.

Let every youth regard it as a fact that he must make his own character. It is a work which God has wisely consigned to him. No other can do it for him. Character is the unseen spirit-garment that his own thoughts and feelings weave about the soul with invisible fingers.

In too many families the mother assumes the care of everything and her daughters are but genteel loungers in the household. The work which could be so easily and quickly done if each bore a share, is left for the hands already weakened by heavy burdens.

GERMANY'S LATEST CRAZE.

The Country Has Gone Mad Over the Mesothorium Cancer Cure.

Germany has got a craze for mesothorium, the latest of the multitude of "cancer cures" to be announced. The London Times asserts that "there is hardly a town of importance in the country which has not voted a large sum from the public funds for the purpose of purchasing some of the costly material, and where public funds are not forthcoming concerts, bazaars and such like means are adopted for raising money for the same purpose."

Mesothorium is said to have the power of emanating rays similar to but much more effective than radium, and the cost seems to be almost as great. The substance is derived from the thorium waste in the manufacture of gas mantles, and it is used in tiny portions inclosed within a silver covering in which extremely small holes are pierced. The silver box is then placed upon the part affected with cancerous growth.

One surgeon related his sole experience with mesothorium. In a case of cancer of the stomach the silver box containing the precious substance was attached to a string and given to the patient to swallow. He got the unusual pill down all right, but bit through the string and swallowed this too. The surgeon who related the story was called in to operate upon the patient in order to recover the mesothorium from his inside.

A Liquid That Floats Stones.

Of all liquids, mercury possesses the greatest specific gravity, but another has recently been discovered which is also so heavy that stones of all kinds—granite, limestone, quartz, etc.—float in it. It is a saturated aqueous solution of tungstoborate. Its specific gravity is 3.3, whereas that of ordinary rocks does not exceed 2.7. Only a few precious stones have a specific gravity greater than that of this liquid, for which reason it is proposed to employ it for the separation of such stones from masses of broken rock.

SPEED RECORD SET UP BY ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Two Hundred Measures Considered Within Eight Short Weeks—Election After the 1920 Session.

Ontario's Legislature was in session this year for the best part of eight weeks, sittings being held on thirty-seven days of that time. During that period one hundred and eighty bills were considered by the legislators, most of them private or public measures that after all affect but comparatively few people of the Province. But there were thirty or forty Government measures that were put through this year, will become law when assented to on Thursday next by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, and that are of the greatest importance. Every person will be affected by some of them to a greater or lesser extent.

Election After 1920 Session.

This session was the first to be held since the war. Members felt that the truce that had been agreed upon by the two parties during hostilities did not count for much on that account. They endeavoured to get the old game of politics going as it was played before the struggle began in Europe. But it will be next session when the real political battles will be waged. It is generally understood that there will not be a Provincial election until after the 1920 session—that is the provision in the Extension Bill passed last year—and Liberals and Conservatives alike will put on their armour for the fray when they return to Queen's Park next year. There are those in the Liberal party who declare that the Hearst Administration will be no more after the next election, and members on both sides of the House freely admit that there will be a big shake-up in the personnel of the Legislature. One of the last acts of the Government on Thursday night was to put through an amendment in the Statute Law Amendment Act providing for an annual salary of $5,000 for the Opposition Leader. While it has been recognized for a long time that a salary should be paid to the Opposition Leader, it was suggested by a member that its being put through at this time was another indication that the Government was preparing for the days when it would be to the left of the Speaker.

There was much talk during the eight weeks' session of reconstruction from both sides of the House. Contrary to what is often the practice, there were a number of measures put through that were intended to deal with problems of the reconstruction period. The Housing Act was one of the most important of these. It was endorsed by Liberals and Conservatives alike. About twenty municipalities have already applied to come under its provisions. As a result it is expected the supply of dwellings will be increased, and also that it will help immediately to alleviate the labour situation. A twin bill of the Housing Act was that providing for the appointment of Mr. J. A. Ellis as Director of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs—the Housing Act coming under this department.

Change in Assessment Law.

In conjunction with the Housing Bill must be mentioned the changes in the Assessment Law. The most important is the granting of local option to municipalities in granting certain exemptions on houses, assessed up to $4,000, exclusive of land. Another section of the Assessment Act increases the exemptions granted on income to householders in cities and towns to $1,700, and in other municipalities to $1,400. There was one other amendment to the Assessment Act put through, which was most drastic. Unfortunately, it applies only to Ottawa. At the request of the City Council of the Dominion Capital, single tax is granted to Ottawa, after the consent of the electors has been secured.

Provincial War Tax Ends.

One of the acts of the Government that was received with general approbation was the removal of the Provincial war tax of one mill. Last year it aided considerably in making it possible for the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. T. W. McGarry, to have a surplus of $1,809,719.

Three of the largest capital expenditures that were authorized at this session were for highways, Hydro-Electric and the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. For the former $6,000,000 was set aside, although this will not all be spent during this year. For the Hydro-Electric $11,946,500 was appropriated, and for the T. and N. O. $1,272,219 was included in the supplementary estimates. The latter, among other things, provides for a line to Gowgandu and a spur from Timmins to the Mattagami River.

For Better Education.

Prior to the opening of the House there was much speculation as to what legislation would be introduced by Hon. Dr. Cody to bring the Department of Education up to date. There had been much criticism and his announcement was looked forward to with interest. Now that the session is over and he has put all his cards on the table, his critics admit that he has taken many forward steps. The most far-reaching one is the bill to provide for the compulsory school attendance of adolescents between 14 and 18 years of age. While the bill will not be brought into force for at least another year, it will be the subject of much discussion on the part of employers, school boards and parents.

Other important measures brought in by Dr. Cody and passed were those providing for consolidated schools, and for travelling teachers to meet the needs of the sparsely settled districts of the northern parts of the Province. Increased estimates in the Education Department are intended to go forward increasing the salaries of rural teachers. While no amendments were made in the Ontario Education Act to permit of the number of examinations being reduced, this desirable change will be made by regulations. Similar procedure will likely also be used in reducing the amount of home work, and in easing off the work on the lower elementary classes. An announcement of importance which was made by the Minister of Education was that the text-books were shortly to be revised. Officials of the Department are at present engaged in making a dental and medical survey of the public schools. A change was also made providing for the appointment of school attendance officers.

Two bills of wide interest were those providing for the taking of the temperance referendum this fall, when four questions will be submitted to the electors, and the amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act permitting the Government to take over control of the sale of liquor in Ontario.

Concessions to Women.

Other important measures which were passed included: Those permitting women to sit in the Legislature and to be elected or appointed to municipal office, and to permit farmers' wives to sit on school boards; extending the law permitting vacant land to be taken for cultivation until peace is signed; providing for the appointment of a public trustee for escheated estates; to provide for community halls and athletic fields in the country; to prevent the continuation of sweat shops; to consolidate judicial districts and gradually reduce the number of County Judges; to increase the monthly allowances to widows and children under the Workmen's Compensation Act; to provide for superannuation allowances to Hydro-Electric Commission employees; to make it necessary for moving picture theatres to have matrons for the supervision of children in attendance; for the registration of optometrists; the disqualification of military defaulters and deserters; the increase in the motor speed laws; for the conservation of natural gas, and for the protection of minors under the Marriage Act.

Three Sensational Addresses.

There were three addresses of a sensational nature during the session, which filled the seats quickly. The first was Mr. H. Hartley Dewart's charges against Chief License Inspector Ayearst, which were investigated by the Public Accounts Committee, and which are being probed further by Sir William Meredith. Then there was Lieut.-Col. Price's attack on the war profiteers and Argyll House. A few days later this was followed by Lieut.-Col. A. C. Pratt's serious charges against the Argyll House administration. Lieut.-Col. R. A. C. Machin, of Kenora, also caused somewhat of a sensation when he attacked Sir William Hearst over the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act.

Two measures which were expected to be brought down at the session just closed, but which failed to be introduced, were the medical bill passed on Mr. Justice Hodgins' report, and a measure to provide for mothers' pensions.

Work by any other name would make a bigger ink.

A man is known by the weakneses he fosters.

A Substitute.

If you cannot win a fortune
For your uses quite enough
And have money to be reckless
You at least can run a bluff.
If you cannot cough up dollars
Quite regardless of expense,
You can pack your duds and travel
Here and there upon pretense.

Any one can get in action
With a dollar in his jeans,
Any one can go the paces
If he only has the means.
But it's quite a different problem
If you haven't got a cent
And must satisfy the landlord
When he talks about his rent.

With a regulation payday
Every Monday in the year
And a check that is sufficient
Then the sailing is quite clear;
But to live without an income
And with all your meals connect
Is a very different matter
As a fellow might suspect.

But there are some people do it—
You can see them every day—
So you should not be discouraged,
Though you cannot always pay.
If you have not coin in plenty
To assist you bear the blunt,
With a stogy and a hair cut
You at least can make a front.

A Prophet.

"We are going to have chicken for dinner," remarked the farmhouse boarder to the newcomer.

"Somebody tell you?"

"No."

"How do you know?"

"See that auto racer scooting by? Well, that's an infallible sign."

"You must be superstitious."

Loss Noisy.

"I wonder if I could get it patented?"

"What's that?"

"An improvement on the French duel."

"Less bloody?"

"Not necessarily."

"How would you work it?"

"Have the parties go with their seconds at break of day to a lonely field and make faces at each other."

A Long Memory.

"Mrs. Brown says she has a good memory for faces since she belongs to so many clubs."

"She has, even when they are changing all the time."

"Has she?"

"Yes; she always knows her baby when they meet outside."

BE SUSPICIOUS OF TENDER GUMS

Be suspicious of any tenderness or bleeding of the gums. This is usually the first stage of Pyorrhea—an insidious disease of the gums that destroys the teeth and undermines bodily health.

Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame, then shrink, thus exposing the unenameled tooth-base to the ravages of decay. Tiny openings in the gums form gateways for disease germs to enter the system. Medical science has traced many ills to these infecting germs in the gums weakened by Pyorrhea.

They are now known to be a frequent cause of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism and other serious conditions.

So watch carefully for that first tenderness or bleeding of the gums. Try Forhan's immediately. It positively prevents Pyorrhea (Rigge' Disease) if used in time and used consistently.

And in preventing Pyorrhea—it guards against other ills.

Forhan's (For the Gums) cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

New York's Great Channel.

Army engineers have reported that the deepening and widening of Ambrose channel leading into New York harbor is finished, except for a few minor details, and no further appropriations for construction will be needed. This great artificial channel is seven miles long, 2,000 feet wide and forty feet deep at mean low tide. At night it is so brilliantly lighted by buoys that the largest ocean steamers can enter with perfect safety. The work was begun in 1901.

Why Can't I Get to Sleep?

Thousands of people all over the country ask this question but still continue to toss night after night on a sleepless bed and it is impossible for them to get a full night's refreshing sleep.

Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease, has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system that it cannot be quietened except by the pernicious use of opiates or narcotics. Or again, you have heart palpitation, and sensation sinking, a feeling you are going to die, or perhaps you wake up in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and the only way that you can get relief is to sit up in bed.

To all who suffer in this way, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills offer an inestimable boon. They bring back the much needed night's rest by improving the tone of the nerves, strengthen the heart, enriching the blood and making the whole organization act in harmony—then you sleep as peaceful as a child.

Mrs. James Latimer, 39 Leinster St., St. John, N. B., writes: "At night I could not sleep. I had to sit up in bed, my heart beat so fast and when I walked up stairs I would get all out of breath. A friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I can sleep all night, and am not out of breath after walking."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CLEANLINESS IS HEALTH

By the use of Gillett's Lye, house cleaning is made a pleasure instead of a drudgery. It softens the water and cleans thoroughly whether the dirt is visible or invisible. Destroys all bacteria and infectious germs, removes obstructions from drain pipes, closets, sinks, etc. Refrigerators are made delightfully fresh and clean by using one teaspoonful of Gillett's Lye dissolved in two gallons of water.

"THE DOVE OF PEACE"

Woodrow Wilson at the Peace Conference.

In "Musings Without Method" in Blackwood's Magazine for March, Charles Whibley, a great English writer, deals with President Wilson's attitude at the Peace Conference. In part here is what Mr. Whibley says:

The present conference chatters rather than dances, although the thousand and one typists who throng Paris have been given a ball-dress a piece by a paternal (or maternal) Government. And this chattering is something worse than a waste of time. It almost makes us despair of a reasonable settlement. Europe longs for peace, and she is given dissertations. The men chosen to restore a battered world cannot put off the baneful habit of rhetoric. They deliver showy orations, and appear to think that the same kind of eloquence as serves the demagogue will serve also the diplomatist.

The suggestion that the Bolsheviks should meet representatives of the other Russian Governments, as well as the Allies, upon an island in the Sea of Marmora, might have been made in a madhouse. The scoundrels Lenin and Trotsky, and the gang of blood thirsty Jews which follows them, are declared the enemies of the human race. No decent man should speak to them.

Decent Russians Refused

To confer with them politely and on equal terms would be a defilement. Especially was it an open insult to gentlemen like M.M. Sazonoff and Savinkoff to be invited to sit in the same room with miscreants who had slaughtered their friends and robbed their houses. Yet Mr. Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George did not take the trouble to ask the representatives of Omsk, Ekaterinodar and Ukraine, who were in Paris, what they thought of their plan. They made up their minds like tyrants, and awaited the result in self-satisfied confidence. As a necessary and proper consequence they received a rebuff which will not enhance the authority of the conference. M.M. Sazonoff and Savinkoff curtly refused to go; the Bolshevik assassins were left in the attitude of spoiled beauties who had been wooed by the conference, and wooed in vain; and there for the present is an end of it. What were the motives which led Mr. Wilson and Mr. George to embark in a cock-boat upon the Sea of Marmora? It is difficult to discover.

Difficulties for Allies

Whatever Mr. Wilson says or does is ascribed to a lofty idealism; but we love not the idealist, who makes difficulties for his Allies, in order to strengthen the enemy whom he was reluctant to fight. Mr. George, on the other hand, never ceases to play the political game, and perhaps he might conciliate the ineffable Mr. Lansbury, the effete Mr. Henderson, and his friend Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, by thus encouraging the Russian Bolsheviks. But he has weakened whatever influence he might have exercised upon the conference by his reckless levity; he has annoyed the French; and he has been properly snubbed even by his murderers themselves, Lenin and Trotsky. The ill-omened episode has done more than this; it has given the world a foretaste of the anger and ill-will which the precious League of Nations, if ever it come into being, will certainly arouse in all those of its members who value their sovereignty, and independence.

Wilson's Hobby Chilled

Of the second indiscretion, Mr. Wilson must plead guilty alone. The speech which he delivered upon his hobby, the League of Nations, was received in complete silence. It might have sounded well enough in a provincial debating society, Chatauqua would have rejoiced in it. It was wholly out of place at a Conference of Peace. It shone with the glittering commonplaces so dear to Mr. Wilson's countrymen, but it was light without heat, and when the poor little candle was put out nothing was left of it. The most that he said had no relevance to the matter in hand. With tears in his voice he explained that the strain of the war had been borne by old men, women and children, who bade us make peace secure for them. That is what we all want to do, not merely for women and children, but for the sake of the soldiers who have fought and died for our cause. He declared that if we do not make the league vital, we shall disapponit the expectations of the peoples.

Fears Scorn at Home

Neither his elections nor our own give him the smallest jot of support. Again he tells as that "if he returns to the United States without having made every effort in his power to realize this programme, he should return to meet the merited scorn of his fellow-citizens." That may be true, but it is an argument which does not touch France or England. We have no interest whatever in Mr. Wilson's desire to win the next election for his party. France and England are the neighbors of Germany; they have borne the brunt of the fighting; they have endured the heaviest sacrifices; and they are not yet responsible for their deeds and their policies to the citizens of the United States.

Who Are the Crusaders?

And then Mr. Wilson makes a claim for himself and his countrymen, which cannot for one moment be supported. "We stand in a peculiar case," says he. "As I go about the streets here I see everywhere the American uniform. These men came into the war after we had uttered our purposes. They came as crusaders, not merely to win a war, but to win a cause." Now, if these words mean anything, they mean that, while the Americans are crusaders, the French and English are not. Such a statement cannot be passed without a challenge. We also—the French and the English—were crusaders from the first days of August, 1914. We gave of our best without stint and without repining. We lost far more men in the first few months of the war than the Americans have lost altogether. We fought to win the war, because we did not know, and do not know, any other way of winning a cause except by winning a war. Moreover, if the Americans are "crusaders," they kept their hope of a crusade a profound secret for three profitable years; and they understood well enough, when they did join the Allies in 1917, that the victory of Germany would imperil their prosperity, even their existence.

Wilson's Sentimentality

However, Mr. Wilson, clad always in the robes of the sentimentalist, believes that his motives are purer than the motives of other men. He believes also that the fountains of the enthusiasm for the league "spring from all the ancient wrongs and sympathies of mankind, and the very pulse of the world seems to beat to the surface in this enterprise." Of these wrongs we have in Europe borne a far heavier share than has fallen to America's lot, and we are convinced that a hard peace is more likely to give us the security and indemnity which we demand, than a thousands pages of colored rhetoric. Indeed, as we read Mr. Wilson's speech, we remembered George Ade's fable of the pompous "spellbinder" who, "with his right hand inside of his Prince Albert coat," prated of "the Everglades of Florida," and was bidden by a discerning spouse "to let go of the flying rings and get back to the green earth."

Cannot Help Boasting

And that is what the members of the Peace Conference will not do. They will not get back to the green earth. Peace must be made, and Mr. Wilson matters not to them. So strong upon them is the habit of popular assemblies that they cannot help making speeches and boasting about their ideals. They confess a vast contempt for the great men who a hundred years ago settled the peace of Europe. They desire the arts of diplomacy, thinking that politics will serve them a better turn; and they prove daily to the world that without the arts of diplomacy they are powerless to affect anything, even agreement among themselves.

Insulting To Britain

If they are guided by any principle, that principle seems to be, that France and England, who have fought the fight, shall not profit by the victory; that Germany, who has outdone all the barbarity recorded in history, shall be hurt as little as possible in her pride or in her pocket. Nothing, for instance, can be more bitterly insulting to the just confidence of France and England in their right to govern than the "mandatory principle," which is to be applied to the colonies wrested from Germany. For some centuries we have borne "this white man's burden" without disgrace. We have done our best to make subject races happy, and we have succeeded. We have ruled our colonies, not in the hope of gain, but with the unchanging resolve to govern well. And now we are told that we must hold the German colonies under the League of Nations.

Symbol of Justice

This principle is good neither for governors nor governed. All sound sovereignty is in the nature of a superstition. The King of England has been a symbol of justice and peace to many thousands who never saw him. The benefits which he represents have been cherished the more warmly, becausce they were known to emanate from him. Do the politicians who in their bungling way are attempting to reconstruct the world, remember the universal and passionate grief evoked all over the British Empire by the death of Victoria the great White Queen? Who in Africa or in the South Seas will understand the ministrations of the League if it ever exists, or shed a tear if a Zeppelin remove with a single bomb all its sad uninspired bureaucrats?

SICK HEADACHE and CONSTIPATION
CURED BY
Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

IRISH WIT

The resignation of Tim Healey from parliament (says a writer in Tit-Bits) means that the House will lose its greatest wit. I recall from his inexhaustible list of witticisms, his description of a bill to which he objected as the offspring of "a headache of the Irish office," while he once declared that the making of the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman into chief secretary was an attempt to govern Ireland with Scotch jokes. One of Tim's most exquisite imaginings, however, was during a divorce case, when he said that "the spectacle of his learned friend's client crying in the witness box was the greatest miracle that had ever happened since Moses drew water from the rock."

IN HONOR OF DR. VAN DYKE

Costly Organ Installed by Grateful Associates in Church of Which Noted Man Was Pastor.

A new pipe organ has been installed in the Brick Presbyterian church, Fifth avenue and Thirty-seventh street, New York, "in gratitude for the ministry of Henry Van Dyke." Doctor Van Dyke, who was until recently American ambassador to the Netherlands, was for more than twenty years pastor of this church.

The new organ, which is one of the most complete and is today perhaps the most modern church organ in the United States, is a four-manual instrument of 120 stops and 6,000 pipes, with electric action. It is really a combination of six organs—great organ, swell organ, choir organ, solo organ and echo organ. The installation includes also a set of chimes. The echo organ and chimes will be placed above the ceiling at the rear of the church, over the apse. The other parts of the combination, are inclosed, each in its own swell box, and all in one general swell box, placed in the choir gallery over the front entrance to the church. Though the new organ is considerably larger than the one which it replaces, no architectural change is evident, much of the instrument being concealed behind the walls. E. M. Skinner of Boston is the builder of the new organ, which has been under construction since the summer of 1917.

It is understood that the organ cost in the neighborhood of $35,000. The fund was contributed by members of the congregation as a tribute to their old pastor, under whose leadership the worship of the Brick church was greatly enriched and beautified.

WROTE MESSAGES WITH DYE

Material for Invisible Writing Used by German Spy Was Obtained From Silk Hosiery.

A cleverly designed method of outwitting the government officials and furnishing information to the enemy was revealed in the early days of the war by the arrest of a man in Paterson, N. J., by naval intelligence officers.

The man, held as an alleged spy in a jail in Brooklyn, is said to have come from Holland and to have been employed in a silk dyeing establishment in Paterson. His unique method of sending messages to Germany called for the use of silk hosiery of a peculiar dye. It is said that he had received a dozen pairs of these socks from German agents in Holland and that his method was to soak them in water and use the coloring matter which they gave forth as a writing fluid. As this dried it became invisible until brought out by a special process, which, however, the federal agents are said to have worked out.

They, in turn, in learning the secret, opened his letters and changed the contents and forwarded the letters. The information thus received by the Germans proved of little use to them.

But for a long time, it is said, there was not enough evidence on which to convict this man, until one day through carelessness he left one of the socks where a naval intelligence officer found it. When confronted with this the man is said to have confessed to the entire project.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards— Receipts, 61 cars with 627 cattle, 351 calves, 1,857 hogs, and 71 sheep and lambs.

Owing to the very general observance of the Easter Monday holiday in the country, very few cattle were shipped in for yesterday's market. Packers, however, were early on the job, and a lively demand for the short run of cattle offering sent prices up a good 20c. to 40c. on choice butcher cattle. Fat cows and bulls were equally strong.

In the small meats, sheep, lambs, and calves were good and steady.

Hogs were firm, and a few sales indicated a quarter higher, though the market was unsettled.

WEALTH IN TEETH.

The teeth are threaded on fibres, and when a wealthy Papuan goes trading he brings with him strings of these teeth. The women greatly prize them and make them into necklaces, their wealth and standing in the community being indicated by the number of teeth which compose these ornaments. Wives and daughters of the influential chiefs wear rows on rows of them around their necks on every festive occasion. One necklet shown to the writer was composed of no fewer than 320 teeth, which means that eighty dogs were sacrificed to obtain them.

MRS. BALFAME

But—as the wise Mr. Broderick would have predicted had he not been interested elsewhere, during this period—the tension grew too strong for Alys Crumley. Nervous and high-strung, with her reservoir of human emotions undepleted by even a hard flirtation since her early youth, idealistic, romantic, and imaginative, she began to realize that with each long uninterrupted evening—Mrs. Crumley was the most tactful of parents—she was growing more feminincly sensitive to this man's magnetism and charm, to his quick responsive mind, to the mobility under the surface of his lean hard face, to the suggestion of indomitable strength which was the chief characteristic of the new American race of men.

It was not long before she was exaggerating every attractive attribute he possessed until he no longer seemed what he was, a fine specimen of his type, but a glorified superbeing and the one desirable man on earth. Her sense of superiority over this "rather crude Western specimen who knew nothing but his job," and to whom she could teach so much, had protected her for a time, held her fo maleness and imagination in abeyance, but insensibly his sheer masculinity swamped her, left her without a rock but pride to cling to.

It was then that she showed her hand.

For a time after her disovery she was merely furious with herself; she was twenty-six and no weakling, neither sentiment nor passion should master her. But this phase was brief. Infatuation is not cast out either by reason or pride, and very soon her mind opened to the insidious whisper: "Why not?" What was the career of staff artist, full of liberty, excitement and good fellowship as it might be, to marriage with an ambitious man capable of inspiring the wildest love? Sooner or later had she not intended to make just such a marriage?

From this inception her deduction followed in logical feminine sequence. If she loved him with a completeness which was both preadamic and neoteric, it was of course because he was consumed with a similar passion; in other words he was her mate. He might be too comfortable and content to have realized it so far, but only one awakening was possible, and hers was the entrancing part to reveal him to himself.

She knew that while by no means a beauty, she was as far from commonplace in colouring at least as in style. Her eyes were an odd opaque olive, their tint so pronounced that it seemed to invade the pale ivory of her skin and the smooth masses of her hair. It was a far more subtle face than American women as a rule possess, and the eyes in spite of a curious inscrutability that might mean anything were capable of a play of lights directed from a battery more archaic than modern: and late one evening after she had read him an impassioned drama (ancient) and there was a dusk rose in either cheek, she turned them on.

Rush immediately took fright. She had not roused a responsive spark of passion in him. Moreover, he was now haunted continually by the image of a sweet, remote, and (to him) far more mysterious woman whom he worshipped as the ideal of all womanhood.

There was more of the old time American suavity about Rush. He was abrupt, forthright, and impatient. But he was kind and innately chivalrous. He "let Miss Crumley down" as gently as he could; but he let her down. In less than a week she faced the bewildering fact that a man could strike loose a woman's emotional torrents while his own depths awaited the magical touch of another. It was incredible, preposterous.

For a time Alys, in the privacy of her atelier, raged like a fury. She cursed Rush, particularly when engaged in a violent struggle with the pride which alone held her from grovelling at his feet.

She was further incensed that he had revealed her to herself as a mere morbid unsatisfied girl, whose quarter of a century should be crowned by a little family of three; and at last she doubted if she had ever loved him at all. That she had been a mere female principle unable to escape its impersonal destiny disgusted her with life, but it served to restore her balance and philosophy.

Being a girl of brains and character she emerged from the encounter with pride still erected in the eyes of the man; and if his image was too deeply stamped into her imagination to prevent a recurrence of wild desire whenever she was so imprudent as to let her mind wander, she remembered that all great physical upheavals are followed by many minor shocks, and waited with what patience she could command for full delivery.

Of the sanguinary condition of the battle ground in his young friend's soul Rush had a mere glimpse before she took heed and dissembled. He assumed that she either had fallen in love with him after the fashion of girls when they saw too much of a man, or that she was eager to marry and improve her condition. He reproached himself for thoughtlessness, renounced the long evenings in the pretty room with a sigh, and in his bachelor quarters read the books of her choice. He had a very kindly feeling for her, for he knew that he owed her a debt; if he had not met the other woman—who could tell? Moreover, as he conceived it to be his duty to shield her from spiteful comment, he danced with her in public and joined her on the street whenever they met.

But if he knew nothing of the intricate and interminable ramifications of sex psychology, the infinite variety of moods peculiar to a woman in love, he was well enough aware that love is easily turned to hate, particularly when vanity has been deeply wounded; and although he had conceived a high esteem for Alys Crumley's character during the weeks of their intimacy, he knew that men had been mistaken in their estimate of women before this, and that if she discovered that he loved another woman she might be capable of taking the basest revenge.

It was possible that she was the noblest of her sex, and he hoped she was, but as he considered her that night, he realized that it behooved him to walk warily nevertheless. By the time he could marry Enid Balfame, or even betray his desire to marry her, this crime would have passed into county history. Of the real danger he never thought.

The vision evoked of Alys Crumley was accompanied by that of her home, and he looked around his stark bachelor quarters with a sigh.

The untidy sitting-room was crowded with law books and legal reviews; the maid had given it up in despair long since, and only swept out the ashes daily and dusted once a week.

In the small bedroom was an iron bed like a soldier's; neckties hung from the chandelier; on the bureau and table beside the bed were more books, several by the young British authors of the moment for whom Miss Crumley had communicated some of her rather perfunctory enthusiasm.

He flung his clothes all over the room as he undressed. He hated bachelor quarters. Six months hence he would be the master of a home as exquisite as the woman he loved. Balfame! The man was dead, but as Ruth thought of him his face turned almost black and his hands tingled and clenched. It would be long before he could hear that name mentioned without a hot upsurge of hatred and loathing. But it subsided and he took a bath and "turned in."

CHAPTER X.

As Rush walked to the Elks' Club for breakfast a few hours later he felt that suspicion was in the very air of Elsinore, the very leaves of the quiet Sunday streets rustled with it. Even on Atlantic Avenue there were knots of men discussing the murder, and in Main Street every man that passed received a hard stare.

Rush was thankful to observe that all looked as if they had gone to bed late and slept little, and when he met Sam Cummack on the steps of the clubhouse he realized the advantages of the habit of careful grooming to which the deceased's brother-in-law was quite indifferent.

"Oh, Dwight!" groaned Cummack, seizing his hand. "Where were you last night? I'd have liked to have you round."

"I was in Brooklyn and got back late. What's your opinion?"

"I've had a dozen but they don't seem to hold water. I guess it was a gunman, imported direct — though perhaps I'm just hoping it wasn't one of them trollops did it—for the sake of the family as well as poor Dave's nape. I don't want a scandal like that. Murder's bad enough, the Lord knows."

"What sort of footsteps in the grounds?"

"Every kind we've got in Elsinore, I guess. About forty people were runnin' round the yard before the police came. Funny that Gifning didn't think of that. But he says the breath was knocked out of him. Jimminy! I never knew anything to upset the town like this before—the county, you might say. The telephone's been buzzin' till the girls have threatened to strike. An operator fainted this morning—wonder if Dave knew her?"

"Well, I am rather surprised to learn that Ballame was so popular—"

"Tain't that only— though Dave still had lots of friends in spite of that ugly temper he was growing; but we've all got enemies—every last one of us—and to be shot down at his own gate like that—Gee, it has given every man in town the creeps. We must get the man quick and make an example of him. I hope I'm drawn."

"I hope he doesn't ask me to defend him. How is Mrs. Balfame bearing up?"

"Fine. She's as cool as they make 'em. I'd hate to be married to one of them encumbers myself, but they're damned convenient in times of trouble. Maybe she cared a lot for Dave; who knows? At any rate we must make people think she did. I don't want suspicion pointing to her."

"What! It is incredible that you should think of such a thing." Rush, always pale, had turned as white as chalk. "You can't mean that people are saying—"

"Not yet. But we've got to be prepared for anything, especially with these New York newspapermen on the trail. Unless we catch the murderer damned quick, every last one of us that was close to Dave that can't prove an alibi will be suspected. Why, I walked with him for two blocks after he left my house—thought he might not be able to make it alone, and he wouldn't go in the car; then, I didn't go straight home, either. I went to my office to straighten out something—Oh, Lord! don't let's talk of it; I must have been there alone, not a soul to see me, when he was shot. It gives me the horrors to think of it—"

"Nonsense! It was well known that you were his best friend. No one would think of you."

"They might! They might!"

"Well—about Mrs. Balfame?"

(To be continued.)

A HOT SPOT Chalmers wrings the power from gas

AS any one knows there is just so much power in a gallon of gas; and the great trick in a gas engine is to get all the power out and convert it into mileage.

Yet do you know how little power actually is taken out of gas by the average car? And how much power goes out the exhaust?

Ask any motor car engineer.

A Chalmers engine simply wrings power out of gas. Its famous Hot Spot "cracks up" the gas, just as constant chewing of food prepares it for good digestion before swallowing.

To get power out of gas the gas has got to be "cracked up." Then it has got to be placed into the cylinders in a "dry" condition. This the great Ram's-horn does to a work of engineering art.

You can tell how true this is the minute your foot touches the accelerator button of a present-day Chalmers and you get the feel of that throbless, frictionless power that means so much to your peace of mind, your tires, your bank balance and your self satisfaction.

The Invisible Conflict

From the moment of birth—and before—until the hour of death, there is going on within the body a constant conflict, unseen and usually unfelt, between forces that seek to defend, and others that strive to destroy.

Germs that enter from without are attacked and destroyed by the living guardians in the blood, the white blood cells or phagocytes. Poisons generated within seek entrance into the blood and are removed or destroyed by the functions of the intestines, liver and kidneys.

Food waste allowed to stagnate and remain in the intestines, unevacuated, poisons the blood and destroys its power to defend against outside or inside enemies. Such self-poisoning causes over 90% of human illness.

Constipation turns the tide of the invisible conflict against the body, in favor of the invaders. Nor does the taking of castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., to force the bowels to move enable the body to defend itself. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies but the dose must be constantly increased with an ever-weakening effect.

On the other hand Nujol overcomes constipation and brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals, because Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug. Nujol brings about a return to Nature's methods by supplying necessary fabrication of the bowel contents, by facilitating intestinal muscular action, by absorbing poisonous matter, and thus securing necessary cleansing of the intestinal canal and protection of the defensive properties of the blood itself.

War and the Sex Problem.

Did the war settle the sex question? Every thoughtful writer has a word to say about this, and every thoughtful reader wants to hear what there is to be said. Here is what William Frederick Bigelow says in Good Housekeeping:

"The war has liberated women from sex thraldom They have found that men have done few things that they cannot do as well. They are everywhere conscious of a change in their relations to the body politic, a change which has nothing to do with their registering, or not registering, a political opinion. They have made mankind their debtor. And they have done this without slighting their duties as women. There has been more home-keeping in America since America got into the war than there was in all the decade preceding. Women have merely worked instead of playing. They have released their energies in useful channels rather than in adventures after pleasures—and have found that happiness is a state of mind and not a condition. Their hearts, their imagination, were captured by the need for them, by the knowledge that without them their world would be broken up in chaos, and they responded to every call."

War Dogs.

Dogs were used in the army in various ways. The sentinel dog accompanies an advanced sentinel; despatch dogs carry despatches between commanders; patrol dogs range ahead and about the patrol looking for the enemy; ambulance dogs search the battlefield after the ambulance men have picked up all the wounded they can find; draft dogs are used to bring up munitions and food; listening dogs are highly trained animals used in the front trenches, where their keen sense of nearing enable them to detect sounds inaudible to the men. The dog in many places in Europe is a working animal, and has been readily adapted to war work.

American Catacombs.

St. Louis has catacombs like those of Paris. The mining of clay for brick and other products has left many chambers and tunnels beneath the outlying districts, as the quarrying of stone for building materials long ago has undermined certain European cities.

THE HEART OF POLAND.

Cracow, Its Buried Patriots and the Mound of Kosciusko.

Cracow is the ancient capital of Poland, the city around which cluster most of the glorious memories of that lost but not forgotten kingdom. There for more than 400 years the kings of Poland were crowned and buried, and for more than 300 years it was their seat of government.

There lie buried Jan Sobieski, who delivered Vienna—and thereby all Europe—from the Turks; Poniatowski, the famous general who became one of Napoleon's marshals; Mickiewicz, the poet of Poland, and Kosciusko, the patriot hero of the Poles. The tombs of all four are in the Stanislas cathedral, a beautiful Gothic church built in 1359, that crowns the Wavel, a rocky hill that rises on the edge of the town. There are other fine churches in the city, the Augustinian and Dominican among them, and there is also the great royal castle, which was long the residence of the kings of Poland, and fell to the uses of a barracks after the kingdom was divided and which has within the last fifty years been restored.

The city also contains a very famous old university, which dates from 1364 and in age is second only to Prague among the universities of Europe.

Cracow itself was founded about 700 A. D. More than once it was destroyed by the Tartars, rebuilt and recolonized by Polish, German and Bohemian settlers. From 1305 to 1610 it was the capital of Poland. Later it was part of the grand duchy of Warsaw, and from 1815 to 1846 it was, with its immediate neighborhood, a free and neutral state, a distinction it lost when internal disorders gave Austria an excuse to step in and take possession of the town.

One of the most interesting things in Cracow is Kosciusko hill, a mound of earth on the top of the Borislava hill. It is made up of handfuls of earth brought by Poles from every corner of the kingdom and thrown together to form a memorial to the Polish patriot, composed of the soil of the country he loved so well. Across the river Vistula on Krakus hill there is a similar mound, which is said to be almost 1,200 years old. It was, so tradition says, raised in the same way to the memory of Krakus, the Slavic prince who founded the city.

To the patriotic Pole Cracow is always the spiritual center of his fatherland—the "heart of Poland."—Youth's Companion.

SIBERIAN VILLAGES.

Life of the Peasants, Their Cottages and Their Steam Baths.

An interesting account of the characteristics of Siberian villages is given in his book, "Siberia," by M. P. Price:

"The villages through which we traveled on the way were Russian in every respect. Streets were wide and full of ruts and slime. The houses had log frames and rough hewn boards for the roof. They had a clean and well kept appearance and were surrounded by fences of wooden boards. Through the fence a gateway opened into a courtyard where the live stock were kept. A stream generally runs behind the village, and the manure from the yards is pitched in heaps along its banks, being carried away each year by the spring floods.

"There is a large room with a brick stove, taking up perhaps a quarter of the room. In this the family eat, live and sleep—some on the stove and some on the floor—while a separate small room is kept and reserved for visitors or others who are not members of the family. The rooms are whitewashed, and each member of the family has a steam bath every week in a but kept for the purpose outside.

"The notion that the Russian peasant is habitually dirty is most mistaken. Here, at all events, the average Siberian peasant's house could compete with the best cottages in rural England. The temperature of the rooms is generally rather a trial to such as are not used to extreme cold outside and sealed windows with a stove inside."

Had To Be Careful.

The best story the Peace Conference has brought out is that told in the New York World. When the German fleet surrendered to the British the captive crews were taken aboard British battleships One big round-headed German was plainly disgusted with the way things had gone and showed it. Walking up to a group of British sailors he spat overboard and said: "That's what I think of your verdammt fleet, and as for Admiral Beatty, why"—and he spat over the rail again. Then he spat a third time by way of expressing his opinion of the whole British nation. As he finished, a big British sailor hitched his pants up and said: "Look here, Fritz! You can say what you please about the British fleet—and as much as you wish toward Admiral Beatty — and think what you want about the British. But you be damn well careful whose ocean you go spitting into!"

HAD SEVERE COLD

AND TICKLING SENSATION IN THE THROAT.

This trouble is most distressing, and is caused from a cold that has settled in the throat.

How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat?

The dry, hard cough keeps you awake; and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks, combined with the lung healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mrs. G. C. Routley, Bright, Ont., writes: — "I take great pleasure in writing you of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For several weeks I was troubled with a severe cold, and a tickling in the throat. I tried numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I had heard so much about, and on taking one bottle got instant relief. I highly recommend it to those who need a quick cure."

So great has been the success of "Dr. Wood's" in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., it is only natural that many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE CITY OF TRENT.

Claim of the Italians to Disputed Region.

Trent is the principal city of the South Tyrol, or Trentino region, which was one of the allotments to Italy from the former Austro-Hungarian territory by the now famous secret treaty of London, of 1915.

Long the centre of the Irredenta movement of fervid Italian patriots, Trent and the Trentino region form one of the Italian territorial claims which has met with least opposition.

The inhabitants of Trent, largely Italian, resemble the French inhabitants of Alsace in their steady resistance of any overtures from the old dual empire, which they considered alien in language, customs and culture.

Now under discussion at the Paris Peace Conference, Trent figures in history because, nearly 400 years ago, the city was the meeting place of one of the most famous ecclesiastical conferences ever held — the Council of Trent. That ecumenical council, in sessions extending over a period of eighteen years, did its work so thoroughly that its standards set for Roman Catholic Church administration and faith still are recognised in nearly all points.

But the council has a secular interest just now, because of its method of organizing what practically was an international church peace conference, resulting in a closer league of Catholic churches of all nations. Sessions of the Trent Council were of two kinds, calling to mind the preliminary discussions and more formal sessions of the Paris peace envoys. One series of the Trent Council sessions was to be devoted wholly to debate, and at a second series results of such discussion were to be voted upon.

Another interesting bit of machinery of that conference was the division of the delegates into three groups. Each group was to discuss the same question simultaneously. This arrangement later was abandoned.

To-day one of the show places of Trent is the church of Santa Maria Maggiore, which has no aisles, where the famous ecumenical council met This building, like most of those in Trent, is early Italian in its architecture. Much older is the striking Romanesque Cathedral of white marble, begun in the eleventh century though it was not completed until four centuries later. Marble from Trentino quarries is to be found in a number of structures about Trent.

Though Austria has controlled Trent for more than 100 years the city's statuary, for the most part, memorializes Italians. In the Piazza Dante stands a statue of Dante, who is supposed to have visited the city, and in another conspicuous place is a statue of the Italian sculptor, A Vittoria.

Just outside the city is the great Castello del Buon Consiglio, where for hundreds of years that they ruled the city before it passed to Austria, lived the prince bishops. It was in the eleventh century that the bishops were given practically absolute authority over Trent. Before that Trent was a part of the Italian kingdom.

Trent is situated on the left bank of the Adige river. It is only 76 miles northwest of Venice. It is on the Brenner railway, about 57 miles north of Verona.

In 1900 Trent had a population of about 25,000. In addition to providing for a large tourist trade, the principal industries, before the war, were silk weaving, making of playing cards, pottery, cloth, wines and salami, a peculiar kind of sausage.

Tart Retort.

When "Orator" Hunt, who was a blacking manufacturer, was in parliament, Sir Robert Peel so far forgot himself in the course of an acrimonious debate as to taunt him with this fact. Whereupon Hunt replied: "The truth is, the honorable member is the first gentleman in his family, and I am the first tradesman in mine."

"Father," asked eight-year-old Alice, "are you good at punctuation?"

"Yes," replied the father.

"Well, tell me, please, how would you punctuate, 'The wind blew a postal order round the corner'?"

"Why, Alice, I would simply put a full stop at the end of the sentence."

"I wouldn't," said Alice, mischievously. "I would make a dash after the postal order."

Sure Way To Get Rid Of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

All willow or reed furniture will last longer if it is given an annual coat of oil. This keeps the fiber pliable and prevents its breaking.

Asthma Cured to Stay Cured

Thousands testified to the lasting benefit secured by

Catarrhozone

CURES WITHOUT DRUGS

One of the finest discoveries in medicine was given to the public when "Catarrhozone was placed on the market about fifteen years ago. Since then thousands have been cured of asthma and catarrh. An interesting case is reported from Calgary in a letter from Creighton E. Thompson, who says:

"Nothing to strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Findlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

The one-dollar package lasts two months; small size, 50; sampe size, 25c; all storekeepers and druggists or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

THE PRINCES ISLAND.

Another Incident Added to Their Long History.

A great many persons are interested in the Princes Islands, in the Sea of Marmora, where the warring factions of Russia have been asked to send delegates for a conference at which it is hoped the internal dissensions in the vast Slav dominions can be composed.

It would seem that the Peace Conference in Paris may have had the number of the Princes Islands in mind as well as their geographical location when they were named as the place of meeting on February 15 for the warring factions in Russia. There are nine islands—enough for each group of delegates to have an island to themselves should such a course of segregation prove expedient.

The islands lie from 10 to 15 miles southeast of Constantinople, near the Asiatic shore. Four of them are inhabited, and the largest of the group, Prinkipo (also called Pityusa, meaning 'rich in pines') has a population of more than 10,000, Turks and Greeks being about equal in number.

The islands in modern times have been popular as summer resorts, owing to the salubrity of their climate and their proximity to the Turkish capital.

Few islands have a history more poignant with tragedy, with high hopes and shattered dreams, with diabolical machinations of empire wreckers an makers than these few square miles of earth washed by the waters of the Marmora. The very name is significant of their past, for in the days of the Byzantine empire they were the retreats, either forced or voluntary, of princes and princesses who had fallen into disfavor at the nearby court.

Each island of the group could tell its own story of famous exiles. None is more pathetic, however, than that of Proti as the prison of the deposed Emperor, Romanus IV, called Diogenes. The life of this ruler read like one of the fictitious romances o Cleopatra's days. He was a distinguished young soldier descended from a Cappadocian family. Having been implicated in a conspiracy to depose his sovereign, Constantine IX, he was condemned to be executed for treason. While being led to his death, according to one account, he caught the eye of the empress regent, Eudocia Macrembolitissa, who instantly fell in love with him, granted him a pardon and shortly thereafter married him. After his coronation as emperor he led three successful expeditions against the Seljuk Turks, but his fourth campaign, against Alp Arslan, was a disastrous failure.

Compelled to pay a large ransom for his release, Romanus returned home to be defeated at the hands of a pretender to the thorne. Blinded, he spent his few remaining days of abject misery imprisoned in a monastery on the highest point of Proti.

On the island of Antigone, the great patriarch, Methodius, spent seven years of his life imprisoned with two brigands.

On Prinkipo, which is now dotted with fine residences and gardens, the traveler is shown the ruins of a convent in which eleven centuries ago the remarkable woman, Empress Irene I, was imprisoned for a time. A poor but beautiful orphan of Athens, Irene married Emperor Leo IV and soon became the true ruler of the Byzantine empire. Upon the death of her husband, she assumed the reins of Government for her ten-year-old son, Constantine VI. For a decade her reign was distinguished by firmness and wisdom. Then began the conflict with her ambitious son, which terminated in the greates blot upon her career, the capture of the fleeing youth, his return to Constantinople, which, by his mother's orders, his eyes were gouged out. It would seem that the ancients had good cause to interpret an eclipse of the sun, which took place about this time, as a sign of heaven's horror at such a deed.

Another famous prisoner of Prinkipo was Zoe, the wife of three emperors—Romanus III, Michael IV and Constantine IX.

One of the most populous of the islands is Halki (also spelled Chalcitis and Khalki) where there is a naval college and a theological college. A Greek commercial school occupies the site of an ancient monastery. At the entrance to the school is the tombstone of Sir Edward Barton, English Ambassador to Turkey during the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

On the island of Plato the peace delegates will find a castle, built after the model of Windsor Castle. It is now falling into decay. Once it was the summer residence of Sir Henry Bulwer (the famous author of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of American history), when he was British Ambassador at Constantinople. Upon his retirement, the one-time British Ambassador at Washington sold the island to the Khedive of Egypt, whose family still owned it at the outbreak of the world war."

Japanese Barbers.

The barbers of Osaka, Japan, who number 4,500, have approached local authorities with a proposal to establish a training school for knights of the razor. It has been complained that "many barbers in Osaka have not that elementary knowledge of surgery absolutely necessary for their vocation," and the better qualified wish to compel all intending to enter this profession to pass final examinations at the special school.

"Every word of it."

"And what is your conclusion?"

"That somebody wrote it."

CASTE IN INDIA.

Its Peculiarities Illustrated by the Religion of the Sweeper.

Among the yet unsolved problems of Indian ethnology is the religion of the sweeper caste. It seems clear enough through all the confusion that the supreme deity of the Chubras is Lalljura, or Lalberg, "a god without form or dwelling place."

A mound of earth, surmounted by a piece of stick and a bit of cloth for a flag, is this deity's shrine, and to it "poojah" is made and a little sacrifice offered of ghee, or grain. It needs no consecration, this simple shrine, and wherever the sweeper may be, if sickness comes or a gift is desired, the little shrine may be set up, with its queer bit of rag and stick, and the worshipper's prayer is made.

The sweeper will have nothing to do with the transmigration of souls. Once a sweeper always a sweeper, and even the ideal sweeper, Pir Jhota, with his broom of gold and basket of silver, cleans new the fourth heaven, the house of God, and sweeps the apartments of the highest." The good sweeper goes to heaven, however, after death, but in the heaven of a sweeper there is nothing to do but bathe and sit at ease.

The bad sweeper, on the other hand, goes to hell, where he is tormented by fire and wounds till the deity is pleased to vouchsafe relief. Between these two extremes is a kind of purgatory, where the sweeper who is not good enough for the one place and not bad enough for the other undergoes a sort of probation which either kills or cures him.

Of Balmik, the great leader of one sect of sweepers and now himself, like Pir Jhota, a sweeper in the courts of heaven, the accounts differ so widely that it is difficult to identify him. It seems clear, however, that with the profession of sweeper he combined the recreation of poetry, and there is some amount of evidence in favor of his having been the author of the "Ramayana."

He is alternately represented as a low caste hunter of the Karnal Nardak and as a Bhil highwayman who was converted by a saint whom he was about to rob. There is a legend, too, that he laid down his life for the sweepers of Benares and induced the people of that city to admit sweepers into their presence, as they had never done before.

As for Lalberg, the other great leader, he takes us back at once to the days of Homeric myth. He was born from the coat of Balmik and suckled by a hare, in proof whereof Chubras to this day abstain from eating hares. On the other hand, Leiberg was also born of a pitcher, through the power of Abdul Kader Kilani, and when the Prophet Elias was turned into a sweeper for spitting on the saints in heaven it was Lalberg who relieved him.—Times of India.

Her Only Drawbacks.

He called his typist to his office. "Miss Keytap, you dress neatly and you have a well modulated voice. I might add that your deportment is also above reproach." "You shouldn't pay me so many compliments." "I only want to put you in a cheerful frame of mind before taking up the matter of your spelling and punctuation."

Too Much Conscience

Los Angeles Times:—Two little girls, Frances and Agatha, had been very carefully reared. Especially had they been taught that under no circumstances must they tell a lie—not even a "white lie"—to deceive anyone.

One day, during a visit made by these little girls to an aunt in the country, they met a cow in a field they were crossing. Much frightened, the youngsters stopped, not knowing what to do. Finally little Frances said:—

"Let's go right on, Agatha, and pretend that we are not afraid of it."

But Agatha's conscience was not slumbering.

"Wouldn't that be deceiving the cow?" she objected.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE

A Story of Parisian Politics

By F. A. MITCHEL

Politics was running high in Paris A candidate was speaking to an audience, inveighing against the demagogues who, he asserted, were corrupting the masses. "Money," he said, "is flowing like water. There is a man in this audience who I know has received 100 francs for his vote. Just think of it—100 francs for the surrender of the invainable privilege he enjoys under the republic of expressing his wish in national affairs!"

After the meeting the speaker, Victor Daroux, was sitting in a restaurant on the Boulevard des Italiens with a couple of friends, partaking of a supper. He was just raising a glass of wine to his lips when a man stepped up to him and said:

"M. Daroux, I am the bearer of a message to you from my friend M. Charlier. He demands a retraction from you in tomorrow morning's journals of your accusation in your speech this evening that he has sold his vote. In case you refuse"—

Daroux, who was staring in wonder at the speaker, broke in—

"Why does M. Charlier assume that I referred to him in my remarks?"

"Because you looked directly at him when you made the accusation."

Daroux was deliberating what to do in the matter when a waiter approached and informed him that a gentleman in another part of the room desired to speak to him privately. Excusing himself, Daroux went to this newcomer.

"M. Daroux," said the man, "I represent M. Arnoux. He demands an immediate retraction of your accusation made this evening that he has sold his vote for 100 francs."

Daroux was tempted to laugh, but the speaker was so serious that he refrained.

"Why does M. Arnoux assume that I referred to him in my remarks?" he asked.

"Because you were looking directly at him."

Daroux was silent a few moments, then said:

"And if I refuse to retract?"

"In that case M. Arnoux expects that you will give him the satisfaction due from one gentleman who has wrongfully accused another."

"Let me have your address," said Daroux. "I will send an early reply."

Returning to his table, Daroux received the same announcement from M. Charlier's friend of what was expected in case of a refusal to retract and called also for his address. The man had scarcely gone when a third came and demanded a retraction for M. Blanc for the same offense and received the same answer as the others.

"It seems," said Daroux to his friends, "that if a guilty conscience counts for anything there has been a good deal of vote selling."

During the next half hour three more men demanded a retraction of M. Daroux for accusing them of selling their votes, and the accuser, after being informed that a refusal would be followed by a challenge, called for the party's address and promised to send an early reply.

"It does not seem so remarkable," said Daroux after the last man had been disposed of, "that so many men have sold their votes, but that the price in each case should have been a hundred francs. I had heard before rising to speak that 10,000 francs had been distributed among certain influential voters, but I did not know that a hundred francs was the current price paid. I fancied that some one of the persons bribed might be in the meeting, and it occurred to me to fire an effective shot by making a pointed accusation. It seems that I have killed half a dozen birds with a single stone."

These words were spoken to friends who were with Daroux when the avalanche of demands for retraction fell upon him. One of the party suggested that if the matter were properly handled sufficient capital might be made out of it to win the election. Daroux was running for the corps legislatif, but his opponent was so lavish with money that he had no hope of being elected. However, those gentlemen now gathered about him at the restaurant were shrewd politicians, and they set themselves to find a method of procedure by which the incident at home might be used to turn the scale in his favor.

It was decided to stave off the matter till the day before the election, which was to take place in four days. The day after the demands for satisfaction were made no reply was sent. The second day each one of the conscience stricken men received word that M. Daroux refused to retract. A reply to his refusal was returned by each one of the six men accused in the shape of a challenge to mortal combat.

Daroux chose six seconds to represent him, and since, being the challenged party, he was entitled to choice of weapons, time and place of meeting he instructed each second in accepting the challenge to choose foils, to appoint the time at 10 o'clock on the morning before the election and the place the Place de la Concorde.

Every challenger was struck with amazement that so public a place should have been chosen for the meeting. "I cannot see," said M. Charlier, "how he expects to make capital out of so great publicity. He has made an accusation which is thrown back in his teeth, and he must answer for it under the code. Surely there is no advantage in this." M. Arnoux was much puzzled at the choice of place of meeting, and M. Blanc—who, by the bye, had distributed the money used to buy votes—began to fear that some game was to be played. Nevertheless he did not see how he could do anything to prevent it.

At a quarter-to 10 on the morning appointed for the fight M. Daroux, surrounded by his six seconds and a surgeon, appeared in the Place de la Concorde, near the base of the obelisk. Paris was quite alive at that hour, and many persons were passing and repassing. Seeing the party at the foot of the obelisk, the seconds with foils under their arms, the surgeons with their boxes of instruments, persons stopped to learn what it all meant. Gradually a crowd collected, and the word was passed from one to another that there was to be a duel.

"Can you tell me," asked one of another, "who that distinguished-looking man is, with his arms folded, waiting?"

"That, monsieur, is M. Victor Daroux, candidate for election tomorrow for the corps legislatif."

"And why so many attendants?"

"That I do not know; I am waiting to find out."

At the moment a carriage drove up, and M. Arnoux, attended by his second and a surgeon, alighted. He seemed quite chagrined at seeing the crowd, but it had been not entirely unexpected. He supposed that Daroux was intending to make a display of his skill and bravery on the eve of the election. Arnoux, seeing that no one of the other party made any advance to begin the fight, said:

"Pardon me, gentlemen. If we are to fight so publicly it may be well to begin at once and have it over with."

"There is another ahead of you, monsieur," replied one of Daroux's seconds.

"Another! What other?"

"One who took M. Daroux's accusations to himself."

Arnoux winced.

Another carriage rolled up, and another challenger alighted. He, too, was delayed, and before the cause of his delay could be explained to him four other defenders of their honor arrived in quick succession. The crowd by this time had swelled and was in a fever heat of expectation. No one understood why so many men, each attended by a second bearing foils, should continue to pour in. It happened that M. Charlier, who was the first challenger, arrived last. As soon as he came M. Daroux's second begged the crowd to make room, since the duel was about to begin. The other five challengers protested, and the crowd began to hoot and yell, at the same time pressing the duelists so closely that there was no room for the fray. Finally some one of the crowd yelled:

"What's it all about?"

"It's a put up job!" cried one of the bystanders.

"There's half a dozen of 'em picking on one!" shouted another.

"There's an advertising dodge in it somewhere. Wait and see," was a third person's explanation.

"Here comes a gendarme!"

Meanwhile Daroux stood silent with folded arms, the only person whose dignified appearance commanded respect. When the gendarme arrived Daroux said something to him in a low tone, to which the officer assented.

Then M. Daroux, raising his hand to impose silence, made an explanation. He began by telling of hearing on good authority that a large sum was being used to hand his political opponent in office and of his having made a blind charge. Then he told how each of six different men in the audience had taken the accusation to himself and demanded a retraction or satisfaction.

"And now, my friends," continued the speaker, "I am here to back my words. I have accused none of these gentlemen. They have accused themselves. For we all know that a guilty conscience needs no accuser."

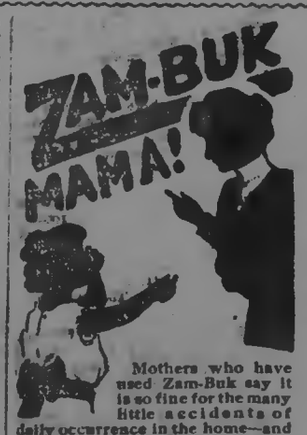
The men who had come to fight Daroux got away as fast as they could, amid the jeers of the crowd. Daroux entered his carriage with his attendants and drove across the Seine to the legislative building on the other bank, attended by an enormous crowd. There he alighted and made a political speech, in which he told the story to a multitude of voters.

Every evening paper in Paris had an account of the affair, and the cafes were filled with persons laughing at the way Daroux had exposed the corruption of his opponents. That night he spoke to an immense concourse, who demanded again and again to hear the story from his own lips.

The journals the next morning all published editorials upon the low grade to which Paris politics had sunk and the iniquity of using money at elections. During the day Daroux drove from one polling place to another and wherever he appeared was greeted with shouts of applause mixed with laughter at the way he had turned the tables on his opponents.

Before 9 o'clock at night it was known all over Paris that Daroux had been elected, and when the papers came out the next morning they announced a landslide in his favor.

What became of the six self accusers was never known. They got away from under the limelight as quickly as possible, and on the day after the election not one of them was to be found in Paris. Daroux was urged to proceed against them for bribery, but since the only evidence against them was what they had themselves furnished, no action was ever taken in the matter.



Mothers who have used Zam-Buk say it is so fine for the many little accidents of daily occurrence in the home—and especially where there are children — that they would not be without it. Not only so, but children who have had Zam-Buk applied to an injury or sore, when again injured, cry for Zam-Buk to be applied. They know that Zam-Buk stops pain. Nothing ends the pain of a cut, bruise, burn, or skin disease like Zam-Buk, and nothing soothes, draws out the soreness and heals so quickly.

Mrs. I. Wilson of Sarnia, Ont., says: "I could not do without Zam-Buk for my children. It is the best ointment we have ever used for burns, sores and cuts."

Mr. L. B. Andresen of 1407 E. 22nd St., Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "When any of the children, my wife or self meet with an accident, we immediately apply Zam-Buk. It has saved us many a doctor's bill."

Mrs. C. B. Ritcey of Riverport, N.S., writes: "My baby had sores on her face, caused by teething. Zam-Buk completely healed them."

Zam-Buk is equally good for eczema, ringworm, running sores, blood-poison, ulcers, abscesses, piles, boils and pimples. All druggists, 50c. box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp for free trial.

Children's Diseases Are Not Necessary

They Add Nothing to the Well-being of the Child and Invariably Leave the System in Worse Condition Than Before They Came

IN fact, they often sow the seed which, in adult life, develops into disorders of the heart and blood vessels and degenerative diseases of the kidneys.

So if children escape any child's disease they are the gainers in general health by just that much. It may be that years are added to their lives or chronic invalidism avoided. Then there is the enormous risk which every child runs who has measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever, or other diseases.

Perhaps this does not agree with your idea of letting your children have these ailments when young, with the belief that they must have them some time. This old idea has cost many thousands of lives. It is time to forget it, and to put forth an effort to save the children from these ailments.

All these children's diseases are known as germ diseases, and germs are harmless to a body strong enough to fight them.

Rich blood is the greatest of germicides. Therefore, seek to keep your children's blood rich and pure by giving them wholesome, nourishing food, and by allowing them to exercise freely in the open air.

If they grow pale and weak and languid—if they fail to derive proper nourishment from the food they eat—if their nervous systems get run down from the tax of school work—use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as the best means which medical science affords to enrich the blood and build up the exhausted system.

Children whose blood becomes thin and watery are helpless before an attack of measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, or other contagious disease. They seem to "catch" everything that is going. They are always "catching" cold. Their resisting force is nil.

But their young bodies soon respond to the nourishing, invigorating influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As their blood is enriched they become healthy, robust and rollicking—they enjoy their food—their play—their work at school, and grow into strong, healthy men and women.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box is the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

Chocolate.

Although the "drink called chocolate" did not appear in England until 1657, its restorative properties soon became generally known. Thus on May 24, 1661, after an evening of carousing, Pepys "worked in the morning, with my head in a sad taking through the last night's drink, which I am very sorry for; so rose and went out with Mr. Creed to drink our morning draft, which he did give me in chocolate to settle my stomach."

YANKS DO THE "IMPOSSIBLE"

For First Time in History Stone Houses Have Been Successfully Moved in France.

Declaring that is the first time that a stone house has been moved in France, Sergeants Abe Griesner and Mike Murphy of Company C have recently finished a job of moving a 250 ton structure and have set it down on its new site.

The French said it could not be done and declared that the only way the road could be cleared for the new line of railway track would be to tear the house down. But the sergeants with their detail of fifteen men started to work with jacks and rollers and soon had the house moving across the fields. News of the feat spread and the authorities sent a photographer from the French Academy of Sciences to record officially the stages of the work.

The house was placed upon its new site without a crack. It is believed that this demonstration of American ingenuity will save many stations along the lines where the Yankee engineers are building additional tracks and switching yards.—From the Spiker, France.

New Surgical Battle Formation.

The French Aid Society for Wounded Soldiers (Societe Francaise de Secours aux Blesses Militaires) has devised a new type of surgical ambulance which meets the needs arising during active military operations. This ambulance can be advanced and moved back quickly, being essentially different from those in use for some months. Furthermore, it enables the surgeons to render speedy, immediate and complete service to patients with extensive wounds of the thorax, abdomen or head. It consists of a number of large tents, one serving as a salle de triage, a second for local administration, another for preparing the wounded for operation, a fourth for radiography; an operating tent, connected with the steriliser camion, which contains two autoclaves, and, finally, the hospitalization or ward tents. For transport, the whole outfit is carried in two camions or trucks and two trailers.

THREE NOTED FRENCH TOWNS

Will Live in History as Having Given Their Names to Articles of Every-Day Commerce.

Three towns in northern France have given their names to articles of every-day commerce—Cambrai, from which "cambric" is derived; Arras, a term applied to a certain kind of tapestry, and Valenciennes, noted for its lace in olden times. Cambrai, too, is associated with the name of the great French ecclesiastic and moralist, Francois Fenelon, a statue of whom stood in the cathedral before the Germans captured the town. Fenelon wrote one of the most famous novels of the eighteenth century: "The Adventures of Telemachus," an account of the son of Ulysses. At Cambrai was concluded a very curious treaty, the so-called "Ladies' Peace," between Louise of Savoy and Margaret of Austria, representing France and Austria, respectively, in 1529. At Arras was born the celebrated leader of the French Revolution, Maximilian Robespierre, who organized the Reign of Terror by which he himself was finally to fall. Valenciennes no longer made the beautiful lace which its name suggests, but was a center for the manufacture of hosiery, trimmings, and handkerchiefs. It was the birthplace of two famous men—Watteau, whose paintings are regarded as perhaps the most characteristic products of French art in the eighteenth century, and Froissart, whose chronicles of the wars of the Middle Ages are full of movement and color. Near by is another famous town—Douai—whose name is joined with a version in English of the Bible prepared for the special use of the Catholic church.

ARMENIANS LOYAL TO ALLIES

None of the Conquered Peoples Have Shown More Devotion to Cause of Liberty Than They.

It has been the Armenians who have been most constant in their loyalty to the allies, and eight months ago, from the city of Van, 130 of them went forth to take up positions which had been vacated by Russians.

After the Turks took Erzerum last February they swept on against the national armies of the Armenians and Georgians through to Tabriz in northwestern Persia, threatening the southern Caspian ports and wiping out all Armenians they met, Maynard Owen Williams writes in Asia Magazine. They boasted that they would keep on until they met the Russian army, then nonexistent. The fight by the Armenians and Georgians, lacking allied support, became more hopeless. The Georgians bravely declared their independence last May; but hardly a month later 32 Georgian and Armenian delegates in Constantinople were utterly unable to do anything but accede to the Turkish demands that they withdraw their troops. It is evident that the Georgians are now completely dominated.

Delighted.

The examining officers at the prisoner pens talk German like natives but often the prisoners don't and that leads to complications.

One inquisitor, who had just used his best German vocabulary on an uncomprehending Hungarian, turned him over to a special questioner and took on five strangely-clad and somewhat bewildered prisoners who, after a great deal of shouting and arm waving, managed to convey the fact that they were neither Germans nor Austrians nor Hungarians nor Slovaks. They were Italians—five Italians taken prisoner last fall and set to mending roads behind the German lines.

They were much pleased when it slowly dawned on them what had happened, and they wanted to kiss General Pershing or somebody right away.—Paris Stars and Stripes.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

THERE are individuals such poor demonstrators that they can't even show the point of their own jokes.

Nobody would be guilty of writing an anonymous letter. That's why it is anonymous.

One-half of the world knows how the other half would live if it were running things.

Too many people keep all their courtesy for their acquaintances and all their indifference for their families.

The reason why some men are fast may be because they are trying to get away from their reputations.

We all consider reform an extremely good thing for our friends to investigate and seek to practice.

The only reason, probably, why all our friends haven't an ax to grind is because they can't find the ax.

Most people will speak the truth—for a consideration.

Relief Station.

My very warmest thoughts today
Go out to Cousin Jim.
I wonder if he'd like to have
Me drop a note to him.
For my vacation days are not
So very far away,
And on his farm it wouldn't cost
A single cent to stay.

For he possesses acres broad
And has a spanking pair
Of trotting horses that are built
To take one anywhere.
His table groans with choicest food,
And there I would be strong,
For if I went I sure would take
My appetite along.

A hammock swings beneath the stands,
His porch is broad and deep,
And on a sunny afternoon
A pleasant place to sleep.
His rolling fields are fair to see,
The stock is sleek and plump,
His cows are trained to furnish milk
That never saw a pump.

I know I would enjoy the time.
I wonder would he say,
"Come out and make yourself to home,"
Were I to write today.
I wonder if he would attempt
To even up old scores
For boyish pranks should I come out
And set me doing chores.

Had Proof.

"Who ever saw a purple cow?" asked the scoffer, looking at a collection of art posters.

"That is no sign there isn't any."

"Good enough proof for me."

"Well, it isn't conclusive. I should judge to look at it that the milk I get came from a blue cow."

An Exception.

"You never can tell what you can do until you try."

"Oh, yes, you can."

"I'd like to know how."

"That's as easy as catching cold. There is Bill Johnson eternally telling what he can do, and no one ever saw him trying yet."

Wasted Eloquence.

"O Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!" shouted the speaker.

"What crimes?" asked one who wanted to know.

"That speech, for instance," volunteered one in the audience.

Naturally.

"How do you feel?" breathlessly inquired the friend who has come running up to discover the result of the accident.

"All run down," replied the man who had just been bowled over by a large red automobile.

Desired to Settle.

"Hear about Wilson?"

"No: what about him?"

"Wants to marry his landlady."

"Is that so? I didn't think he owed that much on his board."

Homemade Pie.

"That man has an adamantine jaw."

"There enough."

"Wonder where he got it."

"Probably his wife does her own cooking."

Experienced.

"We should always make hay when the sun shines."

"Would you call a grass widow hay material?"

Busy Times.

This little joke upon the hen
Projected by some awful men—
They're going to rig electric light
And have her laying day and night.

Showed It.

"What college did you graduate from?"

"None of them."

"Let me congratulate the collegian."

SEEMED TO COME TO THEM

Few of Our "U" Boat Chaser Skippers Had Had Previous Nautical Experience.

"Where do the officers of the submarine chasers come from?" I asked an executive officer long in the navy, writes Samuel G. Blythe in the Saturday Evening Post.

"Everywhere," he said.

"Were they sailors?"

"Not many of them, some had had experience in motor boats and yachts and were amateur navigators, but the way they have picked it up is marvelous. Let me give you an illustration. When I was organizing the first flotilla that came over I questioned the young chaps who came before me as officers for the chasers. Of the first five on one day one had been a shoe salesman, another an accountant, another a car inspector and another an actor."

"Car inspector?" I said. "What's that?"

"He worked on a pecan ranch down south somewhere."

"They had had some sailing experience and had taken short special courses at a training school. Now of that bunch three are in command of chasers today, four brought their ships across and the actor is a unit commander, and a mighty good one, too. That's where we got them. The navy just reached out and collected them here, there and everywhere, and they are good stuff and making sailors of themselves mighty fast."

FEW SHIPS ARE TOTAL LOSS

Vessels Sunk by Mines or Torpedoes Patched, Raised and Taken to Port for Repairs.

Any one who imagines that all the vessels sunk by enemy U-boats or mines are left at the bottom of the sea would be surprised if he could be told the whole story of ingenuity, resource and unremitting toil of the British admiralty salvage corps.

Almost as soon as a vessel is sunk salvage operations are commenced. Divers are sent down to take accurate measurements of the size of the hole made by the torpedo or mine. Small holes are plugged with wood, but large ones are patched with "standards" patches. These are made of 12-inch wooden beams, and a patch sometimes weighs as much as 20 tons.

As may be imagined, the size of the hole varies greatly. In some cases it has measured 40 feet long by 20 feet wide, and in one case it has been known to be 48 feet long by 25 feet wide.

When the vessels have been plugged and patched, their cargo removed and the water pumped out of them they proceed to the nearest port where they can be permanently repaired.

Several vessels have been torpedoed after being refloated and have again been successfully raised and taken into port.

Miracle in the Mediterranean.

In an article on the submarine warfare in the Mediterranean contributed to the November Century, Herman Whitaker tells of a lad on one of the American destroyers who had been washed overboard in a black night storm and was thought to be hopelessly lost till a voice hailed the watch from under the stern. He had caught the logline, which trails for a couple of hundred feet behind, and hauled himself along it. Another escape was still more marvelous. Washed overboard at night from one of the destroyers, this particular lad was heaved by a wave upon the deck of another vessel half a mile astern. When he was restored to his own ship at the end of the voyage, his captain thus addressed him: "Young man, you have used up all the luck you will have in all your life. The navy is no safe place for you. Take my advice: get out of it as soon as Uncle Sam will let you."

Gave Revenue Officers Tip.

Revenue officers who arrested an Atlanta man with fifteen gallons of whisky in his motor car, found he had a letter from a Georgia farmer, saying that the writer had "some very fine pigs for sale at the low price of $7 each," and that "the sow had a litter of thirty," a remarkable thing in the animal world. On investigation, they found the sow to be a complete moonshine still and the litter to be thirty jugs of high-powered moonshine whisky.

German Efficiency.

Workmen, engineers and superintendents in factories caught in the north of France when the German army invaded the region have gradually worked their way back to Paris as repatriation has been accomplished. They bring the information that practically nothing remains of the industrial establishments anywhere in the invaded districts.

Mules Worth More Than Horses.

The government pays more for mules than for horses for war service. The average prices paid up to June 1 were as follows: Mules wheel, $226; lead, $189; pack and riding, $184. Horses, cavalry mounts, $161; light artillery, $188; heavy artillery, $221; young horses $142.

BURNS

LISTEN TO THIS

Some time ago my daughter was severely scalded about the legs with boiling water. Immediately following the accident we plastered the wounds with "Mecca," keeping this up every day and the result was the child suffered but little.

In a few months there was not a sign of a scar to be seen, although several of the parts scalded were very severe and scars would naturally be expected.

We have since considered "Mecca" an indispensable household remedy, and with pleasure give to it our hearty recommendation.

Yours truly,

New Trick.

A new method of fighting the U-boat menace is for the attacked vessel to drop a depth charge as the torpedo approaches. In daylight the wake of the torpedo can usually be seen quite clearly. When the depth charge explodes it either causes the premature explosion of the torpedo or else diverts the deadly missile from its course. This was found out quite by accident. A ship's officer in his excitement one day threw a depth charge overboard, it did the trick.

Wise Beyond Her Years.

He was a curly headed boy with life before him. She was a little girl with a saucy pug nose, but wise, it would seem, beyond her years. The fact that she was nursing a doll with eyes that opened and shut with a click may have been his inspiration.

"Say, sister, I think I'd get married if I knew how."

"Oh, that's easy," replied the owner of the pug nose. "First you buy a diamond ring and give it to her, then you buy a gold ring like mamma's got and give that to her. And then you must buy her a watch for her birthday."

"An' what she give me?" expectantly asked the little chap.

"Why, nuthin', of course," smartly replied his little companion.

"Say, sister," he added, "I guess I won't marry."

GUM TAKES PLACE OF WATER

Assuages Thirst of Soldiers Fighting in Country Where Liquid Was Practically Unobtainable.

Of all the varied means of masticatory stimulation which have been resorted to by man in all climes and ages the great American gum seems least harmful and most helpful. That there is a physiological demand for some masticatory stimulant, says the New York Medical Journal, is shown by the universality of the practice of chewing. Whether it be the tobacco of the American Indian, the betel nut of the East, the slippery elm bark, the tamarack and the spruce gum of the down-east Yankee, the sweet gum of the Gulf states, the chicle of the Mexicans, which, in its American adaptation, becomes the great American chewing gum, man has always felt the necessity of chewing something more than his meals. That there is a practically useful side for this habit is evidenced by the orders placed by the quartermaster of the United States army for 2,300,000 packages of this standard American dainty. We learn from the war department that the commanding officer of a field artillery regiment, about to embark, stated that 250 pounds of chewing gum would take the place of hundreds of gallons of drinking water when water was most needed and least readily obtainable. The American Red Cross recently cabled an order for chewing gum for use in the reconquered territory where the wells had been poisoned by the retreating Germans.

Types of Big Guns.

There is no known 75-centimeter gun. If there were its bore would be more than 29 inches. The famous French 75-millimeter gun has a bore a little less in size than the American 3-inch field gun, being approximately 2.95275 inches; the German 77-millimeter is a little larger than the American, being approximately 3.03149 inches. French and American shells could be used in the German 77-millimeter guns, probably with little or no change, while German and American shells could not, probably, be used in the French 75's without remachining.

Faces Ahead.

The chaplains from two Yankee regiments that had stormed the slope above the Ourcq came wearily back at sundown from the task of burying their dead. They were two much uplifted men, and their eyes were shining as they made their brief but eloquent report.

"In all that battlefield," they said, "we found, without a single exception, that every one of those boys died crouching forward, died with his face toward Germany."

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM PERMANENTLY CURED

New Brunswick Lady Gives Full Particulars of Her Recovery

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Jct., N.B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For five years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relife without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints, gave me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism cured it so that not an ache has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric Acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy, Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a CURE, order today, 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, sold by all dealers or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

CLEANLINESS IS HEALTH

By the use of Gillett's Lye, house cleaning is made a pleasure instead of a drudgery. It softens the water and cleans thoroughly whether the dirt is visible or invisible. Destroys all bacteria and infectious germs, removes obstructions from drain pipes, closets, sinks, etc. Refrigerators are made delightfully fresh and clean by using one teaspoonful of Gillett's Lye dissolved in two gallons of water.

"THE DOVE OF PEACE"

Woodrow Wilson at the Peace Conference.

In "Musings Without Method" in Blackwood's Magazine for March, Charles Whibley, a great English writer, deals with President Wilson's attitude at the Peace Conference. In part here is what Mr. Whibley says:

The present conference chatters rather than dances, although the thousand and one typists who throng Paris have been given a ball-dress a piece by a paternal (or maternal) Government. And this chattering is something worse than a waste of time. It almost makes us despair of a reasonable settlement. Europe longs for peace, and she is given dissertations. The men chosen to restore a battered world cannot put off the baneful habit of rhetoric. They deliver showy orations, and appear to think that the same kind of eloquence as serves the demagogue will serve also the diplomatist.

The suggestion that the Bolsheviks should meet representatives of the other Russian Governments, as well as the Allies, upon an island in the Sea of Marmora, might have been made in a madhouse. The scoundrels Lenin and Trotsky, and the gang of blood thirsty Jews which follows them, are declared the enemies of the human race. No decent man should speak to them.

Decent Russians Refused

To confer with them politely and on equal terms would be a defilement. Especially was it an open insult to gentlement like M.M. Sazonoff and Savinkoff to be invited to sit in the same room with miscreants who had slaughtered their friends and robbed their houses. Yet Mr. Wilson and Mr. Lloyd George did not take the trouble to ask the representatives of Omsk, Ekaterinodar and Ukraine, who were in Paris, what they thought of their plan. They made up their minds like tyrants, and awaited the result in self-satisfied confidence. As a necessary and proper consequence they received a rebuff which will not enhance the authority of the conference. M.M. Sazonoff and Savinkoff curtly refused to go; the Bolshevik assassins were left in the attitude of spoiled beauties who had been wooed by the conference, and wooed in vain; and there for the present is an end of it. What were the motives which led Mr. Wilson and Mr. George to embark in a cock-boat upon the Sea of Marmora? It is difficult to discover.

Difficulties for Allies

Whatever Mr. Wilson says or does is ascribed to a lofty idealism; but we love not the idealist, who makes difficulties for his Allies, in order to strengthen the enemy whom he was reluctant to fight. Mr. George, on the other hand, never ceases to play the political game, and perhaps he might conciliate the ineffable Mr. Lansbury, the effete Mr. Henderson, and his friend Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, by thus encouraging the Russian Bolsheviks. But he has weakened whatever influence he might have exercised upon the conference by his reckless levity; he has annoyed the French; and he has been properly snubbed even by his murderers themselves, Lenin and Trotsky. The ill-omened episode has done more than this; it has given the world a foretaste of the anger and ill-will which the precious League of Nations, if ever it come into being, will certainly arouse in all those of its members who value their sovereignty, and independence.

Wilson's Hobby Chilled

Of the second indiscretion, Mr. Wilson must plead guilty alone. The speech which he delivered upon his hobby, the League of Nations, was received in complete silence. It might have sounded well enough in a provincial debating society, Chatauqua would have rejoiced in it. It was wholly out of place at a Conference of Peace. It shone with the glittering commonplaces so dear to Mr. Wilson's countrymen, but it was light without heat, and when the poor little candle was put out nothing was left of it. The most that he said had no relevance to the matter in hand. With tears in his voice he explained that the strain of the war had been borne by old men, women and children, who bade us make peace secure for them. That is what we all want to do, not merely for women and children, but for the sake of the soldiers who have fought and died for our cause. He declared that if we do not make the league vital, we shall disappoint the expectations of the peoples.

Fears Scorn at Home

Neither his elections nor our own give him the smallest jot of support. Again he tells as that "if he returns to the United States without having made every effort in his power to realize this programme, he should return to meet the merited scorn of his fellow-citizens." That may be true, but it is an argument which does not touch France or England. We have no interest whatever in Mr. Wilson's desire to win the next election for his party. France and England are the neighbors of Germany; they have borne the brunt of the fighting; they have endured the heaviest sacrifices: and they are not yet responsible for their deeds and their policies to the citizens of the United States.

Who Are the Crusaders?

And then Mr. Wilson makes a claim for himself and his countrymen, which cannot for one moment be supported. "We stand in a peculiar case," says he. "As I go about the streets here I see everywhere the American uniform. These men came into the war after we had uttered our purposes. They came as crusaders, not merely to win a war, but to win a cause." Now, if these words mean anything, they mean that, while the Americans are crusaders, the French and English are not. Such a statement cannot be passed without a challenge. We also—the French and the English—were crusaders from the first days of August, 1914. We gave of our best without stint and without repining. We lost far more men in the first few months of the war than the Americans have lost altogether. We fought to win the war, because we did not know, and do not know, any other way of winning a cause except by winning a war. Moreover, if the Americans are "crusaders" they kept their hope of a crusade a profound secret for three profitable years; and they understood well enough, when they did join the Allies in 1917, that the victory of Germany would imperil their prosperity, even their existence.

Wilson's Sentimentality

However, Mr. Wilson, clad always in the robes of the sentimentalist, believes that his motives are purer than the motives of other men. He believes also that the fountains of the enthusiasm for the league "spring from all the ancient wrongs and sympathies of mankind, and the very pulse of the world seems to beat to the surface in this enterprise." Of these wrongs we have in Europe borne a far heavier share than has fallen to America's lot, and we are convinced that a hard peace is more likely to give us the security and indemnity which we demand, than a thousands pages of colored rhetoric. Indeed, as we read Mr. Wilson's speech, we remembered George Ade's fable of the pompous "spellbinder" who, "with his right hand inside of his Prince Albert coat," prated of "the Everglades of Florida," and was bidden by a discerning spouse "to let go of the flying rings and get back to the green earth."

Cannot Help Boasting

And that is what the members of the Peace Conference will not do They will not get back to the green earth. Peace must be made, and it matters not to them. So strong upon them is the habit of popular assemblies that they cannot help making speeches and boasting about their ideals. They confess a vast contempt for the great men who a hundred years ago settled the peace of Europe. They desire the arts of diplomacy, thinking that politics will serve them a better turn; and they prove daily to the world that without the arts of diplomacy they are powerless to affect anything, even agreement among themselves.

Insulting To Britain

If they are guided by any principle, that principle seems to be, that France and England, who have fought the fight, shall not profit by the victory; that Germany, who has outdone all the barbarity recorded in history, shall be hurt as little as possible in her pride or in her pocket. Nothing, for instance, can be more bitterly insulting to the just confidence of France and England in their right to govern than the "mandatory principle," which is to be applied to the colonies wrested from Germany. For some centuries we have borne "this white man's burden" without disgrace. We have done our best to make subject races happy, and we have succeeded. We have ruled our colonies, not in the hope of gain, but with the unchanging resolve to govern well. And now we are told that we must hold the German colonies under the League of Nations.

Symbol of Justice

This principle is good neither for governors nor governed. All sound sovereignty is in the nature of a superstition. The King of England has been a symbol of justice and peace to many thousands who never saw him. The benefits which he represents have been cherished the more warmly, because they were known to emanate from him. Do the politicians who in their bungling way are attempting to reconstruct the world, remember the universal and passionate grief evoked all over the British Empire by the death of Victoria the great White Queen? Who in Africa or in the South Seas will understand the ministrations of the League if it ever exists, or shed a tear if a Zeppelin remove with a single bomb all its sad uninspired bureaucrats?

SICK HEADACHE and CONSTIPATION
CURED BY
Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

When your liver becomes sluggish and inactive, the bowels become constipated, the tongue becomes coated, the breath bad, and the stomach all out of order.

Then come those terrible sick headaches. They take out every bit of life and ambition, bring on depression, and often end in complete mental and physical prostration.

To keep the liver active, and your bowels moving regularly, is the only way to get rid of the constipation and the distressing sick headaches. Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will do this for you by stimulating the sluggish liver into manufacturing sufficient bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular.

Mrs. Winslow McKay, Jordan Branch, N.S., writes: "I have been sick for a number of years with sick headache and constipation. I tried all kinds of doctors' medicines, but none did me any good. I tried Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and after using four vials I am completely cured. I would heartily recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are small and easy to take; and do not gripe, weaken or sicken as so many pills do. Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or, mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

IN HONOR OF DR. VAN DYKE

A new pipe organ has been installed in the Brick Presbyterian church, Fifth avenue and Thirty-seventh street, New York, "in gratitude for the ministry of Henry Van Dyke." Doctor Van Dyke, who was until recently American ambassador to the Netherlands, was for more than twenty years pastor of this church.

The new organ, which is one of the most complete and is today perhaps the most modern church organ in the United States, is a four-manual instrument of 120 stops and 6,000 pipes, with electric action. It is really a combination of six organs—great organ, swell organ, choir organ, solo organ and echo organ. The installation includes also a set of chimes. The echo organ and chimes will be placed above the ceiling at the rear of the church, over the apse. The other parts of the combination, are inclosed, each in its own swell box, and all in one general swell box, placed in the choir gallery over the front entrance to the church. Though the new organ is considerably larger than the one which it replaces, no architectural change is evident, much of the instrument being concealed behind the walls. E. M. Skinner of Boston is the builder of the new organ, which has been under construction since the summer of 1917.

It is understood that the organ cost in the neighborhood of $35,000. The fund was contributed by members of the congregation as a tribute to their old pastor, under whose leadership the worship of the Brick church was greatly enriched and beautified.

WROTE MESSAGES WITH DYE

Material for Invisible Writing Used by German Spy Was Obtained From Silk Hosiery.

A cleverly designed method of outwitting the government officials and furnishing information to the enemy was revealed in the early days of the war by the arrest of a man in Paterson, N. J., by naval intelligence officers.

The man, held as an alleged spy in a jail in Brooklyn, is said to have come from Holland and to have been employed in a silk dyeing establishment in Paterson. His unique method of sending messages to Germany called for the use of silk hosiery of a peculiar dye. It is said that he had received a dozen pairs of these socks from German agents in Holland and that his method was to soak them in water and use the coloring matter which they gave forth as a writing fluid. As this dried it became invisible until brought out by a special process, which, however, the federal agents are said to have worked out.

They, in turn, in learning the secret, opened his letters and changed the contents and forwarded the letters. The information thus received by the Germans proved of little use to them.

But for a long time, it is said, there was not enough evidence on which to convict this man, until one day through carelessness he left one of the socks where a naval intelligence officer found it. When confronted with this the man is said to have confessed to the entire project.

IRISH WIT

The resignation of Tim Healey from parliament (says a writer in Tit-Bits) means that the House will lose its greatest wit. I recall from his inexhaustible list of witticisms, his description of a bill to which he objected as the offspring of "a headache of the Irish office," while he once declared that the making of the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman into chief secretary was an attempt to govern Ireland with Scotch jokes. One of Tim's most exquisite imaginings, however, was during a divorce case, when he said that "the spectacle of his learned friend's client crying in the witness box was the greatest miracle that had ever happened since Moses drew water from the rock."

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards— Receipts, 61 cars with 627 cattle, 351 calves, 1,857 hogs, and 71 sheep and lambs.

Owing to the very general observance of the Easter Monday holiday in the country, very few cattle were shipped in for yesterday's market. Packers, however, were early on the job, and a lively demand for the short run of cattle offering sent prices up a good 20c. to 40c. on choice butcher cattle. Fat cows and bulls were equally strong.

In the small meats, sheep, lambs, and calves were good and steady.

Hogs were firm, and a few sales indicated a quarter higher, though the market was unsettled.

WEALTH IN TEETH.

The teeth are threaded on fibres, and when a wealthy Papuan goes trading he brings with him strings of these teeth. The women greatly prize them and make them into necklaces, their wealth and standing in the community being indicated by the number of teeth which compose these ornaments. Wives and daughters of the influential chiefs wear rows on rows of them around their necks on every festive occasion. One necklet shown to the writer was composed of no fewer than 320 teeth, which means that eighty dogs were sacrificed to obtain them.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

But—as the wise Mr. Broderick would have predicted had he not been interested elsewhere during this period—the tension grew too strong for Alys Crumley. Nervous and high-strung, with her reservoir of human emotions undepleted by even a hard flirtation since her early youth, idealistic, romantic, and imaginative, she began to realize that with each long uninterrupted evening—Mrs. Crumley was the most tactful of parents—she was growing more femininely sensitive to this man's magnetism and charm, to his quick responsive mind, to the mobility under the surface of his lean hard face, to the suggestion of indomitable strength which was the chief characteristic of the new American race of men.

It was not long before she was exaggerating every attractive attribute he possessed until he no longer seemed what he was, a fine specimen of his type, but a glorified superbeing and the one desirable man on earth. Her sense of superiority over this "rather crude Western specimen who knew nothing but his job," and to whom she could teach so much, had protected her for a time, held her fearlessness and imagination in abeyance, but insensibly his sheer masculinity swamped her, left her without a rock but pride to cling to.

It was then that she showed her hand.

For a time after her disovery she was merely furious with herself; she was twenty-six and no weakling, neither sentiment nor passion should master her. But this phase was brief. Infatuation is not cast out either by reason or pride, and very soon her mind opened to the insidious whisper: "Why not?" What was the career of staff artist, full of liberty, excitement and good fellowship as it might be, to marriage with an ambitious man capable of inspiring the wildest love? Sooner or later had she not intended to make just such a marriage?

From this inception her deductions followed in logical feminine sequence. If she loved him with a completeness which was both preadamic and neoteric, it was of course because he was consumed with a similar passion; in other words he was her mate. He might be too comfortable and content to have realized it so far, but only one awakening was possible, and hers was the entrancing part to reveal him to himself.

She knew that while by no means a beauty, she was as far from commonplace in colouring at least as in style. Her eyes were an odd opaque olive, their tint so pronounced that it seemed to invade the pale ivory of her skin and the smooth masses of her hair. It was a far more subtle face than American women as a rule possess, and the eyes in spite of a curious inscrutability that might mean anything were capable of a play of lights directed from a battery more archaic than modern; and late one evening after she had read him an impassioned drama (ancient) and there was a dusk rose in either cheek, she turned them on.

Rush immediately took fright. She had not roused a responsive spark of passion in him. Moreover, he was now haunted continually by the image of a sweet, remote, and (to him) far more mysterious woman whom he worshipped as the ideal of all womanhood.

There was more of the old time American suavity about Rush. He was abrupt, forthright, and impatient. But he was kind and innately chivalrous. He "let Miss Crumley down" as gently as he could; but he let her down. In less than a week she faced the bewildering fact that a man could strike loose a woman's emotional torrents while his own depths awaited the magical touch of another. It was incredible, preposterous.

For a time Alys, in the privacy of her atelier, raged like a fury. She cursed Rush, particularly when engaged in a violent struggle with the pride which alone held her from grovelling at his feet.

She was further incensed that he had revealed her to herself as a mere morbid unsatisfied girl, whose quarter of a century should be crowned by a little family of three; and at last she doubted if she had ever loved him at all. That she had been a mere ideal principle unable to escape its impersonal destiny disgusted her with life, but it served to restore her balance and philosophy.

Being a girl of brains and character she emerged from the encounter with pride still erected in the eyes of the man; and if his image was too deeply stamped into her imagination to prevent a recurrence of wild desire whenever she was so imprudent as to let her mind wander, she remembered that all great physical upheavals are followed by many minor shocks, and waited with what patience she could command for full delivery.

Of the sanguinary condition of the battle ground in his young friend's soul Rush had a mere glimpse before she took heed and dissembled. He assumed that she either had fallen in love with him after the fashion of girls when they saw too much of a man, or that she was eager to marry and improve her condition. He reproached himself for thoughtlessness, renounced the long evenings in the pretty room with a sigh, and in his bachelor quarters read the books of her choice. He had a very kindly feeling for her, for he knew that he owed her a debt; if he had not met the other woman —who could tell? Moreover, as he conceived it to be his duty to shield her from spiteful comment, he danced with her in public and joined her on the street whenever they met.

But if he knew nothing of the intricate and interminable ramifications of sex psychology, the infinite variety of moods peculiar to a woman in love, he was well enough aware that love is easily turned to hate, particularly when vanity has been deeply wounded; and although he had conceived a high esteem for Alys Crumley's character during the weeks of their intimacy, he knew that men had been mistaken in their estimate of women before this, and that if she discovered that he loved another woman she might be capable of taking the basest revenge.

It was possible that she was the noblest of her sex, and he hoped she was, but as he considered her that night, he realized that it behooved him to walk warily nevertheless. By the time he could marry Enid Balfame, or even betray his desire to marry her, this crime would have passed into county history. Of the real danger he never thought.

The vision evoked of Alys Crumley was accompanied by that of her home, and he looked around his stark bachelor quarters with a sigh.

The untidy sitting-room was crowded with law books and legal reviews; the maid had given it up in despair long since, and only swept out the ashes daily and dusted once a week.

In the small bedroom was an iron bed like a soldier's; neckties hung from the chandelier; on the bureau and table beside the bed were more books, several by the young British authors of the moment for whom Miss Crumley had communicated some of her rather perfunctory enthusiasm.

He flung his clothes all over the room as he undressed. He hated bachelor quarters. Six months hence he would be the master of a home as exquisite as the woman he loved. Balfame! The man was dead, but as Ruth thought of him his face turned almost black and his hands tingled and clenched. It would be long before he could hear that name mentioned without a hot uprush of hatred and loathing. But it subsided and he took a bath and "turned in."

The Invisible Conflict

From the moment of birth—and before—until the hour of death, there is going on within the body a constant conflict, unseen and usually unfelt, between forces that seek to defend, and others that strive to destroy.

Germs that enter from without are attacked and destroyed by the living guardians in the blood, the white blood cells or phagocytes. Poisons generated within seek entrance into the blood and are removed or destroyed by the functions of the intestines, liver and kidneys.

Food waste allowed to stagnate and remain in the intestines, unevacuated, poisons the blood and destroys its power to defend against outside or inside enemies. Such self-poisoning causes over 90% of human illness.

Constipation turns the tide of the invisible conflict against the body, in favor of the invaders. Nor does the taking of castor oil, pills, salts, mineral waters, etc., to force the bowels to move enable the body to defend itself. Not only will the constipation grow worse with the continuance of such remedies but the dose must be constantly increased with an ever-weakening effect.

On the other hand Nujol overcomes constipation and brings about the habit of easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals, because Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug. Nujol brings about a return to Nature's methods by supplying necessary lubrication of the bowel contents, by facilitating intestinal muscular action, by absorbing poisonous matter, and thus securing necessary cleansing of the intestinal canal and protection of the defensive properties of the blood itself.

A HOT SPOT Chalmers wrings the power from gas

As any one knows there is just so much power in a gallon of gas; and the great trick in a gas engine is to get all the power out and convert it into mileage.

Yet do you know how little power actually is taken out of gas by the average car? And how much power goes out the exhaust?

Ask any motor car engineer.

A Chalmers engine simply wrings power out of gas. Its famous Hot Spot "cracks up" the gas, just as constant chewing of food prepares it for good digestion before swallowing.

To get power out of gas the gas has got to be "cracked up." Then it has got to be placed into the cylinders in a "dry" condition. This the great Ram's-horn does to a work of engineering art.

You can tell how true this is the minute your foot touches the accelerator button of a present day Chalmers and you get the feel of that throbless, frictionless power that means so much to your peace of mind, your tires, your bank balance and your self satisfaction.

CHAPTER X.

As Rush walked to the Elks' Club for breakfast a few hours later he felt that suspicion was in the very air of Elsinore, the very leaves of the quiet Sunday streets rustled with it. Even on Atlantic Avenue there were knots of men discussing the murder, and in Main Street every man that passed received a hard stare.

Rush was thankful to observe that all looked as if they had gone to bed late and slept little, and when he met Sam Cummack on the steps of the clubhouse he realised the advantages of the habit of careful grooming to which the deceased's brother-in-law was quite indifferent.

"Oh, Dwight!" groaned Cummack, seizing his hand. "Where were you last night? I'd have liked to have you round."

"I was in Brooklyn and got back late. What's your opinion?"

"I've had a dozen but they don't seem to hold water. I guess it was a gunman, imported direct — though perhaps I'm just hoping it wasn't one of them trollops did it—for the sake of the family as well as poor Dave's name. I don't want a scandal like that. Murder's bad enough, the Lord knows."

"What sort of footsteps in the grounds?"

"Every kind we've got in Elsinore, I guess. About forty people were runnin' round the yard before the police came. Funny that Gilning didn't think of that. But he says the breath was knocked out of him. Jimminy! I never knew anything to upset the town like this before—the county, you might say. The telephone's been buzzin' till the girls have threatened to strike. An operator fainted this morning—wonder if Dave knew her?"

"Well, I am rather surprised to learn that Balfame was so popular—"

"Tain't that only— though Dave still had lots of friends in spite of that ugly temper he was growing; but we've all got enemies—every last one of us—and to be shot down at his own gate like that—Gee, it has given every man in town the creeps. We must get the man quick and make an example of him. I hope I'm drawn."

"I hope he doesn't ask me to defend him. How is Mrs. Balfame bearing up?"

"Fine. She's as cool as they make 'em. I'd hate to be married to one of them cucumbers myself, but they're damned convenient in times of trouble. Maybe she cared a lot for Dave; who knows? At any rate we must make people think she did. I don't want suspicion pointing to her."

"What! It is incredible that you should think of such a thing." Rush always pale, had turned as white as chalk. "You can't mean that people are saying—"

"Not yet. But we've got to be prepared for anything, especially with these New York newspapermen on the trail. Unless we catch the murderer damned quick, every last one of us that was close to Dave that can't prove an alibi will be suspected. Why, I walked with him for two blocks after he left my house—thought he might not be able to make it alone, and he wouldn't go in the car; then, I didn't go straight home, either. I went to my office to straighten out something—Oh, Lord! don't let's talk of it; I must have been there alone, not a soul to see me, when he was shot. It gives me the horrors to think of it—"

"Nonsense! It was well known that you were his best friend. No one would think of you."

"They might! They might!"

"Well—about Mrs. Balfame?"

THE HEART OF POLAND.

Cracow, Its Buried Patriots and the Hill of Kosciusko.

Cracow is the ancient capital of Poland, the city around which cluster most of the glorious memories of that lost but not forgotten kingdom. There for more than 400 years the kings of Poland were crowned and buried, and for more than 300 years it was their seat of government.

There lie buried Jan Sobieski, who delivered Vienna—and thereby all Europe—from the Turks; Poniatowski, the famous general who became one of Napoleon's marshals; Mickiewicz, the poet of Poland, and Kosciusko, the patriot hero of the Poles. The tombs of all four are in the Stanislas cathedral, a beautiful Gothic church built in 1359, that crowns the Wavel, a rocky hill that rises on the edge of the town. There are other fine churches in the city, the Augustinian and Dominican among them, and there is also the great royal castle, which was long the residence of the kings of Poland, and fell to the uses of a barracks after the kingdom was divided and which has within the last fifty years been restored.

The city also contains a very famous old university, which dates from 1364 and in age is second only to Prague among the universities of Europe.

Cracow itself was founded about 700 A. D. More than once it was destroyed by the Tartars, rebuilt and recolonized by Polish, German and Bohemian settlers. From 1305 to 1610 it was the capital of Poland. Later it was part of the grand duchy of Warsaw, and from 1815 to 1846 it was, with its immediate neighborhood, a free and neutral state, a distinction it lost when internal disorders gave Austria an excuse to step in and take possession of the town.

One of the most interesting things in Cracow is Kosciusko hill, a mound of earth on the top of the Borislave hill. It is made up of handfuls of earth brought by Poles from every corner of the kingdom and thrown together to form a memorial to the Polish patriot, composed of the soil of the country he loved so well. Across the river Vistula on Krakus hill there is a similar mound, which is said to be almost 1,200 years old. It was, so tradition says, raised in the same way to the memory of Krakus, the Slavic prince who founded the city.

Had To Be Careful.

The best story the Peace Conference has brought out is that told in the New York World. When the German fleet surrendered to the British the captive crews were taken aboard British battleships. One big round-headed German was plainly disgusted with the way things had gone and showed it. Walking up to a group of British sailors he spat overboard and said: "That's what I think of your verdammt fleet, and as for Admiral Beatty, why"—and he spat over the rail again. Then he spat a third time by way of expressing his opinion of the whole British nation. As he finished, a big British sailor hitched his pants up and said: "Look here, Fritz! You can say what you please about the British fleet—and as much as you wish toward Admiral Beatty — and think what you want about the British. But you be damn well careful whose ocean you go spitting into!"

HAD SEVERE COLD

AND TICKLING SENSATION IN THE THROAT.

This trouble is most distressing, and is caused from a cold that has settled in the throat.

How many people have lost a good night's sleep by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat?

The dry, hard cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which is composed of the most soothing and healing expectorant herbs and barks, combined with the lung healing virtues of the world-famous Norway pine tree, will give almost instant relief in all cases of this nature.

Mrs. G. C. Routley, Bright, Ont., writes: — "I take great pleasure in writing you of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

For several weeks I was troubled with a severe cold, and a tickling in the throat. I tried numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I had heard so much about, and on taking one bottle got instant relief. I highly recommend it to those who need a quick cure."

So great has been the success of "Dr. Wood's" in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis, etc., it is only natural that many imitations have been placed on the market. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c. and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE CITY OF TRENT.

Claim of the Italians to Disputed Region.

Trent is the principal city of the South Tyrol, or Trentino region, which was one of the allotments to Italy from the former Austro-Hungarian territory by the now famous secret treaty of London, of 1915.

Long the centre of the Irredenta movement of fervid Italian patriots, Trent and the Trentino region form one of the Italian territorial claims which has met with least opposition.

The inhabitants of Trent, largely Italian, resemble the French inhabitants of Alsace in their steady resistance of any overtures from the old dual empire, which they considered alien in language, customs and culture.

Now under discussion at the Paris Peace Conference, Trent figures in history because, nearly 400 years ago, the city was the meeting place of one of the most famous ecclesiastical conferences ever held — the Council of Trent. That ecumenical council, in sessions extending over a period of eighteen years, did its work so thoroughly that its standards set for Roman Catholic Church administration and faith still are recognized in nearly all points.

But the council has a secular interest just now, because of its method of organizing what practically was an international church peace conference, resulting in a closer league of Catholic churches of all nations. Sessions of the Trent Council were of two kinds, calling to mind the preliminary discussions and more formal sessions of the Paris peace envoys. One series of the Trent Council sessions was to be devoted wholly to debate, and at a second series results of such discussion were to be voted upon.

Another interesting bit of machinery of that conference was the division of the delegates into three groups. Each group was to discuss the same question simultaneously. This arrangement later was abandoned.

To-day one of the show places of Trent is the church of Santa Maria Maggiore, which has no aisles, where the famous ecumenical council met. This building, like most of those in Trent, is early Italian in its architecture. Much older is the striking Romanesque Cathedral of white marble, begun in the eleventh century though it was not completed until four centuries later. Marble from Trentino quarries is to be found in a number of structures about Trent.

Though Austria has controlled Trent for more than 100 years, the city's statuary, for the most part, memorializes Italians. In the Piazza Dante stands a statue of Dante, who is supposed to have visited the city, and in another conspicuous place is a statue of the Italian sculptor, A Vittoria.

Just outside the city is the great Castello del Buon Consiglio, where for hundreds of years that they ruled the city before it passed to Austria, lived the prince bishops. It was in the eleventh century that the bishops were given practically absolute authority over Trent. Before that Trent was a part of the Italian kingdom.

Trent is situated on the left bank of the Adige river. It is only 76 miles northwest of Venice. It is on the Brenner railway, about 57 miles north of Verona.

In 1900 Trent had a population of about 25,000. In addition to providing for a large tourist trade, the principal industries, before the war, were silk weaving, making of playing cards, pottery, cloth, wines and salami, a peculiar kind of sausage.

Tart Retort.

When "Orator" Hunt, who was a blacking manufacturer, was in parliament, Sir Robert Peel so far forgot himself in the course of an acrimonious debate as to taunt him with this fact. Whereupon Hunt replied: "The truth is the honorable member is the first gentleman in his family, and I am the first tradesman in mine."

Punctuation

"Father," asked eight-year-old Alice, "are you good at punctuation?"

"Yes," replied the father.

"Well, tell me, please, how would you punctuate, 'The wind blew a postal order round the corner'?"

"Why, Alice, I would simply put a full stop at the end of the sentence."

"I wouldn't," said Alice, mischievously. "I would make a dash after the postal order."

Sure Way To Get Rid Of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

All willow or reed furniture will last longer if it is given an annual coat of oil. This keeps the fiber pliable and prevents its breaking.

War and the Sex Problem.

Did the war settle the sex question? Every thoughtful writer has a word to say about this, and every thoughtful reader wants to hear what there is to be said. Here is what William Frederick Bigelow says in Good Housekeeping:

"The war has liberated women from sex thraldom. They have found that men have done few things that they cannot do as well. They are everywhere conscious of a change in their relations to the body politic, a change which has nothing to do with their registering, or not registering, a political opinion. They have made mankind their debtor. And they have done this without slighting their duties as women. There has been more home-keeping in America since America got into the war than there was in all the decade preceding. Women have merely worked instead of playing. They have released their energies in useful channels rather than in adventures after pleasures—and have found that happiness is a state of mind and not a condition. Their hearts, their imagination, were captured by the need for them, by the knowledge that without them their world would be broken up in chaos, and they responded to every call."

War Dogs.

Dogs were used in the army in various ways. The sentinel dog accompanies an advanced sentinel; despatch dogs carry despatches between commanders; patrol dogs range ahead and about the patrol looking for the enemy; ambulance dogs search the battlefield after the ambulance men have picked up all the wounded they can find; draft dogs are used to bring up munitions and food; listening dogs are highly trained animals used in the front trenches, where their keen sense of hearing enable them to detect sounds inaudible to the men. The dog in many places in Europe is a working animal, and has been readily adapted to war work.

American Catacombs.

St. Louis has catacombs like those of Paris. The mining of clay for brick and other products has left many chambers and tunnels beneath the outlying districts, as the quarrying of stone for building materials long ago has undermined certain European cities.

SIBERIAN VILLAGES:

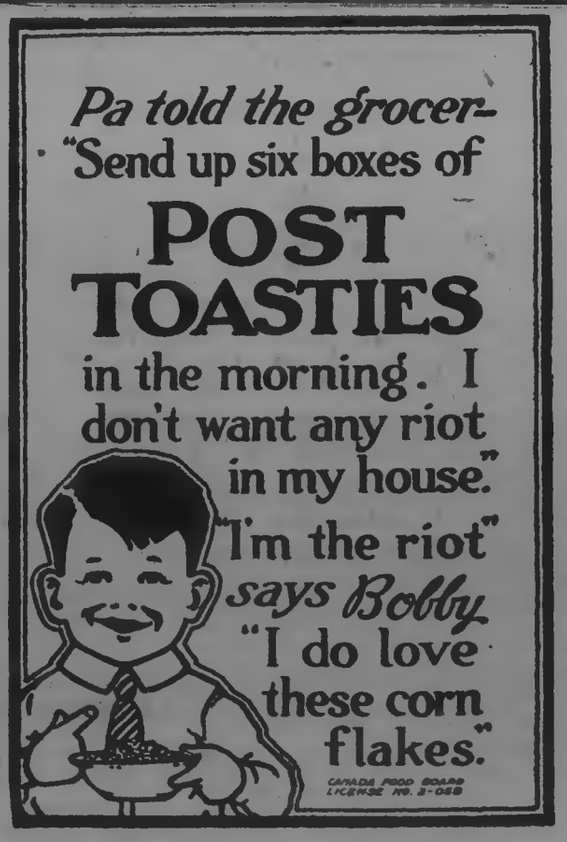
Life of the Peasants, Their Cottages and Their Steam Baths.

An interesting account of the characteristics of Siberian villages is given in his book, "Siberia," by M. P. Price:

"The villages through which we travelled on the way were Russian in every respect. Streets were wide and full of ruts and slime. The houses had log frames and rough hewn boards for the roof. They had a clean and well kept appearance and were surrounded by fences of wooden boards. Through the fence a gateway opened into a courtyard where the live stock were kept. A stream generally runs behind the village, and the manure from the yards is pitched in heaps along its banks, being carried away each year by the spring floods.

"There is a large room with a brick stove, taking up perhaps a quarter of the room. In this the family eat, live and sleep—some on the stove and some on the floor—while a separate small room is kept and reserved for visitors or others who are not members of the family. The rooms are whitewashed, and each member of the family has a steam bath every week in a hut kept for the purpose outside.

"The notion that the Russian peasant is habitually dirty is most mistaken. Here, at all events, the average Siberian peasant's house could compete with the best cottages in rural England. The temperature of the rooms is generally rather a trial to such as are not used to extreme cold outside and sealed windows with a stove inside."



Pa told the grocer-
"Send up six boxes of
POST TOASTIES
in the morning. I don't want any riot in my house."
"I'm the riot" says Bobby. "I do love these corn flakes."

Asthma Cured to Stay Cured

Thousands testified to the lasting benefit secured by

Catarrhozone

CURES WITHOUT DRUGS

One of the finest discoveries in medicine was given to the public when "Catarrhozone was placed on the market about fifteen years ago. Since then thousands have been cured of asthma and catarrh. An interesting case is reported from Calgary in a letter from Creighton E. Thompson, who says:

"Nothing to strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Findlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh.

The one-dollar package lasts two months; small size, 50; sampe size, 25c; all storekeepers and druggists or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

THE PRINCES ISLAND.

Another Incident Added to Their Long History.

A great many persons are interested in the Princes Islands, in the Sea of Marmora, where the warring factions of Russia have been asked to send delegates for a conference at which it is hoped the internal dissensions in the vast Slav dominions can be composed.

It would seem that the Peace Conference in Paris may have had the number of the Princes Islands in mind as well as their geographical location when they were named as the place of meeting on February 15 for the warring factions in Russia. There are nine islands—enough for each group of delegates to have an island to themselves should such a course of segregation prove expedient.

The islands lie from 10 to 15 miles southeast of Constantinople, near the Asiatic shore. Four of them are inhabited, and the largest of the group, Prinkipo (also called Pityusa, meaning 'rich in pines') has a population of more than 10,000, Turks and Greeks being about equal in number.

The islands in modern times have been popular as summer resorts, owing to the salubrity of their climate and their proximity to the Turkish capital.

Few islands have a history more poignant with tragedy, with high hopes and shattered dreams, with diabolical machinations of empire wreckers and makers than these few square miles of earth washed by the waters of the Marmora. The very name is significant of their past, for in the days of the Byzantine empire they were the retreats, either forced or voluntary, of princes and princesses who had fallen into disfavor at the nearby court.

Each island of the group could tell its own story of famous exiles. None is more pathetic, however, than that of Proti as the prison of the deposed Emperor, Romanus IV, called Diogenes. The life of this ruler read like one of the fictitious romances of Cleopatra's days. He was a distinguished young soldier descended from a Cappadocian family. Having been implicated in a conspiracy to depose his sovereign, Constantine IX he was condemned to be executed for treason. While being led to his death, according to one account, he caught the eye of the empress regent, Eudocia Macrembollitissa, who instantly fell in love with him, granted him a pardon and shortly thereafter married him. After his coronation as emperor he led three successful expeditions against the Seljuk Turks, but his fourth campaign, against Alp Arslan, was a disastrous failure.

Compelled to pay a large ransom for his release, Romanus returned home to be defeated at the hands of a pretender to the thorne. Blinded, he spent his few remaining days of abject misery imprisoned in a monastery on the highest point of Proti.

On the island of Antigone, the great patriarch, Methodius, spent seven years of his life imprisoned with two brigands.

On Prinkipo, which is now dotted with fine residences and gardens, the traveler is shown the ruins of a convent in which eleven centuries ago the remarkable woman, Empress Irene I, was imprisoned for a time. A poor but beautiful orphan of Athens, Irene married Emperor Leo IV and soon became the true ruler of the Byzantine empire. Upon the death of her husband, she assumed the reins of Government for her ten-year-old son, Constantine VI. For a decade her reign was distinguished by firmness and wisdom. Then began the conflict with her ambitious son, which terminated in the greatest fact upon her career, the capture of the fleeing youth, his return to Constantinople, which by his mother's orders, his eyes were gouged out. It would seem that the ancients had good cause to interpret an eclipse of the sun, which took place about this time, as a sign of heaven's horror at such a deed.

Another famous prisoner of Prinkipo was Zoe, the wife of three emperors—Romanus III, Michael IV and Constantine IX.

One of the most populous of the islands is Halki (also spelled Chalcitis and Khalki) where there is a naval college and a theological college. A Greek commercial school occupies the site of an ancient monastery. At the entrance to the school is the tombstone of Sir Edward Barton, English Ambassador to Turkey during the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

On the island of Plato the peace delegates will find a castle, built after the model of Windsor Castle. It is now falling into decay. Once it was the summer residence of Sir Henry Bulwer (the famous author of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of American history), when he was British Ambassador at Constantinople. Upon his retirement, the one-time British Ambassador at Washington sold the island to the Khedive of Egypt, whose family still owned it at the outbreak of the world war."

Japanese Barbers.

The barbers of Osaka, Japan, who number 4,500, have approached local authorities with a proposal to establish a training school for knights of the razor. It has been complained that "many barbers in Osaka have not that elementary knowledge of surgery absolutely necessary for their vocation." and the better qualified wish to compel all intending to enter this profession to pass final examinations at the special school.

"Every word of it."

"And what is your conclusion?"

"That somebody wrote it."

CASTE IN INDIA.

Its Peculiarities Illustrated by the Religion of the Sweeper.

Among the yet unsolved problems of Indian ethnology is the religion of the sweeper caste. It seems clear enough through all the confusion that the supreme deity of the Chuhras is Lalljura, or Lalbeg, "a god without form or dwelling place."

A mound of earth, surmounted by a piece of stick and a bit of cloth for a flag, is this deity's shrine, and to it 'poojah" is made and a little sacrifice offered of ghee, or grain. It needs no consecration, this simple shrine, and wherever the sweeper may be, if sickness comes or a gift is desired, the little shrine may be set up, with its queer bit of rag and stick, and the worshipper's prayer is made.

The sweeper will have nothing to do with the transmigration of souls. Once a sweeper always a sweeper, and even the ideal sweeper, Pir Jhota, with his broom of gold and basket of silver, cleans now the fourth heaven, the house of God, and sweeps the apartments of the highest." The good sweeper goes to heaven, however, after death, but in the heaven of a sweeper there is nothing to do but bathe and sit at ease.

The bad sweeper, on the other hand, goes to hell, where he is tormented by fire and wounds till the deity is pleased to vouchsafe relief. Between these two extremes is a kind of purgatory, where the sweeper who is not good enough for the one place and not bad enough for the other undergoes a sort of probation which either kills or cures him.

Of Balmik, the great leader of one sect of sweepers and now himself, like Pir Jhota, a sweeper in the courts of heaven, the accounts differ so widely that it is difficult to identify him. It seems clear, however, that with the profession of sweeper he combined the recreation of poetry, and there is some amount of evidence in favor of his having been the author of the "Ramayan."

He is alternately represented as a low caste hunter of the Karnal Nardak and as a Bhil highwayman who was converted by a saint whom he was about to rob. There is a legend, too, that he laid down his life for the sweepers of Benares and induced the people of that city to admit sweepers into their presence, as they had never done before.

As for Lalberg, the other great leader, he takes us back at once to the days of Homeric myth. He was born from the coat of Balmik and suckled by a hare, in proof whereof Chuhras to this day abstain from eating hares. On the other hand, Lelberg was also born of a pitcher, through the power of Abdul Kader Kilani, and when the Prophet Elias was turned into a sweeper for spitting on the saints in heaven it was Lalberg who relieved him.—Times of India.

Her Only Drawbacks.

He called his typist to his office. "Miss Keytap, you dress neatly and you have a well modulated voice. I might add that your deportment is also above reproach." "You shouldn't pay me so many compliments." "I only want to put you in a cheerful frame of mind before taking up the matter of your spelling and punctuation."

Too Much Conscience

Los Angeles Times:—Two little girls, Frances and Agatha, had been very carefully reared. Especially had they been taught that under no circumstances must they tell a lie—not even a "white lie"—to deceive anyone.

One day, during a visit made by these little girls to an aunt in the country, they met a cow in a field they were crossing. Much frightened, the youngsters stopped, not knowing what to do. Finally little Frances said:—

"Let's go right on, Agatha, and pretend that we are not afraid of it."

But Agatha's conscience was not slumbering.

"Wouldn't that be deceiving the cow?" she objected.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A GUILTY CONSCIENCE

A Story of Parisian Politics

By F. A. MITCHEL

Politics was running high in Paris. A candidate was speaking to an audience, inveighing against the demagogues who, he asserted, were corrupting the masses. "Money," he said, "is flowing like water. There is a man in this audience who I know has received 100 francs for his vote. Just think of it—100 francs for the surrender of the invaluable privilege he enjoys under the republic of expressing his wish in national affairs!"

After the meeting the speaker, Victor Daroux, was sitting in a restaurant on the Boulevard des Italiens with a couple of friends, partaking of a supper. He was just raising a glass of wine to his lips when a man stepped up to him and said:

"M. Daroux, I am the bearer of a message to you from my friend M. Charlier. He demands a retraction from you in tomorrow morning's journals of your accusation in your speech this evening that he has sold his vote. In case you refuse"—

Daroux, who was staring in wonder at the speaker, broke in—

"Why does M. Charlier assume that I referred to him in my remarks?"

"Because you looked directly at him when you made the accusation."

Daroux was deliberating what to do in the matter when a waiter approached and informed him that a gentleman in another part of the room desired to speak to him privately. Excusing himself, Daroux went to this newcomer.

"M. Daroux," said the man, "I represent M. Arnoux. He demands an immediate retraction of your accusation made this evening that he has sold his vote for 100 francs."

Daroux was tempted to laugh, but the speaker was so serious that he refrained.

"Why does M. Arnoux assume that I referred to him in my remarks?" he asked.

"Because you were looking directly at him."

Daroux was silent a few moments, then said:

"And if I refuse to retract?"

"In that case M. Arnoux expects that you will give him the satisfaction due from one gentleman who has wrongfully accused another."

"Let me have your address," said Daroux, "I will send an early reply."

Returning to his table, Daroux received the same announcement from M. Charlier's friend of what was expected in case of a refusal to retract and called also for his address. The man had scarcely gone when a third came and demanded a retraction for M. Blanc for the same offense and received the same answer as the others.

"It seems," said Daroux to his friends, "that if a guilty conscience counts for anything there has been a good deal of vote selling."

During the next half hour three more men demanded a retraction of M. Daroux for accusing them of selling their votes, and the accuser, after being informed that a refusal would be followed by a challenge, called for the party's address and promised to send an early reply.

"It does not seem so remarkable," said Daroux after the last man had been disposed of, "that so many men have sold their votes, but that the price in each case should have been a hundred francs. I had heard before rising to speak that 10,000 francs had been distributed among certain influential voters, but I did not know that a hundred francs was the current price part. I fancied that some one of the persons bribed might be in the meeting, and it occurred to me to fire an effective shot by making a pointed accusation. It seems that I have killed half a dozen birds with a single stone."

These words were spoken to friends who were with Daroux when the avalanche of demands for retraction fell upon him. One of the party suggested that if the matter were properly handled sufficient capital might be made out of it to win the election. Daroux was running for the corps legislatif, but his opponent was so lavish with money that he had no hope of being elected. However, those gentlemen now gathered about him at the restaurant were shrewd politicians, and they set themselves to find a method of procedure by which the incident at home might be used to turn the scale in his favor.

It was decided to stave off the matter till the day before the election, which was to take place in four days. The day after the demands for satisfaction were made no reply was sent. The second day each one of the conscience stricken men received word that M. Daroux refused to retract. A reply to his refusal was returned by each one of the six men accused in the shape of a challenge to mortal combat.

Daroux chose six seconds to represent him, and since, being the challenged party, he was entitled to choice of weapons, time and place of meeting he instructed each second in accepting the challenge to choose foils, to appoint the time at 10 o'clock on the morning before the election and the place the Place de la Concorde.

Every challenger was struck with amazement that so public a place should have been chosen for the meeting. "I cannot see," said M. Charlier, "how he expects to make capital out of so great publicity. He has made an accusation which is thrown back in his teeth, and he must answer for it under the code. Surely there is no advantage in this." M. Arnoux was much puzzled at the choice of place of meeting, and M. Blanc—who, by the bye, had distributed the money used to buy votes—began to fear that some game was to be played. Nevertheless he did not see how he could do anything to prevent it.

At a quarter to 10 on the morning appointed for the fight M. Daroux, surrounded by his six seconds and a surgeon, appeared in the Place de la Concorde, near the base of the obelisk. Paris was quite alive at that hour, and many persons were passing and repassing. Seeing the party at the foot of the obelisk, the seconds with foils under their arms, the surgeons with their boxes of instruments, persons stopped to learn what it all meant. Gradually a crowd collected, and the word was passed from one to another that there was to be a duel.

"Can you tell me," asked one of another, "who that distinguished looking man is, with his arms folded, waiting?"

"That, monsieur, is M. Victor Daroux, candidate for election tomorrow for the corps legislatif."

"And why so many attendants?"

"That I do not know; I am waiting to find out."

At the moment a carriage drove up, and M. Arnoux, attended by his second and a surgeon, alighted. He seemed quite chagrined at seeing the crowd, but it had been not entirely unexpected. He supposed that Daroux was intending to make a display of his skill and bravery on the eve of the election. Arnoux, seeing that no one of the other party made any advance to begin the fight, said:

"Pardon me, gentlemen. If we are to fight so publicly it may be well to begin at once and have it over with."

"There is another ahead of you, monsieur," replied one of Daroux's seconds.

"Another! What other?"

"One who took M. Daroux's accusations to himself."

Arnoux winced.

Another carriage rolled up, and another challenger alighted. He, too, was delayed, and before the cause of his delay could be explained to him four other defenders of their honor arrived in quick succession. The crowd by this time had swelled and was in a fever heat of expectation. No one understood why so many men, each attended by a second bearing foils, should continue to pour in. It happened that M. Charlier, who was the first challenger, arrived last. As soon as he came M. Daroux's second begged the crowd to make room, since the duel was about to begin. The other five challengers protested, and the crowd began to hoot and yell, at the same time pressing the duellists so closely that there was no room for the fray. Finally some one of the crowd yelled:

"What's it all about?"

"It's a put up job!" cried one of the bystanders.

"There's half a dozen of 'em picking on one!" shouted another.

"There's an advertising dodge in it somewhere. Wait and see," was a third person's explanation.

"Here comes a gendarme!"

Meanwhile Daroux stood silent with folded arms, the only person whose dignified appearance commanded respect. When the gendarme arrived Daroux said something to him in a low tone, to which the officer assented.

Then M. Daroux, raising his hand to impose silence, made an explanation. He began by telling of hearing on good authority that a large sum was being used to land his political opponent in office and of his having made a blind charge. Then he told how each of six different men in the audience had taken the accusation to himself and demanded a retraction or satisfaction.

"And now, my friends," continued the speaker, "I am here to back my words. I have accused none of these gentlemen. They have accused themselves. For we all know that a guilty conscience needs no accuser."

The men who had come to fight Daroux got away as fast as they could, amid the jeers of the crowd. Daroux entered his carriage with his attendants and drove across the Seine to the legislative building on the other bank, attended by an enormous crowd. There he alighted and made a political speech, in which he told the story to a multitude of voters.

Every evening paper in Paris had an account of the affair, and the cafes were filled with persons laughing at the way Daroux had exposed the corruption of his opponents. That night he spoke to an immense concourse, who demanded again and again to hear the story from his own lips.

The journals the next morning all published editorials upon the low grade to which Paris politics had sunk and the iniquity of using money at elections. During the day Daroux drove from one polling place to another and wherever he appeared was greeted with shouts of applause mixed with laughter at the way he had turned the tables on his opponents.

Before 9 o'clock at night it was known all over Paris that Daroux had been elected, and when the papers came out the next morning they announced a landslide in his favor.

What became of the six self accusers was never known. They got away from under the limelight as quickly as possible, and on the day after the election not one of them was to be found in Paris. Daroux was urged to proceed against them for bribery, but since the only evidence against them was what they had themselves furnished, no action was ever taken in the matter.

Chocolate.

Although the "drink called chocolate" did not appear in England until 1657, its restorative properties soon became generally known. Thus on May 24, 1661, after an evening of carousing, Pepys "worked in the morning, with my head in a sad taking through the last night's drink, which I am very sorry for; so rose and went out with Mr. Creed to drink our morning draft, which he did give me in chocolate to settle my stomach."

Mothers who have used Zam-Buk say it is so fine for the many little accidents of daily occurrence in the home—and especially where there are children — that they would not be without it. Not only so, but children who have had Zam-Buk applied to an injury or sore, when again injured, cry for Zam-Buk to be applied. They know that Zam-Buk stops pain. Nothing ends the pain of a cut, bruise, burn, or skin disease like Zam-Buk, and nothing soothes, draws out the soreness and heals so quickly.

Mrs. I. Wilson of Sarnia, Ont., says: "I could not do without Zam-Buk for my children. It is the best ointment we have ever used for burns, sores and cuts."

Mr. L. B. Andresen of 1407 E. 22nd St., Minneapolis, Minn., writes: "When any of the children, my wife or self meet with an accident, we immediately apply Zam-Buk. It has saved us many a doctor's bill."

Mrs. C. B. Ritcey of Riverport, N.S., writes: "My baby had sores on her face, caused by teething. Zam-Buk completely healed them."

Zam-Buk is equally good for eczema, ringworm, running sores, blood-poison, ulcers, abscesses, piles, boils and pimples. All druggists, 50c. box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp for free trial.

Children's Diseases Are Not Necessary

They Add Nothing to the Well-being of the Child and Invariably Leave the System in Worse Condition Than Before They Came

IN fact, they often sow the seed which, in adult life, develops into disorders of the heart and blood vessels and degenerative diseases of the kidneys.

So if children escape any child's disease they are the gainers in general health by just that much. It may be that years are added to their lives or chronic invalidism avoided. Then there is the enormous risk which every child runs who has measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever, or other diseases.

Perhaps this does not agree with your idea of letting your children have these ailments when young, with the belief that they must have them some time. This old idea has cost many thousands of lives. It is time to forget it, and to put forth an effort to save the children from these ailments.

All these children's diseases are known as germ diseases, and germs are harmless to a body strong enough to fight them.

Rich blood is the greatest of germicides. Therefore, seek to keep your children's blood rich and pure by giving them wholesome, nourishing food, and by allowing them to exercise freely in the open air.

If they grow pale and weak and languid—if they fail to derive proper nourishment from the food they eat—if their nervous systems get run down from the tax of school work—use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as the best means which medical science affords to enrich the blood and build up the exhausted system.

Children whose blood becomes thin and watery are helpless before an attack of measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, or other contagious disease. They seem to "catch" everything that is going. They are always "catching" cold. Their resisting force is nil.

But their young bodies soon respond to the nourishing, invigorating influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. As their blood is enriched they become healthy, robust and rollicking—they enjoy their food—their play—their work at school, and grow into strong, healthy men and women.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. On every box is the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book author.

YANKS DO THE "IMPOSSIBLE"

For First Time in History Stone Houses Have Been Successfully Moved in France.

Declaring that is the first time that a stone house has been moved in France, Sergeants Abe Griesmer and Mike Murphy of Company C have recently finished a job of moving a 350 ton structure and have set it down on its new site.

The French said it could not be done and declared that the only way the road could be cleared for the new line of railway track would be to tear the house down. But the sergeants with their detail of fifteen men started to work with jacks and rollers and soon had the house moving across the fields. News of the feat spread and the authorities sent a photographer from the French Academy of Sciences to record officially the stages of the work.

The house was placed upon its new site without a crack. It is believed that this demonstration of American ingenuity will save many stations along the lines where the Yankee engineers are building additional tracks and switching yards.—From the Spiker, France.

New Surgical Battle Formation.

The French Aid Society for Wounded Soldiers (Societe Francaise de Secours aux Blesses Militaires) has devised a new type of surgical ambulance which meets the needs arising during active military operations. This ambulance can be advanced and moved back quickly, being essentially different from those in use for some months. Furthermore, it enables the surgeons to render speedy, immediate and complete service to patients with extensive wounds of the thorax, abdomen or head. It consists of a number of large tents, one serving as a salle de triage, a second for local administration, another for preparing the wounded for operation, a fourth for radiography; an operating tent, connected with the sterilizer camion, which contains two autoclaves, and, finally, the hospitalization or ward tents. For transport, the whole outfit is carried in two camions or trucks and two trailers.

THREE NOTED FRENCH TOWNS

Will Live in History as Having Given Their Names to Articles of Every-Day Commerce.

Three towns in northern France have given their names to articles of every-day commerce—Cambrai, from which "cambric" is derived; Arras, a term applied to a certain kind of tapestry, and Valenciennes, noted for its lace in olden times. Cambrai, too, is associated with the name of the great French ecclesiastic and moralist, Francois Fenelon, a statue of whom stood in the cathedral before the Germans captured the town. Fenelon wrote one of the most famous novels of the eighteenth century: "The Adventures of Telemachus," an account of the son of Ulysses. At Cambrai was concluded a very curious treaty, the so-called "Ladies' Peace," between Louise of Savoy and Margaret of Austria, representing France and Austria, respectively, in 1529. At Arras was born the celebrated leader of the French Revolution, Maximilian Robespierre, who organized the Reign of Terror by which he himself was finally to fall. Valenciennes no longer made the beautiful lace which its name suggests, but was a center for the manufacture of hosiery, trimmings, and handkerchiefs. It was the birthplace of two famous men—Watteau, whose paintings are regarded as perhaps the most characteristic products of French art in the eighteenth century, and Froissart, whose chronicles of the wars of the Middle Ages are full of movement and color. Near by is another famous town—Douai—whose name is joined with a version in English of the Bible prepared for the special use of the Catholic church.

ARMENIANS LOYAL TO ALLIES

None of the Conquered Peoples Have Shown More Devotion to Cause of Liberty Than They.

It has been the Armenians who have been most constant in their loyalty to the allies, and eight months ago, from the city of Van, 130 of them went forth to take up positions which had been vacated by Russians.

After the Turks took Erzerum last February they swept on against the national armies of the Armenians and Georgians through to Tabriz in northwestern Persia, threatening the southern Caspian ports and wiping out all Armenians they met, Maynard Owen Williams writes in Asia Magazine. They boasted that they would keep on until they met the Russian army, then nonexistent. The fight by the Armenians and Georgians, lacking allied support, became more hopeless. The Georgians bravely declared their independence last May; but hardly a month later 32 Georgian and Armenian delegates in Constantinople were utterly unable to do anything but accede to the Turkish demands that they withdraw their troops. It is evident that the Georgians are now completely dominated.

Delighted.

The examining officers at the prisoner pens talk German like natives, but often the prisoners don't and that leads to complications.

One inquisitor, who had just used his best German vocabulary on an uncomprehending Hungarian, turned him over to a special questioner and took on five strangely-clad and somewhat bewildered prisoners who, after a great deal of shouting and arm waving, managed to convey the fact that they were neither Germans nor Austrians nor Hungarians nor Slovaks. They were Italians—five Italians taken prisoner last fall and set to mending roads behind the German lines.

They were much pleased when it slowly dawned on them what had happened, and they wanted to kiss General Pershing or somebody right away. —Paris Stars and Stripes.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

THERE are individuals such poor demonstrators that they can't even show the point of their own jokes.

Nobody would be guilty of writing an anonymous letter. That's why it is anonymous.

One-half of the world knows how the other half would live if it were running things.

Too many people keep all their courtesy for their acquaintances and all their indifference for their families.

The reason why some men are fast may be because they are trying to get away from their reputations.

We all consider reform an extremely good thing for our friends to investigate and seek to practice.

The only reason, probably, why all our friends haven't an ax to grind is because they can't find the ax.

Most people will speak the truth—for a consideration.

Relief Station.

My very warmest thoughts today
Go out to Cousin Jim.
I wonder if he'd like to have
Me drop a note to him.
For my vacation days are not
So very far away,
And on his farm it wouldn't cost
A single cent to stay.

For he possesses acres broad
And has a spanking pair
Of trotting horses that are built
To take one anywhere.
His table groans with choicest food,
And there I would be strong.
For if I went I sure would take
My appetite along.

A hammock swings beneath the shade,
His porch is broad and deep,
And on a sunny afternoon
A pleasant place to sleep.
His rolling fields are fair to see,
The stock is sleek and plump.
His cows are trained to furnish milk
That never saw a pump.

I know I would enjoy the time.
I wonder would he shy,
"Come out and make yourself to home,"
Were I to write today.
I wonder if he would attempt
To even up old scores
For boyish pranks should I come out
And set me doing chores.

Had Proof.

"Who ever saw a purple cow?" asked the scoffer, looking at a collection of art posters.

"That is no sign there isn't any."

"Good enough proof for me."

"Well, it isn't conclusive. I should judge to look at it that the milk I got came from a blue cow."

An Exception.

"You never can tell what you can do until you try."

"Oh, yes, you can."

"I'd like to know how."

"That's as easy as catching cold. There is Bill Johnson eternally telling what he can do, and no one ever saw him trying yet."

Wasted Eloquence.

"O Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!" shouted the speaker.

"What crimes?" asked one who wanted to know.

"That speech, for instance," volunteered one in the audience.

Naturally.

"How do you feel?" breathlessly inquired the friend who has come running up to discover the result of the accident.

"All run down," replied the man who had just been bowled over by a large red automobile.

Desired to Settle.

"Hear about Wilson?"

"No; what about him?"

"Wants to marry his landlady."

"Is that so? I didn't think he owed that much on his board."

Homemade Pie.

"That man has an adamantine jaw."

"Sure enough."

"Probably his wife does her own cooking."

Experienced.

"We should always make hay when the sun shines."

"Would you call a green widow likely material?"

Busy Times.

This little joke upon the ban
Projected by some awful man—
They're going to rig electric light
And have her laying day and night.

Showed It.

"What college did you graduate from?"

"Some of them."

"Let me congratulate the collegian."

SEEMED TO COME TO THEM

Few of Our "U" Boat Chaser Skippers Had Had Previous Nautical Experience.

"Where do the officers of the submarine chasers come from?" I asked an executive officer long in the navy, writes Samuel G. Blythe in the Saturday Evening Post.

"Everywhere," he said.

"Were they sailors?"

"Not many of them; some had had experience in motor boats and yachts and were amateur navigators, but the way they have picked it up is marvelous. Let me give you an illustration. When I was organizing the first flotilla that came over I questioned the young chaps who came before me as officers for the chasers. Of the first five on one day one had been a shoe salesman, another an accountant, another a nut inspector and another an actor."

"Nut inspector?" I said. "What's that?"

"He worked on a pecan ranch down south somewhere."

"They had had some sailing experience and had taken short special courses at a training school. Now of that bunch three are in command of chasers today, four brought their ships across and the actor is a unit commander, and a mighty good one, too. That's where we got them. The navy just reached out and collected them here, there and everywhere, and they are good stuff and making sailors of themselves mighty fast."

FEW SHIPS ARE TOTAL LOSS

Vessels Sunk by Mines or Torpedoes Patched, Raised and Taken to Port for Repairs.

Any one who imagines that all the vessels sunk by enemy U-boats or mines are left at the bottom of the sea would be surprised if he could be told the whole story of ingenuity, resource and unremitting toil of the British admiralty salvage corps.

Almost as soon as a vessel is sunk salvage operations are commenced. Divers are sent down to take accurate measurements of the size of the hole made by the torpedo or mine. Small holes are plugged with wood, but large ones are patched with "standards" patches. These are made of 12-inch wooden beams, and a patch sometimes weighs as much as 20 tons.

As may be imagined, the size of the hole varies greatly. In some cases it has measured 40 feet long by 20 feet wide, and in one case it has been known to be 48 feet long by 25 feet wide.

When the vessels have been plugged and patched, their cargo removed and the water pumped out of them they proceed to the nearest port where they can be permanently repaired.

Several vessels have been torpedoed after being reflloated and have again been successfully raised and taken into port.

Miracle in the Mediterranean.

In an article on the submarine warfare in the Mediterranean contributed to the November Century, Herman Whitaker tells of a lad on one of the American destroyers who had been washed overboard in a black night storm and was thought to be hopelessly lost till a voice hailed the watch from under the stern. He had caught the leglne, which trails for a couple of hundred feet behind, and hauled himself along it. Another escape was still more marvelous. Washed overboard at night from one of the destroyers, this particular lad was heaved by a wave upon the deck of another vessel half a mile astern. When he was restored to his own ship at the end of the voyage, his captain thus addressed him: "Young man, you have used up all the luck you will have in all your life. The navy is no safe place for you. Take my advice; get out of it as soon as Uncle Sam will let you."

Gave Revenue Officers Tip.

Revenue officers who arrested an Atlanta man with fifteen gallons of whisky in his motor car, found he had a letter from a Georgia farmer, saying that the writer had "some very fine pigs for sale at the low price of $7 each," and that "the sow had a litter of thirty," a remarkable thing in the animal world. On investigation, they found the sow to be a complete moonshine still and the litter to be thirty jugs of high-powered moonshine whisky.

German Efficiency.

Workmen, engineers and superintendents in factories caught in the north of France when the German army invaded the region have gradually worked their way back to Paris as repatriation has been accomplished. They bring the information that practically nothing remains of the industrial establishments anywhere in the invaded districts.

Mules Worth More Than Horses.

The government pays more for mules than for horses for war service. The average prices paid up to June 1 were as follows: Mules, wheel, $228; lead, $189; pack and riding, $184. Horses, cavalry mounts, $161; light artillery, $188; heavy artillery, $221; young horses $142.

LISTEN TO THIS

Some time ago my daughter was severely scalded about the legs with boiling water. Immediately following the accident we plastered the wounds with "Mecca," keeping this up every day and the result was the child suffered but little.

In a few months there was not a sign of a scar to be seen, although several of the parts scalded were very severe and scars would naturally be expected.

We have since considered "Mecca" an indispensable household remedy, and with pleasure give to it our hearty recommendation.

New Trick.

A new method of fighting the U-boat menace is for the attacked vessel to drop a depth charge as the torpedo approaches. In daylight the wake of the torpedo can usually be seen quite clearly. When the depth charge explodes it either causes the premature explosion of the torpedo or else diverts the deadly missile from its course. This was found out quite by accident. A ship's officer in his excitement one day threw a depth charge overboard, it did the trick.

Wise Beyond Her Years.

He was a curly headed boy with life before him. She was a little girl with a saucy pug nose, but wise, it would seem, beyond her years. The fact that she was nursing a doll with eyes that opened and shut with a click may have been his inspiration.

"Say, sister, I think I'd get married if I knew how."

"Oh, that's easy," replied the owner of the pug nose. "First you buy a diamond ring and give it to her, then you buy a gold ring like mamma's got and give that to her. And then you must buy her a watch for her birthday."

"An' what she give me?" expectantly asked the little chap.

"Why, nuthin', of course," smartly replied his little companion.

"Say, sister," he added, "I guess I won't marry."

GUM TAKES PLACE OF WATER

Of all the varied means of masticatory stimulation which have been resorted to by man in all climes and ages the great American gum seems least harmful and most helpful. That there is a physiological demand for some masticatory stimulant, says the New York Medical Journal, is shown by the universality of the practice of chewing. Whether it be the tobacco of the American Indian, the betel nut of the East, the slippery elm bark, the tamarack and the spruce gum of the down-east Yankee, the sweet gum of the Gulf states, the chicle of the Mexicans, which, in its American adaptation, becomes the great American chewing gum, man has always felt the necessity of chewing something more than his meals. That there is a practically useful side for this habit is evidenced by the orders placed by the quartermaster of the United States army for 2,300,000 packages of this standard American dainty. We learn from the war department that the commanding officer of a field artillery regiment, about to embark, stated that 250 pounds of chewing gum would take the place of hundreds of gallons of drinking water when water was most needed and least readily obtainable. The American Red Cross recently cabled an order for chewing gum for use in the reconquered territory where the wells had been poisoned by the retreating Germans.

Types of Big Guns.

There is no known 75-centimeter gun. If there were its bore would be more than 29 inches. The famous French 75-millimeter gun has a bore a little less in size than the American 3-inch field gun, being approximately 2.95275 inches; the German 77-millimeter is a little larger than the American, being approximately 3.03149 inches. French and American shells could be used in the German 77-millimeter guns, probably with little or no change, while German and American shells could not, probably, be used in the French 75's without remachining.

Faces Ahead.

The chaplains from two Yankee regiments that had stormed the slope above the Ourcq came wearily back at sundown from the task of burying their dead. They were two much uplifted men, and their eyes were shining as they made their brief but eloquent report.

"In all that battlefield," they said, "we found, without a single exception, that every one of those boys died crouching forward, died with his face toward Germany."

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM PERMANENTLY CURED

New Brunswick Lady Gives Full Particulars of Her Recovery

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was this kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Jct., N.B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For five years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relife without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints, gave me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism cured it so that not an ache has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric Acid, neutralize and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy, Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a CURE, order today, 50c. per box, or six for $2.50, sold by all dealers or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

WILL LIMIT SENTENCE TERM TO THE REFUGES

Bill in Legislature to Make Impossible Repetition of the Halloran Case

As a result of the revelations made in the Alice Halloran case at the House of the Good Shepherd recently, Hon. W. D. McPherson has introduced in the Legislature a bill amending the law governing such institutions. It will limit to two years the term under which a committal may be made, instead of allowing an indefinite period up to five years. The inspector is also given power to parole inmates upon such conditions as may be deemed proper. It will also be necessary for the superintendents to kep records of th conduct of inmates with a view to permitting them to be released on parole.

The amendments also provide that all inmates shall be examined by the medical practitioner in charge and reports forwarded to the department in order that the officials may be thoroughly advised as to the health of the inmates. Provision is made for removal of feeble-minded inmates to hospitals for proper treatment.

The Trapping Season 1918 at Rice Lake

Bonnycastle Dale in "Rod and Gun"

It was late in the month of. February when we started over the ice for Camp Migration, on an island in the wild rice beds. The straw of last year's crop of wild rice still rustled in the wind; although three feet of solid ice bound its roots and the water beneath it. It broke against our onslipping sleighs and canoes with a dry snapping sound. All the islands and drowned lands were deeply covered by snow, so why were we starting the trapping camp thus early? Simply because all the trappers of this district have a habit of starting early on the morning of the first of March and dropping traps near all the houses and best places to claim them. As it was a number of years since I had seen a full Canadian trapping season Laddie Jr. and I were in high spirits.

"Only a few hundred yards more" puffed the boy—our loads were large and one sleigh drew heavily.

"Shanty's all right" he cheerily announced as we drew near. The only signs of human or animal life were the tracks of a weasel that had evidently lived under the little house It did seem nonsense to squatter this snow scene with muskrat traps; but distant canoes and trappers were seen the next day crossing to their selected places, so the lad set the alarm clock for the first peep of dawn on the first of March and I heard his sleigh go creaking off into the darkness next morning. As I wanted him to learn, and as he only is licensed, I let him go alone. He was in time for our island trapping ground as it opens the last on the lake and has the smallest catch. There was no one else about, but at the mouth of the Otonabee River the traps were set by lantern light shortly after midnight. Here the catch runs into the thousands, twenty men setting as many as three to four thousand traps in a space of about two hundred acres, catching from one to two—or in the best seasons three thousand muskrats.

"Oh! the poor thing" I heard Laddie Jr., complain, as he picked up a snowbird that had sprung a trap and was frozen stiff, and dead. Another day he came in and showed me a dead song sparrow that had been caught in a trap.

Many Birds Killed

"Laddie," I said, "go and spring every one of your hundred traps, I'll help you if anyone dares ot take your help you if anyone dares to voice your cruelty to animals." I first of all spoke to all the white men and Indians I could meet, asking them to claim their places for the whole month of March, until the open water of April, by unset traps. Then I wrote to the Department of Game and Fisheries telling them of the evidently enormous slaughter of the innocents each spring. Just figure it out for yourself. I should estimate that there are a million muskrat traps set in Canada each spring, and if they caught only two birds to the hundred, as Laddie did before we stopped the senseless method, that would mean twenty thousand of our migratory insect eating birds caught before the trapping season opens. Alas! even with the utmost kindness towards the wee songsters, I cannot conceive of any method that can be adopted to stop the catching of them during the actual trapping days. Fully fifty thousand must be caught during April. Many of the larger ones survive and are liberated by the best of the trappers. I know that I have made it a habit to take every living bird I have ever found in the spring out of any and all traps I pass. I know I can do this safely without the owner of the trap thinking I have removed a furbearer as I never trap myself, and consequently have no furs in my possession.

Well, good people; do you wonder that our insect eating birds are getting scarce and that the pest of the fruit and the vegetable and the cereal are getting more numerous every season when it is a fact that we destroy a large portion of the insectivorous birds before they have even made their nests? The Department will, I think, ask the trappers to claim their places with unset traps—and they will not be at the loss of a single muskrat by so doing.

Oh! the wondrous beauty of it all. Mother nature was awakening from her winter's sleep. The sweetly calling redwings made the marsh echo with their music; wrens were twittering pertly ;the chickadees were still with us as well as the hairy woodpeckers; both acrobats walking upside down so jauntily.: Crows cawed early in the month; the groundhogs came out and whistled in the second week; snowbirds flitted like miniature snowstorms; Glaucous-winged gulls came sailing along in the third week; plover, song-sparrow whistle-wings and marsh hawk arrived all on one day; killdeer came the next day; robin and bluebirds came next; bittern came late in the month; chipmunks and flycatchers were seen on the 23rd; black ducks the next day; seven wild geese winged heavily along: and an even dozen American mergansers on the next day; bluebills in flocks, oriole and great blue herons in the last week of March, canvasbacks, bullfrogs' croaking, patches of open water along the shores, swelling buds and dripping sap trees, kingfisher and loon; and great cracks in the strong lake ice—all these in the first week of April. We two went about with thankful hearts rejoicing that we were permitted to see so much of the wonderful beauties of Nature.

"I've found a dead muskrat in a torn open house, what shall I do with it?" questioned the lad one March day.

"Bring it in, it is yours," I told him. He did so and I found the throat sadly torn by a mink, so of course I judged it had been killed and left after it had been partly eaten. I walked back to the muskrat house and saw where he had found it, but I am so much opposed to disturbing the houses of the furbearers that I made no deeper investigation, and thereby he and many trappers lost a number of pelts that might have been saved as at this date in late March they were in perfectly good condition. Hundreds, yes it may be thousands of Rice Lake and Otonabee River muskrats, had been frozen during the 35 degree weather of midwinter and lay dead in their houses. As many os two, three, and five, were found in a single house after warm weather had spoiled the pelts and bodies too. Still I would hate to find any reason that would give the apparent right to tear into a muskrat house.

"I can't find five of my traps" called Laddie to me across the bog. I walked over and saw where his "tallystick" had been, there down and of course knew at once that a meaner animal than a skunk or wolverine or wandering Indian's dog had been about. A trapper chief had passed that way. The coon had taken a clean sweep of our neighbors' traps, taking some sixty odd from the three boys camped on the neighbouring island. He did not come again, so our sentinels with rifles never got a shot at any mysterious animal they would have heard during the night. I advised simply firing in the air to scare the wretch but where men have a grievance they are apt to shoot too low so I think he will not come again as we don't want any wounded men in Rice Lake marshes. One day I pictured the boy squatted over the bow pulling his canoe out of the open water onto the soft squash ice, just tapping along with his feet until he got it on solid ice. Then again I pictured him as he leaned over her pushing her from behind, in such a position that if the broken through the ice he promptly fell forward flat into the canoe. Still I urge the use of airtanks in all canoes, and the next chap who upsets swims who takes a girl out and drowns her because "the canoe upset" deserves most certainly to hang.

It was wonderful to stand and watch the power of the wind-shifted icefields, crashing and grinding in midlake, or tearing up great tree roots and huge stones as the ice ground up onto the shores. Laddie had a nice free ride on an ice-shoved rock one sunny day.

The lad was getting a few pelts and learning the ways of nature. One thing I tried to impress firmly upon his mind. It is all right for him to take a few furs along our own island so long as he does not trespass on another island or any inclosed ground or ground that has signs on it forbidding trapping, providing he is getting his education at the same time (he attends private school and always stands at the head of his class but modesty urges me to mention that there is only one in the class). He must however never grow up with the idea of making a living trapping fur, hunting and fishing. So many good, clever lads are spoiled for all their life by picking up a few easy dollars while they are young with trap and minnow net and line and gun. The dividing line between the honest boy and the law-breaking bay who sells his fish and ducks is very fine and easily crossed and, as the game becomes scarcer and the laws against taking and selling are enforced for the FIRST time (they are dead letter laws now), he will find himself without a livelihood and in danger of capture all the time.

At last came a day when a great wind under a hot sun got the mighty icefield in motion and they literally dissolved in tinkling streams of big piled "shoves" upon the shores. Wildly flew the myriad ducks among the scurrying ice cakes and, threading their dangerous lanes were the returning trappers of nineteen eighteen in their Rice lake canoes—a game of weird dread and danger through the binoculars notwithstanding which they safely made the further shore every time.

Keep Feeding Holes Open.

One remarkable thing, the muskrats and the beaver, also, maintain open feeding holes through the thick ice all the winter long, just as the seal does in more northern sea waters If they started at the first of the winter's ice and made and kept these holes open I could understand how they did it, but how they gnaw their way through two to three feet of ice beats me. They then keep it open by bringing up a few mouthfuls of weeds and stuffing these into the top of the opening; even if these do freeze a little they are easily removed. It is very dufficult to catch the muskrat in its feeding or airhole, as the opening is but the size of its body and a trap laid on slanting slippery ice is very easily dislodged. The Indians are very much against the use of these holes for the placing of traps and I think they are right.

The great majority of trappers do not make a trip around their traps on Sunday. There is the day to be considered "Honour the Sabbath Day and keep it Holy" comes first. But the suffering animal must also be considered. Our method is to take a walk along the island shore early on Sunday morning and, if any muskrats are alive in the traps, to kill think they are right.

Trespassers Here.

Now as regards trespassing. A great many trappers go wherever they can get with a canoe, even if the ground have signs warning trespassers off. Others, men who respect the right ofg their neighbours, keep off such ground. The only reason why all do not do so is that some magistrates decide in favour of the owner and some in favour of the trespasser. I have heard trappers say that as they buy a license the Department should send a man out and have this thoroughly decided, because the more lawful a man is in both trapping and hunting, fishing and shooting, the more he gives the less lawful chaps a big advantage. Where we are camped the lunge are safe in the spring, for none will break the law right under our binoculars—poor things they are an easy mark for the spearaman in the spring. To see a pair of these great fish within a paddle length of you, silently fanning their big, sharklike shouts and glazed eyes prominent, is to freebe you to the spot until splash! they have spied you and have plunged off.

I think if the Department uses returned soldiers to enforce the Game Laws we will all have an even chance at fish and fin and fur.

There is on Rice lake a large modern pleasure motor boat, a double decker, that uses so large a tank supported boathouse that it is a long hard job each fall to pull it upon the ways. Therefore the owner, a Pittsburg, Pa., man, left it floating the last winter with the motor boat raised well above the water, the tanks, or pontoons, running the full length of the boat house on both sides amply supporting it. Evidently he again decided to let the boathouse float during the winter season of 1918-19; as from our camp we saw it, after the "freeze up," firmly frozen into the surface of the lake.

One day, a few weeks later, Laddie came into camp saying—"That big boathouse is sinking." True enough down it went on one side until the window sills were level, on the one side. With the water at the severe angle at which it rested there seemed to be danger of the big boat inside upsetting. Here it stopped however—evidently the bottom on one side was on the mud. A telegram was sent to the owner and a man dispatched. A crew was soon collected and after many days' work with jacks and levers, working on the thin treacherous ice of this unusually mild winter, the boathouse was raised to the level, the broken airtank pumped out and the cause of the accident discovered. A muskrat, seeking a winter home, had eaten its way into the air chamber and caused all this damage

I have know a few pairs, or couples, of these active borers to tear such long passages into a dike on the shores of the Pacific, as to cause a tremendous flood of all the farming land enclosed. Often while passing those farm lands on a coasting steamer at high tide we have pointed our camera down at the farm houses and barn below us, inside the dikes, and wondered just what those people would do when Old Ocean again rushed and seethed over those rich black bottoms? To see the multitude, after the muskrats had made the channels large enough to weaken and break the dike, working By twinkling lantern light, with wheelbarrow, bags and shovels, hastening against the incoming of the next tide, was to learn a lesson as to the destructive powers of this world wide denizen of the swamps and marshes—the muskrat.

GRAIN MARKET

Cash oats and barley suffered a setback in the Winnipeg and local markets yesterday, oats declining 1 1-8c. and barley going back 2 1-4c. There is a better demand for buckwheat and peas in the local market, the latter quoting at $3 and buckwheat at $1.10. Supplies of No. 1 baled hay are somewhat short, the market showing an advance of $2 per ton this week. In the option markets corn again closed strong and higher, following a weak spell during the session. Although country receipts of corn are on the increase, prices followed a further general advance in the price of hogs. So long as hogs keep at their present high levels, dealers do not look for any material setback in corn.

Alkali In Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

MRS. BALFAME

By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

"Oh, she's got the best alibi ever. She'd packed his suitcase and carried it downstairs, and even written a note describing some bag or other she wanted and pinned it to his coat. I was there when the police examined it. They're not saying who they're suspectin', but they're doin' a heap of thinkin'. Fact remains that she was alone in the front of the house—that mutt of a hired girl she's got was way up in the back part groanin' with a toothache when I routed her out. If she wasn't such a fright that Dave wouldn't have looked at her—Well, the police know that Dave wasn't what you might call a model husband; but Enid, so far as we all know, never rowed him. That's the most tryin' sort, though, and generally conceals the most hate. But she had her clubs and all the rest of it. Maybe she didn't care. I'm only wonderin' what Phipps thinks. That's the reason I want her to see the newspapermen. She might throw them off the scent at least. Of course, they'd rather she'd done it than any one—"

"You won't even hint to her that she may be suspected?" interrupted Rush, sharply.

"Oh, Lord, no. I'd never dare. Just persuade her somehow. Guess Anna or Polly can manage it."

Rush turned and walked down the steps. "I'll go to the Elsinore for breakfast. The reporters are likely to show up there. I know Jim Broderick. We must be on the job all the time."

CHAPTER XI.

To Dr. Anna alone Mrs. Balfame told the story of the night, although, implicit as was her trust, with certain reservations. She omitted the detail of the poisoned lemonade, but otherwise unburdened herself with freedom and relief.

"Before I knew where I was," she concluded, "there was the kitchen door closed behind me. I can't understand why I lost my presence of mind. I could easily have run through the back door and out the front, and reached him about the time Gifning did."

Dr. Anna was drinking strong coffee. It was eight o'clock, and she had gone downstairs and made breakfast for her friend and herself, Frieda having retired to her room and bolted the door. The doctor had heard the whole story as soon as she arrived, but after an interval of sleep had asked for it again.

"I think it's better as it is," she said thoughtfully. "No one could have seen you. The moon rose late; the night at that time must have been pitch dark. The trees alone would have shielded you, even had any one been watching. Suspicion never would fall on you anyhow; you are too far above it, and Dave had been insulting people right and left the last year. But you want to avoid blackmail. The only thing that disturbs me is that the girl may have been on the back stairs when you came in. I'll come in for lunch and talk to her then. You keep to your room. Rest, and sleep if you can. I don't fancy you'll have early visitors. Everybody'll sleep late. I wish I could!"

"Will you stop in and see Dr. Lequeur about yourself—"

"If I can find a minute. Don't worry about me. I'm tough, and the Lord knows I ought to be immune."

But she found no time to see a doctor in her own behalf and returned to the Balfame house between twelve and one. Reporters were sitting on the box hedge and on the doorstep. She evaded them good naturedly, but it was some time before she was admitted by the rebellious Frieda, who had been summoned to the front door sixteen times during the forenoon.

When Dr. Anna finally found herself in the dark hall she saw that Frieda's face was swollen and tied up in a towel. The spectacle gave the doctor an instant opportunity.

"The worst infliction on earth, bar none!" she announced, following the maid into the kitchen. "Let me take a look at it? How long have you had it?"

"Two days," replied Frieda sullenly, unamenable to sympathy which offered no surcease of pain.

"Abscess?"

"Don't know."

Frieda's mental processes were slow. Before she could follow the doctor's the bandage was ripped off and a sharp eye was examining the inflamed interior of her cavernous mouth. A moment later Dr. Anna had opened her doctor's bag and was anointing the surroundings of the tortured tooth with a brown liquid.

"That won't cure it," she said, "but no dentist could do more until the swelling is reduced. And it will save you a preliminary bill. Keep this. As soon as you feel you can stand it, go to Dr. Meyers, Main street. Tell him I sent you. But why didn't you tell Mrs. Balfame last night? Why endure pain? Kind mistresses always keep such alleviatives in the house, and Mrs. Balfame is not the sort to mind being roused in the middle of the night if some one were suffering."

The pain had subsided under treatment, and Frieda was restored to civility as she knew. "It only got bad when I am dancing to the hall, and I ran home. I had some drops in my room."

"Oh, I see. Did they stop the pain?"

"Nix. Ache like before, but I lie down and perhaps can sleep if those men have not made me come downstairs to make the coffee. All night I am up." And she glowered with self-pity.

"But when you found that your drops were no good, why didn't you run at once to Mrs. Balfame? You were braver than I should have been. It was about eight o'clock, was it not when Mr. Balfame was shot? Mrs. Balfame was probably awake when you came in, even if she had gone to bed. Or perhaps you didn't know that she came home early?"

"On Saturday nights she come home after I do. How I am to know she is here?"

"But you might have gone to her medicine closet—in her bathroom."

"When you have the pain like hot iron you think of all the good things for it the next day." Frieda relapsed into sullen silence; Dr. Anna hastily disposed of the lunch prepared for her and went upstairs.

Mrs. Balfame was lying on the sofa. She had not dressed but looked as trim as usual in a blue and white bathrobe; never having been a woman to "let herself go," she did not possess a wapper. Her long hair hung in two loose braids and she looked very pale and lovely.

"Put Frieda out of you head," said Dr. Hanna hurriedly; familiar voices ascended from the path below. "She heard nothing. You don't when you have jumping toothache."

"Thank heaven!"

A soft knock announced several of her friends. They were dressed for motoring; this being Sunday, not even death must interfere with the cross-country refreshment of the Elsinore husband. They kissed Mrs. Balfame and congratulated her upon her appearance and her nerves.

"But one thing must be settled right here," announced Mrs. Gifning, "and that is the question of your mourning. I'll go over on the eighten in the morning and see to it. But you never wear ready-made things and it would be a pity to waste money that way. Are you going to wear a veil at the inquest?"

"Of course I am. Do you suppose I shall submit to being stared at by a curious mob and snapshotted by reporters?"

"That's just what I thought. I'll bring back a smart hat and a long crepe veil with me, and order your widows outfit from one of the big shops; they'll have it over in time for the funeral. And you can wear your tailored suit to the inquest; it will be half covered by your veil."

"What a good idea!" said Mrs. Balfame gratefully. "You are too kind."

"Kind? Nothing! I just have to shop for other people. How lucky that you hadn't bought your new winter suit. It might have been blue."

"It was to have been blue." There was a note of regret in Mrs. Balfame's voice. "Don't forget to buy me two black chiffon blouses. One very simple for every day; the other really good. And something white for the neck. Of course I wouldn't wear it on the street; but in the house—black is too trying!"

Stomach So Bad

THOUGHT HE WOULD DIE.

CAN EAT ANYTHING NOW.

But for indigestion and dyspepsia, many a life might be a pleasant one.

The misery which stomach troubles cause the sufferer knows only too well and any one who has suffered knows what joy it would give to be able to eat three good meals a day and not be punished for it after.

Nearly everything that enters a weak stomach acts as an irritant, and even the little that is eaten causes such torture and is digested so imperfectly that it does little good.

Before you can eat heartily, and not pick and choose your food, you must put your stomach right so that it will manufacture its own digestive ferments.

For forty years now Burdock Blood Bitters has been making weak stomachs strong, and permanently curing severe cases of indigestion and dyspepsia that other remedies were powerless to reach.

Mr. H. L. Fairweather, Cumberland Bay, N. B., writes:—"I was troubled with my stomach for two years, and sometimes was so bad I thought I would die. I tried everything I ever heard tell of, and had medicine from three doctors, but continued to grow worse. One day I read of some wonderful cures made with Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles I could eat any kind of food without any bad effects and by the time I had taken four I was in perfect health."

Burdock Blood Bitters is manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE LAUGH

How They Solved the Mystery

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Harley and Rogers, investigating lawyers, faced each other in some dismay.

"A murder case," remarked Harley at last. "That's rather out of our line, isn't it?"

"Just because no one has brought one to our doors. We've taken everything in sight so far," grinned Rogers.

"Then we won't let this one get by, eh? Good thing it's vacation time. Now tell me what Dr. Hibbert had to say about the matter."

"I found him waiting in the office when I arrived this morning. He said that he had a curious story to tell me.

"It seems he has been attending a patient, Emery Armstrong, who lives in a dilapidated house on the Freeman road. Armstrong was a middle aged man of eccentric habits and lived alone with a hired man, a Swede of the name of Lindquist.

"Armstrong had money or was reputed to be a miser, but his house appeared poverty stricken. He always paid the doctor with grumbling reluctance.

"Armstrong had been sick for some time, nothing dangerous apparently, merely a low malarial fever. He was so much improved that Hibbert decided he need not come any more.

"When he went to pay his last visit last night the man Lindquist met him at the door and said that his employer was unconscious. The doctor found Armstrong had been dead for several hours. Investigation showed that the man had been shot through the heart as he lay in bed.

"The shot had penetrated bedclothing and all, and yet there were no powder marks from a gun pressed against the bedding.

"Lindquist appeared stupefied when told that his employer was dead. He admitted that he had been away all night and had just returned. Hibbert came directly to us and has now gone to notify the police authorities."

"Where is Lindquist?" asked Harley.

"Oh, Hibbert left the man alone there. Rather an odd thing to do under the circumstances."

"Of course Hibbert's reputation is impeccable," remarked Harley, reaching for his hat. "Coming with me?"

"Yes. I'd like to beat the police to it. My car is below."

The young lawyers went down to the street and entered Rogers' low swung racing car. In fifteen minutes they were turning into the neglected grounds surrounding the Armstrong house. They were quite extensive, and the masses of shrubbery furnished excellent hiding places for any one prowling around bent on mischief.

The house itself, once a lofty colonial mansion with pillared porticoes and many wings, was in a tumbledown condition.

There was no sign of life around the place, and Rogers could not help a sudden tightening of heartstrings when he recollected that the murderer might be concealed where he could pick them off one at a time as they entered the house.

The same thought occurred to Harley, and he was glad they were both armed with automatic weapons.

Rogers lifted the ancient brass knocker and rapped gently.

If Lindquist was on guard he would answer at once.

The knock reverberated as though through empty rooms.

"What was that sound?" asked Rogers. "It sounded like a laugh!"

Harley had heard it too.

"Perhaps the Swede has gone insane," he suggested and turned the doorknob.

The door opened halfway and then stopped.

The two men entered and almost fell over the squat form of a man huddled on the floor in a pool of blood.

"It is Lindquist—shot in the back!" muttered Rogers as he got up from his knees.

"It has just happened." Harley touched his companion's arm. "The murderer may still be here," he breathed.

Weapons in hand, they searched the lower rooms, finding only dust and decay, except in the kitchen, which bore evidence of being in daily use.

On the second floor only one room was habitable. This was the one in which the dead man lay.

This was a lofty chamber furnished in the black walnut "period" of forty years ago. There was every evidence of comfort here, the bookcases running over with volumes. The well equipped writing desk, with its scattered papers and fine reading lamp, denoted that Emery Armstrong had spent much of his time in his own apartment.

But the quiet occupant of the room! The two young men turned back the sheet and looked upon a noble countenance.

A hasty examination of the room showed nothing to indicate there had been a struggle.

The big bed stood almost in the center of the room, and it had been made up with the pillows at the foot, under a hanging lamp.

"So he could read in bed," explained Rogers. "There was a book near his hand when the doctor found him."

At that instant there was a confusion below stairs. The coroner and his associates had arrived. Dr. Hibbert was with them.

The two young men went downstairs and found them crowded around Lindquist's body.

"Well?" asked Hibbert eagerly.

Rogers shook his head. "We've only just come," he explained.

"It's a clear case," said the coroner. "This man killed his employer and has committed suicide."

"Shot himself in the back?" asked Rogers. "We found no weapon either."

Harley and Rogers met a battery of unpleasant glances.

Dr. Hibbert hastened to explain their presence on the scene, but the young investigators were given to understand that their presence was both untimely and quite unofficial.

The coroner and his associates were eager to have the investigation to themselves and felt jealous of the interference of the two young lawyers.

They scorned the theory of a third person being involved, though Rogers told them about the uncanny laugh which had followed their first knock upon the door.

"You find the laugh, young fellow," grinned the police detective, "and I'll get the chief to appoint you on the detective bureau."

"Done!" exclaimed Rogers confidently, and he withdrew with his partner, while the others went on upstairs.

"How about the laugh?" queried Harley as they stood in the kitchen.

"We must find the woman," said Rogers.

"The woman?"

"Yes. There's a woman somewhere around the place. Why? She has been down and made some tea. The pot is still warm. There are the dregs in a cup. Armstrong is dead, and Lindquist probably did not make the tea. Men fly to strong liquors in times of stress. This tea was being made when we entered the house."

"Where is she?" asked Harley. "All the doors are bolted on the inside, even the door leading to the cellar."

"We might try the attic. These back stairs will take us up there."

Rogers led the way up a narrow, dusty flight of stairs. Once he paused and searched the treads with his flashlight.

Plainly visible in the dust were the imprints of a small stockinged foot.

"We are on the right track," said Harley.

The stairs ended in a small hall on the second floor, and, opening another door, they discovered a dusty flight winding upward.

Now they walked cautiously, guns in hand. Under the low roof the attic divided into several rooms.

Harley and his companions had not taken ten steps before they heard once more that wild laugh.

They peered through a half open door.

In the middle of the floor a board had been removed, and beside the hole knelt a woman. She was a small creature, bent with years and illness. Gray hair hung in tangled locks about her wrinkled face, and her large, dark eyes were wild and glittering as she lifted her head and regarded the two men.

Then, without comment on their intrusion, she bent over the hole and appeared to look down.

Rogers silently placed himself where he could lean over and look down also.

He saw the lath and plaster of the bedroom ceiling and a white point of light that streamed up through a small hole.

Below that hole was the bed where the body of Armstrong was found with a bullet in his heart, and the hole in the ceiling was right above his heart!

Suddenly the hole was obscured, and, to Rogers' horror, he saw that the woman had covered it with the muzzle of a revolver.

With a signal to Harley, they both leaped for her and tore her away from the hole.

She fought like a tigress, and again and again her wild, insane laughter echoed through the house.

The men below came tearing upstairs and secured the raving woman. It was Dr. Hibbert who identified her.

"It is Armstrong's maniac wife," said the physician. "For years she has been confined in the Lewis asylum. I did not know she had escaped, and I did not connect her with the crime.

"It is plain to be seen now how she accomplished her deed. She concealed herself here and made a small hole in the ceiling close to the hook in the middle of the plaster centerpiece. From this hook the lamp was suspended.

"As for Lindquist, she probably surprised him and killed him as he tried to escape. If our friends, Harley and Rogers, had not traced the laugh it is very likely that she would have got one or more of us."

As the mad woman was led screaming to the patrol wagon in which the officers had arrived Dr. Hibbert turned to the detective in charge.

"How about your promise, Smith?" he asked. "My friends here traced the laugh."

The detective shook hands with Harley and Rogers.

"The next case you have, my friends," he said, "will have the backing of the detective bureau."

"Not if I know it," grinned Rogers as they left the house. "But I'll tell you one thing—I don't want another murder case."

"We'll turn down the next one," agreed Harley as the car sped toward the city.

But it was to happen that the next case they handled touched them so intimately that they could not help being involved in the most mysterious crime of the decade.

You never had a headache when you were well.

To keep well is to keep clean, inside.

To relieve headache, and to prevent it, keep the liver active and industrious and the bowels as regular as a clock.

Two generations of healthy, vigorous people have done this by taking one pill at bedtime, regularly—a larger dose when nature gives the warning.

Why Do We Advertise?

YOU may think that because we are big manufacturers, and you are only one consumer out of several million, we have no special interest in you, and you have no real interest in us. Nothing could be farther from the truth than that.

Our future as manufacturers depends in the end, upon just one thing: the satisfaction which our product gives to you, the consumer. And your satisfaction depends to a large extent upon the attention which you yourself give to the buying of shoes.

For, bear in mind this fact: no matter with what care we select the materials which go into a shoe—no matter how perfect the workmanship may be—it will not give you the full measure of satisfaction unless it is correctly fitted to your foot. And that is something which we cannot control.

We do insist that the materials which go into our shoes shall be the best quality possible at the price: we do make sure that the workmanship is as nearly perfect as our human organization can make it—but we must stop there. We cannot insure ourselves that you will buy the type of shoe which will give you the best service, or the size and width which alone can give you comfort and satisfactory wear.

And so we speak to you through this advertising—the only method by which we can hope to reach you all. Our object is not merely to sell more of our shoes. We seldom ask you to buy A. H. M. shoes. Our purpose is rather to tell you how you may obtain better comfort and better service from the shoes you buy.

Of course we hope that you will buy A. H. M. shoes, and we are confident that sooner or later you will do so. But we want to make sure that when you do buy them you will get all the comfort and satisfaction which we try to build into them.

Our booklet, "How to Buy Shoes" goes into the subject more fully than is possible in newspaper space. It is sent on request to any address in Canada. May we send you a copy with our compliments?

A Grig?

"What is a grig?" asks a correspondent who has been worried by the phrase "as happy as a grig." The grig shares with Mark Tapley the honor of being proverbially happy. But a lonely adjective does not define a substantive. In Yorkshire, we are told, a grig is a young child, happy, we may hope. In Staffordshire it is a bantam. But in Dutch the "kriek" is a cricket, or grasshopper, a really merry fowl. In Worcester a grig is the provincial English for an eel. But we cannot accept an eel as the embodiment of mirth, and we put our money on the Dutchman's "kriek."—London Chronicle.

A Welsh Week.

In north Wales the Welsh week for "now" is "rwan." In south Wales it is "rwan" plus "nawr"—which, "nawr" in connection with the dear north Welsh who make use of the word was standing on his head on the date and that his pranks became general.—Cardiff Western Mail.

Mending the Hot Water Bag.

A hole in a hot water bag can be repaired by the same means as a puncture in a bicycle tire. Drop a small brass plug into the bag, work it carefully out through the hole in the neck, and fit a fine nut. This will be indestructible.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to 1-4 pint of hot water and 4 tablespoonfuls granulated sugar. Take one teaspoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

BERLIN SPENDS $240,000 A DAY ON UNEMPLOYED

BERLIN.—The support of the unemployed is costing the municipality of Greater Berlin $240,000 a day. A clerical force of 2,300 with a weekly payroll of $24,000, is required to keep track of the army of workless people.

Tired, Nervous Women What You Need is Vinol

The reason we recommend Vinol so strongly for such conditions is because it is a non-secret remedy which contains Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates and Glycerophosphates, the very elements needed to build up a run-down system and replace weakness with strength.

HERE IS PROOF

Glasgow Jct., Ky.

"I was suffering from a nervous breakdown—loss of flesh and poor appetite so I could hardly drag around and do the work for my family. My doctor prescribed Vinol. It not only made me well and strong but I have gained in weight."—Mrs. S. M. Gray.

Milwaukee, Wis.

"I was weak, nervous, all run down, no appetite and had taken different medicines without benefit. A friend advised me to try Vinol. It gave me a wonderful appetite, I sleep well, have gained in weight and am now strong and well."—Mrs. E. Strey.

For all run-down, nervous, anaemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like Vinol.

HEART EVER KINDLY

John Galsworthy Describes the Poilu at His Best.

Glad of Opportunity to Divide Rations and Make Friends With Four-footed Creature That Had Evidently Known Suffering.

The sun, boring into his spine through his thin shirt, made him reach for his jacket. There was the little dog still sitting on its base, 20 yards away. It cowered and dropped its ears when he moved, and he thought: "Poor beast! Some one has been doing the devil's work on you, not badly!"

There were some biscuit in the pocket of his jacket, and he held one out. The dog shivered and its pink tongue lolled panting with desire and fear. Jean Llotard tossed the biscuit gently about half way. The dog cowered back a step or two, crept forward three, and again squatted. Then very gradually it crept up to the biscuit, bolted it, and regained its distance.

The soldier took out another. This time he threw it five pacés only in front of him. Again the little beast cowered, slunk forward, seized the biscuit, devoured it; but this time it only recoiled a pace or two, and seemed, with panting mouth and faint wagging of the tail, to beg for more. Jean Llotard held a third biscuit as far in front of him as he could, and waited. The creature crept forward and squatted just out of reach. There it sat, with saliva dropping from its mouth: seemingly it could not make up its mind to that awful venture. The soldier sat motionless: his outstretched hand began to tire, but he did not budge—he meant to conquer its fear.

At last it snatched the biscuit. Jean Llotard instantly held out a fourth. That, too, was snatched, but at the fifth he was able to touch the dog. It cowered almost into the ground at the touch of his fingers, and then lay, still trembling violently, while the soldier continued to stroke its head and ears. And suddenly his heart gave a twitter; the creature had licked his hand. He took out his last biscuit, broke it up and fed the dog slowly with the bits, talking all the time; when the last crumb was gone he continued to murmur and crumple its ears softly. He had become aware of something happening within the dog—something in the nature of conversation, as if it were saying: "Master, my new master! —I worship, I love you!" The creature came gradually closer, quite close; then put up its sharp, black nose and began to lick his face.—From "Cafard," by John Galsworthy, in Scribner's.

Business.

"What would you consider evidence of a clever modern woman?"

"A clever modern woman?"

"The same."

"Well, I should think if she were wealthy she would keep her divorce lawyer on a salary."

Righteous Indignation.

"I have discovered a lot of graft in the city hall. Got a dead open and shut case, with all the proof."

"What are you going to do—report it to the grand jury?"

"Yes, if they refuse to let me in on it."

Desirable Condition.

"I hear you are going in for physical culture."

"I certainly am."

"Why such rashness?"

"I have heard that it is possible to get too strong to work."

BOVRIL

Y. M. C. A. in Italy.

The Y. M. C. A. in Italy, as everywhere else, has asserted itself in a most splendid and generous manner. While the red triangle, known the world over as the sign of brotherhood, is much in evidence in the Italian war zone, the four letters "Y. M. C. A." are nowhere to be seen. The reason given for this is that the Italians, in general, are opposed to any organization of a public nature which is controlled by a religious or sectarian element, a Washington bulletin says. Such a title as that of the Y. M. C. A. would create a certain feeling of mistrust among the Italian people as to the purposes of the association.

The officers of the Y. M. C. A. in Italy have been quick to appreciate this and in order to work in full harmony with the Italians have changed the name of the association to "Sociem (di) Fratellanza Universale" or "Society of Universal Brotherhood." Accordingly, the letters "S. F. U." have everywhere been substituted for Y. M. C. A.

"I am satisfied with either," replied the observing physician.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair, Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

CATTLE MARKET

Union Stock Yards—Receipts, 35 cars, with 550 cattle, 127 calves, 672 hogs, and 48 sheep and lambs.

With another very light run offering, the market is good and strong at Monday's advance of 25c to 40c over last week. All grades of cattle in good demand.

There is now a very good demand for choice quality stockers and feeders. Farmers want the best stock, and evidently are prepared to pay the high prices, providing they can get what they want. Choice grass cows and light stock heifers are in good demand.

Calves are about 50c firmer.

Sheep and lambs steady.

Hog market strong and 25c higher at $21 f.o.b. Supplies of hogs are running very light, hence the present high prices. At the same time the packers are still finding difficulty in securing shipping space for the export markets, and say that unless relief comes soon in a good export outlet present prices cannot hold very long.

Uncut Silk Fibre Fringe Is a Popular Trimming

Printed Georgette is Combined With Taffeta.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The approach of the Spring season marks the purchase of the new spring clothes. Every woman everywhere experiences the same longing for new attractive frocks and suits. The desire eventually materializes and each one is the proud possessor of one of the fascinating garments that she secretly wished for. This surely may be called the "Spring of Springs" for the reaction from the somber war behaviour has permitted the greatest variety of colours and lines that may be considered smart.

Tunic in One Sided Effect.

One of the most attractive frocks on view at one of the openings was an imported model of beige-coloured crepe de Chine combined with navy blue satin. The navy satin made the back section of the entire dress, with the beige crepe de Chine used for the front section of the waist, the sleeves and as an apron front on the skirt. Two strings of uncut fringe, attached at either shoulder, crossed each other at the back and were attached at the belt at the side seams.

Many New Trimmings.

Perhaps the most unusual and most attractive trimming seen is the uncut fibre silk fringe. This appears on the filmist frocks and the smartest suits. A printed Georgette in pastel shades had its uneven tunic edged with a pale rose uncut silk fringe, while a tailored suit of navy blue serge was bound with the same thing in black. The quality of colour of the material used seems to be given no attention and the colour and fineness of the fringe alone determine where it shall be used.

Jet and beads are on the majority of afternoon and evening dresses. A synonym for simplicity was the white soft satin evening dress shown for the late spring. The dress hung straight from the shoulders to the hem and was drawn in slightly at the long waistline with a narrow band of the same white satin material. The neckline being straight across the front and back, afforded an excellent opportunity for the display of a gorgeous jet motif embedded in a luxurious band of white beads. This banding with its pretentious motif also edged the lower edge of the skirt. The frock was truly elaborate in its simplicity.

White Moire.

Moire is vieing with lace for prestige in evening gowns. This heavy, queenly fabric is so rich and superb in itself that the frock which is developed in it is usually without any trimming. Silver cloth lined the train and faced the upper side of the bodice of a handsome gown of cream-coloured moire that was worn at the opera recently.

Sat Up In Bed To Get Her Breath

Palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, inability to lie on the left side, feelings as if smothering, oppressed feeling in the chest, dizzy and faint spells, tired weak, worn out feeling, involuntary twitching of the muscles, sleeplessness, restless, etc., all point to the fact that either the heart or nerves, or both, are not what they should be. Any of these conditions should be remedied immediately so as to avoid a complete breakdown of the whole system.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will bring energy to the weakened constitution, strengthen and regulate the heart, and tone up the tired, overstrained nerves.

Mrs. William Steeves, Chemical Road, N.B., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles and palpitation of the heart, which was so bad I had to sit up in bed to get my breath. I could not lie on my left side at all. I tried doctor after doctor, also several different remedies, but got no help from them. My mother insisted on me trying Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. By the time I had used one box I was feeling very much better. I took in all three boxes, and now I am in perfect health and can enjoy a good sound sleep, and can lie on my left side without any trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Second Battalion Will Be Given a Big Reception in Kingston This Evening

Special Train is Due to Reach Kingston About Four O'clock This Afternoon.

THREE HOURS AHEAD

(Special to Examiner)

KINGSTON, April 23.—The special troops train carrying the unit in which Peterboro people are so much interested, the 2nd Battalion is due to arrive here at 3.45 this afternoon. The 4th Battery, C.F.A., and other details are expected to reach Kingston at 7 p.m., according to the latest information available. It was first thought that the two trains would arrive within a few minutes of each other, but the train carrying the 2nd Battalion was three hours ahead at Montreal and was not held until the arrival of the 2nd Kingston troop train as planned. The military authorities expect to be able to discharge all the returning soldiers this evening, in which case all the Peterboro men would be able to leave on the 12.20 a.m. train, reaching Peterboro at 6.10 on Thursday. Kingston is ready to give the incoming units a glorious reception. The principal streets are a mass of flags and bunting and there is plenty of color even on the side streets. There is to be a big parade and general Victor Williams will take the salute and address the units. It will be a memorable occasion even in this historic old place, which for over a hundred years has been a military centre.

The Peterborough men of the 2nd Battalion and 4th Battery will arrive home to-morrow night on the 8.10 p.m. G.T.R. train from Belleville. This was the information Col. Mills received last night in a telegram from General Williams of Kingston, and which he conveyed to the Council in the session of the Board of Works. These men returned on the Olympic and are due to reach Kingston this evening at 6 o'clock, where both the 2nd Battalion and the 4th Battery will be publicly welcomed and entertained and forthwith demobilized. Col. Mills stated that Kingston was preparing a big reception, which he had been invited by General Williams to attend. These units were recruited from the Eastern Ontario district, which has also supplied their reinforcements.

The Peterborough soldiers will leave Kingston to-morrow afternoon at 3.10 p.m., occupying a special car attached to the regular G.T.R. train. The arrangements, which the Reception committee of the Peterborough Council had drafted, will be carried out to-morrow night. Ald. Turner interviewed the Automobile Association last night, and was promised twenty-five automobiles for the conveyance of the home-coming soldiers in the procession from the station to Central Park and thence to their homes.

The parade will be organized at Central Park at 7.30 o'clock, and will proceed to the station by way of George and Charlotte streets. Mayor Duncan and Capt Morrison of the G.W.V.A. will lead the procession, followed by the City Council, the G.W.V.A. band, the Veterans in uniform, the Salvation Army band and the citizens. It is expected that a large number of automobiles will fall into line.

Col. Mills stated that there are eighty men in the Peterborough section of the two returning units. This constitutes the largest group of local men who have thus far returned in a body. For this reason, and because they represent Peterborough's first contribution to the Canadian Expeditionary Force, and thereby the people's first patriotic impulse and response, there should be a great demonstration to the war-worn 2nd and its companion unit, the 4th Battery.

Ald. J. J. Turner appeared before the meeting and presented the Council's request for automobile to which the members present readily assented. A committe was named to carry out the wishes of the Association.

PARIS, April 23.—The German government has been informed by the Allied governments that they are ready to receive German delegates at Versailles on April 25.

Threatened to Return Home

Dangerous Situation Has Arisen at the Peace Conference.

Canadian Press:

PARIS, April 23.—Premier Orlando threatens to return to Italy to-day unless there is a satisfactory adjustment of the Fiume and Dalmation questions. Premier Lloyd George is trying to persuade the Italian leader to remain in Paris longer while he continues efforts to reconcile the opposing viewpoints. It became known to-day that Lloyd George tried unsuccessfully during the discussion last night to find a basis for agreement between the differing viewpoints of Wilson and Orlando.

FACTS OF CASE.

The facts of the deadlock over the Italian claims in the Adriatic, according to the "Petit Parisien," are as follows: "President Wilson proposed that Fiume, which is not mentioned in the Treaty of London, should be a free city, but attached to the Jugo-Slav customs system, and, further, that the London Treaty should be subjected to a total revision. Italy refused to accept this proposal, whereupon President Wilson withdrew, leaving Italy alone with the representatives of the other signatories of the Treaty. During the meetings of the representatives of the signatories, both Premier Orlando and Foreign Minister Sonnino were most conciliatory, Orlando especially having asked repeatedly on what conditions France and Great Britain would consent to give Fiume to Italy. Baron Sonnino said he was ready to discuss the question of the London Treaty. However, President Wilson, who, while he was not present at the meetings, kept in touch with them, then wanted to re-open the question of the Treaty of London, but without joining the revision of the fate of Fiume. President Wilson has receded from his proposal to make Fiume a free city, and is inclined to give it absolutely to the Jugo-Slavs. Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau are understood to be ready to adhere purely and simply to the Treaty of London, at the same time seeking means of conciliation."

WOODROW'S EXPLANATION.

In a statement issued by President Wilson, explaining his position on the Adriatic question, he declares that Fiume cannot become part of Italy. The President points out that every condition concerning the Adriatic settlement has been changed since Italy entered the war upon promises of the pact of London. The Austro-Hungarian Empire having disappeared, he notes that new States have been created for which Fiume is a natural outlet to the sea. The President also contends that strategic necessity pleaded in behalf of Italy's claim to the Dalmatian Islands no longer prevails, as the Austrian naval menace has ceased to exist.

FRANK JENNE Says:

"Progress is often blocked by prejudice; new ideas that are good are often obstructed by previous custom.

"A long established custom is a difficult barrier to remove. It took the Boer War and a senseless loss of life to change the red time of the British soldier. Even then the French soldier did not discard red breeches until a whole army had been wiped out by the Huns.

"Semi-ready tailoring as the modern system of custom tailoring has taken twenty-five years to overcome the old wait-a-month system of having one's new suit built to measure by the retail tailor."

MEN GETTING DISCOURAGED

2nd Division May Be Held in England for King's Birthday Festivities.

NOTHING OFFICIAL

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, April 23. — The newest rumor concerning the second division is that they are to be held in England to participate in the birthday festivities of the King on June 3rd. A letter was received from Driver W. H. G. Lomie, second division ammunition column, to-day, in which this rumor was again advanced. No notice or announcement had been made to the men to this effect. It still remains a rumor.

On the other hand a letter was received to-day by the relatives of an officer in the second division engineers in which no reference is made to this event. On the contrary this officer stated that he expected to be back in Toronto in time for the 24th of May celebration.

The father of two sons in the second division told your representative to-day that while the war was on, and until recently, his sons' letters had been very cheerful, but that they now wrote in a very spiritless and down hearted manner. If this rumor proved true there might be trouble.

Nothing to corroborate this rumor has been heard at headquarters in Toronto. General Gunn, O. C. Military District No. 2, has not heard anything about it, and none of the other military officers have received official or unofficial notification.

"THE ROSARY"

That there is a growing unrest in modern times, and that irreligion is prevalent is conceded on all sides. That there is marital unrest and that there is something vitally wrong is also apparent, as our divorce courts will attest. Taking these things in point, Edward E. Rose wrote "The Rosary", a modern play, in which these topics are handled graphically and forcefully. Realizing the demand for plays of this sort, Messrs. Rowland & Clifford have made a splendid revival of this play, and it will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Thursday, April 24. with a notable company headed by Oscar O'Shea as "Father Kelly" and a costly production. The story deals with a home that is wrecked by unfaith, but restored by the efforts of a kindly priest, Father Kelly, whose insight into human nature, whose great love for humanity and whose saving grace of humor rectifies the grievous mistakes of the chief characters.

The Board of Works at a meeting held last night extending into the early hours of the morning, recommended to the City Council that the Russell-Townsend Company of Toronto, be awarded the contract to build the new Hunter street high level bridge, at an estimated constructive cost of $249,200, estimated on the "cost plus" basis.

NOVA SCOTIANS WANT TO RETAIN POSSESSION OF "ROBERT THE BRUCE"

Port Authorities at Southampton Seized the Pet Goat of the 25th Battalion—"Robert" Hada Distinguished Career.

(Special to Examiner)

LONDON, April 23.—When the port authorities at Southampton in the interests of public health, seized the pet goat of the 25th Battalion, they provided the Nova Scotians with a grouch which compels a good deal of sympathy. "Reobert the Bruce," has had a distinguished career, having marched through three years of war from Ypres to Bonn Bridge, although twice wounded during the journey.

Now the 25th want "Robert" to march at their head through London during the official procession next month, but the authorities refuse to let him go. The war office is suspected of calousness and the following communication has ben forwarded unofficially to military headquarters: "Is the War Office or some other Government Department at the bottom of this? Do they want to take 'Robert' and put him among the others of his species down White Hall way? If so they are on a false train for 'Robert' is an intelligent goat."

NEXT WEEK'S BANQUET

The decision of the City Council to tender a banquet to all the Peterboro men who have returned from overseas on May 1st, will be greatly applauded as a civic appreciation of the services rendered by our citizen soldiers. Some may say that it would perhaps have been better to have waited until all the men were home, but against that plan is the undoubted fact that by the time the last of those now overseas are back, many of those who have already returned will have left Peterboro. The industrial situation is such that it is necessary for many returned men to taken positions out of the city and if the banquet were further delayed, these ex-soldiers would miss the civic reception to which they are entitled. It is understood that there will be a similar banquet later on for the men of the 2nd and 4th Divisions and their other comrades who are still to return.

In connection with the banquet next week the suggestion has been made and might be considered by the authorities, that a big parade of all the returned men migh preceed the gathering in the Armouries. It is certain that the vast majority of the returned soldiers of Peterboro will be in attendance at the banquet and the occasion would furnish an unique opportunity of seeing marching through the city streets in a body—a spectacle that would long be remembered by the citizens.

ENGLAND'S DAY.

"God for England and St. George." To-day is the day of days for England adnall who love her—St. George's Day. Those who wear the red rose in honour of the occasion may do so with the proud consciousness that the wonderful little country never in her long and glorious history occupied such a proud place in the eyes of the world to-day. England has never appreciated the value of advertising, but in spite of her failure in that respect, the civilised world knows how great is the debt humanity owes the people of the tight little isle for salvation from the menace that for four and a half years threatened to overwhelm the forces of liberty. Here in Canada we sometimes fail to do justice to what England has done in the war. When we realise that of Britain's fighting forces no less than 70 per cent. were English, we begin to appreciate the sacrifices that the people of England have made. In our own Canadian army 123,000 men were of English birth. The rally of Englishmen in all parts of the world at the call of the Motherland was a demonstration of patriotism that probably never has been equalled in the world's history. From the remost corners of the Globe, from the frozen Yukon and from the islands of the South Seas, from America and Africa and Asia, the English of military age, and many of them indeed far above the age limit, came to strike a blow for their beloved country. And to-day Canadians will be proud to claim relationship with the people of England and to rejoice on St. George's Day with them.

Tennyson's lines are particularly appropriate to-day.

There is no land like England,
Where'er the light of day be;
There is no land like English hearts,
Such hearts of oak as they be;
There is no land like England,
Where'er the light of day be;
There are no men like Englishmen,
So tall and bold as they be.

There is no land like England,
Where'er the light of day be;
There are no wives like English wives,
So fair and chaste as they be.
There is no land like England,
Where'er the light of day be;
There are no maids like English maids
So beautiful as they be.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF YPRES

...Yesterday was the Fourth Anniversary of the beginning of the Second Battle of Ypres when the Canadian 1st Division, not yet seasoned in warfare had their first battle experience against the Hun and met the test so successfully that the fame of the fighting Canadians rang throughout the world. Four years ago this morning in the early dawn of April 23rd, 1915, Major George W. Beanett led his company of Peterboro men in a charge against the Hun hordes, one of the series of counter attacks by the Canadians that saved the situation when the French coloured troops on the left of the Maple Leaf division, overwhelmed by clouds of gas and masses of German soldiery broke and left a gap in the line that opened the way to Calais and the Channel. Major Bennett himself and many another gallant Peterboro boy died that day, but the line held! And to-day the people of Peterboro are awaiting the arrival of some of the men who four years ago charged with Major Bennett and the rest of their comrades. There are, alas, only a few of them left to come back. Many have from time to time, it is true, been invalided home, but many more lie beneath the wooden crosses in France and Belgium. Those who have been spared to come home have fought with the famous 2nd Battalion on a score of battlefields along the British front since that early morning charge. They have helped to win fame for the battalion and for Canada on the Somme, at Loos, Vimy Ridge at Lens, and Passchendaele and in the glorious triumphs of the latter part of last year. Theirs, too has been the privilege of going into Germany, crossing the Rhine as conquerors. Since they left home in August, 1914, they have carried on as soldiers and gentlemen and it will be with right joyous hearts that the citizens of Peterboro will welcome home these very gallant spirits.

The anniversary of the Canadians' stand at the Battle of Ypres, coincident with the arrival home of some of the men who were the first to leave Peterboro to join the Canadian Expiditionary Force, should be marked by an unusual display of flags and bunting. Fling the Union Jack to the breezes on every street in Peterboro and keep the flags flying for the next few days! Every one is glad to see the boys coming back; let us make the city express by its festive appearance the deep feeling there is in the hearts of the people.
